THE

Singer Sewing Machines.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the cheapest and best and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Guaging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work, It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stich known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine, Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work.—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes,

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehension of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, lowness of spirits and fits of languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

Poetry.

TO MY WIFE.

Dearest wife, I still remember,
With a husband's aching heart,
How it filled my soul with sorrow
When we two were called to part.

Oft I feel within my bosom,
As the shades of night appear,
Purest love and fond affection,
For my own, my absent dear.

Though I'm but a private soldier,
Gone to fill my country's call,
All my trust is in the Savior,
Let me stand, or let me fall.

When I get your welcome letters,
As in Dixie's land I roam,
And you speak of our dear children,
How it makes me sigh for home.

How I miss the sacred altar,
Where we used to kneel in prayer.
What a comfort, what a blessing,
O! I wish that I was there.

But I hope the day is dawning,
Which will close this bloody strife,
And ere long to have the pleasure
Of embracing my dear wife.

Let us then, my dear companion,
Humbly at His foot-stool live,
Striving to obtain the treasure
Which the Lord will surely give.

Then if we are only faithful
To the Lord our truest friend,
Safe we'll rise to realms of glory,
Where our bliss shall never end,

TWO LETTERS.

Write to me often, love,
Tell me of every changing thought,
In soft-drawn shades with pleasing imagery,
And seal the words in sentences heart-wrought,
So they will to my heart most fondly fly
And nestle there
Under the wing of prayer.

Write to me often, love;
Joy of my life, thou should'st not deem
Thy lightest zephyr-wish beyond my yearning care,
I gladly hear if but a vanishing dream,
Because my love hath dreamed it—Anabel, my fair,
Where'er I rove,
Write to me often, love.

TEN YEARS AFTER.

Don't ask for money, dear;
I can't allow it, really now I can't;
You must be thoughtful; this my summer tour
Is costing like the deuce; don't speak of every want;
It's no strange news
If Tommy does need shoes.

Perhaps you'd best not write—
For I am changing places every day;
I'm sorry Mary's sick—but can't you dye
The silk you've got?—good patience! lonesome! you
With all these children round you! well, if I
Can come I will—
But don't expect me, till I do!

Select Miscellany.

THE WADE-DAVIS PROTEST.

ABLE LETTER FROM GERRIT SMITH.

PETERSBORO, Aug. 8, 1864.

Hon. B. F. Wade, Hon. H. Winter Davis:

GENTLEMEN: I have read your protest. It is a strongly-reasoned and suggestive paper. Nevertheless I regret its appearance For it will serve to reduce the public good will toward Mr. Lincoln; and that is what, just at this time, the public interest cannot afford. It may turn out that Mr. Lincoln is the man for whom it will be vital to the national existence to cast the largest possible vote. Personally he may not be more worthy of it than Mr. Fremont or Mr. Chase or some other man who may be nominated. But if, as the election draws near, it shall be seen that he will probably get a larger vote than any other candidate of the uncompromising opponents of the rebellion, then it will be the absolute duty of every one of them to vote for him. The election of a man who would consent to anything short of the unconditional surrender of those who, without the slightest cause of complaint, have made war upon us, would not only be the ruin of our nation, but it would be also the base betrayal of that sacred cause of nationality, which they of one nation owe it to those of every other nation, the earth over, to cherish and maintain. But no such consequence, or any other fatal consequence, would there be should a loyal man of whatever faults be elected—a man who, because he is loyal, would in no event fail to insist on the absolute submission of those who had causelessly rebelled against their country. Hence, though it may be at the expense of passing by our favorite candidate, we should nevertheless all feel ourselves urged by the strongest possible motives to cast our votes just where they will be likely to contribute most to defeat the compromising or sham Peace candidate.

Mr. Lincoln, although an able, honest, patriotic man, has fallen into grave errors. But who, in his perplexing circumstances, would have been exempt from that? He has depended too largely on the policy of concilation. He has made too much account of pleasing Border States and Peace Democrats. But in all this he has not sought his own advantage, but the safety of his country from the harm with which Border States and Peace Democrats (same thing as Proslavery Democrats) threatened her.

* * * * *

I honor the good intentions of President Lincoln. But I would that he had the nerve to meet, as Gen. Jackson would have met, those traitorous men among us, who, when the state of the country is such as to make its salvation turn on a liberal interpretation of the powers of the Executive, study the reduction and belittling of these powers. Valuable as are the virtues of forbearance and forgiveness, we have had quite too much of them for our safety. Stern justice, while always a no less excellent virtue, is in the time of stern war, a far more timely and necessary one. Would that the President might mingle a little more of it with his kind and patient spirit!

I said that the President has not always kept himself within his official limits. His Amnesty Proclamation is one of the instances in which he has exceeded them. In his military capacity he had nothing to do with the reconstruction of civil government; and in no other capacity had he anything to do with it until Congress had acted upon it. It was for him to set up military governments in the wake of our advancing armies. But it was not for him to concern himself about the civil or permanent governments, that would come to take the place of these temporary provisions.

By many the President is condemned for slowness. Perhaps he is too slow in somethings. There are others, however, in which he is too fast.

But in this latter fault the great mass of the loyal men, both in and out of Congress, are with him. I agree with you that the President's plan of settlement is a wrong one.

But your Congressional plan, like his, is premature. How much precious time was wasted over the premature question of the confiscation of real estate! Not a foot of it should have been sold before the close of the war. Nothing should have been done with it except to lease the vacant portions of it—and that only from year to year. No great inconvenience could ensue from such a postponement of the sale of Southern soil, nor from such a postponement of the setting up of civil government upon it. War, and especially such a war as this, is no time for unneessary work. It will not be well done. Moreover, the doing of it will leave necessary work ill done.

Then there is the unseasonable work of altering the constitution. Not one moment should have been wasted in that worse than useless direction. If nothing in the Constitution hinders the most effectual prosecution of the war, then surely there is no excuse for embarrassing ourselves in time of war with attempts to alter it. If on the other hand anything in it stands in the way of such prosecution, Congress can virtually overcome it. For the Constitution does itself accord to Congress the power to make whatever laws it thinks 'necessary and proper' for carrying on the war, be it even laws for taking into the military service every slave and every apprentice or every schoolhouse and every church in the land. A nation is no nation—certainly it could not long be one—that does not recognize such absolute power.

Then there is the undue haste to come to the terms of peace—a haste with which the President is no more chargeable than thousands of loyal men. When they, who without the least provocation took up arms to dismember our beloved country, shall lay them down, then and not till then are we to be at peace, or for anything but war. Then and not till then are we to talk or even think of the terms of peace. The war ended, and then will the time for our concessions be! There are many good people who, in their great desire for peace would have the War ended on any terms. They would even come to the ever insisted on terms of the rebels and accept of disunion. But these good people are foolish people.

There can be no peace in disunion.

A truce, and a very brief one, is the best there could be. War would break out every few years. Besides that we can get a peace only by conquering it, it can abide only on condition of reunion.

And then these premature Presidential nominations, which for six months I was so earnestly deprecating. God grant that they may not fatally divide us! God grant that they may not fatally divert our interest from the prosecution of the War! But the blame of these nominations rests not on the President, but on the mass of his party.

The putting down of the rebellion—that is our present work. Our absorption in it should be so entire, as to leave us no time and no heart for anything which is unnecessary until the very day, nay the very hour, when it has become necessary.

I scarcely need add that in giving ourselves to the work of overthrowing the rebellion we are to make no conditions. I scarcely need add that those Democrats are to be condemned who insist on stipulating for the safety of slavery ere they can embark in this work: nor that those Abolitionists are also to be condemned who put the abolition of slavery before the suppression of the Rebellion. This suppression is the duty which must be discharged, come what will of its discharge to the Democratic or the Abolition Party. For it is the nearest duty. Moreover, let the Abolitionist magnify the crime of Slavery as he will, the crime of rebellion remains the far greater one. For the Rebellion superadds to all that is bad in Slavery, parricidal blows at the life of the country, and contempt of the sacredness of nationality. I have myself been a somewhat earnest advocate of Abolition. But at no time during the Rebellion have I felt at liberty to inquire of Abolition whether, or how I should work toward putting down the Rebellion. I add that, as the sole legitimate object of the War we are prosecuting is to put down the rebellion, therefore none have the right to embarrass or pervert the War by their schemes to harm or their schemes to help Slavery. We do not say that the putting down of the Rebellion is the common work of Abolitionists and Anti-Abolitionists, Democrats and Republicans; and that, differ as they may in other respects, they are to be one in the prosecution of this common work. A traitor to his country is he who, when traitors have fallen upon her, allows himself under the counsels of any party however dear, any interest however cherished, or any cause sacred, to withhold his help from her. Such party, such cause notwithstanding, he is to be "arm and soul" against the traitors.

I repeat that I regret your protest—or rather, I should say, the unseasonable publication of it. There is a great deal of truth in it—and generally a very forcible presentation that truth. But the country cannot now afford to have the hold of Mr. Lincoln on the popular confidence weakened. Pardon me for saying that the eve of the Presidential election is not the time to be making an issue with Mr. Lincoln in regard to either his real or supposed errors. For, from present indications, it is highly probable that we shall need to concentrate upon him the votes of all the loyal voters in order to defeat the disloyal candidate. Issues with the Southern rebels and their Northern friends are the only ones we can afford to make before the election. Let Lincoln get all the loyal votes, let Fremont get them, let Chase get them, let any other loyal man get them, if this shall be necessary to prevent the election of one who is in the interest of the Rebellion and of a spurious Peace. I doubt not from your ardent patriotism and your strong sense that you entirely agree with me at this point; and that they altogether misjudge you, who suppose that you will in no event vote for Mr. Lincoln. The election of no loyal man, however faulty he may be, can destroy the nation. But the election of whatever disloyal man will. Strong as is your dislike of some of Mr. Lincoln's measures, you will not suffer it to stand in the way of your country, nor in the way of your entreating others to do so. With great regard, yours,

GERRIT SMITH.

Secret Writing.

Much has been said on the subject of secret writing, and methods devised for conveying private or important messages in such a way that if they fall into improper hands their meaning will be safe from detection. Sympathetic ink is sometimes used, which is so made that the writing disappears in a short time, but again becomes visible on the application of heat, or some chemical preparation. But secrets thus sealed are readily unsealed by any chemist. The most common method is to construct a cipher, in which new and strange characters stand for letters or words, but placed in some determinate order. But few, if any of these, are beyond the reach of an ingenuous mind to interpert. And it is not so much guess-work as many people suppose. In unraveling a difficult cipher, numerous experiments have to be tried, but the operations are all based on comparison, and should be regular and systematic.

Poe, in his story of "The Gold Bug," gives some valuable hints on the interpretation of the most common cryptographs. He contends that the ingenuity of man can construct no enigma which the ingenuity of man cannot unravel. And he actually read several very difficult ciphers which were sent him after the publication of "The Gold Bug."

But we saw several years ago, a method which makes the message absolutely safe from detection. We will undertake to describe it. Take a square sheet of paper of convenient size, say a foot square. Divide it by lines at right angles into six hundred and seventy six squares, twenty six each way; in the upper horizontal row write the alphabet in its natural order, one letter in each square; in the second horizontal row write the alphabet, begining with B. There will then be one square left at the end of this row, into this put A. Fill the third row by beginning with C, and writing A and B after Z at the end. So on until the whole sheet is filled. When completed, the table, if corrected, will present this appearance: in the upper horizontal row, the alphabet in its natural order from left to right; in the left-hand vertical row, the same from top to bottom; and the diagonal from upper right tower left-hand corner, will be a line of Z.'s.

Each party must have one of these tables, A key-word must also be agreed upon, which may be any word in the English language, or from any other language if it can be represented by English letters, which key-work spells nothing.

Now, to send a message, first write the message, in plain English, Over it write the key-word, letter over letter, repeating it as many times as it is necessary to cover the message. Take a simple case as an illustration. Supppose the key-word to be Grant, and the message. We have five days provisions. It should be placed thus:

Grantgrantgrantgrantgrant
Wehavefivedaysprovisions.

Now find in the upper horizontal row of the table, the letter of the key-word, G, and in the left hand vertical column, the first letter of the message, W. Run a line straight down from G, and one to the right from W, and in the angle where the two lines meet will be found the letter which must be written as the first letter of the cipher.

With the second letter of the message, E, find the way to the second letter of the cipher.

The correspondent who receives the cipher goes to work to translate it thus: He first writes over it the key word, letter ever letter, repeating it as often as necessary. Then finding in the upper row of his table the first letter of the key-word, he passes his pencil directly down until he comes to the first letter of the cipher; the letter opposite to it in the left-hand vertical column is the first letter of the translation. Each of the succeeding letters are found in a similar way.—Phrenological Journal.

TERRIBLE SUICIDE.

A Man Cuts His Throat in a Prison Cell while under the Influence of Delerium Tremens.

To write here on the evils of intemperance would be perfectly superfluous, For many years great eloquence has been used to paint its horrors, but still drunkards exist almost as plentifully as ever. Precept and example seem utterly lost upon them and with a wild recklessness they dash onwards to certain destruction. It is a sin of almost universal prevalence, and should therefore be universally deprecated, unlike other crimes its baneful influence is not confined to the chief actor, but spread through all his connections, blighting everything that comes in its way. No excuse can be given for such offenders, their blood is upon their own heads, for whatever form the curse has taken, it lay in his power to prevent. Yesterday a fearful occurance happened in this city, resulting directly from the effects of strong drink. A man in the prime of manhood slew himself when under the influence of the dreaded delerium tremens, in a prison cell. An inquisition was held in the afternoon, before Coroner Wagner, when the following facts were elicited.

About two o'clock yesterday morning, officer Rodgers, of the First Precinct Police, discovered on Clark street, a respectable dressed man walking about in a very excited state with his head enveloped in a United States blanket. Suspecting from his motions, that the man was suffering from Delerium Tremens, the officer arrested him and conveyed him to the Armory. He quietly accompanied his captor, but on entering the lockup, positively refused to give his name or be subject to the ordeal of searching, and was only with great difficulty safely locked in a cell. Nothing was thought of the unfortunate, until morning, as such cases are almost of daily occurance to the policemen, but about seven o'clock the prisoner commenced making violent efforts to escape, striking his head against the cell door, until the blood spouted in all directions, and when officers Rodgers and Knight tried to take him up-stairs to the court-room, he struggled with such fearful energy, that they had to give up the attempt, He was therefore again placed in the cell and remained quietly until about ten o'clock, when Captain Nelson who went to the door, saw him wildly brandishing a knife, and bleeding profusely from the neck,

After some time and by the exertion of much strategy the weapon was taken from him and medical aid summoned, but ere the arrival of the doctor the wretched man was a corpse.

The wound inflicted by the knife was a slight one indeed; the officer did not know of its existence, and thought the blood proceeded from the wounds in the head, but when the weapon was taken from his grasp, and the policeman, not knowing the injury he had sustained, had retired, the maniac must have taken his pocket comb and inserted it in the already deep gash, have literally sawed his head off till it simply hung by a ligament composed of some of the hinder tendons. A little previous to the consummation of the fatal deed, officer Con. Barrett noticed the fearful intention of the man and spoke to him, but death had set his seal upon the wretch's life, and as he tried to answer the blood literally spouted from his wound. In his frenzy he tore the flesh open with his fingers, and filling his tin drinking-cup with gore, hurled it in the faces of the officers, and then composedly—if a being so fearfully mutilated can be said to be composed—sat down on the bench in his cell, and supporting his head in its proper position with his hands, died without a struggle.

His countenance was rendered perfectly unrecognizable by the streams of gore which had collected upon it, and his clothes were perfectly saturated with his life's blood, which covered the whole cell. A rigid examination, however, seemed to show that he was about 35 years of age, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches in height, and with brown hair and whiskers and moustache. It was stated that he had been stopping at the City Hotel, and on going to that house the officers discovered the name of the unfortunate man to be P. McHume, from Racine. In his pockets were two pocket-books, one empty and the other containing $64.60 in currency, and a military pass in his own name from Chattanooga, which proved that he was a discharged Sergeant in some volunteer regiment. The jury, upon receiving the foregoing particulars, returned the only verdict they could under the circumstauces—that he died by his own hands while suffering from delirium tremens. If this should meet the eye of any of the relatives of the deceased, all information will be tendered them by addressing either the Coroner or Superintendent of Police.—Chicago Tribune.

Perilous Position of a Soldier.

The Hartford (Conn.) Times is responsible for the following:—

A curious incident of the recent railroad smash up at Berlin was related to us from a returned soldier from the Army of the Potomac. a son of Dr. Funick, of this city, who was coming home on a furlough, granted on account of a wound received in the battle of the Wilderness. The young man sat in the car face to face with a pretty young woman, a stranger to him, with whom he had exchanged a few words, and to whom he remarked, on seeing the the car next forward vibrate lift and plunge, in an unusual manner, 'We are having a smash up,' or words to that effect, to which the young lady replied with a light word or laugh of incredulity, which had not escaped her lips ere the forward end of the car in which she sat was hurled upwards, throwing the car into a position nearly perpendicular, and the young lady into a worse position than that—for she was landed squarely upon the head of the young warrior on the other seat, opposite, who was completely buried in the ample hoop skirt and other mysterious articles of female apparel, more embarrassing to him no doubt than a rebel abatis or an enfilading fire.

What made the matter worse, in the general crash and wreck, the lady was forced down upon him with such violence that his head burst through her under clothing and came out between the upper bars of her hoop skirt, where he was held firmly by the neck! The young woman in her mortified modesty, losing all sense of the tragical nature of the fatal scene in which she was so strangely figuring, blushed like a full blown peony—while the imprisoned youth also blushed, but from incipient strangulation more than modesty. After some vigorous stuggles by both parties they secceeded in clearing themselves from the embarrassing alliance, the soldier coolly remarking that that was no time to stand on modesty. After helping his pretty companion out of the wreck, he betook himself to the aid of others and some hours later he met his fair unknown on Main street, in this city, and she blushed more sweetly and deeply than ever at this second meeting of the young man who had experienced such a strange introduction to her.

The Military Prospect.

The editor of the Albany Evening Journal writes from Washington thus encouragingly in regard to the military prospect:

'It is a mistake to assume, as we are all apt to do at times, that Grant and his Generals will be content to occupy a defensive, or a mere semi-offensive, position the rest of the summer and autumn. They will be content with nothing of the kind. It is not in the nature of the Commanding General to be inactive. Nor will he be—nor is he. His movement last Sunday and Monday was aggressive. It is evidently his purpose to worry, if he cannot get a chance to fight, the enemy. And he means that Sheridan shall have a chance to fight. That is what he has gone down the Shenandoah Valley to do, and he has with him an army large enough to cope with any Lee can send against him, even though Early and Longstreet should combine.

There are more Union troops in that valley to-day than ever before, and far better material, because more enured to the hardsips, and better posted in the service, of the war. The 6th and 19th corps constitute the nucleus of this force, and where they are there is sure to be solid work, if the chance offers.

However slow war matters seem to be progressing to-day, they will develop themselves with sufficient celerity before the close of October. It will be impossible to avert decisive results either at Richmond or Atlanta beyond sixty days. One or the other of the opposing armies must succumb within that time. This is not my opinion, but that of men wise in all that relates to the movements of armies. They predict a crisis within a much briefer period. God grant that the scale will turn in the right direction!'

Stewart Cheatham and Cleburne.

A. P. Stewart, who has been made a Lieutenant General over Buckner, Breckinridge, Cheatham, Withers, Pat. Cleburne, and many others of the same army, is doubtless promoted because he advocates fighting.

Stewart I distinctly remember as a nice, dapper sort of a little fellow—the lady's darling, in fact, without much originality, but who had all the rules of engineering by heart. He was accounted a good engineer, and won his brigadier's commission by, building the works at Columbus, Kentucky. He was on Polk's staff then; now he steps into the 'late lamented's shoes' as corps commander.

With all his shallowness, however, Stewart is doubtless superior to Hood, or to the new commander of Hoods corps, General B. F. Cheatham.

Cheatham is only a fighter, not a general, and a better horse jockey than either. Cleburne, who is a little Irishman, who entered the 1st Arkansas as a private, and who has risen to the rank of Major General against a great deal of opposition, is prehaps the best man in Hood's army at this time, at least possessed of more of the sterling qualities of a man, and experience as a soldier.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Herald.

ICE CREAM is usually considered a luxury not to be indulged in by farmers' families. It is set down as a city dish, though most of the articles used in its preparation are obtained from the county. It is not generally known that the best cream can be made without a costly freezer, in any family where ice and milk are at hand. To make it, proceed thus: Take two quarts of fresh milk—if a little cream be added all the better, though ice cream as ordinarily made is innocent of cream. Scald the milk, stirring in three tablespoonsful of corn starch or arrow-root, to give it body; these may be omited, if not at hand, Stir well to keep from burning. Beat up four to eight eggs according to convenience, or as a rich dish is wanted, and pour the scalding milk on the eggs, stirring well. When cold add sugar and essence of lemon, or extract of vanilla, to suit the taste. A very little salt also improves it. Pour the cooled contents into a deep tin pail or can holding say three quarts; put on the cover, and set it in an ordinary wooden pail. Pound up ice to the size of a small hen's eggs and less—some of course will be quite fine—pack it in around the tin can, mixing in about one pint of either medium or fine salt. Pack this till it reaches nearly to the top of the can containing the mixture to be frozen, but be careful none enters it. Now move the tin can or pail around by means of its bail, lifting the cover occasionally to scrape off the frozen cream on the inside, so that other portions may come in contact with the freezing surface. From fifteen to twenty minutes will be sufficient, and the dish may be either served up at once or set away, without removing from the wooden pail, in a cool place for several hours, covering with flannel cloth. Try it, and see if you need hereafter forego the ice cream because no freezer is at hand.—N. Y. Tribune.

A RICHMOND paper furnishes the following information for the detection of mining operations: 'Drive an iron gun rod into the ground near where it is supposed a mine is being made, until it is firm in the ground,

Take it between the teeth, and close the lips tight around the rod; close both ears with the forefingers, and listen. You can hear a great distance under ground in this way.'

LATEST NEWS.

The Chicago Convention nominated McClellan for President and Pendleton, of Ohio for Vice President, and the devotees of these "peace pets" had just entered upon the enjoyment of a brief honeymoon, when they were interrupted by the thunder of Sherman's guns at Atlanta, and the news announcing its capture. It was a bitter pill for them to take, and they were more grieved than rejoiced at news that made every loyal man's heart leap for joy.

Sherman has succeeded in compelling Hood to evacuate the stronghold of the Confederacy, and captured over 2,000 prisoners.

That rebel raider, John Morgan, has gone on a raid to eternity, and will be absent "quite a spell." He has gone where he can't dig out.

Gen. Sully has had a battle with the Indians near Heart river, Dakota Territory, and defeated them, and killed over a hundred. Two of the boys from this place, in Company E were killed.

The Cry for Peace.

The Copperhead press just now seems to be very solicitous to induce the public to believe that there is a great change going on in favor of their party, and on this change they predicate their success in the coming election. We admit they are getting very noisy of late, but with all their forced enthusiasm for little Mac, we have yet to hear of any conversions from our ranks, and if any one knows of such a convert, we would be obliged if he would report him to the public. Indeed, our curiosity would be highly gratified could we even see some one who has seen such a convert. The figures show that there is not the shadow of a probability for the little Napoleon.

At the general election last year they charged the Administration with everything of which they now complain, and this year the charges will be but a rehash of the same spawn of malice, falsehood and libel, with which they feasted the public mind then. The country then deliberately passed judgement upon them, and triumphantly vindicated the policy of the administration.

The Democrats base their hope of success upon the prevalent desire for peace. Of course we desire peace,—every friend of the Union does. We desire it as soon as a permanent and final peace can be attained. They desire it because war is now fast working the final overthrow of the rebels, It now hurts their friends in Dixie. Why was not this peace cry raised before. Why did we not hear of it before the fall of Vicksburg, and the occupation of more than half of the rebel territory. Certainly the rebels were as kindly disposeed towards us then as now. So long as such Generals as Buell and McClellan carried on the war this party never whimpered for peace, although our brave soldiers were dying by thousands in the Chickahominy swamps, and were dropping down dead from exhaustion in the long retreat from Chattanooga to Louisville.

But as soon as intriguing politicians were removed from command of our armies, and generals were put over them who went right into the enemy in earnest dealing one crushing blow after another, until now the boasted Confederacy staggers in its weakness, than we hear this inhuman, unchristian war waged by the nation on traitors. Then, and not till then do we hear of this cry for peace.

Not till after Vicksburg had fallen and the tide had set in in our favor, did we hear a word about it. The Nation desires peace but it is not that desire which would exchange for any hour's repose, an age of national disgrace and ruin.

In all these matters the minds of Union men are as well made up now as they were a year ago. At that time the States named below gave the following Union majorities:

Maine	17,550	Ohio	101,099
Vermont	17,560	Illinois	29,998
Rhode Island	3,291	Maryland	20,376
New York	29,485	Wisconsin	24,711
Massachusetts	41,276	Minnesota	6,798
Connecticut	2,637	California	19,732
Pennsylvania	15,325	Iowa	32,673
Michigan	7,079

Here is a total of 368,905 union majority. Now if any one can give a reason why these majorities are to be changed from Union to Copperhead, in one year, we should like to see it.

In Indiana, Oregon, and Kansas, there was no general election held; but, from the county elections it is obvious that the national cause was as dear to the people there as in other States.

Why then talk of changing the popular sentiment? We ask them to point to any conversions; we ask them what charges, what false hood they can invent that they did not last year. The loyal men of the North will neither submit to disunion, nor will they "put their hands upon their mouths and their mouths in the dust," to ask pardon for having made war on traitors.

Thank God, the majority of the people are men—loyal to the heart, and not crawling reptiles.

The Twentieth Senatorial and Legislative Convention, comprising the counties of Faribault, Brown and Martin, met last Saturday at New Ulm. The ability and qualifications of Hon. D. Y. Shillock, for State Senator, were so apparent to the Convention, that he was the choice of the entire district. Mr. Kiester, of Blue Earth City, was nominated for the Legislature. Mr. K. is well known in his own county, where he has held important offices of trust, and his nomination is considered a good one, Both are good and true men, and we predict their election by a large majority.

The Democrats of this Congressional District have nominated H. W. Lamberton of Winona, and formerly of St. Peter, as the competitor of Hon. William Windom, for a seat in Congress. He is brought forward as the champion of the St. Peter railroad interest, and of course will be elected. So will the devil go to heaven.

DON'T LIKE IT—We are informed that Col. J. E. Tourtellotte, of the 4th Minn. Vols, telegraphed to a friend of his in the Minnesota Valley that he would not accept the nomination for Congress on the Peace platform adopted at the Chicago Convention. Bully for him.

What the Exchanged Prisoners from Charleston Say.

The New South reports the following from the prisoners recently exchanged at Charleston: It is stated as a fact that hundreds of Union men may be found in Charleston and Savannah. Business is entirely suspended in Charleston, with the exception of now and then when a blockade runner comes into port. On such occasions an auction is had at which merchants flock from different parts of the Confederacy. Grass actually grows in the streets of Charleston. On the street which, prior to the war, was the Broadway of the city, grass and weeds three feet high cover the entire space. That i one of the effects of our shelling. Two or three days before our officers left the city, about six hundred other prisoners were sent to Charleston to be placed under fire. The number would have been much larger had not Gen. Stoneman cut the railroad communication between Macon and Charleston. As it is, if the rebels carry out their design, Charleston will be filled with prisoners within a short time. The leading rebels place great stress on the probable result of the Presidential election North. They auger that the copperheads will elect their candidate, in which case the Southern Confederacy is bound to be a fixed institution. The reelection of President Lincoln, they consider will be a vital blow to their cause.

Resolved, That we are in favor of peace, but only upon the basis of an acknowledgment on the part of the rebels, that secession is treason, and of the principle that in our National affairs the majority rules.

McClellan on the Draft.

We print below the following letter from McClellan to the President, shortly after the battle of Antietam, from which it will be seen he is an earnest advocate of a draft:

Headquarters, Army of the Potomac,
October 27th, 1864.

Your Excellency is aware of the very great reduction of numbers that has taken place in most of the old regiments of this command, and how necessary it is to fill up these skeleton regiments before taking them again into action. I HAVE THE HONOR THEREFORE, TO REQUEST THAT THE ORDER TO FILL UP THE OLD REGIMENTS WITH DRAFTED MEN MAY AT ONCE BE ISSUED. GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major-General Commanding.
His Excellency, the President.

Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That in the future as in the past we will adhere with unswerving fidelity to the Union under the Constitution. as the only solid foundation, of our strength, security and happiness, as a work of government and edually conducive to the welfare and prosperity of all the States both Northern and Southern.

Resolved, That this Convention does explicitly declare as the sense of the American people that after four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, during which under the pretense of a military necessity or war power, higher in power then the Constitution, the Constitution itself has been disregarded in every part, and public liberty and private rights alike trodden down and the material prosperity of the country essentially impaired—justice, humanity, liberty and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities with a view to an ultimate convention of the States or other peacable means to the end that at the earliest practicable moment peace may be restored on the basis of the Federal States.

Resolved, That the direct interference of the military of the United States in the recent elections held in Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri and Deleware was a shameful violation of the Constitution and a repetition of such action in the approaching election will be held as revolutionary, and resisted with all the means and power under our control

Resolved, That the aim and object of the Democratic party is to preserve the Federal Union and the rights of the States unimpaired and therefore declare that they consider the Administration usurpation of extraordinary and dangerous powers, not granted by the constitution, the subversion of the civil by the military law by the States now in insurrection the arbitrary military arrest, imprisonment trial and sentence of American citizens in States where civil law exists in full force, the suppression of freedom of speech and of the press. the denial of the right of asylum, the open and avowed disregard of State rights the employment of unusual test oaths, and the interference with and denial of the right of the people to bear arms in their defense, as calculated to prevent the restoration of the Union, and that the powers of a government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed.

Resolved, That the shameful disregard of the administration to its duty in respect to our fellow citizens who now and long have been prisoners of war in a suffering condition deserves the highest reprobation on the score alike of public policy and common humanity.

Resolved. That the sympathy of the Democratic party is heartily and earnestly extended to the soldiers of our army who now fare and have been in the field under the flag of their country, and in the event of a change of power they will receive all the care and protection and regard that the brave soldiers of the Republic have so nobly earned.

Four Points Established.

The following four points may be considered as established by the visit of Messrs. Gilmore and Jaquess to Richmond:

1st. That the rebels do not demand any better terms than the government offers relative to slavery, and that their only grievance is this, viz: that we insist upon their remaining in the Union.

2nd. That the attempts of the Niagara junto or any person else to spread an impression that the rebels will agree to any terms of peace short of dissolution of the Union are deceitful.

3rd. That the rebel leaders will not submit the question of peace to the people.

4th. That the rebel leaders will not allow the majority to rule.—Boston Daily Advertiser, Aug. 19.

ONE word to the Farmers and to the Farmers' wives and daughters.—If you want to have a large stock to select from call soon, as we are selling any amount of goods.

WHITE & MARKS

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County.

The Atlantic and Continental Monthlies have been received, and, as usual, are interesing.

AHEAD OF TIME.—Peterson's Magazine for October is on hand, away ahead of all competitors.

THE Democratic District Convention met at Henderson last Saturday, and nominated Daniel Buck, of Mankato, for Judge.

M. Ulmann will give a grand Ball next Monday evening in Military hall, Tickets $1,50. See advertisement.

Notwithstanding the high prices Randall is selling very cheap, and has on hand a good assortment of woollen drawers and shirts for gentlemen, to which he invites attention.

COPYING PICTURES.—Any one wishing to get copies of Ambrotypes or photographs taken should call on Mrs. Levan and Miss Gail, opposite the Clifton House. We have seen specimens of their work, and they are good.

SOLD OUT.—Mr. Gould has closed his meat Market and sold the building to J. D. Jones, who will soon occupy it.

Mrs. Potts will fit up and occupy the rooms where Mr. Jones' shop now is.

REMOVAL.—The office of the American Express and Burbank Stage Co. will be removed to the room under this office next week. The locality is a convenient one for our business men, and Mr. Simpson will fit it up in good shape.

Major Evans has received an order from Gov. Miller to go to Memphis, for the purpose of purchasing Southern bloodhounds with which to hunt Indians. The move is a popular one, and we hope all citizens will take hold of the matter in earnest. It is the only effectual way to kill off these red devils.

THE County Board have been in session since Tuesday, and but little business has been transacted other than legalizing the assessment roll. We shall be able to give a full report next week.

PERSONAL.—Hon. M. S. Wilkinson arrived in town last week, and was heartily welcomed by his friends. He is looking well and is enjoying good health. His course in Congress the past winter has gained for him many warm friends in this section of the State.

Lieut. James Cannon, of Co. C, 11th Regt. is in town. He wears his honors with becoming dignity, and will make a good and popular officer.

A Salute of twenty-five guns was fired in this place last Monday evening on the receipt of the news of Sherman's capture of Atlanta. The firing was heard at New Ulm and St. Peter, and the occasion was one of great rejoicing among our Union loving citizens. It was very hard work for the McClellan men to rejoice indeed, one McClellanite was taken with the lock-jaw while attempting to do so.

The Atlantic Monthly for September is received. We commend its well filled table of contents to the attention of our readers, and have no doubt it will afford them as much pleasure as it did ourselves.

Brown's Bronchial Troches are recommended for public speakers and others, for the relief of Colds and to clear the voice. Their efficacy is strongly attested by Congressmen, Clergymen, Military men and others who use them. As there are imitations, be sure to OBTAIN the genuine.

FORT RIDGLEY ITEMS.—We understand that a company of the 30th Wisconsin Regiment, stationed at Fort Ridgley, has been ordered to report to Fort Wadsworth. This Company were very popular at the fort, winning the good opinion of all by their soldierly and gentlemanly conduct, and their departure is much regretted by those in charge of the fort.

Geo. A. Brackett's train of over one hundred teams, reached Fort Ridgley on Saturday last, en route for Fort Wadsworth. George and his men are all in good spirits. If fair weather attends them the round trip will be made in about twenty-three days.

Messrs. Horner & Boardmen, under their hay contract, are progressing finely, having delivered to Captain Van Vorhees, the gentlemanly and efficient Quartermaster at Fort Ridgely some 600 of the 1,000 tons due from them. The hay is cut a few miles from the fort, and the contractors expect, with one week more of good weather, to furnish the balance due. The contract price per ton, we understand was $4,97, quite a difference, compared with the price at Fort Snelling, which is $23,00 per ton.

To implant useful knowledge, and to instill the art of sacred or other music into a pupil's mind, it is only necessary to secure one of S. D. & H. W. Smith's American Organs. They have admirably succeeded in simplifying this science so as to make it intelligible to the young. We heartily commend their Instruments to parents and guardians. The Parlor and Boudoir styles are of rosewood. For Churches, Assemblies. Lodges, &c. are of oak. The prices for which are from $80 to $450. W. W. Kimball, 142 Lake street Chicago, Wholesale Depot, for the North-west.

THE LADY'S FRIEND FOR SEPTEMBER.—A touching steel engraving, called 'The Blind Piper,' opens the September number of The Lady's Friend. This is followed by the usual double steel Fashion Plate, richly colored. By the way, we note that one of the ladies in the Plate is wearing the Russian boot, with high heel, now so popular in Paris. Then follow the usual numerous engravings of ladies' and children's fashions which so delight the fairer portion of creation, and often so puzzle us gentlemen, The music of this number is, 'Who Speaks First?' a gallop. The literary contributions are as varied and interesting as usual —including 'One of Many,' by Aunt Annie ; 'A Spinster's Story ;' 'Cousin Winifred ;' 'Pauline's Vision ;' 'First and Last ;' 'Letty Hague ;' 'The Transformed Village,' (which we now see is by Mrs. Henry Wood); 'My Blind Hero ;' 'Shadow and Sunlight,' &c. Of course there is the usual Work Table, Editor's Department, Receipts, Fashions, &c. Price $2.00 a year ; twenty cents a single number. Address Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

FOR FARMERS—NEW INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.—Farmers' incomes are to be thus estimated :

"The value of the live stock on hand at the beginning of the year is to be added to the amount paid for animals which are held alive at the beginning of the year. The sum thus obtained will be deducted from the amount obtained by adding the estimated value of the live stock held at the close of the year to the amount received for animals sold during the year, the amount received for meats and vegetables, the productions of the farm sold during the year, or consumed by the farmer or his family, or consumed by animals kept for purposes of pleasure. The difference thus obtained will be charged as income, and will be subject to proper deductions for the cost of carrying on the farm. No deduction can, however, be allowed for the cost of hay or grain produced upon the farm and consumed by cattle employed upon the farm.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood ; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

TELEGRAPH NEWS.

John Morgan surprised. defeated and killed.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.

The following official telegram from Gen. Gillen was received early this evening:

BULLS GAP, Tenn., 4th.

To General TILLISON :

I surprised, defeated, and killed Morgan at Greenville this morning.

The killed are scattered for miles, and have not been counted—probable number 50 to 100. About 75 prisoners captured, among which are Morgan's staff. We captured one piece of artillery, and a caisson. The rebel force outnumbered mine, but the surprise was complete.

Gen. Sherman's official report of the capture of Atlanta has just been received, dated twenty-six miles south of Atlanta. at six o'clock yesterday morning. They had been detained by the breaking of the telegraph lines already reported :

Our army withdrew from about Atlanta, and on the 30th made a break on the East Point road and reached a good position from which to strike the Macon road.

Howard found the enemy near Jonesboro', and entrenched his troops within half a mile of the railroad.

The enemy attacked him at 3 P. M., and was easily repulsed, leaving his dead and wounded. Making a strong opposition on the road, I advanced the left and centre rapidly to the railroad and made a good lodgment and broke it all the way from Rough-and-Ready down to Howard, near Jonesboro'.

I threw my whole army between Atlanta and that part of the enemy entrenched in and around Jonesborough.

We made a general attack on the enemy at Jonesborough, the 14th Corps (Gen. Jeff. C. Davis) carrying the works with ten guns and about 1,000 prisoners.

The enemy retreated south, and we followed him to his hastily constructed lines near Love-joy's Station.

Hood finding we were on the only road he could retreat by and between, a considerable part of his army blew up the magazine in Atlanta and left in the night.

The 20th Corps [Gen. Slocum,] took possession of the city.

So Atlanta is ours fairly won.

Since the 5th of may we have been in one constant battle or skirmish, and we need rest.

Our losses will not exceed 1,200, and we have 300 dead, 250 wounded and 1,500 prisoners.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.

The Tribune has an editorial in which it says. "Henceforth we fly the banner of Abraham Lincoln for the next campaign, choosing that rather than a disunion peace which our opponents would impose upon us.'

Valuable Lands for Sale.

BY DIRECTION OF THE HONORABLE Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands in Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City D. C., and endorsed "Bid for Winnebago Tract Land."

As heretofore many persons have bid upon these lands and after the awards have been made to them have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which, in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder: should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful didder.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly said, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and storekeepers everywhere. 23

Poetry.

A Few Words to One who Understands Them.

Oh, faithful friend of other days,
My grateful heart would speak of thee;
Turn from thy far off busy ways,
And listen as of old to me.

I fain would speak, yet know not how,
A gulf, impassable as death,
Lies, broad and deep, between us now—
Thou canst not hear my feeble breath!

But once within the silent void
I'll drop a blossom fair and sweet;
From out the darkness unalloyed
Some power may bear it to thy feet.

Its name is Gratitude. Thy heart
Will tell thee in what soil it grew:
What influence bade the flower-bud start,
Watered by tears, instead of dew.

Could I but give it voice, oh ! friend.
And bid it for my sealed lips speak!
But oh, even then I could not send Thee half my thoughts for words are weak.

Too weak to tell thee how I keep
Thy memory in my inmost heart;
Not a pale corpse that lies asleep,
But throned and crowned, of life a part.

I write no word, I sing no song,
That does not bring thee back to me;
Oh, man whose wisdom made me strong,
How much I owe to God and thee!

And as the swift-winged years fly past,
My thanks I miss thee more and more;
Be patient, oh, my heart! At last
We'll meet upon the farther shore.

Farewell! My lot is deeply blest:
May thine be just as bright, I pray;
My [illegible] feathers of her nest,
And Heaven be near to thee alway.

Select Miscellany.

TRYING THE EXPERIMENT.

BY AMY RANDOLPH.

'A girl ! My dear Carry, what are you thinking of ?'

Peter Carver pushed his chair abruptly back from the table and surveyed the faded little face on the opposite side of the tea-tray with a gaze of injured astonishment.

Faded enough now, though she was barely twenty-seven. You would hardly have believed how fresh and pretty Carry Carver had been on her wedding day, with cheeks like newly opened quince blossoms, and lips like the first strawberry on the upland meadows. Seven years of matrimony had dimmed the pink and scarlet, and stolen the light elasticity of her step; her husband saw the change, but somehow he supposed all women faded just so. 'They were frail things at best, not much better than a piece of wash out calico.' And so Mr. Carver dismissed the subject from his powerful mind.

'There is so much to do, Peter, and the children demand so much of my time and attention,' pleaded the meek wife, winking back two bright drops that began to sparkle ominously under her eyelids.

'I tell you what, Mrs. Carver, if I were manager in this household, things would happen very differently.'

'I have no doubt of it,' said Carry, quietly.

'There's no earthly reason,' went on Mr. Carver, ignoring the sarcastic meaning of her tone, 'why the work shouldn't be done, and you dressed and enjoying yourself, cultivating your mind or something, at eleven o'clock every morning that you live. Washing up a few dishes—sweeping a room or two—brushing the children's hair—what does it all amount to? Why, my dear, don't you see the folly of asking for a servant to help you do nothing at all ?'

Carry rose to her feet, as near being in a passion as her gentle nature ever came—a state that reminded you of a white dove with its feathers indignantly ruffled up.

'Peter, you have no right to speak so, when you have no practical knowledge of the subject.'

'Any man knows what housekeeping amounts to,' returned Peter, drawing up the strings of his purse with a jerk. 'There's no science to it—a mere knack.'

Carry stood watching her husband as he brushed his hat, buttoned up his overcoat, and slowly sauntered out of the room. She did not cry—she did not slam the breakfast dishes, nor bite her lips, nor clench her teeth, as some women would have done under similar circumstances; she merely sat down and bowed her head on the table, crushed and weary and sick at heart, feeling as some poor Eastern devotee may be supposed to feel after the wheel of Juggernaut has rolled over it, whelming sense and reason, and volition itself under the iron weight.—Poor Carry! how many wives have fallen under Juggernaut besides you !

'This will never do,' she said at length, rising slowly. 'Slow death—slavery worse then that bound with chains—I must find some escape from this bondage, before it undermines life and health, and leaves my little ones motherless !

The morning sunshine crept down the pale green wall paper, sprinkling drops of gold on the few little geranium plants that Peter called 'a waste of time,' and lay in noon splendors on the carpet, and still Carry Carver stood there, thinking—thinking.

'Carry ! Wife ! Aren't you going to get up this morning ? It is half-past seven, and—'

'I cannot, Peter,' groaned Carry, turning her face away from the light. 'I am suffering such dreadful pains in that foot I sprained last night. I wish you would reach me the camphor bottle and some fresh bandages.'

'I sorry, Carry—I hope it isn't very painful, said Peter, making a dive at the pomatum pot instead of camphor. 'But what the dence is a fellow to do for his breakfast—and Tommy and Pet are sailing their shoes in the wash-basin, and the fires are all out ! Suppose I send over for widow Simmons to come and help round a bit ?'

'Mrs. Simmons has gone to visit her daughter,' answered Carry, calmly.

'Well, what shall I do ?'

'You must just take charge of the housekeeping yourself, Peter,' said Carry, hiding a smile in the folds of her pillow. 'It's only for a day or two, and I don't know of any help you can obtain. It won't be much, you know, with your ideas of system.'

'That's true,' said Peter, somewhat encouraged. 'Any body could get a breakfast, couldn't he ?'

'Oh, certainly. But, Peter——'

'Yes, my dear.'

'Please darken the room, and keep the children away, and don't speak to me, if you can help it. I have such a racking headache, and the least excitement almost drives me wild.'

Peter shut the door with distracting caution, and went down stairs on creaking tip-toe. As be passed the nursery door a duet of voices chimed shrilly on his ears.

'Papa ! papa ! we are not dressed.'

'Dress yourselves, then, can't you?' said Mr. Carver, pausing.

'Pet is too little to dress herself,' said Tommy, loftily ; 'and mamma always dresses me!'

'Where are your shoes ?'

'I don't know,' said Tommy, with his finger in his mouth.

'I know,' said Pet, aptly revenging herself for the hit at her diminutive proportion : 'Tommy dropped them out of the window.'

'Tommy is a bad boy,' said the vexed pater-familias, crawling under the bed for sundry little stockings that had been thrown there, apparently as balls. 'Where are the clothes ?'

'In the bureau,' answered the child promptly.

'But where ?'

'I don't know.'

Crash ! went a fancy bottle of cologne off the table, as Tommy groped for his elastic garters. Bang ! fell Mrs. Carver's rosewood writing desk to the floor, bursting off the frail hinges, and scattering pens, envelops and postage—stamps far and wide! Pet pounced on the ruins like a vulture on a battle field, while Tommy burst into a loud wail.

Mr. Peter Carver was an affectionate father in a general way, but human nature could not have endured this. He promptly cave in his adhesion to King Solomon's wisdom, by administering brisk personal chastisement. Tommy roared, and Pet joined in with a treble scream of sympathy.

'I never saw such children in my life !' said the chagrined parent. It would take one person's whole time to keep'em out of mischief.'

And he bundled the two little creatures miscellaneously into whatever articles came uppermost, rending off strings, and fracturing buttonholes, in frantic desperation.

'There ! now see if you can behave yourselves while I get the breakfast.'

,Papa,' sniveled Tommy, 'you have buttoned my frock in front instead of behind, and Pet has not had her face washed.'

'I can't attend to you now,' said. Mr. Carver, banging the nursery door too with a sigh of relief. 'Children are a great trial ; I never realized it before.'

The range looked black and cheerless enough as he stood helplessly staring at it.

'I don't know much about making a fire,' he pondered, 'but I suppose a newspaper and a lot of kindlings are about the right thing, with a shovelful of coal on top. Bless me ! ther's nothing you can't reduce to theory.'

But the fire obstinately declined to burn, setting theoretical perfection utterly at defiance, although Mr. Carver opened the oven doors, alternately, and drew out all the dampers he could spy.

'Confound the fire !' said Mr. Carver, mopping his wet forehead with the stove-cloth ; 'it won't go. I'll have a blaze of kindling, and try the breakfast on that.'

He seized down an oleaginous ham, and carved several thick slices, which he transferred deftly to a gridiron, and then, elated with his success, broke several eggs over the ham.

'Bless me, how they run !' he ejaculated, rather puzzled. 'But I know I am right ; because if the eggs don't cook on the ham, how the dence do they come there ? I wonder why this coffee don't boil ; I'll stick in a few more kindlings—that's the idea.—There are the children crying up-stairs—hungry, I suppose. They do nothing bet eat and cry, Here,—Pet. Tommy—come here ! and I'll give you a little bread and molasses.

And while the little creatures were gradually becoming hopelessly sticky and begrimmed, on the kitchen floor, Mr. Carver rushed to attend the peremptory summons of the milkman.

'How much milk ? I don't know—a quart, I suppose. Fine morning, Mrs. Grey,' he said, bowing chivalrously to a lady who was tripping down the street ; and adding, sotto voce, 'But I don't see anything to laugh at in the remark. Some women are always giggling.'

'Papa,' said Pet, innocently looking up, 'your nose is all black with charcoal.'

'You look so funny, papa,' said Tommy, 'with that big towel pinned around you.'

Mr. Carver turned scarlet ; this was the mystery of Mrs. Grey's incontrollable amusement.

'A man can't cook and keep himself clean,' said he, pettishly.

And then he remembered with a remorseful pang, how white Carry's collar and cuffs always were, and how spotlessly pure her morning wrappers invariably looked.

And then he sat down, tired and spiritless, to a repast of half-cooked meat and liquid mud, by courtesy termed coffee.

'Stuff ! he ejaculated, throwing the beverage spitefully into the sink. 'I am sure it seemed easy enough. Now I suppose I have got to wash these dishes !'

He looked despairingly around at the chaos that reigned in the kitchen.

'Nine o'clock, as I live—and nothing done. Well, I see very plainly there's no office for me to day. Now then, what's wanting ?'

'The clothes for the wash, please sir !' said a little girl, curtesying humbly at the door.

'Up stairs and down stairs, and in my lady's chamber,' went Peter Carver, laying hands on whatever he considered proper prey for the wash tub, rummaging in bureau drawers, upheaving the contents of trunks, and turning wardrobes inside out for a mortal hour, before he had completed the requisite search.

The kitchen was empty when he returned.

'Where are the children,' was his first alarmed thought, expressing itself unconsciously in words.

'I saw 'em go out of the door, please sir,' said the washerwoman's little girl.

'Was it long ago ?'

'No, sir—not very ; it might be ten minutes.'

Peter rent off the towel wherewith he had girdled himself, and set off in hot haste after the missing ones. The July sun was beginning to glow intensely in the heavens—the pavements reflected the ardent shine with ten fold heat, and poor Peter Carver was nearly melted into nothingness, ere he espied, in the train of a hand-organ and monkey, his hopeful son and heir, with Pet following, both nearly unrecognizable from dust, perspiration, and molasses !

'Come home this instant, you little wretches !' ejaculated Peter, quite forgetting in his rage the emollient precepts inculcated in the 'Parent's Guide,' and lavishing a shower of not very caressing words on his offspring, as he promptly arrested them.

Neither of them would walk—in fact the little wanderers were far too weary. So, Mr. Carver mounted one on each arm, and carried them, limp and unresisting through the streets.

'Good-day, Mr. Carver,' said Judge Mason with rather a surprised look, 'have you been for a walk ?'

Peter thought of his dripping face, and hatless head, and looked at the dirty scions of his race, ere he answered, sheepishly enough :

'Ye-e-s—that is, I have taken a little exercise.'

A little !

It seemed that every acquaintance he mustered on his bowing list made a point of meeting him that particular morning of all others, and his confusion and mortification were acute in the extreme, ere he reached home, tired, panting and breathless, as the clock struck eleven !

'I'll have a nurse for you, my young friends, before the world is a day older,' he said, grinding his teeth with impotent wrath, as he deposited Pet and Tommy on the floor, and went wearily to his household duties.

'How are you now, Carry ?' he said, about an hour afterward, throwing himself into a chair by her bedside, and fanning himself with the newspaper he had laid there that morning.

'About the same, dear. How does the housekeeping get along?'

'It don't get along at all.'

'Is dinner ready?'

'Dinner?' echoed Peter in a sort of dismayed tone; 'why, I have'nt got through with breakfast yet !'

'But it is twelve o'clock.'

'I don't care if it's twenty-five o'clock—a man can't do forty things at once.'

'Yet,' remarked Carry, quietly, 'you would scarcely have remarked the force of that remark, as coming from me, if my meals were are punctual to a minute.'

Mr. Carver began to whistle.

'Where are the children ?' asked his wife.

'In bed. They were too much for me, so I undressed 'em and put 'em to bed, to get them out of the way.'

'Poor things,' said Carry.

'Poor me, I should think,' said Carver, irately. 'I had quite enough to do without 'em. I've broken the plates, and scalded my legs with a kettle of boiling water, and melted off the nose of the tea pot, and lost my diamond ring in the ash-barrel, and cut my fingers with the carving knife already. Isn't that enough for once ?'

'I should think so,' smiled Carry. 'Have you looked after the pickles and baked fresh pies ?'

'No !'

'Nor blackened the range, nor cleaned the knives, scrubbed up the kitchen floor ?'

'No.'

'Nor made the beds, nor swept the chamber, nor dusted the parlors, nor polished the windows, nor heard the children's lessons, nor taken care of the canary-birds, nor—'

'Stop—for mercy's sake stop !' ejaculated Mr. Peter Carver, tearing wildly at his hair. 'You don't mean to say that you do all these things every day?'

'I do, most certainly—and long before twelve o'clock. And yet you wonder that I am not dressed and cultivating my mind before eleven.'

'I'm a donkey,' said Mr. Peter with charming candor.

'And you say,' persisted the merciless Carry, 'that a child of ten years old could do the work of this family ; you declare that were you manager in the household things would be altogether different.'

'So they would,' admitted Peter ; 'but I don't know that the difference would be an improvement.'

'Do you wonder now that I am weary and worn out, and that I feel the necessity for some assistance?'

'My dear Carry,' said Peter penitently, 'I have been a brute. I'll have a cook and a nurse and a chambermaid here, just as soon as I can possible obtain them—you shall be a drudge no longer !'

Carry's soft eyes filled with tears as her husband bent to press a kiss on her lips before he went down stairs to resume his domestic avocations.

A few minutes afterward, the unskilled cook was scorching his whiskers over a gridiron covered with hissing mutton chops, which would alarm him by suddenly blazing up into his face, without the least premonitory sympton, when a light step crossed the kitchen floor, and a little hand took the handle of the gridiron from his grasp.

'Carry !'

'I release you from duty, sir,' smiled the wife. 'My ankle is better now.'

'I say, Carry !'

'Well.'

'Tell the truth now—wasn't that ankle business a little exaggerated, just to give me a lesson ?'

'Don't you think the lesson was needed ?'

He put back the brown hair with a loving touch—and she knew that her days of trial and trouble were over.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.—A countryman walked into the office of Lawyer Barns one day and began his application :

'Barns, I have come to get your advice in a case that is giving me some trouble.'

'Well what is the matter ?'

'Suppose now,' said the client, 'that a man had one spring of water on his land, and his neighbor living below should build a dam across the creek through both farms, and it was to back the water up into the other man's spring, what ought to be done ?'

'Sue him, sir, sue him, by all means.' said the lawyer, who always became excited in proportion to the aggravation of his clients, 'You can recover heavy damages, sir, and the law will make him pay well for it. Just give me the case, and I'll bring the money from him ; and if he hasn't a great deal of property it will break him up sir,'

'But stop, Barns,' cried the terrified applicant for legal advice, 'it's I that have built the dam, and it's neighbor Jones that owns the spring, and he threatens to sue me.'

The keen lawyer hesitated a moment before he tacked his ship, and kept on.

'Ah ! well, sir, you say you built a dam across that creek. What sort of a dam was it, sir ?'

'It was a mill-dam.'

'A mill-dam for grinding grain was it ?'

'Yes, it was just that.'

'And it is a good neighboring mill, is it ?'

'So it is, sir, and you will say so.'

'And all your neighbors bring their grain to be ground, do they ?'

'Yes, they do.'

'Then it is a great public convienience, is it not ?'

'To be sure it is ; I would not have built it but for that. It is so far superior to any other mill, sir.'

'And now,' said the old lawyer, 'you tell me that that man Jones is complaining just because the water from the dam happens to put back into his little spring, and is now threatning to Sue you. Well all I have to say is, to let him sue, and he'll rue the day as sure as my name is Barns.'

Five Points and Fifth Avenue.

[From the Boston Transcript, Aug. 27th]

We gave in our paper of Saturday a vivid description of Mr. August Belmont's equipage at Newport. The authority was the Newport correspondent of the New York Evening Post, and the account must have made the heart of all Flunkeydom thrill with unwonted rapture. The carriage valued at $5,000, the trappings at $3,000, the horses at $25,000—these were in themselves sufficient to extort the admiration of all beholders whether they looked upon the spectacle with the natural eye or the eye of the mind, but when to all these were added the crowning charm of two liveried footmen, imported for the purpose, and got up at the expense of a thousand dollars each, the effect was overpowering. The Chairman of the Democratic Committee riding about Newport in such attendance, on the very eve of the Chicago Convention, is an event which brings out in the strongest light the extremes of aristocracy and mobocracy of which the Opposition party is composed.

Indeed that party cannot be more briefly characterized than as a political combination formed by a coalition of Fifth avenue with Five Points. The flunkies who lent such peculiar splendor to Belmont's equipage symbolized the voters he controls. They were marked by the style of their livery, as his men, and the dressing of them in such gorgeous habiliaments fitly suggested the common habit of Democratic leaders of encasing the victims of their intrigues, and the aids to their ambition, in a shining livery of words. The dupes so flattered and so cajoled are still, however, but the footmen and flunkies of the Democratic carriage, and are appropriately perched on the back of the vehicle, to lend additional eclat to the state of the aristocrat, luxuriously seated among the cushions.

Arming Negroes to Fight.

The terrible outcry against arming negroes in this war has measurably ceased since the murderous and barbarous conduct of the rebels is understood, and since it is generally known that they began that species of warfare. The true Union sentiment of the country calls for the putting down of this hell-bound rebellion, at any cost of human life, and human treasure. And if we had the power and could control the elements, we would arm and uniform, in Federal habilaments, all the fowls of the air and the fishes in the sea—every wolf, panther, catamount, and bear in the mountains of America—every tiger, elephant and lion in Europe—every rattle-snake and crocodile in the swamps of Florida and South Carolina—every negro in the Southern Confederacy, and every devil in hell, and turn them loose upon the Confederacy.

Nay, we would poison the very air they breathe, the water they drink, and the food they eat. We would convert hell itself into one great torpedo, and have it exploded under the very center of the Confederacy.—Aye, we say put down the rebellion, and force rebels to lay down their arms, if in doing so, we have to exterminate from God's green earth every living human being South of Mason and Dixon's line !—Parson Brownlows's Whig.

A Negro Sells Himself.

A contraband was, on Tuesday, brought to Columbus, Ohio, by a citizen who promised him $350 to go as a substitute. But when the sable gentleman found that he could get more he put himself up at auction—having been sold several times before under very different circumstances—and soon knocked himself off for $1,200. Formerly he had got nothing for working for his master, but now he got twelve hundred dollars to start on, together with board, clothes and $16 per month for shooting at those who have heretofore robbed him and his ancestors.

THERE was a swimming match at Brighton, England, lately—open for all women who chose to compete. The distance was 300 yards, and the purse was a silver-plated tea set. Four thousand persons looked on, and there were four entries, but only two competitors finally. They were two sisters, one married and one single, and the married woman beat.

A WHITE HOUSE ANECDOTE.—Setchell, the commedian, says he wa present at the White House the other day when the following was perpetrated : An old farmer from the west, who knew President Lincoln in days by-gone, called to pay his respects at the Presidential mansion. Slapping the Chief Magistrate upon the back, he exclaimed, 'Well, old hoss, how are you ?' Old Abe, being thoroughly democratic in his ideas ; and withal relishing a joke, responded, 'So I'm an old hoss, am I ? What kind of a hoss, to be sure.' 'Why, an old draft hoss, to be sure,' was the rejoiner.—Good ven for Setchell.—Boston Transcript.'

Little Mac's Acceptance.

We publish in another column McClellan's letter of acceptance, but have no time to ventilate it. The letter smacks a little of war, and we are inclined to believe Little Mac is something of a war man. But how will the Cops reconcile their letter with their platform? That's the question. It ignores that entirely—kicks it in the gutter, and states what he presumes to have been the sentiments of the Convention, although they were not expressed. We presume the copperheads will run McClellan according to his letter, and IF he should be elected work him according to the platform.

Death of Judge White.

Hon. Albert S. White Judge of the United States District Court of Indiana, died on Sunday last at his residence near Stockwell, Tippecanoe county, of congestion of the lungs.

Judge White was appointed to the office of District Judge, on the death of Hon Caleb B. Smith, but a few months ago, having previously held many important positions in the State, and also represented it in both branches of the National Legislature. He was noted for strict honor and unbending integrity, and loved for his genial temper and goodness of heart. Our readers will remember him as one of the members of the Sioux Commission Board that was in session in this place last fall, and with whom they become quite well acquainted.

McCLELLAN AMONG THE REBELS.—A special to the N. Y. Tribune, dated Washington, Sept. 5, says: "An officer belonging to Gen. Grant's army, who arrived here to night from the front, says that when the rebel soldiers learned that McClellan was nominated by the Chicago Convention, they gave hearty cheers, that were distinctly heard by our men.

McClellan stock from that moment began to decline in our army. In one division in the 5th corps, which has distinguished itself for bravery and efficiency in the present campaign, there are only eight officers who are supporters of McClellan.

The feeling in his favor is confined almost exclusively to Regular officers."

THE NEW YORK World says that Fremont is about to retire from the Presidential canvass, and that an announcement of the fact will probably be made at an early day. It also says that Old Ben. Wade has been brought into the ranks again, and will soon take the stump for Lincoln and Johnson. It sorrowfully admits that there will be unity among the opponents of the Democracy.

THE Democratic State Convention met at St. Paul last week. A. G. Chatfield, of Scott county was nominated for Chief Justice, and E. T. Wilder and E. O. Hamlin, for associate justices. They have secured tickets for the Salt River packet.

The first gun from Vermont speaks in thunder tones, and sends greeting to the tune of 22,000 Majority for the glorious Union. This is worse than blue pills to the McClellan men.

Indian News.

We copy the following from the St. Paul Press, of the 13th inst.,

A copy of Col. McLaren's report to Gen. Sully, of the destruction of the Indian camp and stores, after the recent battle, has been received by Gen. Sibley.

Col. McLaren's force consisted of four companies of his regiment, two of the Dakota cavalry, four companies of the 6th Iowa, and two companies of the 8th Minnesota. Company G. of the 2nd Minnesota cavalry was deployed as skirmishers, and sent forward into the timber to protect the working parties, while the remainder of the force was employed in destroying the Indian camp and collecting the meat and berries the Indians had concealed in the woods and ravines. Buffalo meat, dried and packed in buffalo skins, was found and burned, to the amount of several tons, and also large quantities of dried berries, buffalo robes, and tanned skins of buffalo, elk and antelopes. Finding that otherwise the work would occupy his force more than the day allowed, Col. McLaren finally collected all the lodge poles, (from the number of which he estimated the camp to have contained fourteen hundred lodges.) and burned them, and then set the woods on fire in various places. As the fires spread into the timber, Indians were plainly seen to escape up the mountains, leaving several ponies tied to picket stakes, some of which were secured by our troops, and others were burned by the fire.

During the time the troops were engaged in burning the lodges and stores found in the camp, the Indians showed a white flag on the mountain side but Col. McLaren, probably remembering incidents in the past, going to show that an Indian flag of truce was not to be trusted, paid no attention to it.

THE Press says Gov. Miller desires us to say that in order to give all the soldiers at Fort Snelling an opportunity to vote before leaving the State, the votes will be taken at that post on the 16th inst..

As this is, we suppose, the only opportunity they will have to record their votes on the most important election which ever took place in this country we would urge upon them the duty of being present at that time.

Publishers of newspapers who have forwarded copies of their respective journals to the State Library, are requested to call upon the Librarian for the public documents and laws for the past year.

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County.

The Ventriloquist, Prof. King, gave an exhibition at City Hall last Monday evening to a fair audience.

NEW LIVERY.—Messrs. Tompkins & Quinn have started a livery and Sale Stable in the Mankato House barn, and are prepared to let horses and buggies at cheap rates. Horses boarded by the day or week.

THE American express office and Burbank's stage office has been removed to the room under the Union office.

NOTICE TO SUPERVISORS.—The attention of the Supervisors of the towns of South Bend, Judson and Butternut Valley, is directed to the advertisement of Auditor Chapman in another column.

SALE OF SCHOOL LANDS.—A Sale of school lands for this county is advertised in this issue. The sale will come off November 2nd, and will be conducted by Chas. McIlrath, State Auditor.

THE Faribault County Fair has been postponed till the 23rd and 24th inst., Arrangements are in progress that will render the occasion a pleasant one.

WE would inform the Record that we were not mistaken in regard to the telegraphic dispatch from Col. Tourtellotte, We have it in black and white,

THE Eleventh Regiment has been ordered South, and will leave as soon as it can be got ready. It was supposed that it would remain in the State. Some of the boys will be disappointed.

FOR SALE.—We have for sale a good five octave Melodeon, one of Geo. A. Prince's Manufacture, which we will warrant in good order, and in good tune. It will be sold cheap, enquire at this office.

YANKEE ROBINSON.—The Yankee's Big Show will be in town next Tuesday, and will give two exhibitions. We advise everybody who loves fun, and wishes to have a good time to "fork over half dollar," and go and see him. Your money will be well invested, as Yankee Robinson is no humbug, but has enjoyed public confidence, and received public patronage for more than twenty years. Go and see him, by all means, in his play of the "Unionist's Daughter.

SELECT SCHOOL.—Miss Gillette advertises that she will teach another term in City Hall, commencing the 26th of Sept. Miss G. is a most excellent teacher, and aims to be thorough in all branches. We trust she will recieve a more liberal support from our citizens during the next term than she has for the one just ended.

The Record states that Wesley Maxfield has consented to be a candidate for County Auditor on the Democratic Ticket. Mr. Maxfield is a very worthy man, is well known to the community and his acceptance of the nomination will add to the strength of their ticket.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.—The Sunday Schools of Nicollet and Belgrade, under the superintendence of Messrs. McNutt and Sharp, held a picnic in the grove near the house of Mr G. S. Meacham, on Wednesday, the 7th inst,. It was altogether a creditable affair, An oration on the rise and progress of Sabbath Schools was delivered by Mr. J. Gill, and was very interesting. Appropriate remarks were made by Revs. Messrs. Thompson, and King, of this place, All seemed to enjoy themselves, and the tables bore evidence that the country was fruitful of good things. The ladies vied with each other in rendering the occasion a pleasant one.

Sabbath School Celebration.

Next Wednesday, the 21st inst., is the day appointed for the Union Sabbath School Celebration. And let me say to all true friends of the cause that we shall expect them to make an extra effort to be present. Let them get out all the Youth, whether they do or do not belong to a Sabbath School. As the dinner on the occasion will be a "Pic nic" the officers (or a committee) of each school will attend to it and see that each school comes prepared, that one school may not be dependent upon another for refreshments. Oglesby's Brass Band from Mankato will be in attendance, and discourse their fine music. It is hoped the occasion may be an interesting one, and profitable to all,

S. C. CLARK.

Garden City, Sept.15th 1864.

Northfield—S. T. Sterritt.
Wilton—A. J. Perkins.
Cleveland—S. T. Richardson.

GOOD NEWS.—J. T. Williams received a letter from St. Paul yesterday, informing him that C. D. Gilfillan had telegraphed him from Washington that he had received payment on all his Sioux Claims and that he was expected home by the first of next week. This is good news for Messrs. Buck & Gilfillan's Clients.

"JUST LIKE THEM."—We, among others, happened to be present on Wednesday last at the Clifton, when a Democrat entered, pretty well bloated with McClellanism, who, after some remarks on the "question of the day," offered to bet $50 on Little Mac. Seeing his supposed opponents rather backward in accepting the offer, he became very boisterous, offering to increase the amount, &c. One of the company present—a Republican—seeing that he was determined to continue the "bluff game," so devoutly practiced by our Democratic friends in this campaign, cooly took out his portmonaie, and placed $50 in the hands of Mr. Power, telling his opponent to follow suit. But Mr. Democrat could not "see it in that light." He was willing to make good his offer, if his opponent would allow him two conditions, viz: If the soldiers were allowed to vote; and if they were allowed to vote without interference on the part of the Administration! Worthy apostle of Brick Pomeroy! Sufficient to say, he caved in, as Dick Massey used to say, "like a pancake." The crowd came to the conclusion that he belonged to the "Blatant Democratic School" inaugurated at Chicago. Gentlemen, this "bluffing" is played out. Without faith ye can't succeed!

THE following are the non commissioned officers of Co. C, Eleventh Regiment: Orderly sergeant, Wm. B. Hazelep; 1st sergeant, Guy B. Foss; 2d, Henry Robertson; 3d, John A. Middaugh; 4th, James Wilson, Corporals—1st, Thomas Rutledge; 2nd, Tobias L. Rice; 3rd Horace Perrin; 4th, Durlin S. Brayton; 5th, Charles Philbrick; 6th Andrew J. Smith; 7th, Wm. Clapshaw; 8th, John I. Frandle.

Company Clerk—Chas. D. Robertson.

A NUT FOR ST. PETER.—A Soldier in the 7th Regiment, who is a Democrat, writes to his father in this vicinity as follows:

"I consider the citizens of St. Peter in general a set of copperheads, or else arrant cowards to allow such a vile villian as James J. Green to edit and publish a paper disloyal and against the best interests of the country. Any man who votes for McClellan throws two years of the soldiers time away, and you may depend upon it the soldiers will throw an overwhelming vote for Honest Old Abe. In choosing between two evils it is best to take the lesser one, and consequently I shall throw my mite for Lincoln, although I am not a Lincolnman."

THE American Organ is the standard one, not only amongst private families but at Churches Schools, Lodges and other institutions. The melody issuing from them abounds with that interesting sweetness and compass that is truly astonishing. They are manufactured by S. D. & H. W. Smith, who have peculiar opportunities of collecting accurate information so as to improve their already popular American Organs from time to time. W. W. Kimball, 142 Lake street, Chicago, Wholesale Depot for the North-west.

"THROAT AFFECTIONS.—A Physician writing from Newfane, New York, speaking of the beneficial effects resulting from the use of 'Brown's Bronchial Troches,' says: 'Oblige me by sending a dozen more of your 'Bronchial Troches,' enclosing bill. For alleviating that horrid irritation only felt by those who have suffered from any Bronchial Affection, and for hoarseness and sore throat too. I am free to confess (though I am a M. D.) they answer all you claim for them. I would beg you to feel that I am one of the last men in the profession to puff a nostrum, but I am but doing you justice to assert what I have.' To avoid disappointment, be sure to OBTAIN THE GENUINE

"THE NEGRO SOLDIERS' ANSWER TO GENERAL SHERMAN.—It is to the negro troops at Dalton that General Sherman now owes the safety of his vital, "line of communication."

When Colonel Labold, with 500 men, was beleagured there by 5,000 rebels, General Steadman arrived with reinforcements. A colored regiment was ordered to charge the rebels: "With a ringing cheer," says the dispatch, "and an impetuous rush, which was irresistable, they charged upon the rebels, who broke and fled in the utmost confusion."

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-ONE towns in Vermont give Smith, the Union candidate, a majority of 19,371, and there are some sixty odd towns yet to hear from. It grows better and better. Probably the whole Union majority will be from 23,000 to 25,000.

Gen. Grant's Letter.

The plain, straightforward and truthful letter of Lieut. Gen. Grant, which will be found among our dispatches, will attract universal attention, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. More than this, it will inspire all men who are at all loyal with a renewed confidence in the success of the Union cause. The statements it contains sweeps away the the foundation and superstructure of the campaign arguments of the Copperheads; for when these are all simmered down, they amount simply to this: 'You can't subdue the South by force, and must either coax her back or let her go.'

Gen. Grant, better than any man in the North, knows what our military strength is, what are the prospects of our campaigns, what the rebel strength is, and how long the rebels are likely to endure the wear and tear of the war.

He says that 'the rebels have now in their ranks their last man. They have robbed the cradle and the grave equally together,' to get the armies they now have, and of this force they are losing a regiment a day by desertion—a loss that is irreparable.

Looking at the ensuing election solely as a military man and as the responsible commander of all our armies, Gen. Grant sees—as all unprejudiced men must see—that the election of the peace candidate is the sole hope of the rebels. The election of Mr. Lincoln and the enforcement of the draft, will end all the remaining hopes of the South, and incline them to peace that will be honorable and permanent.

Peace from separation Gen. Grant predicts to be impossible. Peace on Southern terms would mean the humiliation of the North, and a heavy penalty for the losses of the South, to be wrung out of the Northern people,

The great issue before the people to-day, is not in the old sense a political issue. Had it been, Gen. Grant is the last one who would have meddled with it. He is and has been no politician. He is simply a soldier, anxious and always ready to serve his country. He has no civil ambition whatever, and has reached the highest distinction and position in his profession. He is beyond being influenced by hope of reward to write letters in behalf of any party.

He writes simply as an earnest and patriotic soldier, who sees the real dangers that menace his country, and would save her from them. But he has annihilated in advance all the arguments the copperheads can devise. The people will believe him, and abandon them and their unpatriotic doctrines.

A LETTER FROM GRANT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.

The following is an extract of a letter from Lieut. Gen. Grant:

Hd'q'rs City Point, Va., Aug. 16.

To Hon. E. B. Washburne:

DEAR SIR:—I state to all citizens whomsoever it may concern, that all we want now to ensure the early restoration of the Union, is a determination on the part of the north, and unity of sentiment north. The rebels have now in their ranks their last man. The boys and old men are guarding prisons and railroad bridges and forming a good part of their garrisons for intrenched positions. Any man lost by them cannot be replaced. They have robbed the cradle and the grave equally to get their present force.

Besides what they lose in frequent skirmishes and battles, they are now losing from desertion and other causes at least one regiment per day. With this drain upon them the end is not far distant, if we will only be true to ourselves. Their only hope now is in a divided North. This might give them reinforcements from Tennessee, Kentucky and Maryland, while it would weaken us. With the draft enforced the enemy would become despondent and would make but little resistance. I have no doubt that the enemy are anxious to hold out until after the Presidential election. They have many hopes from its effects. They hope for a counter revolution—they hope for the election of the peace candidate. In fact, like Micawber, they hope for "something to turn up."

Our peace friends, if they expect peace from separation, are much mistaken. It would but be the beginning of war, while thousands of northern men would join the south because of our disgrace in allowing separation. To have peace on any terms, the south would demand the restoration of their slaves already freed. They would demand indemnity for losses sustained, and they would demand a treaty which would make the north slave hunters for the south.

Yours truly,
U. S. GRANT.

LITTLE MAC ACCEPTS.

Of Course He Does—"Would a Duck Swim?"

NEW YORK, Thursday, Sept. 8.—The Committee appointed by the Chicago Convention to notify Gen. McClellan of his nomination met this morning at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Nearly all of the Committee were present. At 1 o'clock the Committee left the hotel, and proceeded in carriages to the mansion of Gen. McClellan, on Thirty-first street, where they were received by the General and Col. Lansing. After the ceremony of introduction and a brief interview, the Committee presented to Gen. McClellan a copy of the proceedings of the Chicago Convention and a letter advising him of his nomination. The General accepted the nomination, and his letter to that effect will probably be formally presented to the Committee this evening.

Besides the Committee, a large number of prominent gentleman visited Gen. McClellan to-day. Among them were August Belmont, Peter Cagger, Dean Richmond and others.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 8.—Gentlemen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter informing me of my nomination by the Democratic National Convention, recently assembled at Chicago, as their candidate at the next election for President of the United States.

It is unnecessary for me to say to you that the nomination comes to me unsought. I am happy to know that when the nomination was made the record of my public life was kept in view. The effect of long and varied service in the army during war and peace has been to strengthen and make indellible in my mind and heart the love and reverence for the Union, the constitution, the laws and flag of our country which was impressed upon me in early youth.

These feeling have thus far guided the course of my life, and must continue to do so until its end. The existence of more than one government over the region which once owned our flag is incompatible with the peace, the power and the happiness of the people. The preservation of our Union was the sole avowed object for which the war was commenced. It should have been conducted for that object only, and in accordance with those principles which I took occasion to declare when in active service.

Thus conducted the work of reconciliation would have been easy, and we might have reaped the benefit of our many victories on land and sea.

The Union was originally formed by the exercise of a spirit of conciliation and compromise. To restore and preserve it the same spirit must prevail in our councils and in the hearts of the people. The reestablishment of the Union in all its integrity is and must continue to be the indispensible condition of any settlement. So soon as it is clear, or even probable, that our present adversaries are ready for peace upon the basis of the Union we should exhaust all the resources of statesmanship, practiced by civilized nations, taught by the tradition of the American people consistent with the honor and interests of the country to secure such peace.

Re-establish the Union, and guarantee for the future the constitutional rights of every State. The Union is the one condition of peace we ask no more.

Let me add what I doubt not was, although unexpressed, the sentiments of the Convention as it is of the people they represent, that when any one State is willing to return to the Union it should be received at once with a full guarantee of all its constitutional rights.

If a frank, earnest and persistent effort to obtain those objects should fail, the responsibility for ulterior consequences will fall upon those who remain in arms against the Union, but the Union must be preserved at all hazards.

I could not look in the face of my gallant comrades or the army and navy, who have survived so many bloody battles, and tell them that their labors and the sacrifice of so many of our slain and wounded brethren had been in vain; that we had abandoned that Union for which we have so often perilled our lives.

A vast majority of our people, whether in the army and navy or at home, would, as I would, hail with unbounded joy the permanent restoration of peace on the basis of the Union under the Constitution without the effusion of another drop of blood; but no peace can be permanent without Union.

As to the other subjects presented in the resolutions of the convention I can merely say I should seek in the constitution of the United States; and the laws framed in accordance therewith the rule of my duty and the limits of executive power, and endeavor to restore economy in public expenditure, re establish the supremacy in law, and by the operation of a more vigorous nationality, resume our commanding position among the nations of the earth. The condition of our finances, the depreciation of the paper money, and the burdens thereby imposed on labor and capital show the necessity of a return to a sound financial system, while the right of citizens and the rights of States, and the binding authority of law over President, army and people, are subjects of not less vital importance in peace than in war.

Believing that the views here expressed are those of the Convention and the people you represent, I accept the nomination.

I realize the weight of the responsibility to be borne should the people ratify your choice.

Conscious of my own weakness I can only seek fervently the guidance of the Ruler of the Universe, and relying on His al-powerful aid, do my best to restore Union and Peace to a suffering people, and to establish and guard their liberties and rights.

I am, gentlemen,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant.
GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

To Hon. Horatio Seymour and others, Committee.

TELEGRAPH NEWS.

Maine Echoes the Voice of Vermont!

A Union Majority of 20,000

PORTLAND Maine, Sept. 13.

Ninety-five towns give a Union majority of 9,168, making Coney's total majority from 19,500 to 20,000.

The counties have all undoubtedly gone Republican, electing three State Senators and county officers. The House of Representatives will stand about the same as last year, when it stood 124 Union to 26 Opposition.

The Gubernatorial vote in 1864, which preceded President Lincoln's election, stood: Republican 70,030, Democratic 52,350, straight Whigs and scattering 1,755—being a Republican majority of 15,925, some 4,000 short of probable majority this year.

A violent storm has prevented many towns getting their returns to telegraph offices, and has made the lines work badly. The polls throughout the State have been open until 6 o'clock to-day, two hours later than heretofore.

The amendment to the constitution permitting soldiers to vote will be carried almost unanimously.

PORTLAND, ME., Sept. 12.

Samuel Coney, Republican, for Governor, 2374; Howard, Democrat, 1760; Scattering 2. Majority for Coney 972, against 677 last year; net gain 295.

BURLINGTON, VT., Sept. 12.

Returns from 171 towns foot up as follows:

SHERIDAN.

RECTORTOWN, VA. Aug., 10-8, P. M.

[Herald's Special.]—The enemy attacked one brigade of Averill's division this morning shortly after 8 o'clock, at Darkville, on the Winchester Pike, south of Martinsburgh, with Johnson's McCausland's and Vaughn's brigades of Cavalry, and Rhode's division of Infantry; Early conducting the attack in person.

The enemy's cavalry was thoroughly beaten and driven in three successive charges, under an artillery fire upon and through the infantry line.

The rebel infantry was then brought forward to the attack, where upon the brigade [Schoonmaker's retired, after having nearly expended their ammunition, slowly before the enemy's advance. The rebel infantry being unable to reach the Union cavalry the enemy's mounted force were again brought forward, but did not venture to attack Schoonmaker in his new position, which he at once assumed. From prisoners taken we get information of the highest importance.

The loss inflicted upon the enemy was greater than our own. Early thought to steal a march upon Sheridan's line, and did not expect to be checked in the outset of his operations by Averill's activity.

Rear Admiral Lee, in a dispatch dated Beaufort, Sept. 7th says the Elsie ran out of Wilmington on the 4th inst. and was captured next day by the Keystone State and Quaker City. The Elsie was seen and fired upon when she ran out by the Nephon and Diametria, and was chased off by the Santiago de Cuba until lost in darkness. At 10:30 next day she was seen and captured, without papers or flag. A shell from the Quaker City exploded in the forehold of the Elsie and destroyed about 150 bales of cotton. Part of the cargo was thrown overboard in the chase, and there are now about 250 bales on board. The prize will be sent to Boston. The Elsie is new and of light draught.

THE Draft will take place on Monday next, the 19th inst,.

Valuable Lands for Sale.

BY DIRECTION OF THE HONORABLE Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands in Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City D. C., and endorsed "Bid for Winnebago Tract Land."

As heretofore many persons have bid upon these lands and after the awards have been made to them have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which, in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful bidder.

LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES

Passed at the First Session of the 38th Congress.

[PUBLIC RESOLUTION—No. 49.]

A Resolution for the relief of the State of Wisconsin.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Department of the Interior shall, in adjusting the amount due the State of Wisconsin, under existing laws, at five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of the public lands within her limits, estimate and charge against her the value of the one hundred and twenty-five thousand four hundred and thirty one and eighty two one hundredth acres of land granted to the Territory of Wisconsin to aid in the construction of the Milwaukie and Rock River canal, which have been sold by said Territory or Said State at one dollar and twenty five cents per acre, and as much more as the Territory and State received upon the same upon sales of any part thereof at a higher price, and shall credit said State with the amount that has been legally and properly applied by said State or Territory towards the cost of selling said land and towards the construction of said canal. And the said Secretary shall also settle and allow to the Milwaukie and Rock River Canal Company such sums of money as have been properly expended by said company in the survey and location of said canal, in the construction thereof as far as the same has been constructed, together with dams, locks, and slack-water navigation, and in the management and keeping the same in repair; and the same shall be paid to the said canal company out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, not exceeding in amount, however, the balance charged against the State of Wisconsin upon the sales of said canal lands, as above required, after deducting the sum allowed said State for money paid by her out of the same fund. The same to be received by said canal company in full payment and satisfaction of all claims of said company against the State of Wisconsin and of the United States on account of said canal land grant, or on account of any action of the Territory or State of Wisconsin or of the United States in relation thereto.

Approved, July 1, 1864.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy, and thousands who resort to it under apprehension of an attack, escape the scourge; and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of Bilious Colic is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to reinforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

Mankato, Sept. 16, 1864-v2:10.

Poetry.

Copperhead Song for 1870.

No part nor lot in the glorious work,
No part nor lot had I;
But I sat like a frog on an old hollow log
And I croaked to the passers by—
Croak—Croak—Croak—
There were many who paused to hear,
And many more who slackened their pace
And some turned back in fear.

No part nor lot in the glorious work,
No part nor lot had I;
But I aimed my gun at the new risen sun
And fired at its godlike eye.
Fire—fire—fire—
We thought we were many and strong
And could humbug the nation with volleys of words,
To thinking right was wrong.

No part nor lot in the glorious work
No part nor lot had I,
I trod the long grass where the patriots pass,
And sneered at their rallying cry.
Sneer—sneer—sneer—
'Tis a word with a double edge;
And before it many a rancher has turned
To the hot-stead side of his hedge.

* * * * * * * *

No part nor lot in the glorious work,
No part nor lot had I;
And when the air swells with the music of bells,
I only look down with a sigh.
Bells—bells—bells—
They tell us the nation is free;
And the noble achievers co workers with God—
But Copperheads, what are we?

The Imaginary and the Real McClellan.

Never did mortal man have greatness so thrust upon him as George B. McClellan. Without examining his military record, which was destitute of interest, without even a glance at his face, which shows him equally destitute of intelect of any high order, without stopping to weigh the fact that one who could pass through the Mexican war with no other promotion than a brevet Lieutenancy, who could be used by Jeff. Davis on secret and unlawful fillibustering spy service against Cuba, who could claim the glory without participating in either the responsibility or the dangers of the battles in West Virginia, had no elements of the hero, yet the country so needed a hero, the war so needed a representative, the people so needed a demigod upon whom to lavish the great American disposition for hero idolatry, that all united in crowning McClellan with a paper crown, and hailing him as our General-in Chief before he had led a squad into a skirmish or rendered any other service than to telegraph the battles in West Virginia which Rosecrans planned and fought, omitting the name of Rosecrans from the dispatches. This veteran of a thousand cheers and not a single charge, greeted by Napoleon's huzzas, though innocent of Napoleon's battles, this calico hero, this knight in pantalettes, did the people of the North without distinction of party and their President yielding to their voice, to their everlasting shame be it spoken, predestinate to begin his military career at a greater exaltation of fame than that to which the world's greatest Generals, its Marlboroughs, Wellingtons, and Washingtons, have been content to climb through a long succession of hard-earned victories. Every since the date, the people have been separating the imaginary from the real McClellan, and as fast as that which is imaginary is removed, that which is real sinks into insignificance. The imaginary McClellan, is a fierce looking youth, with an eagle eye, Roman nose, a compressed lip, and the expression of a hero. The real McClellan has a mild eye, a pug nose, an animal lip and the mediocre expression of a man not to be entrusted with any other than very ordinary issues. The imaginary McClellan fought a brilliant battle at Rich Mountain. The real McClellan sent a subordinate to fight the battle while he remained to sign the dispatch. The imaginary McClellan organized the Army of the Potomac according to the most approved modes of warfare. The real McClellan for nine months refused to organize it or to promote any of his Generals beyond Brigadierships, for fear of elevating rivals who might outshine him. The imaginary McClellan was in the front of the battle at Williamsburg, on a fiery black charger, leading the troops on to victory. The real McClellan was at Yorktown, seven miles to the rear, under a shed, waiting for it to stop raining, and responsible wholly for their defeat. The imaginary McClellan was always contending against a superior force, and thwarted in all his efforts to obtain reinforcements. The real McClellan had at Washington 185,000 to contend against from 60,000 to 80,000, at Yorktown 170,000 against 25,000 at Fair Oaks Gaines' Mill and other battles, he had a force largely outnumbering that of the rebels, of which he brought from a third to a fourth into battle; while he failed in every battle to so handle his force as to use more than a small fraction of it. Other departments were stripped of the forces which McClellan had certified to be necessary for their protection, to provide him with reinforcements when he already had in every battle many times more than he knew how to put into the fight. The imaginary McClellan had a deep personal sympathy with the common soldiers. The real McClelan led them without any other plan than to avoid battle, into swamps where he lost in a few months from thirty to forty thousand men by disease and desertion, without firing a gun at the enemy. The imaginary McClellan desired 'only to share the fate of his soldiers on the field of battle.' The real McClellan never, from Yorktown to Antietam, was under fire. He was absent from Williamsburg, absent from Fair Oaks, absent from Gaines' Mill, absent from Malvern Hills, and with the reserve—there being no other place, not even Washington, to safe—at Antietam The imaginary McClellan was full of deep laid far-seeing plans, to the failure to follow which all the disasters of the war are due.

The real McClellan never had any other plan than the dog in-the-manger plan of neither fighting battles and reaping honors himself nor allowing any one else to. To the imaginary McClellan is due the capture of New Orleans. The real McClellan advised that it should not be undertaken, as it would require 50,000 men. (Butler and Farragut accomplished it with 7,000.) The imaginary McClellan is ready to sacrifice personal aggrandizement to the military success of the country. The real McClellan withheld his army from coming to the support of Pope fourteen days at Harrison,s Landing and two days more at Alexandria, suggesting to Halleck the wisdom of 'leaving Pope to get out of the scrape as he could,' and stated that 'he was personally responsible' (as he was) for the very acts of criminal treachery to a brother officer on the battle field, for which Fitz John Porter was cashiered. The imaginary McClellan was the hero of Antietam. The real McClellan left Hooker and Burnside to fight the battle as best they could without reinforcements, and only came up after the victory was won and in time to prevent our army from reaping the fruits of victory by pursuit. In short, summing his whole life the imaginary McClellan is an exploded sham, from all faith in which the common sense of the country has fallen off. Sensible men were sorry to give him up, because, to acknowledge that McClellan was a military nobody was to acknowledge that they had been fooled. The President hung to him till every military man who had been brought into contact with him—Kearney, Wool, Hooker, Heintzleman, Sumner, Keyes, Hitchcock, Wadsworth, Halleck, and Sedgwick—condemned him.

Even his confidants and participants in at least one crime of military treachery—Fitz John Porter and Franklin—have in conversation condemned McClellan's system of fighting battles by telegraph. In short, the dregs only of McClellan's reputation are left. Those who have any knowledge of the real McClellan admire that fiction of the imagination which we were all content with before the war had developed any actual Generals. As a civilian, McClellan has no other merit than that he adheres to policies which have been faithfully tried with great patience and long suffering, and, after such trial, have been discarded.—Chicago Tribune.

From Rebeldom.

The two young ladies, Mrs Lucy Anderson and sister-in law, who were arrested here day before yesterday, on charges of carrying a rebel mail, have been released and are on their way North. Their mail was overhauled, but contained nothing specially objectionable. The following letter was among the number examined by the District Provost Marshall, and will be found interesting.

It is directed to Mr. P. P. Peck, Nashville, Tenn:

ATLANTA, July 14, 1864.

DEAR PECK:—Having an opportunity I drop you a few lines as to our whereabouts. Ere this reaches you I have no doubt but that Gen. Sherman will be in possession of Atlanta.

I do not know yet where we will yet locate, as I have not time to find me a house. I sent Sally and the children off fully one week ago—I expect to leave myself almost hourly.

We will have considerable difficulty I am afraid in getting a house; as almost the whole population of Northern Georgia have given up their homes. I do not think 2000 people will remain in this city. Our people are not at all discouraged.

The crops promise a very abundant yield. We have had seasonable rains thus far, though Virginia, around Richmond, has been suffering very much from drought—the armies, both Federal and Confederate have suffered terribly for want of water, though our army along the Appomattax river has fared better than Gen. Grant's.

Sally writes a long letter giving an account of the death of Henry Ramage. I had already written you about it. He died gallantly in a charge, some yards ahead of his regiment, in the act of mounting the breastworks of the enemy, beloved by all of his comrades. Sally had sent him a box of eatables four days before he was killed—he received them two days before, and we had just received a letter from him stating how his mess had enjoyed them. We buried him, for the present, along side of Andrew Ewing, in Pearl's garden, to be removed hereafter. We have terrible warm weather, so much so that I am afraid to settle farther South with my family. If I cant rent a house I intend to buy one somewhere, and I will remove no more, as I am getting very tired of it.

Major and So' Wheeless, Henry and Lucy Claiborne, General and Mrs. Anderson, are very pleasantly situated at Eatenton. Henry is trying to get me a house down there. I hope he will succeed—at the same time I think it probable our office will go to Augusta, though we have now sent our books and papers to Macon.

I have just got started again to trading in money, our office giving me facilities that would have made me 50,000 or 60,000 yearly. There will not be a dray load of Government property left here, all will be safely removed to-day: every thing has been quietly going off from here for the past five weeks. Even the railroad shops have all of their machinery safely removed. I don't suppose that public property ever before was so completely saved as in the evacuation of Atlanta. I could write you largely about army movements, but do not think proper to do so. I will merely say that we have plenty of provisions for all purposes; prices very high it is true, but all seem to get along as well as when they were cheaper. Dry goods are at a very high figure, calico $10 per yard; boots, $150; ladies' shoes, $100 per pair; my children's shoes, very coarse, in fact not as good as our negroes wore at home, $40 and $50 per pair.

Marketing sells as follows: 5 tomatoes, $1.50; heads of cabbage, $4 to $6 each; 4 cucumbers, $1; potatoes, $2.50 per gallon; beef, $4 to $5 per pound; mutton, $5; chickens, $6 to $8 each; sugar, $6 to $8 per lb; coffee, $15 per pound, molasses, $20 per gallon; lard, $4 per lb; bacon $3, 50 per pound; flour, $85 to $100 per 100 pounds, and every thing else in the same proportion. The people pay all cheerfully without grumbling

Hotels charge $20 to $30 per day according to locality. James McCall is going for the present to Augusta; William, I am afraid, will not be able to go with him, but I hope for the best.—He is trying to arrange the matter so that he can still be with him. We would like to hear from home oftener; have only had about three letters in twelve months. Give my respects to all old acquaintances. Let A. H. and wife see this letter. And now with love to all I close.

Yours, etc., MAC.

An Ingenous Ruse and Facile Capture of Rebel Officers.

A captain in the 132d New York, stationed in North Carolina, captured forty-six rebel officers in a very ingenious way, before he was discovered and driven off. He was stationed at Jackson Mills, three miles from Kinston, on the Neuse. At a particular point, called Wise's Forks there is a bridge. He marched his command to it, and, after tearing up several planks, placed his men in ambush to wait for what they might catch, as he lay in the rear of the enemy.

A secesh woman and her daughter, guarded by one rebel soldier, were the first that fell into the trap. This little episode was scarcely over when a mounted courier came dashing along from Kinston, and thrust his neck into the halter on a gallop. He was bearer of a dispatch from Col. Foulk, commanding the forces and defenses of Kinston, to Major Spann, commanding the outpost, ordering the latter to fall back with his forces within the intrenchments, as the Yankees were marching against him on the Dover and Neuse roads, and threatened to cut off his pickets. A half hour passed and another courier, bearing a similar message as the first was taken.

Another half hour and the commanding officer himself, with his Assistant Adjutant General, came riding furiously down from his headquarters at Kinston, to find out what had become of these couriers. The little affair was fast assuming the shape of a comedy of errors, into which even the highest rebel official seemed frantic to parade his body and act his part. At the right moment a clear, steady voice commanded: "Halt! Dismount and surrender!" The Colonel wroth that he should be delayed answered back: "I am Colonel Foulk—you all know me." "Yes, we all know you, and a second time I order you to dismount and surrender!" The Colonel was thunderstruck; but, realizing in a moment his delicate situation, he slid from his horse, quickly followed by his adjutant.

To the challenge, "do you surrender?" the Colonel immediately answered, "Yes, certainly; this is a bad box; there is no help for it; I'm your prisoner."—and the commanding officer of Kinston, turning pale, fairly groaned with anguish and humiliation as he surrendered up his arms. Both the Colonel and his Adjutant were speedily cared for, and their horses tied in the woods out of the way of bullets. Soon came the report of musketry at Wise's Forks, telling the story that our main column was driving the enemy from his camp. Then came many of the retreating rebels fleeing by the Jackson Mill road toward Kinston, The baggage wagons came thundering down to the bridge, in charge of a Lt. Brothers, of the 67th North Carolina regiment. The Lieutenant outstriped even the foremost teams, first reached the mill and discovered the dismantled bridge.

Amid a shower of curses he cries out to somebody he sees on the opposite side of the stream, "Who in h—ll ordered that bridge up?" The somebody on the other side answered that he ordered it up to stop the Yankees from crossing. "Come over," cries out the voice, "and if you want to get the wagons across we'll put it down!" and over comes Lieut. Brothers on one of the stringers, cursing at a great rate at the stupid fool who ordered up the bridge! He was no sooner across than a revolver was thrust into his face with the command to surrender, instantly, and just stop making any more blow about that bridge! The Lieutenant, thoroughly, frightened, delivered his arms over meekly, and then said with a glum laugh. "No one but a Yankee could play me such a trick as that."

Who is to be Cheated.

It is time for old Mr. Wickliffe to call his Convention together again. Gen. McClellan's letter accepting his nomination is a brazen attempt to climb from his own platform to the more elevated one upon which Mr. Lincoln was nominated. It is a careful imitation of the policy of a certain Democratic aspirant for the office of Governor of Iowa, who was nominated on a peace platform, and strove to become a war candidate, and was beaten by a larger majority than if he had stuck to his own text. We sympathized with Gen. Tuttle then, as we sympathize with Gen. McClellan now, in their desire to get out of bad company, and we point to the fate of the one as the inevitable destiny of the other. No candidate ever gained votes by pretending to repudiate the principles of which he is made the solemn public exponent. When such tricks are resorted to, the people know that somebody is to be cheated. They know that either the party which made the platform, or the fools who vote for the candidate, are to be swindled after the election.

'The re-establishment of the Union in all its integrity,' says Gen McClellan, 'is and must continue to be the indispensible conditions of any settlement.' Ah! That is the very thing which the Chicago Convention would not say. That is the precise idea which Washington Hunt embodied in his resolution and offered to the convention, and which the convention refused to adopt! During the whole sitting of the Convention, the one idea most thought of and most discussed by the various delegations in caucus, was this: Shall we fight for the Union in any contingency? And the Convention solemnly said, NO. They said, we will negotiate, and if we cannot negotiate we will do nothing. We will have peace anyhow Gen. McClellan says yes. where the Convention says no. He says war, where the Convention said peace. He does not say, nor even hint, that he indorses the platform, or any part of it, Now, who is to be cheated?

No man is stronger than his party. The stream cannot rise higher than its source. Those who elect Gen. McClellan, if he be elected, will demand that his administration shall conform to the principles upon which he was carried into power, and they will enforce the demand. The whole theory and spirit of our Government, is that the Government itself shall be administered upon the basis of public opinion. It can be administered in no other way. What is public opinion? It is the voice of the majority of the people expressed at the ballot box. Let that majority be given for the candidates of the Chicago Convention, and the platform of the Chicago Convention must govern. That will be public opinion, ascertained by the only rules known to the Constitution, Presidents are not elected upon 'general understandings' of the policy they are to pursue.

The principles by which they are to be guided are reduced to writing, that they may be known and read of all men, and then that there may be no dispute after the election as to what the people really intended,

When Mr, Lincoln was interrogated shortly before his inauguration, as to his views of the several compromise measures then on foot, he replied, pointing to the platform upon which he was elected: 'We must do no more and no less than the people supposed we would when they gave us their votes.' if any other rule be substituted for this in our political action, we are at sea without rudder or compass, drifting upon anarchy.

But General McClellan's party will take good care that they are not cheated. No Administration can exist without a party in Congress and the country to sustain its policy. The policy of the Democratic party is peace with the rebels, and General McClellan cannot make it war if he would, The party will override, as they have a right to do, every freak of their President which is in conflict with their expressed view, and more especially if it happens to relate to the vital and cardinal point at issue between the two parties. They will say: 'If we had wanted a war President we should have voted for Lincoln. He was for the war unequivocally. He was for coercion, subjugation, and all the other unconstitutional thing. We wanted peace; we so declared; the people so decided; and peace it shall be!' If Gen. McClellan were Gen. Jackson (which he is not), he would not dare defy his party in this manner. As well might we expect a bulrush to resist the torrent of the Nile.

Who then are to be cheated? Evidently the simpletons who believe that they can vote for the candidate of the Peace party and still go for the prosecution of the war. Who will speak for them after the election? Nobody. Who will represent them in Gen. McClellan's Cabinet? Nobody. Whose voice will be raised in their behalf in Congress? Nobody's. Who will be able to find them after the election?—who will be able to distinguish them from the herd who voted squarely and honestly for the principles laid down in the platform.? Nobody. They will be as completely disfranchised as the negroes in South Carolina. In point of fact the 'War Democracy' has ceased to exist since the adoption of the Chicago platform. The word 'war' is divorced from the word 'Democracy,' and he who does not wish to be cheated out of his vote must cast his ballot for Abraham Lincoln and the War, or for George B. McClellan and Peace. There is no middle ground.

MR. M———, of a certain town in Vermont, is not distinguished for liberality, either of purse or opinion.

His ruling passion is a fear of being cheated. He once bought a cake of tallow at a country store for ten cents a pound. On breaking it in pieces at home a large cavity was found in the centre. This he considered a terrible disclosure of cupidity on the part of a professional friend.

He drove furiously back to the store, entering in great excitement, bearing the tallow, exclaiming:

'Here, you rascal, you have cheated me! Do you call that an honest cake of tallow? It is hollow, and there ain't near so much as it appears to be. I want you to make it right.'

'Certainly,' replied the merchant, 'I'll make it all right. I didn't know the cake was hollow. Let me see—you paid me ten cents per pound.

Now, Mr. M——, how much do you suppose the hole weighs?'

RUSKS.—The preparatory steps for rusks are the same as for rolls. When the yeast is ready mix a quarter of a pound of flour, a piece of butter as large as a hen's egg, and a teaspoon of grated nutmeg. Stir three well-beaten eggs into the yeast, mix to a soft dough, knead well, make into little cakes, rise and bake well. Never allow this bread to get cold during the whole process. When done, rub over with the white of an egg, and sift over the cakes some powdered white sugar,

An editor in Illinois being asked why he did not publish the communications sent to his office, replied, because nobody would ever publish his when he was a youngster, and he intended to be even with the world. He had a newspaper of his own and correspondents might go to the devil.

'Why does the operation of hanging klll a man?' inquired Dr. Whatly. A physiologist replied. 'Because inspiration is checked, circulation stopped, and blood suffuses and congests the brain.' 'Bosh,' replied his Grace, 'it is because the rope is not long enough to let his feet touch the ground,

An Irishman was indulging in the very intellectual occupation of sucking raw eggs and reading a newspaper. By some mischance he contrived to bolt a live chicken. The poor bird chirruped as it went down his throat, he very cooly said, "Be the powers, my young friend, you spoke too late,"

QUERIES.—Somebody wants to know the name of the tune which was 'played upon the feelings,' and also if the 'cup of sorrow' has a saucer. The same inquisitor would like to know if 'the light of other days' was gas or electricity. Also if the girl who 'clung to hope' had not a slippery hold, and if people do not get fatigued by 'the exercise of endurance.'

A Western editor is responsible for the following illustration of juvenile piety: 'Pray, God, bless father and mother, and Anna. By jinks! I must scrabble quick to get into bed before Mary does.'

Not long since, a youth older in wit than years, after being catechised concerning the power of Providence, replied: 'Ma, I think there's one thing Providence can't do,' 'What is it' eagerly inquired the mother. 'Providence can't make Bill Jones' mouth any bigger without setting his ears back.

—'I have already given three cousins to the war,' says Artemus Ward, 'and stand ready to send my wife's brother next, if necessary

Yes, and—if the wust comes to the wust—I stand ready to sacrifice all my wife's relations.'

Horace Austin—Our Candidate for Judge.

When a young man whose youth is unknown to those among whom he has located, early acquires an enviable distinction in his profession the popular presumption is that he was "born with a silver spoon in his mouth," that he had all the advantages of schools and colleges, and the helping hand of wealth, or influential friends to boost him along in his chosen path. This presumption may be correct in the majority of cases in the old Eastern States where place is hereditary or is purchased only by wealth or influence, but it is false of the greater number of young men who have attained distinction in the free west; for by far the largest proportion of the brightest examples of those who have written their names highest on the Roll of Honor, or engraven them deepest in the hearts of their countrymen, were born poor, have seen much of the rough and rugged side of life, have with true New England grit struggled through a youth of poverty without friends but who have at last by the earnings of their own hard hands, the courage of their own brave hearts, the power of their own indomitable wills and the native strength of their own clear heads, won a name and a place in society. Not abused by the enchantments of wealth and power which bind the more favored sons of fortune to their native soil, they break away from ties which are sufficient to enchain weaker spirits, they strike out boldly into the great free unknown West—to them unknown but both soon to know each other better. Here all start on an equality and rise according to merit.

Capt. Horace Austin the subject of our article is a native of Connecticut born in 1831, and hence is 33 years of age. His father was a blacksmith at which trade the boy was brought up and not only did he make himself master of the trade itself, but of the auxiliary branches of chopping wood and burning it into charcoal for the use of the shop, according to true New England economy, and that blending of all trades which contribute to the principal business. From the common school to the academy, from the academy to the common school as a teacher; from this great stepping stone o New England youth to something beyond if not better, the young man entered the law office of that celebrated firm, Bradbury & Morrill of Augusta, Maine, as a law student. The senior partner Mr. B. was then U S. Senator and since then Mr. M. has been thrice elected Governor of the State and now fills the place in the U. S. Senate with honor which was formerly occupied by his partner Mr. Bradbury. This firm while Mr. A. was a student in the office probably had the largest practice, extent, variety and importance of cases considered, of any law firm in the State. This, with the same untiring application and industry which he has shown since he entered the profession, together with the privilege of attending on all courts, from the police to the supreme, which held sessions in the city almost perpetually and free access to one of the best State Libraries in the Union gave the student advantages of the best kind; and those who have employed him in difficult cases, or met him as an antagonist, best know what use he must have made of his privilege. After spending four years as a student he came to the West in 1854, and, having looked the Western States all over, selected Minnesota and settled in St. Peter in 1857, where he has ever since resided. He at once commenced an extensive and lucrative practice which has been followed without interruption with the exception of one year served in the army against the Indians.

As an officer he had the reputation of being efficient and brave, though perhaps too severe a disciplinarian to make himself popular among a raw volunteer force. Such troops appreciate the value of such an officer better after they have experienced the evils of a loose or intemperate government. On being mustered out of service Mr. A. was again able to resume an undiminished practice in which he still continues to labor. Such is our candidate for an office which demands great learning and high integrity. Can it be more worthily filled by any man in the District? We believe not.

A Trick Exposed.

In the last week's issue of the St. Peter Statesman, there was a statement to the effect that a letter had been gotten up at that place and addressed to Daniel Buck, Democratic candidate for Judge, requesting him to commit himself as to the St. Peter and Winona Railroad, which statement was copied into the Record for the undoubted purpose of exciting local prejudices to Mr. Buck's benefit, We see by the last issue of the St. Peter Tribune that the whole thing was a fabrication emanating from the friends of Mr. Buck for the above named purpose, though he may have had no personal knowledge of it.

LATEST WAR NEWS.

Gen. Sheridan has had a battle with the rebel General Early, and won a great victory. Over 2,500 prisoners were captured, also 9 battle flags, and 5 pieces of artillery.

The rebel Generals Gordon and Rhodes were killed, and three other general officers wounded. All the enemy's killed and most of their wounded are in our hands.

Sheridan in his report to General Grant, says he attacked the forces of Gen. Early over the Berryville Pike at the crossing of Opequan Creek, and after a most stubborn and sanguinary engagement, which lasted from early in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening, completed defeated him, driving him through Winchester, capturing about 2,500 prisoners, five pieces of artillery, 9 army flags and most of their wounded.

The rebel Generals Rhodes and Gordon were killed and three other general officers wounded. Most of the enemy's wounded and all of their killed fell into our hands.

Our losses are severe; among them Gen. D. A. Russell, commanding a division in the 6th corps, who was killed by a cannon ball. Gens. Upton, McIntosh, and Chapman are wounded.

For the Union.

'A Word to one of the Copperheads.'

Mr. Editor:—The following interesting correspondence between a copperhead and a Union soldier, which I have taken from the "Drych" (the "Mirror"] a Welsh Republican' paper of large circulation, is a fair sample of the many that are found weekly on its pages. Its shows what sentiments pervades the army, now battling against treason and its cohorts. Mr. Price only speaks the sentiments of the ten thousand Welsh patriots that are like himself, batiling for the preservation of the Union, and all that is dear an American.

J. T. WILLIAMS.

Mr. Ed.—Allow me to make few short remarks, through the medium of your paper ["Drych"] upon a letter of one of those class of men, called copperheads which letter was sent to me some time back, by one who signs himself my friend [?]; but I wish to be excused from being a friend to any of that class. His object in writing to me can be seen at a glance, hence my motives in answering it through the ["Drych."] His letter deserves no better fate.

Here is the sum and substance of the letter:

'Dear Friend.—I avail myself of the leisure moments, by taking my pen in hand, to address you—wishing you at the same time success as a soldier. Last week I was drafted, and I was forced to pay $300 for my liberty; and if the Black Republican Government will be permitted to continue this war much longer, I will be forced to sell my land and all I possess, to pay the expenses of the war; and as for peace, all my hopes have been blasted. The only hopes that remains now is, that the South will be successful, and force the B. R.'s to come to terms. I believe that the Government of Jeff Davis is just as good as that of Lincoln! I would like very much for you to express your opinions freely in your answer, in regard to the B. R G., and also on the war, &c.

I am, your friend, &c.

"Mr. Copperhead.—I can assure you Sir, that it is not within the province of my conscience to correspond privately with you, and it is with feeling of contempt that I do so through the "Drych." What pains me the most is, that one so venemous should be found clothed in a Britton's habiliament. I hope you will forever deny yourself as belonging to that class of patriots who, for fifteen long centuries, fought for the same identical thing that we are fighting for now—that is, "Liberty." If you wish to be a slave to Jeff. Davis, please step over the line at once, and satisfy yourself of the benign influence of that institution. Now, Sir, I shall express my opinions in regard to your letter:

First, It is evident that the love of gain carries you fast on to damnation—gain is the supreme element in your heart and as free government its only a secondary affair! Don't you know, that to be without a Government is to be without a home and to be without a home is to be without anything? Alas, for the frailty of human nature! Is it possible that you have forgotten the oppression under which our nation has writhed in agony for the last four or five hundred years? Would you have them wear a still heavier yoke? Away with such damnable heresy!

Second. I think it would be but just, that our government should send you and your like to your friends in Richmond, there to enjoy the benefits of a free and peaceable government. It would be a blessing confered upon a Copperhead. Then you will be better able to judge as to the merits and demerits of the different sections. Your song would soon change from 'I wish I was in Dixie" to I wish I was out of "Dixie." I think it is your duty—and duty should always be consistent with belief—to go down south like a man, and not wait for the Government to send you, to fight the battles, instead of sneaking there in the grass of plenty. If the South will ultimately succeed, as you believe, and say it will, and if you should remain in the North, being that you are a foreigner, you could not expect any mercy from them. I suppose you are aware how they treated those of their own kin that were opposed to the breaking up of the Union. I shudder when I think of the cruelty those poor innocent and inoffensive people have suffered. Your friends the Rebs. have not a particle of humanity left, which can be proved by the following instances. When Gen. Hindman, in 1862, reigned supreme in these parts, he threw men and women into prisons—the men because they proved faithful to the old flag, and the women because their husband had taken the shortest route to our lines. In the summer of the same year, a gallows was raised before the college of St. John, and one day, they brought 18 Union men there and hung them all on the same gallows!! After this tragedy was over they brought five handsome ladies on the platform to receive the same fate; but even this crowd of God forsaken devils, could not stand that. Shame proved a barrier too strong for them; but not too strong to throw them into cold damp dungeons to die of starvations! When in Camden I was credibly informed that Gen. Price had hung a young lady, few weeks before, because she was supposed to be a spy! And I cannot believe but you have read of the cold blooded massacre that was perpetrated upon defenceless women that were on their way from Jacksonport, Ark. to Springfield, Mo. the same summer.

It may be that your children's children will be reading of this unparalleled butchery in years to come; but, Oh! how mortifying it will be to them to know that you endorsed it all, only think of it.

Third. Don't you think you act unfair and dishonest toward your Government—the Government that has protected you in person and property, and shielded you from the first day you claimed her protection until now? Has not that which you have receive been more to you than the small sum of $300? Are you aware that you have taken an oath to support and defend your adopted country in all its vissitudes and trials? Have you kept that oath?

Whatever efforts you and your friends have done or will do to save the south and its institution, it matters not. The Union must and shall be preserved, even if it takes the last cent and the last man to do so—This feeling prevades the whole army. As for "slavery" its most zelous advocates, down here, declare openly, that it is a "gone up thing;" and so it is. Its grave has been dug by Northern Dough-faces, southern chivalry are now performing the last offices, and soon we will hear the requiem anthem struck up by the army, which must be joined by the whole American people.

Lastly, In regard to the B: R. G., I will say, while it has "Union and Liberty" inscribed on its banners, long may it wave! That is not only my own sentiments, but that of the whole army, as far as my observation can ascertain. We care not who is at the head of the government, if they are only for the vigorous prosecution of the war—to giving the finishing blow to the Rebellion while we hold them by the throat, and, as Old Abe and his cabinet are working faithfully to that most desired end, we must and shall sustain them. Whether you and your friends believe it or not, the end is near, notwithstanding all copperhead saying to the contrary. There is a day not far distant, when we shall emerge from our present troubles, better, wiser, and purer people, than ever before. You can put that down for a fact. There is no "peace power" that can ever attain sufficient power to wrest our guns from our hands, untils we have fairly and emphatically quelled this must damnable of Rebellions. That is what we came here for, and what we intend to do. Beware which course you pursue.

A Greenback well Invested.—A year ago several journals united in recommending their readers to invest a Dollar "Greenback" in securing that very excellent Journal for the Household (including the Little Ones,) for the Garden, and for the Farm, called the American Agriculturist. Many persons were thus led to subscribe, and we believe all who did so have been much more than satisfied. They have received the 23d Annual Volume of the Agriculturist which is full of good things, useful, practical, and entertaining, and just now the Publisher is sending out to each of his subscribers applying, a present of a plant of one of the most remarkable Strawberries that have ever been brought out. These plants, when sold by the only other person having them, go readily at 75 cents each. So the Greenback invested last year has certainly paid well. All we have now to say is, let all others go and do likewise. Notwithstanding the present advance in cost, the Publisher still offers to take subscribers this month (September) at $1 a year, or from now to the end of 1865 [fifteen months] for $1,15 And still further, he offers one of the remarkable Strawberry Plants, sent free and post-paid, to every new subscriber who encloses 5 cents extra for oil cloth, packing, and postage on the plant. Our advice to all is; send the dollar [or the $1,15.] and the extra 5 cents at once to Orange Judd, Publisher of the Agriculturist, AT 41 Park Row, New York City, and get the paper, etc. You will get a most beautiful, well illustrated, practical paper, and the cheapest one in the counry, to say nothing of the extra Strawberry Plant, etc. TRY IT.

"I'm a McClellan Man!"

In one of our public houses last evening when the announcement was made that Atlanta had been captured, the statement was discredited by an earnest individual, who pulled out his green backs and offered to bet ten dollars that it was not true. He was assured that the information was official. 'Dont care,' he exclaimed, 'I'm a McClellan man, and I'll bet ten dollars Atlanta isn't captured. Yes I'll bet ten to five it isn't captured. His companion also declared himself a McClellan man, and he offered to bet five or ten dollars Atlanta wouldn'n be captured for a month. Their bets were taken, but those present could hardly comprehend how a 'McClellan man' should be so incredulous respecting the capture of Atlanta, except on the presumption that he sympathized strongly with the rebels—Washington Repub. lican.

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County.

The Eleventh Regiment has been ordered to join Sherman's army, and left St. Paul on Thursday last on its way thither.

TAKEN OUT A LICENSE.—Harrison Conklin, of Garden City, has taken out a license as an M. D., and started yesterday for the Eastern States on a traveling tour, and will be absent about a year. We wish him success.

BACK AGAIN.—Dr. W. W. Clark, Assistant Surgeon of the 10th Regiment, returned home last week on a brief visit. He was warmly welcomed, and his many friends were glad to see him once more.

YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.—In another column will be found a notice of a young Ladies' Seminary, soon to be established by Rev. Jas. Thomson. Mr. Thomson is well known as a gentleman of learning and experience, and his school will rank among the first.

MISS GILLETT'S school will commence next Monday, and we advise our citizens not to forget or neglect to place their children under the care of Miss G. She is a very competent and excellent teacher and merits success.

PERSONAL.—Lieut. Howard, of Co. E. 2nd Cavalry, was in town on Tuesday last, looking as healthy as a bear, and twice as lovely. He has promised us a bear skin if we will make him a visit. Thank you John, we'll be sure to come, if the skin will not be too bare.

SCHOOL MEETING.—There will be a special meeting of the legal voters of school district No. 1, at the school house on Thursday evening next to vote for or against a tax to pay the interest on the "school house bonds." A full attendance is desired.

UNION CLUB.—There will be a meeting of the Union men of Mankato, at the City Hall, next Tuesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a Union Club. The meeting will be interesting, and a full attendance is requested.

S. S. CELEBRATION.—We are informed that the celebration at Loon Lake last Wednesday was well attended. The various schools were well represented, good speeches and music were listened to, and an excellent pic nic dinner provided. The children enjoyed themselves finely, and will not soon forget the occasion. Will some one send us a report?

Yankee Robinson's Big Show exhibited here last Tuesday afternoon and evening, and gave general satisfaction. Between six and seven hundred people visited the show. Some parts of the performance was very interesting and worth seeing, others the same that we saw over ten years ago. Still the Yankee draws large crowds wherever he goes.

THE AMBLER CLAIMS.—Our old friend Capt. T. M. Newson, called on us last week. He is here on business relating to what are known as the "Ambler Claims," and desires any of those having these claims to send them to him at St. Paul, care of Gen. Sibley.

IMPHEE SYRUP.—A. J. Crisp, will accept our thanks for a quantity of golden syrup made from imphee cane, of this year's crop. It has a very pleasant flavor, and is as good as sugar for cooking.

NEGLIGENCE.—The manner in which the cannon and ammunition at the armory are taken care of betokens culpable negligence on the part of some one. We have endeavored to ascertain who is responsible for its safe keeping, but have failed. The doors of the armory are open both day and night, and any one who wishes can have free access to the 200 rounds of shot and shell stowed away inside. It is very careless business to leave it thus exposed, and we would be served no more than right if an Inspector would happen along one of these days and order both guns and ammunition removed.

The Faribault County Fair comes off to-day and to-morrow at Winnebago. We learn that the Copperheads intend to have a pole raising, and speeches, during the Fair, and that the Union men have made preperations to have a rousing meeting to off-set the Cops. Horace Austin, of St. Peter, H. G. Orton, of this place, and other speakers will be present. Turn out, friends and rattle the snake to death.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—A Teachers' Institute will be held in Garden City commencing on the 25th of October. A full attendance of teachers and the friends of education is earnestly solicited. The exercises will consist of class exercises in the various branches taught in our public schools, discussions, addresses, etc.

On Tuesday evening Rev. James Thomson will deliver an address on "Education in its Relations to Agriculture." On Wednesday evening an address by E. D. B. Porter on the "Qualifications of Teachers." Thursday evening an address by Rev. J. G. Craven.

Sept. 22, 1864.
DAVID WILCOX,
Co. Superintendent.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Heagele, of South Bend, accidentally shot his right hand last Tuesday. He was out hunting and was carrying his gun in a horizontal position, with his right hand covering the muzzle, when it was accidentally discharged, the contents entering his right hand. Dr. Zenopo'ski was the attending physician, and amputated the third finger. Mr. H. is now doing well.

A LARGE YIELD.—D. D. Evans, of South Bend, finished threshing his wheat last week, and got the largest yield per acre of any we have heard of this year. His fife wheat yielded over forty bushels to the acre by measurement. We call that pretty good for a season that was expected to nett but little more than short straw.

NOTICE.—The Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society will meet at the residence of Mr. Parsons to-morrow afternoon (Saturday.) The school house, the usual place of meeting, will be occupied on that day. All feeling interested are invited to be present.

No Manufacturers have improved the national taste for organ music more than Messrs S. D. & H. W. Smith The American Organs are perfection and they are built under skillful directions and in a style of elegance unsurpassed. They have the patent tremolo and forte stop, and all modern improvements. Finished in Rosewood, Black Walnut and Oak, at prices from $80 to $450.

W. W. Kimball, 142 Lake street, Chicago, Whole-sale Depot for the North west.

ASTHMA OR PHTHISIC.—A spasmodic affection of the Bronchial Tubes, which are covered with a dry, tenacious phlegm—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" will in some cases give immediate relief.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES clear and give strength to the voice of SINGERS, and are indispensable to PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

"I have never changed my mind respecting them from the first, excepting to think yet better of that which I began thinking well of."

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Joint Resolution to grant additional rooms to the Agricultural Department.

Whereas the space assigned to the Department of Agriculture in the Patent Office building, included between the central crypt and the west wing in the first story on the south front, is entirely inadequate to the necessities of the Department, two of the rooms within these limits being used as a furnace-rooms for the Patent Office, one as a chemical laboratory, and another having recently been taken for the use of the Land Office, leaving but five, with one small store room, for the business of the Department: and whereas additional rooms are indispensible necessary for the convenience of the commissioner, for the accommodation of clerks engaged in the collection and compliation of statistics, and in other official duties; for the better accommodation of the operations of the chemist in making agricultural tests, analyses, and experiments, and for the arrangement and exhibition of pomological, entomological, and agricultural specimens, models, and paintings: Therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, in addition to the rooms now occupied by the Department of Agricultural, there shall be, and hereby is, assigned to the said Department the suite of rooms upon the first floor included between the southwest corner and the western entrance of the Patent Office building.

Valuable Lands for Sale.

BY DIRECTION OF THE HONORABLE Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands in Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City D. C., and endorsed "Bid for Winnebago Tract Land."

As heretofore many persons have bid upon these lands and after the awards have been made to them have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which, in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful didder.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of billious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

THE NATION'S PRAYER.

The following hymn for Fast Day was written by a young lady of the 27th St. (N. Y.) Methodist Church, (Rev. Mr. Seamen's)

Father to thy throne ascending,
List the Nation's prayer to thee ;
With their hearts and voices blending,
God—Grant—Victory!

We have suffered O, our Father,
In the great cause, liberty ;
Now we come to thee for succor—
God—Grant—Victory !

Vacant chairs are in our households,
Vacant hearts each day we see,
That in anguish of whisper—
God—Grant—Victory !

Father, never let base traitors,
In this land of brave and free,
Rule o'er those whose hearts are saying—
God—Grant—Victory !

Thus to Thee our prayer is rising—
Thus we humbly come to Thee,
Asking Thee in broken accents—
God—Grant—Victory !

But if you would'st longer chasten,
We'll submit our all to Thee,
Knowing that in his good pleasure,
God will Grant us Victory!

Then, when this dread strife is over,
And the day of Peace we see,
We shall keep our country's watchword—
God and Grant and Victory!

Select Miscellany.

Judge Mills Visits the President—Mr. Lincoln's Views of the Democratic Policy.

The Grant County Herald contains a very interesting letter from Hon. J. T. Mills, Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, giving an account of a recent interview with Mr. Lincoln, with a report of the remarks of the latter in regard to the consequence which would follow the adoption of the war policy urged by the friends of Gen. McClellan.

Judge Mills was accompanied by ex-Governor Randall, of this State, who introduced him to the President, and whom he warmly thanks for his readiness to serve his friends from Wisconsin at the capital. They found the President at the Soldiers' Retreat, 'a building not imposing in size, half hidden in foliage, the grounds tastefully laid out.'

The following is Judge Mills' account of his interview with the President, what he said, and his impression of Mr. Lincoln :

"The Governor asked of a man in waiting if the President had arrived, 'Yes,' was the reply. We entered a neat plainly furnished room. A marble table was in the centre. Directly appeared from an adjoining apartment, a tall, gaunt looking figure, shoulders inclined forward, his gait astride, rapid and shuffling, ample understandings with large slippers, and Briarian arms, with a face radiant with intelligence and humor.

The Governor addressed him: 'Mr. President, this is my friend and your friend, Mills, from Wisconsin.'

'I am glad to see my friends from Wisconsin; they are the hearty friend of the Union.'

'I could not leave the city; Mr President, without hearing words of cheer from your own lips. Upon you, as the representative of the loyal people, depend, as we believe, the existence of our government and the future of America.' This introduced political topics.

'Mr. President,' said Governor Randall, 'why can't you seek seclusion, and play hermit for a fortnight? it would reinvigorate you.'

'Aye,' said the President, 'two or three weeks would do me no good, I cannot fly from my thoughts—my solicitude for this great country follows me wherever I go. I don't think it is personal vanity or ambition, though I am not free from these infirmities, but I cannot but feel that the weal or woe of this great nation will be decided in November. There is no programme offered by any wing of the democratic party but that must result in the permanent destruction of the Union.'

'But, Mr. President, General McClellan is in favor of crushing out the rebellion by force. He will be the Chicago candidate.'

'Sir,' said the President, 'the slightest knowledge of Arithmetic will prove to any man that the rebel armies cannot be destroyed with democratic strategy. It would sacrifice all the white men of the north to do it. There are now in the service of the United States near 200,000 able bodied colored men, most of them under arms, defending and acquiring Union territory. The democratic strategy demands that these forces be disbanded, and that the masters be conciliated by restoring them to slavery. The black men who now assist Union prisoners to escape, they are to be converted into our enemies in the vain hope of gaining the good will of their masters. We shall have to fight two nations instead of one.

You cannot conciliate the South if you guarantee to them ultimate success ; and the experience of the present war proves their success is inevitable if you fling the compulsory labor of black men into their side of the scale. Will you give our enemies such military advantages as ensure success, and then depend on coaxing, flattery and concession to get them back into the Union? Abandon all the posts now garrisoned by black men ; take 200,000 men from our side and put them in the battle field, or corn field against us, and we would be compelled to abandon the war in three weeks.

We have to hold territory in inclement and sickly places ; where are the democrats to do this? It was a free fight, and the field was open to the war democrats to put down this rebellion by fighting against both master and slave, long before the present policy was inaugurated.

There have been men base enough to propose to me to return to slavery the black warriors of Port Hudson and Olustee, and thus win the respect of the masters they fought. Should I do so, I should deserve to be damned in time and eternity. Come what will, I will keep my faith with friend and foe. My enemies pretend I am now carrying on this war for the sole purpose of abolition. So long as I am President, it shall be carried on for the sole purpose of restoring the Union. But no human power can subdue this rebellion without the use of the emancipation policy, and every other policy calculated to weaken the moral and physical forces of the rebellion.

Freedom has given us 200,000 men raised on southern soil. It will give us more yet. Just so much it has substracted from the enemy, and instead of alienating the South, there are now evidences of a fraternal feeling growing up between our men and the rank and file of the rebel soldiers. Let my enemies prove to the country that the destruction of slavery is not necessary to a restoration of the Union.—I will abide the issue,'

I saw that the President was not a mere joker, but a man of deep convictions, of abiding faith in justice, truth and Providence. His voice was pleasant, his manner earnest and emphatic. As he warmed with his theme his mind grew to the magnitude of his body. I felt I was in the presence of the great guiding intellect of his age, and that those 'huge Atlantean shoulders were fit to bear the weight of mightiest monarchies.' His transparent honesty, republican simplicity, his gushing sympathy for those who offered their lives for their country, his utter forgetfulness of self in his concern for its welfare, could not but inspire me with confidence that he was Heaven's instrument to conduct His people through this sea of blood to a Canaan of peace and freedom

J. T. MILLS.

The Difficulties the North has had to Encounter.

It is a common fallacy in estimating the amount of force the Government could bring to bear on the revolted States to state it merely in the ratio of the population of the two sections—twenty millions in the loyal States, against eight in the revolting States. But it is proper to considered that the rebels had within themselves a slave population of over four millions, and that this population was able to carry on all their simple industries, while it required more than double that number to carry on the much more complicated industries of Northern civilization. It is thus apparent that the whole fighting population of the South was available for service in the field, while nearly half of our population was necessarily neutralized in the way just mentioned. It is not wonderful, therefore, that the rebel leaders were able to put into the field, at the very start, armies nearly equal to our own, though our own levies were unparalleled in history.

To this must be added the astonishing ascendency which a small minority of leading men had required over the Southern population, and by which, when they had once usurped power, they were able to wield ad absolutely despotic control over all the resources of men and material in the South. These men, in fact, had long been preparing for this war, as many of them publicly confessed after the inauguration of the rebellion, "We have," said Mr. Barnwell Rhett, in a speech in the convention which took South Carolina out of the Union, "we have been engaged in this war for more than thirty years. It is no consequence of Lincoln's election of the failure to execute the fugitive slave law, but we have been engaged in this war for more than thirty years." To enhance the difficulty of the task imposed on the Administration, the theory of the war into which it was driven by the very nature of the contest, was that of the offensive. Now military history is replete with illustrations of the enormous advantage which a people has when able to stand at bay (covering its own communictions holding interior lines,) and await in chosen positions the attacks of the enemy.

The career of Frederick the Great affords an eminent example of a small nation, never able to raise an army of over a hundred thousand men, conducting a defensive war, with offensive returns, and successfully resisting for seven years the attempts of a coalition of five of the the leading powers of Europe. But offensive operations against a people holding such defensive attitude becomes tenfold more difficult when the war becomes what is called a "national war," the nature of which is thus depicted by the greatest modern writer on the theory of war, Gen. Jomini.

"The difficulties in the path of an army are very great, and render the mission of the General conducting them very ardnous. The invader has only an army ; his adversaries have an army and a people wholly or almost wholly in arms, and making means of resistance out of everything. Each individual conspires against the common enemy—even the non-combatants have an interest in his ruin, and accelerate it by every means in their power. Each armed inhabitant knows the smallest paths and connections—he finds everywhere a relative or friend who aids him ; the commanders also know the country, and learning immediately the slightest movement on the part of the invader, can adopt the best measures to defeat his projects.'

These embarrassments, enormously increased by the prodigious extent of the theatre of war, the topography of which is all against the offensive and in favor of the defensive [as witness the immense depth the lines of communications in any great aggressive movements, the impossibility of supplying our armies from the country as is done in Europe, etc.,] entered into the portentous problem which the Administration had to solve ; and yet in the face of this accumulation of difficulties, forming a task, the gravest that ever met an Executive, the war has been pushed successfully through to the splendid results we witness—the armies of the rebellion have been driven from the vast extent of territory the rebels claimed, till now the one is shut up in the States bordering on the Gulf, and the other is besieged without hope of escape in Richmond.

Pendleton and Seymour.

We present a few extracts elsewhere from the Congressional speeches of Geo. H. Pendleton, the Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States. Mr. Pendleton has the merit of being one of the most straightforward speakers in the United States. Believing that the war ought never to have been begun, he said so frankly before the first shot was fired, and adhering to the same opinions, he has reiterated them boldly and unequivocally ever since. He thinks that immediate peace and separation is the cure-all for our national difficulties, and he says so without circumlocution. No disciple of John C. Calhoun was ever more thoroughly wedded to the doctrine of 'State Rights,' as it is understood in South Carolina, than Mr. Pendleton, and no one has avowed it more broadly. If Mr. Pendleton were a candidate for Vice President of the Southern Confederacy, he would get more votes than Stephens, Toombs, Cobb, or Wigfall and if Jeff. Davis should die he could fill his chair, so far as political qualifications go, without a dissenting voice in all rebeldom. We commend Mr. Pendleton for his frankness and we commend those who nominated him for theirs.

There is one feature of Mr. Pendleton's record that will perhaps astonish his best friends outside of Dixie.

He holds that the people of the United States cannot amend their Constitution so as to abolish slavery. He says that it is not in the power of all the States save one to abolish slavery in that one State against its will. In other words, he holds that it is unconstitutional to amend the Constitution in the way prescribed in the Constitution. Patrick Henry thought differently, and he urged Virginia not to ratify the Constitution, for the very reason that three fourths of the States might at some future time, abolish slavery in Virginia against her will ; and Virginia ratified the Constitution with the distinct understanding that it contained the power to abolish slavery whenever a constitutional majority should deem it proper to do so.

It is needless to follow Mr. Pendleton's record farther. When a man says that be was in favor of peace, even with Disunion, before the war began, that he is in favor of the same now, that he belongs to the Calhoun school of politicians, and that the people of the United States cannot amend their own Constitution so as to interfere with slavery—he has said enough to show all intelligent voters which side he stands on.

Horatio Seymour is nominated again the Governor of New York.

He was nominated two years ago, and was for once elected. Those who have memories two years long, will remember by what means he succeeded. 'He was for a more vigorous prosecution of the war!' He was for putting it through by daylight. The contest had dragged for a year and a half, when it ought to have been done, finished and concluded in nine months. Does anybody remember who had been commander-in-chief for a good part of that time? Was

And we know with what result.

As soon as elected, he set himself to hinder the war by all the diabolical ingenuity of which he was capable, while he would seem to be for it.

Where his predecessor got a hundred regiments into the field, Seymour sent six. His address to the rioters in New York city, in July, will live in history as long as the feats of Benedict Arnold. To follow him through all his miserable windings, wiring in it not one George B. McClellan? But no matter for that; Seymour got elected ; for the people were discouraged, dissatisfied and impatient. And if Seymour, as Governor of the Empire State, could have influence to hurry up the war, put more men into the field, appoint them with more enterprising generals, and who had more heart for the contest, and so concluded the strife, why then it were better to try him. And they did try him. and wiring out, would be like illustrating the track of a salt water eel in Hoboken road. His influence has been felt through the nation. It has been a sort of malaria, poisoning the air and acting upon the lungs everywhere in which copperheadism had seeds planted. He got McClellan nominated for President. With August Belmont behind him with a bag of money, took the Chicago Convention into his hands, and shaped its action. He is the grand opifex and manipulator of this Presidential campaign on its copperhead side.

He now comes before the people of New York for a re-election. There are some diseases which people have only once ; and we rather think—at least we hope—Horatio Seymour to be one of them. Most of the diseases of this class are pretty mean ones—scarlet fever and small-pox for instance ; and it would naturally be supposed that if one occurrance of either of these could defend the human system against its own return, Horatio Seymour might prove a prophylactic as against himself. Still, all of the mean diseases are not of this kind.

The seven year' itch may, for aught we know, continue twenty ; and if the people of New York wish to do two years' more of scratching, they have the opportunity ; and if they are dunces enough to try it, we should not object, except that such patients are not pleasant neighbors.
—Chicago Tribune.

The Democratic Platform.

The shrewdest heads in the Democratic party have combined to produce a platform that would satify those who would prolong the war if thereby alone the Union can be saved and those who are in favor of peace at any sacrifice of the national honor and of the national domain. The prevailing sentiment of the Convention and of the most of the outside attendants was unmistakably for peace at any price. The hero of the convention was Vallandigham, who has consistently and bitterly opposed the war from the outset. Its action, except so far as the nomination of McClellan was concerned, was dictated by him and by men of like sentiments. Under a thin guise of Unionism there is embodied in the platform everything that the most strenuous peace man or rebel could desire.

It has no word of condemnation for rebellion, but justifies it by imputations on the action of the Administration. It proposes an armistice for the avowed purpose of bringing about a convention of the States to reconstruct the Union, but contains no pledge to prosecute the war, in the event that the rebel authorities refuse to consider propositions of peace. That the rebel Government will thus refuse is as well known as anything can be known of its disposition and purposes. The Secretary of State, Mr. Benjamin, in a recently published letter, has furnished convincing evidence of this fact. He reaffirms the doctrine of Southern independence asserted by the rebel Congress in June last, and declares that the separation of the States is already 'an accomplished fact,' that only on the basis of independence, can or will the rebel President receive proposals for a negotiation.

Knowing, as the members of the Chicago convention must have known, that Jeff. Davis will adhere to this policy, and that negotiations will be of no avail, they make no pledges of continuing the war under any circumstances, or with any policy. Yet they have placed on this unequivocal and cowardly peace platform, a candidate who used the following language in a public address, no longer ago than June last. Said Gen. McClellan at West Point :

'To efface the insult offered to our flag, to secure ourselves from the fate of the divided republics of Italy and South America, to preserve our government from destruction, to enforce its just power and laws, to maintain our very existence as a nation, these were the causes which impelled us to draw the sword. Rebellion against a government like ours, which contains the means of self adjustment, and a pacific remedy for evils, should never be confounded with a revolution against despotic power which refuses redress of wrongs. Such a rebellion cannot be justified upon ethical grounds, and the only alternatives for our choice are its suppression or the destruction of our nationality. At such a time as this, and in such a struggle, political partnership should be merged into a true and brave patriotism which thinks only of the whole. It was in this cause and with these motives that so many of our comrades have given their lives, and to this we are all personally pledged in all honor and fidelity. Shall such devotion as that of our comrades be of no avail? Shall it be said in after ages that we lacked the vigor to complete the work begun? That after all these noble lives freely given we hesitated and failed to keep straight on until our land was saved? Forbid it. Heaven, and give us firmer, truer hearts than that?'

Will any democrat have the hardihood to attempt to reconcile the language and spirit of the platform with that of the candidate?

The third resolution, with regard to military interfeence with elections in the border States, contains a charge that is easily susceptible of refutation. No democrats have been prevented from voting or being voted for, who were not either known traitors or who were not unwilling to avow their loyalty in terms that could be repugnant to no really loyal man.

The fourth resolution, in regard to arbitary arrests and the suppression of freedom of speech and of the press, condemns the action of no man so severely as that of George B. McClellan, who arrested a whole Legislature while commander of our armies, and while he had his own way more completely than at any other period of his career.

The charge in the fifth resolution, that the Administration has exhibited a 'shameful disregard' in respect to Union prisoners of war, is simply false. The only neglect that the Government has been guilty of has been in regard to our colored soldiers and it is not for the democracy to find fault with this.

At the tail of the platform comes a mild and insincere asowal of 'sympathy' for our soldiers. Our brave fellows in the field well know what sort of 'sympaty' they can expect from the Democracy of to-day, and will spurn it with mingled indignation and contempt. The soldiers know that when Democaatic votes could prevent it, they have been denied the freeman's dearest right—that of suffrage. They know that Democrats alone have refused to vote money for their support, and that of the war. They know that in localities that are thoroughly 'Democratic' a blue coat is a sure invitation to insult, if not injury. They know that every rebel sympathizer in the North will support the 'Democratic' ticket, and that the leaders of the party are in constant intercourse and sympathy with the leaders of the rebellion.

The platform, as a whole and in all its parts, is a weak, wishy-washy, and hypocritical document. It proposes no policy, and offers no pledges of an improvement in the civil or military administration of the government, in case of a Democratic success. It pretends to be a Union platform, but really pledges nothing save peace—and the people well know that peace means disunion, now and forever. With such a platform, and such a candidate as McClellan, the true Unionists of the country need not fear for the issue of the present campaign.—Chicago Tribune.

Monster Fruit Can.—The Cleveland Herald has the following account of a novel structure now going up in that city :

'The building is eighty feet by thirty-four and a half, the side walls being twenty-two feet high. The front of the building occupying about one-fourth of the whole size, is to be used as a store or ordinary warehouse, and will be constructed in the usual manner. The remainder of the building is to be walled entirely with iron, perfectly tight, and divided from the front part by similar walls. Within this enclosure is built another building, also of iron, with its walls about three feet distant from the walls of the outer building.—The inner building is divided by iron walls into several smaller rooms, each of them being perfectly gas proof. The ground beneath the building was first packed with wet earth, the beams laid in coal tar, and the surface of the earth will be covered with coal tar.

The space between the ground and the flooring will then be packed tight with sawdust as will be the space between the outer and inner walls, and the hollow space in the iron-lined doors. Overhead will be packed tightly with ice, which will be congealed by a peculiar process into a solid mass of hard ice, 7 feet thick. When all is completed, the small room will be filled with fresh fruits, such as apples grapes, &c., the oxygen of the atmosphere withdrawn by chemical process ; and the room hermetically sealed. The vivifying elements being withdrawn, and the temperature kept down by the peculiar process to about thirty-six degrees the fruit remains perfectly fresh, until the season for fresh fruit having passed away, a high market is open for them, when the chambers are opened as wanted, and the fruit taken out as fresh as when gathered.'

A Narrow Escape—Embalming a Live Man.—Another miraculous escape from the horrors of accidentally being buried alive has just taken place in this city. A person by the name of Martin was supposed to have died from disease of the heart, and to every outward appearance was dead. The attending physician had given his certificate of burial, certifying to the cause of death, and the supposed corpse had been prepared, shrouded in the habiliments of death, and encoffined. Near and dear ones had shed tears over the loss of one whom they supposed dead, and whose body they had carefully prepared for the silent precincts of the tomb, when the fortunate thought suggested itself that the body should be embalmed. The necessary steps were taken, the coffin carefully closed up, and the body sent to an embalming establishment adjoining Bell's Union Stables, on Carondelet street. Here the process of embalming was in due time entered upon. It appears that the process which preserves the body from immediate decomposition the preserving quality is infused into the system by means of an incision into the main artery of the arm.—The incision is made with a lancet in the same manner as in the case of blood-letting. The embalmer had commenced his work by making the necessary incision, and to his surprise he discovered blood feebly oozing from the vein. He knew there must be life where blood would flow and desisted from his work of embalming. In a few moments more there was a slight motion of the body and presently the man in the coffin made an effort to raise himself, and with assistance did raise up and speak. Gentle restoratives were administered, and he was soon able to know how it was that he found himself in a coffin clothed in a shroud? The matter was soon explained to him, his friends, to their joy were advised of what had taken place, and he was sent to the hospital instead of the grave, where he is now in a fair way of recovering. This is, indeed, a miraculous escape from the clutches of death.—New Orleans Era.

Gen. Grant on Slavery.—Senator Wilkinson's quotation of Gen. Grant's views on slavery having been questioned, the following is given as the precise words used by Gen. Grant in a letter to Hon. E. B. Washburne, dated August 13th, 1864 :

The people of the North need not quarrel over the institution of slavery. What Vice President Stevens, acknowledges as the corner stone of the confederacy is already knocked out. Slavery is already dead, and could not be resurrected. It would take a standing army to maintain slavery in the South, if we were to make peace to-day guaranteeing to the South, all their constitutional privileges. I never was an abolitionest, not even what would be called anti-slavery, but I try to judge fairly and honestly, and it became patent to my mind early in the rebellion that North and South never could live at peace with each other except as one nation, and that without slavery. As anxious as I am to see peace established, I would not therefore, be willing to see any settlement until this question is forever settled.

Let every loyal man remember that the democratic party, by outright rebellion of half its members, and the 'aid and comfort' given thereto by most of the residue, has brought the country to the brink of ruin. Of the fifteen States which gave the democrats a popular majority in the last presidential election, 11 proceeded to plunge headlong into the gulf of rebellion with the hearty concurrence of a majority of the democrats in two or three others. Of the fifteen democratic governors in office at the opening of 1861, 11 became outright leading traitors, while the others have fallen in their footsteps as nearly as they dare. And yet the democratic presses and orators never fail to denounce this as an 'abolition war.'—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

A Reporting Machine.—A novel and curious instrument has been invented by Mr. Bryois. It is for the purpose of taking short hand notes with more than the usual rapidity. It consists of a series of levers worked by keys like a piano, and acting on a set of types which impress themselves on a strip of paper that is gradually unrolled. Working only one finger, an ordinary reporter can work as quickly as the best short-hand reporter, but by using the two hands the rapidity is increased immensely.

Resignation of Montgomery Blair.

Montgomery Blair, in a letter to an afternoon paper, says: "My offer to resign was not made because the principles adopted at Baltimore were objectionable to me; but, on the contrary, it was made in good faith, to allay animosity among the friends of these principles, and in order to secure their triumph."

Mr. Blair will, by request of the President, continue in office until his successor is qualified.

Nothing has yet been heard from Gov. Dennison, who is canvassing in Ohio at a point where there is no telegraphic communication. No doubt is entertained that he will accept the office.

TAKE CARE OF HIM.—We would remind the Democratic candidate for Judge that his friend Green, of the Statesman needs his special care, as he has been violating his contract "not to publish anything prejudicial to the interests of Mr. Austin," as Mr. B. voluntarily pledged that paper to do in case the Tribune and the Union should spare him. But as Green is classed with "Brick Pomeroy," we suppose they consider him too great a villain to be noticed.

Gold has gone down to 1,75. A few more victories and it will come down to 110.

Many of the Democratic newspapers speak of the Union soldiers being "Lincoln's hirelings" Is this not a reflection upon Gen. McClellan, who draws the salary of a Major General?

It will be time for the Copperheads to speak of "Lincoln hirelings" when they no longer have a 'hireling' candidate for the President.

All in favor of an obsequious knuckling to Jeff. Davis will vote for McClellan; all in favor of "fighting it out on this line, if it takes all summer," will vote for Abraham Lincoln. Hurrah for Old Abe, liberty and pluck!

THE CANDIDATE OF THE REBELS.—Says the Richmond Examiner of the 7th inst: "Every defeat of Lincoln's ..., even holding them steadily at ... insures to the advantage of McClellan, or rather to that of the dexterous manipulators in whose hands he is a puppet, and accumulates for them much desired political capital." Whereupon it adds, with perfect ... "the influence of the South, ... powerful in the shock of battles ... when throwing our minority vote in an electoral college, will be cast in favor of McClellan."

A LETTER TO FRIEND WISE.

Deer friend wise—you don't no what a fluttering ther is Just now among the Linkin birds up in this eend of the Valley i tell you it made em stare and open ther eys when tha saw our platform, and nood that we have brot out our little war Hoss and put him on the track for the white house, and mr pendleton by the side ove him—a young man ove very fine karsctor, only we don't no mutch about him. yu don't what fites i have up here with the Linkin fellers —tha pitch into me 2 or 3 at a time, and tha are always worse when the Rebs gets licked; tha sa i don't want the South whiped, and tha call me a pece demecrat and Coperhead, and a haf tory and all sutch names—but the wa i give it back to em is a site, i ask em do yu want this Linkin war, to last always?—do yu want ever body kild and this land filled with blood and tears and widers? and then we will have to make pece with them at last for we can't lick em. We have fit em 3 years and haint got Richmon yet, and we had gist as well give it up—then tha call me a a coperhed and sa i ought to go to dixie,—yu cent resin with em—tha will have ther own wa and i call em aberlishenist and then tha get ther backs up and sa who begun this war, and tha laf over it—Old buck—he let em steel the muskets and the big guns and the money, and grab the Forts and send the ships away and let em get solgers redy, and let em make a kongress and put Jef in for president, and tha swore that tha wood fite if the North didnt let em a lone, and all this before Linkin left illynois. And ther is 2 or 3 fellers up here that call themselves dimecrats and one ove em has been to war and he sez that he is a war dimecrat and not ove your Val or wood kind, he sez if tha had me in the arme about a year that i wood be converted, and that there wood not be a bit ove coper left on me when i got back he sez that he nood that we'd bring out little mac, and have a pece platform and sez that we will be beet, and that the Rebs are about gin out, and that grant will fix em before snow flies—then if yu could gist se em look at ech other and laf, and rub ther hands, and say that man is all rite—he belongs to the butter and andy Johnson democracy—he sez all the dimecrats are leaving us, only the coperheads, and begs me to leave em, he sez the party is ded as soon as the war ends and tha have got me a little crased. So i was determined to rite to you and i forgot to tell yu that tha sa father Bradley has flew the track and wont go the platform, and has got his dander up, and vilated the command that sez you shal not sware, an i went down to our wigwam to get em to take down the flag —how tha do blow it up here; but one more item and i will close my letter and that is your able editorial on the platform, it was short but to the pint—how plane yu made it—yu have a wonderful nac ove saying a great many things in a few words—a feller dont have to crack 3 or 4 nuts to get one kernel—yu dont do like some riters begin in the mist and come out in the fog, but like an ingenus workman you first took it to peces and showed us all the wheels and parts and then yu put it all back and showed us that tha fit, and that it would run and keep in order north or south and that no loial man need be afered ove it.

What Daniel Webster did Say.

As the Copperhead calumny on Webster's sentiments has been exposed and exploded, it may be well to recall what Daniel Webster did say in his speech at Buffalo, May 22, 1851, one of the last speeches he ever made:

If the South want any concession from me, they won't get it—not a hair's breadth of it. * * * I never would consent that there should be one foot or slave territory beyond what the old thirteen States had at the time of the formation of the Union.

Never, never! The man can't show his face to me, and prove that I ever departed from that doctrine. He would sneak away, or slink away, or hire a mercenary Heep, that he might say what an apostate from liberty Daniel Webster has become. He knows himself to be a hypocrite and falsifier.

The American Organ has produced an immense sensation in the musical world since its appearance. It is calculated by S. D. & H. W. Smith, that it will become universally popular. It is quite a distinct organ from other productions and contains from one to twelve stops, with a volume of tone not hitherto reached. The price of which is from $80 to $450. W. W. Norwegian Republican Meeting.

We copy below a series of resolutions passed by the Norwegian citizens of Chicago at a recent meeting of their club. They are strong Union resolutions in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war, and the election of Lincoln and Johnson. We have a large number of Norwegian settlers in this State, and we have yet to learn of one who has proved a traitor to the country of his adoption:

Resolved, That we believe in the maintenance of the Union—the whole Union—and that, believing thus, we pledge ourselves to labor for its perpetuity by all honorable and lawful means in our power.

Resolved, That we believe the Norwegians in this country to be loyal to the Government, and we will cordially unite with them, and with our other fellow-citizens, in the support of Lincoln and Johnson, on the Baltimore platform.

Resolved, That being thankful for the blessings and privileges we have enjoyed since we made this country our home, we appeal to all lovers of the Union and to the friends of freedom everywhere, but more especially to our own countrymen, of whom over 200,000 are scattered over the North-west, as you love the country of our adoption, as you prize its noble institutions, to rally around its flag, and come up unitedly to the support of the Government in its glorious struggle to put down the aristocratic slaveholders' rebellion.

Resolved, That by united and energetic action in the campaign the nation will be saved, and will come out of the struggle regenerated, more powerful, and every way better adapted to fulfill its glorious destiny among the nations of the earth.

Resolved, That in the rebellion of the slaveholders against the lawfully constituted authorities of the country, backed by the monied aristocracy of Europe, we see a renewal of the old struggle between capital and labor; and therefore we call upon all who believe in human rights above and beyond mere capital, to unite in the support of our liberties against this golden calf, by whomsoever set up.

In the language of the Hebrews of old, we declare to all such would be rulers: "We will not serve your gods, nor worship the golden image thou hast set up."

Resolved, That in the avowed sympathy for the rebels, by the aristocratic classes of Europe, we see manifested the same spirit which, true to its natural interest, crushes the smaller nations, and enthralls the white laborers of the Old World, and demands the right, in the name of Almighty God, to enslave the African race here; but that in the sympathy for the loyal North, and for the cause for which it is pouring out its treasures and its blood like water, by the friends of freedom on both sides of the Atlantic, we see the dawn of that better day, when the downtrodden and oppressed of all lands shall be made free.

Resolved, That whilst we mourn the loss of the many fallen in our gallant armies, amongst whom are many of our friends and countrymen, we will unite our grateful thanks with those of all loyal hearts, to Almighty God, for the victories for the cause of the Union lately won by its gallant defenders, and that to Generals Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Rear Admiral Farragut, is due the sincere acknowledgments of the Nation, and if these heroes and patriots are properly sustained, we believe the Nations struggle will speedily terminate in the complete overthrow of this wicked rebellion, and then, not until then, shall we have a glorious and lasting peace.

Memorial to the Governor.

The following memorial has been extensively circulated and signed by citizens in the valley, many of whom have been sufferers from the late Indian raids and who are deeply in earnest in petitioning the Governor for better protection. The petition is signed by over one thousand citizens.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY STEPHEN MILLER
GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA.

We, the people of Blue Earth and adjoining Counties, as frontier settlers, would, in the following address, setforth our grievances. Whereas, a state of hostility exists between the Indians and whites, we on the frontier, who are directly exposed to the red man's tomahawk, and savage masacre, have a right to expect ample protection from the government. But this we have not had.

From Ft. Ridgley to the Iowa line a distance of some 75 miles there were, all this summer, but a very small number of soldiers kept and those under very poor command. Although it was known that the savages were roaming all over the prairies: Now to suppose that this inadequate force offered us protection it simply ridiculous. As a consequence the Indians have made several bold raids quite into the settlement, killed some of our best citizens, striped four or five houses of their contents took a number of horses, and in the most insolent manner made their way back again to their comrades to report their good luck, and no doubt encourage a repitition of the same thing, if not much worse.

The result is the people are much alarmed and discouraged. Seeing that the Government, instead of keeping a sufficient number of soldiers constantly on the border for ample protection, it has drawn away most of them, and sent them west, on that almost useless errand, known as the Indian expedition.

For two years has this state of alarm and danger more or less existed. And we begin to feel that we cannot endure it much longer. Especially when we remember Cottonwood and New Ulm.

As new settlers, and most of us poor, of necessity we must be constantly at work, building, fencing, plowing &c., to get something to keep our families and cattle from starving and freezing to death. And cannot afford to be so often scared from our work, (especially at the very time when food for man and beast must be gathered) or taken away to fight the Indians.

Many of the people say, if there is no certain guaranty of frontier protection, that they will leave this part of the country for a place of greater safety. Indeed, many have already left and others are preparing to go. Now shall this Blue Earth Valley be so neglected by the Government. Will it suffer this fine portion of the State to be laid waste, and its speedy settlement and improvement checked for years to come, and run the risk of having the inhabitants butchered by the Indians? We hope, we trust not. But flatter ourselves that the earnest pleadings of men, women, and children exposed to savage masacre, will successfully reach the ear of that benign government to which an American Citizen could always in the past look for any reasonable protection or shelter in time of danger. From the signs of the times, the great and fearful probability is that there is now brewing a more general Indian war than has been known for years. And the general impression among the people is, that we may be (unless better defence is given us) suddenly dashed upon by large bodies of Indians coming in from the west.

Therefore for our safety, we the signers of this petition, do respectfully and earnestly pray, the Governor of our State, to use his utmost influence with the general government, to have as promptly as possible a sufficient number of soldiers placed on our border, and constantly kept there, to act in conjunction with the minute men to make us perfectly safe. So that the people may go on with their work again, and feel assured that they will be well protected while the Indian trouble lasts.

Foot-prints of Chivalry.

General Rousseau's expedition was illustrated by two incidents which strikingly illustrates the influence of slavery.

At Blountville he found a young Confederate soldier chained to the floor of a jail. He had him brought forth and examined. The man stated that he was in jail for mobbing a man. An examination of the court records showed that this man was one of a party who hung a wealthy citizen of the vicinity, who had ravished two of his own daughters! Near Stine's Ferry the command dispersed a crowd who had assembled to witness the execution of a slave who had murdered his master. The man had been tied to a tree, dry wood and pine knots placed around him, and an entire community of white male and female Christian people stood by and saw him burned to death!

The Richmond Examiner tells the story of the capture and death of John Morgan. He was on a reconnoissance, and took lodgings at a house near Greenville. It proved to be occupied by the wife of Col. Williams, an officer on Gen. Burnside's staff.

While he slept, Mrs. Williams mounted a horse and rode fifteen miles, and returned with a squad of soldiers. Morgan ran from the house, but was surrounded. He drew a revolver, swore he would not be taken alive, and attempted to break through the line, when he was killed by a volley.

WELL MERITED PROMOTION.—We see by the Davenport, (Iowa,) Daily Gazette that our townsman, Capt. Ammi Cutter, has been promoted to Chief Quartermaster for the State of Iowa. We congratulate our friend Cutter on his success, and we feel confident that the interests of the army and the State will be subserved by his appointment. He is a prompt and efficient business man, always "up and doing," and there are but few whose absence from their business posts in this town would be more seriously felt by all classes. As true and loyal a Unionist as lives, energetic and enterprising, he is entitled to and fully receives the good wishes of all who know him here. Long may he live and prosper, is the wish of his friends.—Anoka Stare.

ACCIDENT.—Last Wednesday a party of several of our citizens started up river for a grand hunt and general good time, but it was brought to a sudden and serious termination, the party having got but a few miles from here when Silas Humphry, Esq., was shot in the hand by the accidental discharge of a gun which he was reaching from behind. The hammer of the piece catching in some object fired it off, the charge taking off the two middle fingers of his left hand, at the first joint. His hand was dressed as soon as possible, though it is feared another operation will be necessary.—Taylor Falls Reporter.

TELEGRAPH NEWS.

HEADQUARTERS, MIDDLE DIV,
WOODSTOCK, VA., sept 23.
General Grant, City Point:

I cannot as yet give any definite result of the battle of yesterday. Our loss will be light.

Gen. Crook struck the left flank of the enemy, doubled up and advanced down their lines.

Rickett's division, 5th corps, swung in and joined Crook.

Getty's and Wheaton's divisions took up the same route. The movement was followed by the whole line, and attacking beautifully carried the works of the enemy.

The rebels threw down their arms and fled in the greatest confusion, abandoning the most of their artillery. It was dark before the battle ended.

I pursued on after the enemy during the night to this point with the 6th and 19th corps, and have stopped here to rest the men and issue rations.

If General Torbett has pushed down Luray Valley according to my directions he will achieve great results.

I do not think there ever was an army so badly routed. The Valley soldiers are hiding away and going to their homes.

I cannot at present give you any estimate of prisoners. I pushed on regardless of everything. The number of pieces of artillery reported captured is sixteen.

(Signed) P. SHERIDAN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

It has been ascertained that Early's shattered forces, or what is left of them, have abandoned the road to Staunton, and are retreating in disorder via Culpepper and Gordonsville, directly toward Richmond, leaving the road to Lynchburg unobstructed, while Lee is unable to spare another army sufficiently strong to oppose the progress of the victorious Sheridan.

The news from Sheridan's army this afternoon has created a great excitement throughout the city.

The capture of Fisher's Hill, that great stronghold and key to the upper part of the Shenandoah Valley, and the addition of sixteen cannon and several thousand prisoners to the trophies already won by the victorious army of Sheridan, is regarded here as conclusive evidence of the complete destruction of the Rebel army in the valley, and of the whole route to Lynchburg, which necessarily must bring about the speedy evacuation of Richmond, or the capture of the rebel Capitol, and Lee's whole army.

There are in progress other movements not proper to be disclosed now, which tend to render this result inevitable, within perhaps, a very few days.

BALTIMORE, Sept 26.

The American's correspondent with Sheridan, contains some additional facts in regard to the Battle of Fisher's Hill.

Early had boasted to the citizens of the surrounding country that he could hold his position against any force the enemy might bring against him, and if Sheridan would only remain a few days in his position, he would stake his reputation upon capturing his whole army. Probably he expected reinforcements by way of Culpepper, and moving down the Valley, get in Sheridan's rear. But Sheridan has spoiled his plans by capturing his stronghold at Fisher's Hill, and again putting his army to flight. Where he will again make a stand, with the remains of his scattered and demoralized army, God only knows, for his men are in no condition to encounter our victorious boys, who for the past four days could whip more than double their number of the enemy.

The degree of demoralization to which Early's command has arrived, may be judged from the following facts:

Among the 5,000 prisoners captured in Thursday's fight, was a colonel commanding a brigade, who, when taken, exclaimed, "The Confederacy is gone to hell; the men won't fight any more."

Another circumstance worth considering, was related by the citizens of Woodstock, who sympathized with the rebels, and who are perfectly reliable, as they could have no interest in misstating facts. They stated that a number of rebel soldiers passed through Woodstock on Thursday, and told some of their comrades who were sick, that they had better push on, as the Yankees had arrived opposite Fisher's Hill, and would soon make Early pull up stakes and cut.

From dispatches captured on a Confederate staff officer, it appears that Early was instructed by Lee to hold the valley of the Shenandoah at all hazards. How he expects to fulfil his instructions, with his whipped and demoralized crowd, is more than we can see.

It is stated that the number of prisoners captured within the past thirty days will number 30 000.

No fear need be entertained of the enemy making a raid in any considerable force on Sheridan's rear.

It was moved that when the Club adjourn, it be to meet again at the call of the chairman.

The meeting then adjourned.

ON A TOUR OF INSPECTION.—Col. Smith has just returned from his tour of inspection, having visited all the frontier posts between New Ulm and the Iowa line. He finds but little signs of Indians. Occasionally there has been a spy or stray Indian, but no danger can, or need be apprehended from present indications so far as our frontier is concerned. Efficient organizations have been completed at all the points on the line, and the number of men at the outposts has been reduced from five to two each, by special order issued on the 27th. The new organization at Chain Lakes, promises to be one of the best on the line, and is composed of excellent men, Mr. Chatfield, of Chain Lakes, who was accidently wounded in the foot while on a scout for Indians, died on Sunday. His loss is greatly lamented by his neighbors.

Prairie fires have been raging in the County during the week, doing considerable damage. Mr. Seaman, near the Agency has lost fifteen tons of hay by the raging element.

THE Winona mail came in on Wednesday last at one o'clock P. M. on account of not lying over at Owatonna. Next week the mail will leave Rochester at four A. M. and arrive here at the same time the St. Paul mail does.

RELIGIOUS SERVICE.—The first quarterly Conference for the present Conference year of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for Mankato will be held on Saturday and Sunday the 1st and 2nd of October. Preaching Saturday at 2 o'clock P. M. by the Presiding Elder, Rev. J. O. Rich. Directly after the services the members of the quarterly Conference will convene to transact the usual business. Prayer meeting in the evening at 7 o'clock. The services on the Sabbath will be, Lovefeast at 9 o'clock A. M. preaching at 10½, by the Presiding Elder the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered directly after the morning sermon. Preaching again in the evening at 7 o'clock, by the P. E. The usual quarterly collection will be taken up, after the morning sermon, to meet the P. E's claim on the Station.

THOMAS DAY, Pastor

Military officers and Soldiers should have Brown's Bronchial Troches, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken upon the first appearance of a Cold or Cough, which, if neglected may terminate in something worse. As there are imitations be sure to obtain the Genuine Brown's Bronchial Troches, which are sold every where at 25 cents a Box.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—Rev. Charles S. Robinson, late of Troy, now of Brooklyn, N. Y. writes of Brown's Bronchial Troches: "Rev, Mr. Booth gave me two or three from his pocket a few years ago, recommending me to make a trial of them, for he had found them beneficial. I have kept them on hand ever since, and found them very serviceable after the weariness of speaking, as well as allaying the irritation consequent on a cold."

FLAX.—We would call the attention of farmers in this vicinity to the culture of Flax, as proposed by Messrs. Pendergast & Carter, of Le Sueur who are engaged largely in that business. These gentlemen are about erecting Flax Mills at Garden City and at Winnebago City, and are prepared to furnish farmers, who are desirous of growing flax, with seed. The only obligations imposed upon the farmers are, that they will return the same amount of seed in the fall, no interest charged, and contract to sell all straw and seed to these gentlemen who are prepared to pay the highest market price for both. The average yield of flax to the acre is one and a half tons of straw, and fifteen bushels of seed. The present price of straw, when rotted, is $15.00 per ton. The seed is selling for $2.00 per bushel. Thus yielding a profit of $52.50 to the acre. These are the present prices and there is not much chance for a decline, on the contrary they have gradually increased every year, since the breaking of the rebellion. The land which is best adapted to flax growing is clean corn land, or rich land of the second year's plowing, when the yield will be much greater than fifteen bushels to the acre. Messrs. Pendergast & Carter have the new flax threshing machine which they will use for the farmers on the most liberal terms. The difficulties heretofore existing which have operated so strongly against the culture of flax in this state are now entirely removed. We have our home market and our home machinery. The Minnesota climate is specially adapted to rotting the straw, and it requires but little trouble and labor on the part of the farmer. We refer to "Dew Rotting" and it is wholly unnecessary to use vats or alkalies to prepare it for market. If the land is rolled, or level, the flax can be mowed by hand or machine, thus doing away with the labor and inconvenience of "pulling". We hope that our farmers will put in five or ten acres of flax next year. Those that decide to do so will oblige these gentlemen by leaving their names and the amount which they are willing to put in, with Dr. Welcome of Garden City, or Mr. Holly of Winnebago City, so they may know how much seed is needed by these two counties.

UNION SABBATH SCHOOL CELEBRATION.—MR. EDITOR, with pleasure I attempt to give you an account of our Sabbath School Celebration, which by the way was a perfect success. The morning of the 21st was a beautiful one, and at an early hour the "Little Ones" made their appearance upon the common with their baskets of eatables, and at nine o'clock all were nicely seated in two and four horse teams and under the directions of the marshal of the day, E. P. Evans, moved away towards Loon Lake. On arriving at the grove we found the Welch people were already there en masse. J. A. Wiswell of Garden City was made President of the day, [the regular appointed D. C. Evans not being present]. The exercises of the day were commenced by the reading of a portion of scripture by Elder Case, followed by the Garden City Baptist Choir assisted by the accomplished pianist Mrs. J. A. Wiswell. Prayer by Eld. Case, after which Prof. Thomas of South Bend was introduced to the audience who made an able, address illustrating the benefit of Sabbath School's since their first organization by a reference to credulous Jack O'Lantern times of old. Elder James from Judson then spoke in the Welch language and by those who could understand, his remarks were highly complimented. The meeting was now adjourned for dinner, which was gotten up in the Pie-Nic style, each school setting their own table. In arranging and adorning the tables the committees from the several schools seemed to vie with each othetr. Much taste was displayed for which praise is due the Ladies'. Upon re-assembling we were entertained with a first class song, sung by Miss Owens, from Judson in Welch, the subject, "My Mother's Bible." The Rev. A. H. Hathaway from Shelbyville next addressed the Youth in a very eloquent and affecting manner contrasting the condition of nations and individuals what posseses a knowledge of the Bible with those who do not. The several schools were next called upon for reports and examinations. The first report was from the Zion Sabbath School. Their report showed their school to be in a flourishing condition and their pieces of music were most admirably prepared, which showed the ability of their tutor, Mr. Thomas. The Methodist and Congregationalist Sabbath schools from South Bend, each made a good report and sang well. The exercises of the Garden City Methodist and Union Sabbath Schools were also instructive and entertaining and the assembly dispersed with a general good feeling, all believing that the day had been well spent and the Sabbath School cause promoted. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes,

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

Valuable Lands for Sale.

BY DIRECTION OF THE HONORABLE Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands in Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City D. C., and endorsed "Bid for Winnebago Truct Land."

As heretofore many persens have bid upon these lands and after the awards have been made to them have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which, in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful didder.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
BITTERS.
A pure and powerful tonic, corective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forarmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be preverted. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

THE DEW-DROP.

BY CORA.

I come with the dawn of the morning,
A gem from the bosom of night;
And those who would see my adorning,
must rise with the morning's first light.

I come—would you sip of the honey?
'Tis freely and cheerfully given; [ney,
Like the pearl of great price, without mo-
Like that—a pure gift of kind Heaven.

I come—would you drink at the fountain,
Of innocence, pleasure, and health?
I am found in the vale, on the mountain,
The first step in the sure road to wealth.

I come—would you share with the roses
The nectar spread freely for all?
(Save the sluggard who idly reposes.)
Then come with the lark at his call.

Thus seek, early seek for this treasure—
The dew-drops of freshness and truth;
It will furnish through life double pleasure
And shield from the follies of youth.

Army Correspondence,

LETTER FROM THE SECOND REGIMENT.

How the Boys in the Army Feel.

CAMP 2d MINN VOLS.,
NEAR ATLANTA, GEORGIA,
Sept. 29th 1864

Thinking that a few lines from a soldier would be acceptable to the readers of your valuable paper, I concluded to write. After a very laborious and severe campaign of four months, we have come to a halt for the purpose of resting and re-organizing the army. We are at present encamped about two miles south west of Atlanta, (the gate City and southern stronghold) on the Macon Railroad. We arrived here on the 8th inst. Our camp is a very pleasant one, situated on rolling ground in the woods which makes it more pleasant during the heat of the day. The weather, however, is more pleasant than usual at this time of the year in this country, and the nights are quite cool. The health of the Regiment is good at present, very few of the Old Veterans being on the sick list. The men are all in excellent spirits over the great victory of Gen. Sherman, the defeat of the rebels and the occupation of Atlanta. We all love him, and have great confidence in him. He has shown his military qualities and abilities in the campaign from Ringgold to the occupation of this City. Has defeated and driven the enemy from every position which he occupied, I will not attempt to give a definite description of Atlanta, but will say it is a large City, spread over considerable territory. The city is completely riddled with shot and shell. Some buildings are almost entirely demolished, while other have from five to twenty holes through them. Some blocks have been burned down leaving nothing but blackened walls and ruins to mark where once stood magnificent buildings. Such are the fortunes of war. The inhabitants have received orders to leave the city within ten days. They have their choice to go north or south. Many are going south while others are going north. We find people here from most every State in the Union, and about nine tenths of them are for the south, Now and then a Union family, but they are very scarce.

Perhaps you would like to know how we stand in regard to political matters. Well sir, in the first place we are for the "Union." In the second place we are for the administration as it is, and we don't want it changed. We think that a change would be very disastrous to us. Our cause is a just one, and must never be abandoned. The war has been carried on with varied successes so far. We believe that Lincoln has managed this country to the best of his ability under the Constitution. We have served under his administration for three years, and have reenlisted for three more. We are satisfied with him, and will stand by him, to the last. Some of those with whom we stood shoulder to shoulder during the campaign of 1860 have left us, and now denounce us as Lincoln hirelings, Black Abolitionists, &c., and now are trying to create a civil war in the north. We are perfectly willing that they should claim us as friends no more; we do not want such men for our friends. We have some respect for the men who will come out boldly and fight us, but we detest the Northern Traitors. They are more than enemies, and are beneath the notice, or should be, of every Loyal man. I am not a Politician—never made a speech or wrote a political letter in my life; But the time has come when every man should speak, and not only speak, but act. Our country demands it. There is a certain class of men which used to hold petty offices in the Democratic party. Some of them lost their positions through dishonesty. They are now looking about them to see where their bread and butter is coming from. At first they found fault with the war, and then with the Administration, and some of them came out openly for disunion. They say that the South had a right to secede, and we had no right to coerce them. They have introduced features into their platform and speeches, indicating that if they cannot secure their end at the Ballot Box they will imitate the southern wing of the party, and Rebel. They demand that the rebels [democrats] in the border States shall be permitted to vote, and that any attempt to prevent them at the coming election shall be held as revolutionary, and resisted with all the means and power under their control. If these men be allowed to vote and then return to the rebel army, why not let the men of South Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama, vote and elect McClellan, without a doubt? They say that "in the future, as in the past," [not otherwise] they will adhere to the Union. How have they adhered in the past? By rebelling in every State which they have controlled. Then this is what they have pledged themselves to do in the future.

Loyal men of the North! Are you satisfied with such a pledge coming from those whose antecedents are, [to say the least,] so suspicious? We are not, I assure you. And we will fight such pledges to the last. Some of them say that "the ticket and the platform are what the exigencies of the country require, and each and every truly patriotic citizen, not blinded by sectional passion can heartily endorse" It may look so to them, but we who have suffered the privations and hardships of three years soldiering "can't see it" in that light. What does it contain? It contains nothing in favor of the Monroe doctrine; nothing in favor of carrying out the operation of the Draft for 500,000 men. Not a word against the Emancipation Proclamation; nothing against the employment of Negroes as soldiers or sailors to fight the Rebels, not a word about wiping out slavery by military blows, or by a change of Constitution; nothing against Gen. Butler's famous contraband doctrine; nothing against the Amnesty Proclamation, or the Republican Congressional plan of reconstruction, or the confiscation property of Rebels—real or personal; nothing in favor of returning confiscated property to rebels; not a word against the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law; nothing against the abolishing of slavery in the District of Columbia. Nothing against the Congressional prohibition of Slavery in the Territories; nothing against the Tax Law passed by a Republican Congress: not a word against Jeff. Davis, or the rebellion. Nothing in favor of State Sovereignty, and the rights of Secession. Not a word against coercing Sovereign States, or against holding the Union together by Federal Bayonets; not a word in favor of paying the Rebels Debt; not a word in favor of encouraging white labor emigration from Europe. And finally, not a word in favor of going on with the war, in case the proposed Armistice fails to bring the Rebels back into the Union. What do you think of such a Platform. I will tell you what we think of it.

We think that a platform so contemptible and cowardly was never presented to any people or any party in this country or any other. At this or any other age. They harp loudly upon the freedom of speech and freedom of Press. If Traitors are allowed to run at large in the North they surely have the same right in the south. Some of our very worst spies are in the North. They do us as much damage as if they were in our midst. Still such men should be allowed to run at large, according to their doctrine. What does the Richmond papers say. They say that the very existence of the Rebellion is staked on the success of the Democratic party at the coming election. And that it is the duty of the Rebels to aid the election of McClellan by defeating Grant if possible before November.

We have seen the time when we were proud of the name Democrat, And we are still as much a democrat as then, but not a Peace Democrat; I assure you, far from it. We despise this milk and water party. They are not worthy of the name of democrats—not one of them.

We are for LINCOLN & JOHNSON, and we will stand by them as they have stood by us. Their enemies are our enemies. We are united, [I speak of the army] and we think that there should be but one party in the North, viz; "The Union party" We have stood together for three years, and are willing to stand there for three years more if necessary for the restoration of the Union, We dont want Peace until we can have an honorable peace, until the rebels are conquered and will lay down their arms and submit to the Administration. There are terms on which we want peace and no other. They tell us that McClellan is, or was a soldier. Very true. We have or did have, as big Traitors in the Army as there is in the North or South, but we have got most of them culled out now. We now have true and honest men at the head of our government and Armies, and Treason must go down. It is fast falling. See what we have accomplished in the last six months. Compare it with any time when Traitors commanded our armies, and see the difference.

Disloyal men of the North! Turn from the errors of your ways before it is too late; a fearful responsibility rests upon you. I speak thus that I may fire your hearts with holy indignation and nerve your arms for unconquerable fights; and if Liberty is to expire, if freedom is to be destroyed, if this Country, in all its length and breadth, is to tremble beneath the oppressor's tread, let the dear old flag be planted on every housetop with this inscription "Here is the end of all that is dear to the heart and sacred to the memory of Man!"

We are for the Old Flag and the Union, Fathers, Brothers, and friends will you stand by us, and help us with words and deeds of encouragement? You are bound to in justice to yourselves, and country, to sustain the soldiers in the field, and you must do it with your sympathy, and with your votes. I can assure you if you love the soldiers, you can testify it in no better way than by voting for LINCOLN and JOHNSON. Co, 'H,' is for Lincoln and Johnson almost to a man, and I think that the Regt. will go strong for them. There are some exceptions, principally among the Conscripts, but many of them will go all right. But I will bid you adieu for the present, as time forbids more.

Cream of Tartar .... ¾ oz.
Rhubarb .... 12 gr.
Cold Water .... 1 pint.

The dose is from a quart to a half pint. In severe cases a half a pint dose should be administered. In cass characterized by delirium great benefit has been obtained by applying a bottle of hot water to the feet. Plenty of fresh air is important, and an out door airing at the earliest period precticable is recommended. When applied in the earliest stage of the eruption, the eruption is arrested and suppuration prevented without any injurous result. The mixture should be well stirred or shaken immediately before administering it.

Mr. Nasby Shows that a War Platform Won't Do for the Democracy.

CHURCH UV THE NOO DISPENSASHUN,
GOOLY 17, 1864,

It is probable—yes, I may say tolable sartin—that P. V. Nasby, which is precher uv sed Church in charge, may retyre from pahlick life shortly.

Why? methinks I heer the entire Dimekratic party who hev long regarded me as a ornament to my seks, and the wun altogether luvly, exclame. The why is plane to a massive intelleck, wich is me—the good old Dimekratic party iz on the strate raode to destruckshun; and, to yoose a raleroad metyfur, onless its swicht orf, at Shecago, its a goner, and the moar it succeads at the November eleckshuns, the wuss is its goneniss! "Singler!" exclaims a patraotik and self-sacrificin Dimekrat, who hez a Post Oifis in hiz beemin eye, "singler that success shud rooin us. Why, thats wat we'er goin fur." Jently, my frend. Uv wat evail iz it to elect a President in sich a way az 2 maik it morelly sartin to bee defeeted ever arter? True, we'd hev the Post Orifis, but with a abilishun Kongriss to watch us, where'd be the chancis uv steelin necessary to our support?

To elucydait. The Democrisy hev postponed their convenshun till it is ascertained how Lee vs. Grant comes out. Ef Lee whales Grant—Peece Platform. Ef Grant whales Lee—War Platform. Now the chancis are that Lee will be whipt for the tyrent Linken hez a spite at that grate and good man. Then we'se a party, and go into the campane on the corruptnis uv the Administrashen, and beet em all at the post orifises. Why this. The War is OUR war: the taxis is OUR takis; the drafts is OUR drafts; and WE wood hev the responsibility instid uv our enemies. Ez a matter of course Dimocrats wood hev to do the volunte rin fer it would be their war, and the armies wood hev to be led by Dimekratic Ginerals. Good Hevins! Im magin 500,000 Dimekrats under sich ez Mick Lellan and Boo-el! What a redobsin uv magoritis—what a wasts uv votin stock ther would be.

The troo polisy fer us is peese. Ez a peese party we are certain uv gittin the support of these classes, to wit:

The stingy cusses who object to pay in taxis.

The cowardly cusses who air afrade uv being drafted.

Every draft and every new tax jest mor's adds to our ranks, so fast, indeed, that ef we cood stop the Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, &c., revivels uv religion, and git whisky back to old prices so that we cood afford to use it profeosely, we cood be in good shape next Fall.

By bein a War party we lose all these people, and taik them out, and in the name of hevin wat wood be left uv us!

Peese is our best and only holt, and onless the party taik that dodge I shel retire, for we cant win but wunst on war, and then the responsibilities we'd hev to assoom wood be 2 much fer us. The Dimekratik intellek is not hefty.

Ez fer mysely I've no feers—I kin get along. There's small Groseries to be run, and the retaillin uv likker in a striktly Dimekratic community, where they'd work jest twelve hours —earnin enuff to carry em thro the uther 12 at my bar, has allus appearid to me to be the heighth uv earthly bliss. PETROLEUM V. NASBY.

Paster uv sed church in charge.

The Atlantic Monthly.

The leading article in the Atlantic Monthly for October is a description of an adventure in the South by Colonel T. W. Higginson, entitled "A Night in the Water." The Colonel narrates how he went out on a night reconnoisance, for the purpose, first, of ascertaining the numbers and position of the enemy's pickets; and, secondly, of gratifying a desire for a ramble in the darkness during a southern summer night. Here is an account of the way he started:

"Reaching the farther end of the causeway, I found my men couched, like black statutes, behind the slight earthwork there constructed. I expected my proposed immersion would rather bewilder them, but knew that they would say nothing, as usual. As for the lieutenant on that post he was a steady, matter-of fact, perfectly disciplined Englishman, who wore a Crimean medal and never asked a superfluous question in his life. If I had causually remarked to him, 'Mr. Hooker the General has ordered me on a brief personal reconnoissance to the Planet Jubiter, and I wish you to take care of my watch, least it should be damaged by the Procession of the Equinoxes,' he would have responded with a brief 'All right, sir,' and a quick military gesture, and have put the thing in his pocket. As it was, I simply gave him the watch and remarked that I was going to take a swim."

A short swim brought the Colonel too near the rebel pickets for absolute comfort; so he beat a retreat, and here is the description of the

ADVENTURES OF THE SWIMMER

"Time, I could not, of course measure—one never can in a novel position; but after a reasonable amount of swimming I began to look, with a natural interest, for the pier which I had quitted. I noticed with some solicitude that the woods along the friendly shore made one continuous shadow, and that the line of low bushes on the long causeway could scarcely be relieved against them, yet I knew where they ought to be, and the more doubtful I felt about it, the more I put down my doubts, as if they were unreasonable children. One can scarcely conceive of the alteration made in familiar objects by bringing the eye as low as the horrizen, especially by night; to distinguish foreshottening is impossible, and every low near object is equivalent to one higher and more remote. Still I had the stars; and soon my eye, more practised, was enabled to select one precise line of bushes as that which marked the causeway, and for which I must direct my course.

As I swam steadily, but with some sense of fatigue, towards this phantom-line, I found it difficult to keep my faith steady, and my progress true; everything appeared to waver and shift in the uncertain light. The distant trees seemed not trees but bushes, and the bushes seemed not exactly bushes, but might, after all, be distant trees. Could I be so confident, that, out of all that low stretch of shore, I could select the one precise point where the friendly causeway streched its long arm to recieve me from the water? How easily [some tempter whispered at my ear] might one swerve a little, on either side, and be compelled to flounder over half a mile of oozy marsh on an ebbying tide, before reaching our own shore and that hospitable volley of bullets with which it would probably greet me! Had I not already thus the tempter continued, been swimming rather unacountably far, supposing me on a straight tract for that inviting spot where my sentinels and my drapery were awaiting my return?

Suddenly I felt a sensation as of fine ribbons drawn softly across my person, and I found myself among some rushes. But what business had rushes there, or I among them? I knew that there was not a solitary spot of shoal in the deep channel where I supposed myself swimming and it was plain in an instant that I had somehow missed my course, and must be getting among the marshes. I felt confident, to be sure, that I could not have widely erred, but was guiding my course for the proper side of the river. But whether I had drifted above or below the causeway I had not the slightest clew to tell.

* * * "It required a deliberate and conscious effort to keep my brain quite cool. I have not the reputation of being of an excitably temperament, but the contrary; yet I could at that moment see my way to a condition in which one might become insane in an instant. It was my way into a madhouse, then it closed, and everything went on as before. Once in my life I had obtained a slight glimpse of the same sensation, and then too, strangely enough, while swimming—in the mightiest oceansurge into which I had ever dared plunge my mortal body. Keats hints at the same sudden emotion, in a wild poem written among the Scottish mountains. It was not the distinctive sensation which drowning men are said to have, that spasmodic passing in review of one's whole personal history. I had no well-defined anxiety, felt no fear, was moved to no prayer, did not give a thought to home or friends; only it swept over me, as with a sudden tempest, that, if I meant to get back to my own camp, I must keep my wits about me. I must not dwell on any other alternative, any more than a boy who climbs a precipice must look down. Imagination had no business here. That way madness lay. There was a shore somewhere before me, and I must get to it, by the ordinary means before the ebb laid bare the flats, or swept me below the lower bends of the stream. That was all.

'Suddenly a light gleamed for an instant before me, as if from a house in a grove of great trees upon a bank; and I knew that it came from the window of a ruined plantation building, where our most advanced outposts had their headquarters. The flash revealed to me every point of the situation. I saw at once where I was, and how I got there; that the tide had turned while I was swimming, and with a much briefer interval of slack water than I had been led to suppose, that I had been swept a good way down stream and was far beyond all possibility of regaining the point I had left. Could I, however, retain my strength to swim one or two hundred yards father, of which I had no doubt, and if the water did not ebb too rapidly, of which I had more fear, then I was quite safe. Every stroke took me more and more out of the power of the current, and there might even be an eddy. I could not afford to be carried down much farther, for there the channel made a sweep towards the wrong side of the river; but there was now no reason why this should happen. I could dismiss all fear, indeed, except that of being fired upon by our own sentinels, many of whom were then new recruits, and with the usual disposition to shoot first and investigate afterwards.

'I found myself swimming in shallow and shallower water, and the flats seemed almost bare when I neared the shore, where the great gnarled branches of the live-oaks hung far over the muddy bank. Floating on my back for noiselessness, I paddled rapidly in with my hands, expecting momentarily to hear the challenge of the picket, and the ominous click so likely to follow. I knew that some one should be pacing to and fro along that beat, but could not tell at what point he might be at that precise moment. Besides, there was a faint possibility that some chatty corporal might have carried the news of my bath thus far along the line, and they might be partially prepared for this unexpected visitor. Suddenly, like another flash, came the quick, quaint challenge:

'Halt! Who's go dar?'

'F-f-friend with the c-c-countersign,' retorted I with chilly, but conciliatory energy, rising at full length out of the shallow water, to show myself a man and a brother.

'Ad-vance, friend, and give de countersign,' responded the literal soldier, who at such a time would have accosted a spirit of light or goblin damned with no other formula.

'I advanced and gave it, he recognising my voice at once. And then and there, as I stood, a dripping ghost, beneath the trees before him, the unconscionable fellow, wishing to exhaust upon me the utmost resources of military hospitality, deliberately presented arms.

'Now a soldier on picket, or at night, usually presents arms to nobody; but a sentinel on camp guard by day is expected to perform that ceremony to anything in human shape that has two rows of buttons. Here was a human shape, but so utterly buttonless that it exhibited not even a rag to which a button could by any earthly possibility be appended, buttonless even potentially; and my blameless Ethiopian presented arms to even this. Where, then, are the theories of Carlyle, the axioms of Sartor Resartus,' the inability of humanity to conceive a naked Duke of Windlestraw addressing a naked House of Lords?' Cautioning my adherent, as to the proprieties suitable for such occasions thenceforward, I left him watching the river with renewed vigilence, and awaiting the next merman who should report himself.'

A writer in the Boston Daily Advertiser says just what the New York Daily News says:

'Since that public letter, General McClellan has written private letters to various influential persons very different from his letter of acceptance.'

Come, let us have these private peace epistles of Little McClellan.

Heavy Decline in Prices.

The New York Evening Post records the following in regard to the recent fall of goods in that city, consequent upon the gold tumble:

"The fall in the premium on gold is having its legitimate effect on the prices of all descriptions of foreign dry goods; and the disposition to sell is the feature of the general market. Coal carts driven through the streets of Brooklyn yesterday bore signs chalked upon their sides, apprising the public that coal had been reduced one dollar a ton. The retail dry goods houses yesterday "marked down" their stock twenty and thirty per cent. The wholesale houses telegraphed to their traveling agents to sell at lower rates. Flour fell fifty cents and one dollar a barrel. Pork tumbled two dollars a barrel, The largest mercantile firms in the city are "marking down their goods—a process which has been going forward for the past week or ten days. Some of the men of best judgment in this trade foresaw what was to take place, and made their arrangements for the permanent change of rates they believe the present to be.

The reductions vary materially. On some goods they do not exceed ten to fifteen per cent, ; on others thirty or more while the average is between twenty and twenty-five per cent. Sheetings have fallen about fifteen cents a yard, and prints which were worth nearly half a dollar a yard, ten cents.

It is evident that the "panic" in the trade is lessening; merchants are preparing for the decrease in rates which has already taken place, and may yet come.

It appears likely that the chief sufferers will not be the regular dealers, but men who have harvested means for the purposes of speculation.

The goods now offered for sale by many of our standard houses were bought at rates not equal to the highest which have ruled; and the losses in the trade will therefore be less than the extent of the reduction in the price of gold.

The asking rates of many dealers have not been materially changed; but they must very soon conform to the new rates, or cease to do business.

Every Man to His Post.

Where are the Democratic candidates for Electors? This is a time when every Democrat is expected to do his duty, and from these we have a right to expect work for the cause. Let us hear from you, gentlemen.—Pioneer.

Yes, yes, trot out your big guns, and let the people see and hear them. We had one of your Cox up this way last week, clypt Julia Ann, who endeavored to make his hearers believe that the Democratic party made Jesus Christ, but before he got through he proved himself to be a Jackass. Intelligent democrats have too much good sense to listen to the twaddle of such a party bastard. Your democratic electors are as good electioneering documents as Union men could wish to use. So send them out.

Money for Sioux Claimants.

The Record of last week has the following: Mr Buck returned home on Thursday night with the money to pay all the Sioux Indemnity claims represented by himself and Mr. Gilfillan. Yesterday he was engaged all day in paying the respective amounts due claimants.

All of their clients who have not yet got their pay are invited to call at Mr. Buck's office in this place and receive the same.

The first claims audited and paid by the Treasury Department at Washington were those represented by Messrs. Gilfillan & Buck—a fact which speaks well for those gentlemen.

THE Democrats had a meeting at City Hall last Friday evening, which was attended by 36 Republicans, 10 boys, 5 ladies, and 49 democrats. Miss Julia Ann Cox and a Judge Maynard, both out and out Copperheads, delivered a tirade of abuse against the Administration, which protects, though it ought to hang them higher than Haman. Miss Julia's speech was the most, disjointed, jumbled up mess of lies and ridiculous nonsense that we ever listened to, but it was overlooked by the audience on account of her tender youth, and the fact that she had but the day before lain aside her diapers. Judge Maynard commenced his harangue by informing his audience that he told the truth, and unlike other political speakers he meant what he said, and said what he meant, Instead of giving his hearers a good Union speech upon the issues of the day—Union or Disunion—he too occupied his time in heaping curses upon the country that guarantees him that protection which his gray hairs do not deserve.

Failure of Banks in Chicago.

A late number of the Chicago Tribune informs us of the suspension of the banking house of C. C. Parks & Co., and the failure of the Western Marine and Fire Insurance Company Bank. This caused a tremendous panic among all classes, and many of even the best business men were alarmed to a degree beyond conception. The various banking establishments were soon crowded by depositors, eagerly desirous of withdrawing their balances. A few of the strongest institutions escaped a severe run till the afternoon, but many of them were thoroughly taxed to meet the drain. Some banks of good repute were forced early in the day to refuse the payment of checks for large amounts while others paid their checks in greenbacks as long as they could, and then paid out New York exchange. This mode of procedure, on the part of the banks is, to say the least, irregular, but it was deemed the most prudent course, under the circumstances. Several of the banks alluded to have large remittances on the way from New York, Boston, and elsewhere, and as Sunday fortunately intervenes, they expect to be in a position on Monday next to meet all demands on them.

The Tribune says: This panic has fallen on us suddenly, and it is not reasonable to suppose that a bank of deposit, no matter how strong it may be, would be able to pay out every dollar they owe in a single day.

The business public must not act like a mob, but behave like merchants. The banks must be sustained as far as possible. This is the only way to prevent a general crash.

Of the particulars of the failure of the Western Marine and Fire Insurance Company we are not fully apprised. It is generally attributed to heavy advances on produce, and the suspension will probable entail great loss and inconvenience to grain and cattle dealers. On 'Change and in the Live Stock yards there were many sufferers, and the affair cast a gloom over the general business public.

McClellan must realize the truth of the adage that misfortunes never come singly.—First, Sheridan's victory gave him a cold chill, then Fremont withdrew, and now it is announced that Vallandigham is about to stump Ohio for him!

ORDERED BACK.—The 11th Minnesota left here yesterday for St. Louis. Upon reaching Kankakee they were ordered to return to Chicago and proceed to Louisville. They again started for the front this morning.—Chicago Journal. 29*th*.

For the Mankato Union.

There is Snakes in the Valley.

TUNE—Yankee Doodle.

When we met to vote a tax to raise money to induce volunteering to fill oue quota and save the town from draft, some said they would give $25 if we didn't vote a tax, and among that number was Uncle Jakey Their tax would not cost half so much,—so you see snakes in the grass; and just here the poet caught his theme.

We met to see what we could do
To keep the draft away, sir,
And thought the better plan to be
To offer lots of pay, sir.

But Uncle Gear, and Uncle Ben,
And even Uncle Jakey
Stood up in arms against the tax.
It looked to me quite Snakey.

Poor Uncle Gear he would not stay,
To see us vote the tax, sir.
But went to swearing awful hard,
And then to making tracks sir.

Now Uncle Jakey made a speech,
As sure as I'm alive, sir;
And said if we would leave the tax;
He'd give us twenty five, sir.

Next Fredy made an able speech,
For reason is his teacher;
And all the people did agree
That soon he'd be a preacher.

Then Uncle Natty took the stand,
To show 'em our position;
And said that we would have the tax,
In spite of opposition.

Then the vote was loudly called,
One side or the 'tother;
Then Republicans took one,
And Copper snakes the other.

And when the vote was counted out,
We had 'em on the dead, sir;
And every snake did hiss and blow,
While the Chairman read, sir.

Up spoke a man with beaming eye,
And tongue as sharp as axes:—
"Just fork us up the twenty-five,
And we will pay your taxes."

Uncle Jakey looked abashed,
As if he was not honored;
While all the boys cackled out,
To see him nicely cornered.

But we will drop the subject here
For fear we should offend;
And bidding Uncle Jake adieu,
We'll turn to Uncle Ben.

Uncle Ben was waited on,
Just after the boys had listed;
And importuned to give a lift,
But mercy how he twisted.

"Let 'em draft," says Uncle Ben,
I wouldn't give a shilling;
For if I'm ketched why I would go—
Yes, sir, I'll go willing."

Poor Jonah he was willing to
While on the ocean sailing,
But thought the draft a little hard
That sent him off a whaling.

And so with you dear Uncle Ben,
If Uncle Abe should catch you.
Of course you'd be willing then
For Uncle Abe would fetch you.

But we must drop the subject here,
And let the curtain fall, sir;
Very much more we'd love to say,
But cannot say it all sir.

But would beg a little room,
To say in our conclusion;
That here we go for Uncle Abe,
And the good old Constitution.

SHELBYVILLE.

CAPT. FISK'S EXPEDITION.

His Party Attacked by Indians.

We print below the account given by the Press correspondent of the misfortunes which have overtaken the expedition of Capt. Fisk:

NORTHWESTERN INDIAN EXPEDITION, }
FORT RICE, Sept. 10, 1864. }

On arriving here, we learn that Captain Fisk, A. Q. M, in charge of the Idaho train, had been attacked by a large body of Indians about 180 miles west from here, and that he had been obliged to halt, and had sent for troops to save his train from destruction, I have to give the facts, knowing that many of your readers will be anxious to hear. I will give them as related to me by the messenger, sent back by Capt. Fisk. About three weeks since he left here, taking General Sully's trail. He was escorted to the east side of the river from Fort Ridgely by Co. I, 2d Minnesota Cavalry. He crossed the river and made a demand upon Col. Dill, 30th Wis. Vol, commanding Fort Rice, for an escort. Col Dill said he had not the troops to send, and tried to persuade Capt. Fisk not to go west until he heard from Gen. Sully. Capt. Fisk said he could get through without troops, but some of the emigrants were anxious to have a few so as to quiet the "old ladies among his party." The Colonel, finding he was bound to go, gave him fifty mounted men from the number left by Gen. Sully. With this force he started, followed Gen. Sully's trail for five days, and then struck west towards the mouth of Big Horn river.

He had marched twelve days, when suddenly a party of ninety Indians attacked his rear guard, which was a mile from the main train Two wagons were immediately in front of the guard, and in these wagons were some guns and 400 rounds of ammunition The Indians made such a sudden dash, and the guard not being on the alert, both wagons were captured, and both teamsters and all the guard but one were killed. Capt. Fisk closed his train and kept on his march until he found water and went into camp. He should have remained, but next morning he resumed his march and was attacked by an increased force. He kept on his course and again camped. Sunday morning he left camp and had not marched but a few miles before the hills on every side were covered with Indians.

The country was rough, and soon he had to halt. Capt. Fisk corralled the train, and the men threw up intrenchments. The Indian force was wood, and before he had left camp.

Capt. Fisk called for volunteers to come back to Fort Rice for help.

Lieut. Smith and fourteen soldiers undertook the dangerous trip, and came out that night during a rain storm, and after riding three days and three nights, reached the Fort. Capt. Fisk said he could hold out twenty days, but must have help.

Lieut. Smith did not learn the names of the killed, but says quite a number of the emigrants were wounded during Friday's and Saturday's fight. The Indians were using the long range guns taken from the rear guard.

Gen. Sully immediately ordered a force out for his relief. Col. Dill, of the 30th Wisconsin, with 400 infantry, 300 cavalry and two howitzers leave this evening. They will reach Rainy Butte, where he is encamped, in about five days, and Colonel Dill has orders to bring the emigrants back.

The returned soldiers say the men had dug a well within their entrenchments. They had no wood nor forage, and were feeding the cattle flour. I trust the force sent to relieve them back to Fort Rice, where they must winter. Yours, TREBOR.

THE INDIAN EXPEDITION.

Gen. Sully has Another Fierce Battle.

HE RETURNS TO FORT RICE.

NORTHWESTERN INDIAN EXPEDITION, }
Fort Union, Aug 21, 1864 }

Special Correspondence St. Paul Press.

I confine my letter to what has taken place since we left Heart river, the point where Gen. Sully carrolled the train.

Gen. Sully was ordered to cross the country from Fort Rice to some point on the Yellow Stone. In making the raid upon Ukpapa Camp he lost nine days' time and used up an equal number of days' rations. He had neither the time nor rations to follow the route he had laid down, which touched the Yellow Stone at the mouth of Big Horn River. His guides, all Indians belonging to tribes in the Northwest, were called together by the General, and each requested to give his opinion as to the route to be taken. One Indian, a Blackfoot Sioux, said he could take the expedition to Yelllow Stone in ten days; that we would have to dig roads and chop timber, but that we could get through. All the other guides said the General must go around the head waters of the Little Missouri, and that it would take two weeks to make the trip. Gen. was therefore obliged to take the advice of the Blackfoot Sioux, or abandon the opening of a route to the Yellow Stone.

Well, as I said, on the eve of the 5th we reached the valley of the Little Missouri. At the edge of this valley we camped; and early August 6th we set out to test the loyalty of black foot. After great labor and many delays we camped on the east side of the river. The next day was spent in finding a crossing and grazing our jaded horses. During the afternoon a small party of Indians made a dash upon a grazing party and captured a few horses. The firing of the pickets alarmed the camp and all was made ready for action. Gen. Sully ordered the two brigades to break camp and cross the river. We marched up the bed of the stream four miles and camped at the mouth of a ravine, up which we were to travel on the morrow. Just at dusk the pickets directly opposite our Minnesota brigade commenced firing and fell back to camp. A party of Indians immediately took possession of the overlooking hill, examined our position, and refused to leave until Lieut, Whipple had given them the benefit of his six-pounder. The pickets kept up a continual fire during the night, doubtless at imaginary warriors. Dawn found the entire command ready for an attack The general impression was that the day would give us a fight with the same Indians we had met and defeated before. This rough country gave the Indians every advantage. Our train had but a single track. The Indians knew the country, and it seemed as though they had selected this pass as the ground where they would avenge their former loss and defeat. Gen. Sully gave our brigade the advance, and disposed our force as follows: Two companies 2nd cavalry (H. and C.) and two companies 8th infantry, under Major Rose, as advance guard; the balance of the 2nd cavalry and 8th infantry guarded the train on the right and left; 1st brigade to follow the 2nd with a strong flank force and heavy rear guard. The advance had proceeded about two miles when three or four hundred Indians dashed over a knoll, drove back the scouts, and made an effort to stampede the horses. Major Rose was too quick for them.

He immediately dismounted, deployed his men and drove them from their chosen ground. As soon as the first gun was fired, the hills on every side were covered with Indians. The train now corralled between two high bluffs, and was advanced a mile at a time until we got out of the broken country, We marched ten miles and corralled for the night beside a small lake. The Indians seeing the Idaho train in the rear, began to pass around from the front. General Sully ordered Col McLaren, with Co's D and G of the 2d cavalry, and Co. E of the 8th Minnesota infantry to take possession of a high range of hills on the left, and Colonel Rodgers of the [illegible] high ridge on the panies, Co, G, Captain Mix, got too far away from his supports and was attacked by a large force. He immediately occupied a cove in the side hill which was protected on three sides. Col. McLaren seeing the perilous position in which the company was placed, ordered to the relief Co. H, 2d Cavalry, and about twenty scouts with them and one gun of Captain Jones' 3d Minnesota Battery. Captain Mix was saved from utter rout. Lieut, Colonel Rogers commanding the 8th Minnesota Infantry, drove the Indians on the right. The 1st brigade had a lively time in the rear protecting the Idaho train of emigrants. Next morning the Indians could be seen on every side, and seemed to be preparing for a second fight. General Sully ordered the train forward, the 3d Minnesota Battery in the advance.

After the train had about left camp, the Indians in great force made a dash upon the rear. Col. Thomas was ready and met them with two howitzers and six companies, and a sharp skirmish ensued. The Indians seeing that we were ready at every point, gave up the fight and left. At about 11 o'clock we came up to where their camp had been and which had only been vacated a few hours. The camp was very extensive, and from all I could see I should estimate the number of warriors engaged at four or five thousand As soon as we came upon the trail Gen. Sully closed his train (as we were now out of the rough country,) and ordered Col. McLaren and Major Brackett to bring their regiments to the front, and prepare to charge, should he come up with the Indian train. We followed the train until dark; and camped beside two mud holes, which barely furnished sufficient water for the command. Thus ended the second running fight. A large number of Indians were killed, and left scattered along the hillsides. Our loss was light. The following is the list of wounded:

SIXTH IOWA CAVALRY.

One man wounded.

SECOND MINNESOTA CAVALRY.

Julius Shafferd, Co. G. shot on picket.

Lutner Jues, Co. G, shot on picket.

Byron Carr, Co. G. shot on picket.
William Dwyer, Co. G. slightly
William Leese, Co. G. sllghtly.
Daniel Horton, Co. G, slightly.
Otie Sortine, Co. G. slightly.
Lewis Stow, Co. H. slightly.

All but one were shot with arrows.

We were short of rations, and the grass was very poor, so the General made haste towards the Yellow Stone, which we reached on the 12th of August. Here we found two steamers loaded for our use. We crossed the river and marched down to the Missouri, which we also crossed opposite or a little above Fort Union, and are now encamped waiting orders to march home.

TELEGRPH NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.

Major General Dix:

A dispatch from General Sheridan Harrisonburg, Oct. 30, 9.30 A. M., has been received by this Department. It states:

"I have been to Staunton and Waynesboro with the army. Our cavalry destroyed the iron bridge on South river at Waynesboro, also the bridge over Christiana creek and the railroad from Staunton to Waynesboro."

Details of future operations are, for obvious reasons, omitted.

The following dispatch is the latest received from General Grant:

CITY POINT Sept. 30 3 P. M.

To Major General Halleck:

Butler, on the right of the James River, and Meade southwest of Petersburg, occupy the same positions as yesterday. There has been but very little fighting to-day. A few prisoners were captured last evening.

Butler sent two brigades of infantry with a little cavalry within a few hundred yards of the inner line of works east of Richmond meeting no opposition.

(Signed) U. S. GRANT.
Lieut.-Gen

No dispatches have been received for three days from General Sherman, but vigorous measures which it is believed will be successful have been taken by him to protect his communications from rebel raiding parties under Wheeler and Forest.

Secretary of War.

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County

Mrs. Oglesby has received a choice lot of Millinery Goods, which she proposes to sell on terms satisfactory to customers. Give her a call.

Grand Union Rally!—Friends of the Union! Don't forget to turn out on Monday next, and hear the speeches of Hon. Wm. Windom, J. G. Betz, and C. H. Lindsley, who will speak in Mankato on that day.

There will be a meeting of the Union Club at City Hall to-morrow evening, to hear the reports of committees, and complete arrangements for the Mass Meeting on Monday next.

No Trouble to Show Goods.—White & Marks deem it a pleasure to show the ladies their stock of dry goods. Do not hesitate to call and examine our assortment of prints, delaines, and winter dress goods.

Madame Potts desires to call the attention of the ladies to her new stock of Millinery and Ladies Dress Goods. Also to a lot of worsted goods for children's wear, and ladies' fall bonnets and winter caps. They were selected with great care, and are just suited to this market.

Jake Hamilton's Minstrels gave one of their choice Concerts in this place last Monday evening, to a crowded house. The entertainment was satisfactory to all present, and the audience felt that they h d not been humbugged. They promised to visit our town again in the course of a month.

Union Meeting at the Agency.—A Union meeting will be held at the Winnebago Agency on Tuesday evening next, which will be addressed by Horace Austin, of St. Peter, Dr. Satterlee, of LeSueur county, and H. G. Orton, of Mankato. Turn out, friends, and give these defenders of liberty a rousing welcome.

Provost Marshal Pugh informs us he has received instructions from Capt. See stating that all men who have been drafted under former calls, and having paid commutation are exempt from the draft. Drafted men who have been drafted under the last call will please bear this in mind, and not report to headquarters at Rochester.

Grapes.—R. Goodyear, has laid upon our table several bnuches of four different varieties of grapes that were raised in his nursery a few miles from town. He has a few varieties of choice apple trees, of a hardy kind, which he knows will grow in this climate.

Mirror of Fashions.—M'me Demorest's Mirror for September, is at hand and is more attractive than ever. It, and the Illustrated Monthly have been consolidated, and will hereafter be published monthly instead of quarterly, and the subscription price has been increased to $3,00 a year. The September number alone, is worth that.

Quick Sales and Small Profits—White & Marks have determined to make "quick sales and small profits," of their immense stock of goods. Call soon, before the choicest lots are sold.

The Atlantic—On our outside we publish an interesting article from the October number of this valuable monthly, which is well worth reading. We regard the Atlantic as one of the best monthlies, extant, and every one who loves to read sound literature should subscribe for it. The publishers have been obliged to raise the subscription price to $4,00, but to those who may wish to take our paper, we will furnish it and the Atlantic, for $4,50 per year. Now is the time to subscribe.

The Continental.—Not a whit behind any of the other journals of the day, do we place the Continental, the receipt of the October number of which we hereby acknowledge. There is a great deal of reading in it, which never fails to interest. The subscription price has not been raised yet, and it can be had in clubs of two for five dollars.

Godey's Lady's Book.—The October number of the Lady's Book has been received, though somewhat later than usual, owing very likely to mail detentions. Like all previous numbers the present one is found to be a favorite with the ladies. Mr. Godey takes great pains in getting up the Lady's Book, and no expense is spared to add any new features to it that will enhance its value, and make it [illegible]

Personal.—Capt. Dane, of Co. E. 9th Regiment. returned last week, on a furlough. The Captain is not enjoying very good health.

J. N. Murdock, of Wabashaw, one of the electors of the Union ticket was in town yesterday. He is confident Lincoln's majority in the State will be 10,000. Keep the ball, moving, and it will.

Hotel Sale.—D. S. Law, has disposed of his interest in the Mankato House to James Shoemaker. The hotel business will be continued under the firm name of Burt & Shoemaker. James knows how to keep a hotel, and we wish the new firm great success in their "Bachelor's Retreat."

Serious Accident.—A few days ago a man in Mapleton township was accidentally shot by a friend while shooting at a pheasant. The ball entered the cheek, fractured the lower jaw, passed round the bones of the neck, and lodged in the spine under the left shoulder blade. Surgeon W. W. Clark, who has just returned from the army, was called, and after a most painful and serious operation, succeeded in extracting the ball. The operation, as described by those present, was indeed remarkable, and from the Doctor's description must have been more difficult than those usually occurring in military practise. It was fortunate for the man that the services of a surgeon who has had experience in such cases was obtained.

The Union Club met at City Hall on Saturday evening, Oct. 1st, 1864, pursuant to adjournment.

The Club on motion, adjourned.

T. T. PIERCE, Secretary.

Patronize Home Industry.—Heretofore it has been the custom of our people who were in want of a nice buggy to send to some Eastern market for the article. This need be done no longer, if we are to judge of the handicraft or our mechanics by the wagon just turned out of the shop of Lytle & McKenny for J. N. Hall, which, for style, finish and durability, will compare favorably with the imported article. These gentlemen are now completing another wagon of the same style for Esquire Hoerr. We are glad to note all such evidences that our mechanics are fully competent to meet the wants of our citizens, and trust that it will be the motto of all to give encouragement to every branch of home industry.

First Goods Through.—White & Marks' fall stock of goods is the that has come through from the East via

The Rt. Rev. Thos. L. Grace, Catholic Bishop of St. Paul, visited this place on Sunday last and confirmed forty-four persons. The occasion was made a holiday by the firing of the cannon by some of the members, during the day.

The Lady's Friend, for October—"Peep," a beautifully executed steel engraving of a mother and her little girl, opens this number of The Lady's Friend. The double steel Fashion Plate is also rich and elegant as usual. Then follow the numerous engravings–some particularly excellent—illustrating the new modes for ladies and children. The music for this number is a new song called "I love thee, dearly love the"—a popular sentiment, as all will admit. Among the literary contributions we note "Scatter Blessings,' by Minnie May; 'Two Years Lost,' by Emma B. Ripley; "Life is Good,' by Miss Annie F. Kent; 'The Imported Hen,' a comical sketch by H. W. S.; 'A Turn in Fortune's Wheel,' by Mrs. Hosmer; 'Why I didn't Marry Grant Heuson,' by Ida Mason, (it strikes us that Ida was a little hard on Frank); 'Castles in Air,' by Mrs. Anna Bache; 'Missionary Work" (in the matrimonial line we see this), by France Lee, &c. &c. Of course there is the usual Work, Receipts and Editorials. Price $2.50 a year—two copies $4.00, nine copies for $16.00, twenty-one for 35.00. Single numbers 25 cents. Address Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

Musical.—We are informed that a Vocal and Instrumental School has been opened in Garden City, under the auspices of Miss S. A. Wood, recently from New York. The school is held at the residence of Maj. Evans, and numbers fifteen pupils. We wish her abundant success.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for Circular.

THE

Singer Sewing Machines.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the cheapest and best and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Guaging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stich known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work.—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

Local News and Other Items.

Here's a waif we picked up in the street the other day, written by some "lonely sprite:"

"I think of thee at close of day,
As the feathered songsters tune their lay,
When pure-voiced nightingales doth sing
And lesser warblers close the wing.
When thinkest thou of me?

"I think of thee when the sky is red.
At sunlights faint and parting tread,
At the cooling stream, where waters clear,
Trickle away like the silent tear.
Where thinkest thou of me?

"O think of me, till, when we meet,
Beyond the stars in union sweet;
For while on earth—wher'er ou I t,
I'll think of thee—thou'st not forgot.
Oh! ever think of me."

Straws.—Here's a straw for the McClellanites: A vote was taken a short time since at one of the police lock-ups in Chicago, resulting as follows: Lincoln, none; McClellan 45; Fremont, 2; Buchanan, 1.

Found.—Notwithstanding greenbacks are so plenty it is not a pleasant thing to lose them. A gentleman found a pocket book last week three miles east of Mankato on the Agency road. It contained a small sum of money, and some papers. The owner can ascertain where to get it by enquiring at this office. See Adv. elsewhere.

Mule taken Up.—Elsewhere will be found a notice of a mule taken up. The gentle female was branded "U. S." and very likely had been turned out of the fold on account of its obstinacy.

Prospectus.—Godey's prospectus for 1865 appears in another column, and the many good things which he offers to subscribers will gain him lots of warm friends for another twelve months. Take Godey by all means.

Out in the Cold.—A few friends in Medo township have caught cold by being out in the draft, and Capt. See, one of Uncle Sam's physicians has sent word to the following to come down and get a new suit of clothes; Are they lucky, or unlucky? G. H. Myers, C. B. Bates Wm. McCollough, Patrick McCardle, James T. King, John P. Cramer, Rasmus Donelson, A. W. Barron and Nathaniel Cummings.

Burbank & Co., have opened a new Stage route from St. Paul to Rochester and were to commence running on it last Monday. The distance between the two points is eighty-two miles. The Company have stocked the road, and established stations at convenient points along the route.

Peterson for November.—This number of Peterson is far ahead of all competitors, and is filled with good and interesting reading matter. A beautiful engraving entitled "Departure of the Swallows," graces the first page, then a colored fashion plate on the second, and then follows ten pages of patterns of the latest styles. We regard Peterson as a very interesting Magazine, and cannot afford to be without it.

A Patriotic Body.—The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Minnesota Valley Baptist Association, held at Judson, in this county, on the 16th and 19th of September last.

Resolved, That we recognize the hand of God in recent victories given to our arms, and in the prospect of a speedily conquered peace. We detest the spirit of opposition to the draft and a vigorous prosecution of the war. We extend our deepest sympathies to those bereaved by the loss of loved ones in the army. We assure our soldiers still in the service that they are kindly remembered by us. We pledge our moral influence, and if need be, our lives to the support of our National Government in the maintainance of its honor and the effectual and final suppression of this wicked rebellion praying that in the final conclusion of this awful struggle the last slave may be free and the accursed system of American Slavery known no more.

The Pioneer sometime since charged us with having published an incorrect edition of the Chicago platform by making the closing sentence of one of the resolutions to read on the basis of the "Federal States," instead of the "federal union of the States," and asks us to publish it correctly. We shall not do it. The Chicago Times has on several occasions stated that the former rendering was the correct one, and that paper is considered higher authority than the Pioneer.

Among the articles in the last box of sanitary stores sent to our soldiers by the Ladies' Aid Society of this place, was a small package containing needles, thread, buttons, and beeswax, donated by Miss Emma, daughter of Z. Paddock. That they fell into worthy hands will be seen from the following letter which was received by Miss Emma yesterday:

U. S. General Hospital,
New Albany, Ind. Sept. 27, '64.

Miss Emma C. Paddock:

Dear Little Miss:—The worthy soldier who received your neat and well filled little Housewife, or satchel of sewing articles desires me to write you in his behalf, and thank you most cordially for these truly needful articles. He is a noble young fellow, belonging to Co. D. 98th Ohio Vols. He was wounded by being shot through the head; the bullet going in below one cheek bone, and coming out below the other. It was a terrible wound, and he has suffered untold agonies. He received it from a rebel sharpshooter at Kenesaw Mountain in Georgia. He is worthy of all your kindness to him. He earnestly and patriotically desires to go back as soon as he is able, (which I am afraid will not soon be,) to help close out the rebellion. These articles, he says, have helped him greatly in repairing up his scantly and well-worn wardrobe.

The Consciousness that you have been useful to a brave and noble defender of your Country, will be a pleasant and happy reflection for you, and I hope it will encourage you to do more. God loves all such offerings from the young and the good. I hope you love the Saviour, and that you will have the privilege of meeting this noble Soldier in Glory at last.

I am your stranger friend,
A. H. LACKEY,
Chaplain U. S. A.

POLITICAL NEWS.

General John A. Logan, is out for Lincoln for President: He says that under ordinary circumstances he could not support Lincoln. But now there are only two parties, those who support and encourage the rebels, and those who are opposed to them. Honest men may be deluded with the opposition, but the tendency of supporting the Chicago nominees is to strengthen the rebellion. He therefore supports the Administration. He says that at Atlanta he only heard a single officer declare for McClellan, and that the demonstrations among the privates prove that they have no stock in that concern.

On Tuesday night after the entire North had been electrified and made happy by the glorious news of Sheridan's great victory, Gen. McClellan received the ovation of a torchlight procession in, Newark N. J. on which occasion he made the following speech:

"My friends; I cannot refrain from expressing my gratification for your kindness at this great demonstration in behalf of the Union, the Constitution, and the laws. I thank you for the honor done me. You surely will not expect me to address you at length at this time, and will excuse me for not making a speech, and allow me to retire, Gentlemen, again I thank you, and bid you good night.'

What sullen silence over Sheridan's victory! What heartless indifference to the wounds of twenty-five hundred braves in the Shenendoah! What unpatriotic, what inhuman neglect of a great victory, and most precious political event!

The Charleston Courier wants McClellan elected. It says:

"Our success in battle insures the success of McClellan. Our failure will inevitably lead to his defeat.

The Charleston Mercury wants McClellan elected. It says:

"If we hold our own and prevent further military successes on the part of our foes, there is every prospect that McClellan will be elected, and his election upon the Chicago platform must lead to peace and our independence."

The Richmond papers want McClellan elected. The Examiner, for example, says:

"The influence of the South more powerful in the shock of battle than when giving her minority vote in the electoral college, will be cast for McClellan.

Was not Grant right when he said "the only hope of the South was a divided North?" Was not General Seymour right when he said 'the only hope of the South now lies in the defeat of Mr. Lincoln.'

We find the following in the Philadelphia North American. It gives some indication how Pennsylvania will go on Thursday next:

Hospital Straws.—From an officer who took the pains to count noses, we learn that the soldiers in the McClellan Hospital voted a day or two since as follows: Lincoln 1,087 McClellan 193.

At the Chesnut Hill Hospital, of 424 men just arrived from the field, 399 voted for Mr. Lincoln and 25 for General McClellan.

A vote of the 195th Pennsylvania Volunteers, on the presidential question, resulted as follows: Lincoln, 264; McClellan, 34.

Grant, it is said, recently expressed his belief that within three weeks, Richmond would be taken.

Extract from a Soldier's Letter.

What the soldiers think let this extract say. It is from an officer in gallant Phil. Sheridan's army:

"We can soon close the war if you will only send us men and sympathy—men to fight the rebels, and sympathy to make us forget, if possible, that there are men at the North who would rob us of our laurels; who would have us bend our necks to rebels in arms, and grant them and even propose to them, in face of all our success, an armistice—! Fight against the Copperheads—crush them—and by so doing you will greatly encourage the army and make us perfectly sure of success, and that a speedy one."

Shall we betray the noble men who are fighting our battles, who have won two victories within a week? Let us be true to them as they are to the Union and the Flag.

A Witty Letter from Daniel S. Dickinson.

There was an immense Union meeting in Pittsburg last Thursday, at which the following letter from Daniel S. Dickinson was read:

Binghampton, September 24, 1864.

John W. Riddell, Esq., Chairman of Committee, &c:

"My Dear Sir:—Our Circuit Court sits here on the 26th, and will doubtless continue a week; and being engaged in legal practice, I cannot leave. But for this, your very kind invitation for the 29th, and my desire to ventilate the Chicago capitulation before the people of Pittsburg would be quite likely to secure my attendance.

Believing General McClellan entitled to fair treatment, I am quite inclined to censure those who are proposing to distort his comely proportions by placing one foot in the sliding-slippery-surrender structure of Chicago, and the other on a vigorous prosecution of a patriotic war on "conservative principles!" It requires too much tension of muscle, and is entirely unjustified at the present price of ready made clothing. The Collossus of Rhodes, though made of brass nearly equal to that of Chicago, fell in attempting to stand astride a much narrower gulf than seperates these points, and as the General is well read in history as in classic fable, he will have no apology for attempting an exploit of such unusual daring. Hoping for the success of the Union cause, and believing that our good land is to be rescued from the grasp of the despoiler, I am sincerely yours,

D. S. Dickinson."

Mr. Vallandigham's "Own Familiar Friend."

In a speech at Sydney, Ohio, Vallandigham thus announced that he should support McClellan:

"That there may be no misapprehension, let me say to you that I intend to vote on the 8th of November, and meantime to support, according to the measure of my zeal and ability the nominees of the Chicago Convention—George B. McClellan and George H. Pendleton. Speaking thus distinctly upon that point, I am here to discuss, not the personal qualifications of the gentlemen named—one of whom is my own familiar friend—but to discuss democratic principles."

And then he went on to say that Gen. McClellan's letter made no difference, and was of no more importance than any other individual's letter. He said:

"They are the private opinions, if you please, of General McClellan, which he has a perfect right to entertain and publish. I having an equal and perfect right to dissent from them do reject them." * * * *

"I not only entertain the opinions expressed in the Chicago platform, but I recognise that platform as containing the law and the prophets of the democratic party."

Mr. Vallandigham is of opinion that the democratic church is ruled by the law and the prophets," notwithstanding the private opinions of the priest who ministers the sacrifice.

Tricks and treachery are the practice of fools that have not wit enough to be honest.

After reading a worthless book, one feels as if he had tried his jaws in cracking an empty nut.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM "NOW AND THEN."

A Tender Feeling towards Rebels.

COLORED TROOPS TO SHARE FATIGUE DUTY EQUALLY WITH THE WHITE SOLDIERS.

Morganzia, Louisiana,
September 23, 1864.

Editor Mankato Weekly Union:

Some eleven hundred miles or more below St. Louis, on the west bank of the Mississippi river, is located the post of Morganzia. There is no town here, but one C. Morgan owned an extensive plantation, upon which were erected, at great expense, mills of sufficient capacity to manufacture the products grown. But now everything lies in ruins. Improvements all gone! Instead of the thrifty sugar cane we now see weeds. It was near here that the advance of Gen. Herron's force was captured by the Confederates on the 4th of October, 1863. The expedition was organized and sent out to clear this section of the country of guerrillas, but the enemy were found strongly posted on the Atchafalaya and succeeded in capturing the 20th Iowa and portions of the 19th Iowa and 26th Indiana, 150 cavalry and a section of artillery.

Morganzia is important as a military position and commands a bend in the river, which, previous to its occupation by our forces, was used by the ubiquitous rebels to the great annoyance of our steamboat men. After the denouement of the Red river campaign a portion of Gen. Banks' command went into camp here. This is a geographical military center or post of observation, from whence expeditions are sent out, as the exigencies of the upper or lower country seem to demand. Troops can be easily thrown to the doomed city of Mobile—to the billions regions of the White river valley, or wherever else required in this Division. As a strategic point it has many of those essential conditions requisite to a geographical theatre for offensive and defensive operations. The permanent garrison is chiefly composed of colored troops. The position has been made defensible by the construction of formidable fortifications.

Brig Gen. M. K. Lawler is post commandant. It is said that he has a tender regard for the feelings of rebels; that he deals gently with them and that the exercise of a broad charity covers their sins of omission and commission. This imputed tenderness and kindness of heart towards our "erring brothers" is perhaps very commendable, but not at all calculated to hasten on the subjugation of the rebels nor restore peace to the country. Well known rebels pass through our lines almost daily. Their favorite resort is to the Commissary depot. Supplies are taken to the Atchafalaya. A certain rebellious planter receives—perhaps not as a reward for his disloyalty—loads of supplies. But it so happens that as soon as ever they reach the famishing planter and his family, a foraging party from the Confederate force in that vicinity, steps in and appropriates them to the use of the soldiers of Jeff. Davis. The loss, however, does not dishearten him, for he is said to repeat the drawing operation as often as those lawless soldiers take from him; and accepting the testimony of an aged slave it is safe to assume that they keep informed of all arrivals of stores. Is it to be wondered that the rebellion is not yet effectually crushed, if all these things be true? In the name of our common humanity and all the hardships through which our patriot soldiers have passed is it right or just that the miseries of war should be prolonged by feeding enemies who stand ready to plunge the dagger to the heart of any man whose love for the old flag has never departed. Can it be that the love of gain overrides every consideration of duty, conscience and regard for those who endure the fatigues of the camp and the march? Is it possible that those high in command would jeopardize the liberties of a great people by providing a common enemy with the nourishment which only intensifies his hate and gives increase to his thirst for blood? The evidence at hand would seem to establish such a state of facts. There lives within our lines a certain gentleman of strong rebel proclivities. Some goods came consigned to him from New Orleans the other day. The officer through whose hands they passed thought it very proper that Mr. Rebel should be invited to take the oath of allegiance. He replied with more emphasis than elegance, that he'd "be d——d if he would." Higher authority was appealed to, but with a tenderness unlike that of a Grant or a Sherman—the decision was "let him go, let him go." Such is said to be the governing policy at more points than one along this river; and this too, at a period when our Nation is struggling for an existence. While the application of such means may contribute largely to the support of our fighting enemies and give pleasure to their "peace-at-any-price allies of the North," it is not at all encouraging to the mass of our soldiers. Loyal men desire peace only on the basis of entire submission to the laws of the land. It is very evident that the rebels intend to fight on and the Government is reduced to the alternative of subduing that infernal spirit which inaugurated the rebellion. Rapid and determined blows are especially needed now to finish the work of National purification that has been going on for three years or more.

There seems to be at present a desire to improve the standard of discipline among the troops located here. Colored troops are not compelled to drill with the spade over six hours per day; a great improvement over the ten and twelve hour system that obtained through all the summer. The incorporation of colored troops into the army of the United States, implied that as soldiers they should be disciplined as speedily as possible. And when Gen. Thomas issued his order No. 21, he said that "the practice which has hitherto prevailed, requiring these troops to perform most of the labor on fortifications, and the labor and fatigue duties of permanent stations and camps, will cease, they will only be required to take their fair share of fatigue duty with white troops. This is necessary to prepare them for the higher duties of conflicts with the enemy." And yet the remedy has not been applied to that extent contemplated by Adjt. Gen. Thomas. He declared when last here that these men should be treated as soldiers. Commanders might neutralize his efforts in one way and another for a while—but not always. Since the assignment of Gen. Canby to the Military Division of West Missisipi a change of policy has been inaugurated. Order is taking the place of confusion, and instruction in all that pertains to the perfect soldier is insisted upon. Everything promises well under his administration. His strictures upon trade with insurgents has struck terror to the ranks of those speculating leeches who would betray the nation for thirty pieces of silver, or the cotton grown upon one respectable plantation. This class of men are fattening upon the misfortunes of our country and as between a soldier and a bale of cotton, they would cling to the latter every time, for it is their god. It will take a long time to clear these Augean stables of all corruption; and some points may be cursed with Federals who have "cotton on the brain," yet a little longer, as "General Willis A. Gorman, Esq." the Copperhead orator is said to have been afflicted in the days of his prosperity. But their doom is sealed and it will not be long before the last of the race will be banished to that quiet seclusion for which they are so well adapted.

The Administration is thoroughly in earnest in the work of maintaining the unity of the country. Dish-water generals are made subordinate to those sterling heroes, like Grant, and Sherman, and Canby. Fremont resigned militarily, and is subsiding, politically. McClellan has allowed a junto of patent Copperheads to steal away a portion of his loyalty and incorporate him into their platform as a peace or war plank, as the case may demand. If Little Mac throws up his commission he will be entitled to some credit, but when the ides of November come he will find that he has been the victim of misplaced confidence and the vanquished representative of a miserable crowd of political sneaks who labored zealously but not wisely for the interests of Jeff Davis.

Gen. Stephen A. Hurlburt assumed command of the Department of the Gulf on Saturday the 23d inst. It is rumored that Gen. Banks goes North.

The twenty or more Minnesotians at this place send greeting to the loyal men of our young State for placing in nomination for Congress Messrs. Windom and Donnelly. They have served with honor and ability and should by all means be returned.

NOW AND THEN.

Protection to Settlers.

The following letter from Gov. Miller is in reply to the petition from settlers in this and adjacent counties, which we published some time since.

Executive Department,
St. Paul, October 5th 1864.

C. H. Slocum, Editor Mankato Union.

Sir:—Will you please inform the petitioners referred to in your paper of the 30th ult., that Brig. Gen. Sibley proposes to strengthen our outposts within a few days by two and a half companies now on their way from Milwaukee. He also anticipates the return of the Second Minnesota Cavalry from Sully's Expedition within a brief period, and will so distribute that command as to afford the utmost protection to the frontier.

Very respectfully yours,
STEPHEN MILLER.

The Feeling in the Army.

A letter just received from an officer of the Forty-second Massachusetts regiment (says the Boston Advertiser) gives the following account of the general feeling of the army:

"Let our friends at home understand that the army is not for the Chicago platform, whoever may be its nominee. You cry for peace, you who are at home, in the enjoyment of life and personal comfort. Can you more sincerely wish for peace than we? Surely we want peace and have some reason to cry for it, better than the Copperheads. Yes, we want peace, but what sort of peace? Pass down the ranks of any corps, division or brigade; speak to those who are just in from picket who are weary, tired and hungry, tell them to throw down their muskets and go home. I don't know their reply, but I would not guaranty your personal safety. "Go home" with the enemy in front? Haul down the flag and stack arms, with the rebel flag floating defiantly in our faces? Make an "armistice" with a foe? Hold a "convention" with traitors and those who have violated their oaths? Never! You ask too much; we would not humiliate ourselves to such a degree. The three rousing cheers for the Union would chill your blood. Look hopeful at home. The rebels 'have been getting us where they wanted us." They got Sherman into Atlenta, poor man! I hope they will get Grant into Richmond in the same way. We do not ask you to cheer us for we are in the most excellent spirits. But be hopeful and cheerful yourselves."

If Lee finds himself obliged to call Hood to his help, he has one last card to play, namely an invasion of Pennsylvania, to influence the November election. It is not impossible that he will attempt this with his whole force; it will be a signal that he and Davis give up all hope of military success, and are determined to help the election of McClellan, with the expectation in that way to secure, by political intrigue, and by cessation of hostilities and negotiations, the object for which they have no longer the strength to fight.

A Certain Old Lady, who had been famed for sour looks and not very sweet words, touching the accidents of life, was observed to become very amiable. "What happy change has come over you?" asked a neighbor. "Why," said the transformed "to tell you the truth, I have been all my life striving for a contented mind, and have finally concluded to sit down contented without it."

Incredible as it may seem, many of the richest planters in Jamaica live on coffee grounds.

A young lady should take heed when an admirer bends low before her. The bent beau is dangerous.

A boy makes a huge snow-ball to show his skill and perseverance, and as some-thing to wonder at, not that he can swallow it as an ice, or warm his hands at it; and a man accumulates a pile of wealth for pretty much the same reason.

Grandmother used to say to grandfather:—"it is no use quarreling my dear, when you know we must make it up again."

The October Elections.

Every loyal man will rejoice at the Union victories we have gained in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. In another column we publish the full returns so far as received, and these indicate that the Unionists will carry these great States by overwhelming majorities.

We have delayed sending our paper to press until late Thursday night in order to give our readers the latest news by the St. Paul papers, but unfortunately the telegraph line was down, and no news had been received in St. Paul, and they must therefore be content with the following from the Press. Should we receive important news we will send an extra to our up-country readers by Monday's mail.

Owing to an unfortunate break in the wires we are unable to furnish later dispatches concerning the elections than those published yesterday morning. The opinions of Forney's Press, the New York World and Philadelphia Age are furnished but they are based on the same Tuesday night reports, [though probably fuller] that we have already given. The reliability and modesty of the World statement is manifest in the paragraph which totally denies a Union victory in Indiana, but offers no figures in proof.

The Philadelphia Press, which is as competent as any paper in the State or country to foresee the result from partial returns, thinks the Union ticket will receive 20,000 maj.

Mr. Windom's Speech.

On Monday afternoon and evening of this week, the Union men were out to listen to speeches from Hon. William Windom, J. G. Betz, of St. Paul, and Horace Austin of St Peter.

In the afternoon Mr. Windom addressed an audience of over five hundred persons, among whom were many ladies, in the grove near Col. Smith's house. His speech was a masterly effort, and had a good effect on a number of Democrats we saw present. At the outset he devoted half an hour or more to answering the questions propounded to him by a score of Copperheads in Belle Plaine, and which were published in in the Record of last week. We have not room to publish his remarks on these points, but shall endeavor to give a synopsis of them in our next issue. It is sufficient to know for the present that he gave a fair answer to them all.

At the conclusion of his speech J. G. Betz, Esq., one of the electors on the Union ticket, spoke in German for some time, and those who understood it, say that it was a good speech. In the evening Horace Austin, of St. Peter, spoke in the City Hall, to a large audience. The hall was so crowded that many had to go away unable to get inside. He gave a good speech in defense of the Administration; and showed up the deceitfulness of the Chicago platform, and its representative Mr. McClellan.

Mr. Windom's speeches at Garden City and Winnebago City were listened to by large and enthusiastic audiences. Many democrats at the former place attended the meeting, and the scathing remarks on their candidate and platform made them wince, but they had to take it, bitter as the pill was.

Buying up Sioux Claims.

Mr. Editor:—The Statesman, of a recent date says I have been buying up the claims of poor and needy sufferers by the Sioux War, and the Hon. Wm. Windom has been a party to the same, and has shared in the profits. I desire to say that the charge against Mr. Windom is unqualifiedly false in every respect. The only persons whom I have been buying for are the Messrs. Thompsons, of St. Paul, and they are the only ones who have shared in the profits.

Yours truly,
A. Tibbets.

Forty-Five Million Seven-Thirties Subscribed.

The subscriptions to this popular loan are now over forty-five million dollars, and they continue to come in at the rate of about a million a day. The public are satisfied that there are no other investments so profitable as U. S. securities. While nearly all the hundreds of miscellaneous stocks sold in the New York market have been declining for several weeks (in many instances twenty-five per cent,) Government stocks have remained firm; and while lenders loan very sparingly, and at high rates, on the best mercantile paper, they have plenty of money to lend on Government paper, at as low rates as ever. While the Government needs the people's money, and pays for it liberally, it offers the highest possible consideration besides, and that is, safety.

What We Owe, and Our Ability to Pay.

When any party proposes to borrow our money, we naturally inquire, Is the borrower solvent? Is he worth property sufficient to pay his debts? The United States is now in the market for money to complete the great work of crushing the rebellion, now evidently tottering to its fall. Vast numbers would give their money, as they have already given their sons, without hope of other reward than the consciousness of having performed the great and solemn duty that devolves upon every true patriot. But we will leave all considerations of duty and patriotism aside, and, taking only the business view, merely glance at the inventory of wealth, which is the foundation of credit.

According to that authentic document, U. S. Census Reports for 1860, the sum of the wealth of the entire country at that time was sixteen thousand one hundred and fifty-nine million dollars ($16,159,000,000,) of which only four thousand seven hundred millions ($4,700,000,000) was in States now in rebellion, and of this, four thousand seven hundred millions, over one and a half millions was in slaves. When the war is prosecuted to a successful termination, the property of the entire country will have to contribute to the payment of the national debt. But it is not the wealth of to-day that will pay it; it is the wealth that will be accumulated in the series of years that will elapse before the debt is finally due. The increase of our national wealth from 1840 to 1850 was 64 per cent., and from 1850 to 1860, 127 per cent. If our country was worth sixteen thousand millions in 1860, is there any reason why its property should not double every succeeding ten years? War may stop this increase in part, but not entirely. Unlike the nations of the Old World, we have only begun to develop our resources. We have half a continent that the plow has never touched, gold mines that they have only begun to be developed, and other mineral resources that only future generations will know of.

But let us avoid rhetoric, and keep to the bare facts of our statement.

Taking the wealth of the nation as in 1860, without increase, and it stands at	$16,159,030,000
The national debt, as stated at the last Treasury Report, Aug. 29, 1864, was	1,878,655,223
Surplus,	$14,280,434,777

The ratio of liability thus shown is only about 12 per cent, of the assets, and, throwing the Rebellious States quite out of the question, is only about 16 per cent. Would not a private individual with such a ballance sheet be considered worthy of credit?

But a glance at what others have done will best illustrate our own position, Take Great Britian, during one of the gloomiest periods of her financial history. At the end of her great wars in 1816, her wealth was estimated at ten thousand four hundred millions ($10,400,000,000,) and her national debt of that time was four thousand three hundred millions ($4,300,000,000,) or more than 41 per cent of her entire property. In 1861 her property was stated at thirty one thousand five hundred millions ($31,500,000,000,) while her debt was three thousand eight hundred and ninety millions, $3,890,000,000, or was a charge on the property of the country of only about 12½ per cent.

We write this not that we think any one fears the solvency of the country, but because we believe that every citizen should understand h general as well as individual account and who will give the best security as well as the best interest for his money. We know of no form of investment that combines so many advantages as the Government Loans.

* * *

An officer in Sheridan's army writes home to his friends: "Fight against the copperheads—crush them—and by so doing you will greatly encourage the army and make us perfectly sure of success, and that a speedy one."

He is not the only one who has that feeling. Said Gen. Hooker, in his speech at the Union meeting in Brooklyn last week, "Your victories are as dear to us in the front as the victories in the front are dear to you. The victories of last fall were hailed with as much joy and as much enthusiasm in the army as though they had been achieved by other armies."

A family of the name of Holt in the State of New York, on instituting ancestral researches in order to compile a genealogical history, have recently found themselves to be descendants and legal heirs of Sir John Holt, Lord Chief Justice of the Kings' bench, who died at his country seat at Belgrave, England, having an estate estimated at thirteen millions of pounds sterling, still unsettled, awaiting proofs of heirship.

* * *

Col. James F. Jaques of this State, is making speeches for Lincoln and Johnson in Indiana. His recent interview with Jeff Davis enables him to speak knowingly of the spirit and designs of the rebel Government.

* * *

The Colonel of a New York regiment now in the trenches before Petersburg, thus writes home to his father. The writer never yet voted anything but the regular Democratic ticket:

"The blanks have been forwarded us to vote. I shall have to vote for Lincoln, not on account of himself, or party, or economy's sake; but because of the Chicago platform, and the real necessity of showing the rebels that we mean business. That peace is only to be obtained on terms of submission. The recollection of Lincoln will be dreadful to them."

* * *

"The Union must be preserved at all hazards," says General McClellan. "If these Southern States cannot be reconciled," says Mr. Pendleton, candidate on the same ticket, "I would signalize their departure by tokens of love; I would bid them farewell so tenderly that they would forever be touched by the recollection of it."

* * *

The Philadelphia Press says: "Yesterday afternoon, when the news was published of the repulse of a rebel attack on our intrenchments on the Jerusalem road by our gallant colored soldiers, a well known supporter of General McClellan exclaimed: "Repulsed by niggers! Well, was it by white niggers or black niggaes?" Soldiers of Grant's army, what do you think of this?

* * *

It is astonishing to reflect upon the vitality of the Confederacy, after its back bone has been broken so many times at so many different places.—Chicago Times.

"If it. arbitary arrest of Maryland Legislature, is successfully carried out, it will go far towards breaking the back-bone of the rebellion."—General McClellan.

* * *

The great and pressing want of the McClellan Democracy is a sweeping defeat of the armies of the Union. Grant won't accommodate them.

* * *

The London Times finds comfort and hope in the nomination of McClellan. What should we think to see the ablest and most unscrupulous enemy of Americrn freedom in the world sustaining any Presidential candidate? The support of the Times should cover McClellan with infamy and shame.

We attack the LaCrosse Democrat Brick responds by dropping the exchange. If every paper which has expressed its disproval of his unmanly course has been thus cut, we would not give much for his list.—Hastings Conserver.

Dickinson, Train-master of the Illinois Central Road, unite in giving to the 11th Minnesota, Lieutenant Colonel John Ball, and the 136th Illinois, Colonel Frederick A. PLEASE CORRECT.—The St. Paul Press, in its reply to the St. Peter Tribune's attack on Gov. Miller makes mention of the Mankato Union, when it probably meant the Record. Will the Press please correct.

A vote was taken on the 25th ult, at he Adams Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., and resulted os follows: Lincoln, 262; McClellan 66; doubtful 3.

POSTMASTERS now receive fixed salaries. Those of the first class $4,000; Second class, $3,000; third class $2,000; fourth class $1,000, and the fifth class, $100. The office at this place is in the fourth class, we believe.

The firm of Wickersham & Kilgore has also been dissolved. Our friend Jason will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Kilgore, we understand will return to Kentucky.

THE DRAFT.—The following is the list of persons drafted in the towns named below:

DANVILLE—Elijah McCue, E. R. Bliven, Patrick Burns, and Henry Thompson.

MAPLETON—Wm. Patzholtz, Chas. Gregory.

STERLING—John J Lewis, Albert Etheridge, Geo. W Johnson, Chas. H Roberts.

LERAY—Andrew Sower, John Wagner.

CLOTHES LINE THEIVES.—We have among us a gang of thieves who are prowling about nights stealing clothes from the line that have been left out doors, or whatever else they can get their hands on. Several families left their clothes hanging on the line Monday night last, and in the morning found that the choicest of them were gone. The same night a saddle was stolen from Tompkins & Quinn's stables, and a bridle, belonging to Mr. Haynes of Vernon, from the Clifton House stable. Keep a bright lookout, and give these villains a small "rebel lifter."

Charlie Heinze has returned from Chicago, and his stock of fall goods will soon be here. He says that votes were taken on the different routes over which he went and gave us a few, which shows the sentiment of the people, everywhere.

On the LaCrosse & Milwaukee road, Lincoln had 47, and McClelan 21. On the Grand Haven, Lincoln 54, McClellan 23. On the Michigan Central Lincoln 30, McClellan 5. After dinner another vote was taken the Copperheads delaring that two-thirds on board were for McClellan, when Lincoln had 93 and Little Mac 54. Thus it is everywhere. There's no use of "kicking against the pricks!"

ANOTHER INDIAN SCARE.—A messenger brought word to Lieut. Mason, at Vernon Centre, last Saturday night, that fifty Indians had attacked the citizens of Madelia, and that they were defending themselves as best they could. Mr. Mason collected together about forty of his minute men, and immediately started to their relief. The party arrived in Madelia early on Sunday, but found no signs of Indians, and were informed by the citizens that none had been seen or heard of. So the boys had to march back twenty-six miles to their homes. It proved to be a false report, and the man or men who caused so much excitement, ought to be hung.

THE American Organ is an established "Institution," and every modern improvement has been introduced in their build. This valuable contribution to the musical world will undoubtedly be appreciated. It is the Standard Organ for Churches, Schools, Lodges, &c. Prices, from $80 to $450. W. W. Kimball, 142 Lake street, Chicago, Wholesale Depot for the North-west.

VALUABLE AND CONVENIENT.—"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are widely known as an admirable remedy for Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Coughs and other troubles of the throat and lungs. They are of great value for the purposes for which they are designed, and it should be known that while they are usually and pleasantly efficacious, they contain no hurtful ingredients, but may at all times be used with perfect safety.—Boston Recorder.

FINKLE & LYON'S

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood: and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
BITTERS.
A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels. Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Agne, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, It is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 22

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "Direful Diseases"
"Insanity and consumption." Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess the records of the insane asylums. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

Poetry.

From the Owatonna Plaindealer.

O, Where is My Darling To-Night?

The sombre shadows of autumn
Are sadly beginning to fall,
And earth in weeds of mourning,
Looks drear 'neath her sorrowful pall;
Thou art my sad sister autumn!
Our skies are o'ershadowed alike,
For vainly I ask the question,
Oh, where is my darling to-night?

They say the troops before Richmond
Are striking most terrible blows
At the bitter heart of rebellion—
And tell how unceasingly flows
The blood of our braves, slain in battle—
Bring not the vision the sight,
My soul, sick with sorrow, is asking
Oh, where is my darling to-night?

They tell me Atlanta is taken,
Our armies are flushed with success—
A few more brave battles for freedom,
Our beloved land the proudest and best,
Will be free from the presence of traitors,
They must fly the Virgin a Den,
That Columbia's flag will wave o'er it—
But where will my darling be then?

"All quiet within the Interior,"
Dispatches from Washington say,
Then hint of the dread guerrilla
That tiger-like prowls for his prey;
Ah! many a noble soldier
Of some heart the life and blight,
Meets death in the fierce banditti—
Oh, where is my darling to night!

True sons and daughters of Freedom,
Thy sacrifice brings the this doom,
To one year of sorrow and weeping
The other a rest in the tomb?
Yet Columbia's life shall be rescued,
Her fair fame be treasured, as when
The immortal Washington lover her,
But where will my darling be then?

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

"Ah, God, we've a man with heart head, hand,
Like one of the simple great ones gone
Forever and ever by;
One still strong man in a blatant land;
Whatever they call him, what care I;
Aristocrat, democrat, autocrat—one
Who can rule and dare not lie."

"As in the Past."

We beg pardon; the other day we made a quotation from a speech delivered at Portland, Maine, in 1858, by Mr. Jefferson Davis, "our present adversary," and a Democrat of "the past." We should have accompanied that quotation with another. We do so now. Here is what Mr. Davis said at Portland, Maine, in 1858:

"If, at some future time, when I am mingled with the dust, and the arm of my infant sons has been nerved for deeds of manhood, the storm of war should burst upon your city, I feel that, relying upon his inheriting the instinct of his ancestors and mine, I may pledge him in that perilous hour to stand by your side in the defence of your hearthstones, and in maintaining the honor of a flag whose constellation, though torn and smoked in many a battle, by sea and by land, has never been stained with dishonor, and will, I trust forever fly as free as the breeze which unfolds it."

Pretty, isn't it? When the 'storm of war bursts' on us, he is going to 'stand by our side.' Well, in 1861 the 'storm of war burst' on us: and on the 26th of December, 1862, Mr. Davis told the Mississippi Legislature that he should 'stand by our side'—thus:

"Our enemies are a traditionless, homeless race. From the days of Cromwell to the present day they have been the disturbers of peace of the world. Gathered together by Cromwell from the bogs and the fens of the north of Ireland and of England, they commenced by disturbing the peace of their own country. They disturbed that of Holland, to which they fled, and they disturbed England on their return. After what has happened in the last two years, my only wonder is, that we consented to live for so long a time in association with such miscreants. Were it ever proprosed to enter again into a Union with such a people, I could no more consent to do it than to trust myself in a den of thieves."

Pretty, ain't it? 'Chivalric,' isn't it?

'Resolved, That in the future, as in the past, we willl adhere to the Union.'—Democratic Platform.

Dreadful Death of a Young Lady

On Thursday evening last Miss. Lydia Elliott, a young lady seventeen years of age, lost her life from falling into a kettle of boiling sorghum molasses, at the residence of Mr Alex. York, about three miles east of town. She was at play with some companions at the time, and carelessly running against the kettle, fell into it. Her burns were severe upon one leg and one arm, but probably not enough to have killed her had they been properly treated, as, after receiving them she was placed in a trough and bucket-full after bucket-full of water thrown on her, which produced convulsions. In these she lingered from about seven in the evening until half past four in the morning, when death came to her relief. She was buried on Friday, in the wedding dress in which she would have been married had she lived a few days longer.—Keithsburg Observer, Ill.

Choice Items for the Democrats.

Democracy sees the "wickedness" of the Administration. Why does it fail to see the wickedness of the Rebellion?

You want Peace. You can have it by compelling those who drew the sword to sheath it. Are you attempting it?

If the Rebellion is not crushed, it will be because some men withhold needed strength. Whose name will go down on that black list?

A Convention of Sovereign States is asked. Let us have a pledge that it will please their Sovereign Lordships to remain in the Union and abide by the Convention.

War being the only road to Peace and Union, those who desire these blesssings will briskly move over the road. Are you doing it?

Democracy says the South will come back if we will guarantee them Slavery. The South says they will not. Which do you believe?

Peace is every way eminently desirable. It can be had by fighting for it.

The south say they will return to the Union when forced to, and not before. War, therefore, becomes the road to Peace and Union.

Is it safe to stop fighting, intending to offer your enemy certain concessions when he says he will not accept them?

The rebels are fighting for their independence. Democracy thinks they will stop if we let their slaves alone. Their love for the negro is not quite quite so strong as that; and if it was, they had them all to themselves before they commenced to fight.

Democracy says the South was driven out of the Union. Vice President Stevens says they were not. They had their own way in everything, and did not secede because of aggressions. We think he knowns best.

Democracy says Abolition stands in the way of Union. Davis says it does not; they do not care for Slavery; it is Independence they want. His authority is the best,

The Democracy only can make peace with the Rebels now, because they alone stand ready to acknowledge the right of Secession.

Peace and Union are inseperable. Are you doing anything to destroy those who would divide them?

You are tired of the War. What are are you doing to end it?

The Democracy want a Convention of the States. We wanted one in 1861 but they wouldn't grant it. If they wish to come over on our ground, well.

You want the war to stop. Then you do not want an armistice, for that would be but stopping to enable one of the combattants to obtain refreshments.

You long for Peace. What are you doing to bring it about?

The South say they want Independence. Democracy say they do not; they want Slavery. We think the South know what they want.

The South will not stop fighting they say, until they are compelled to. We must therefore, force them to keep the peace.

The South say they will not consent to return to the Union until the fortunes of war compel them to. The only way to Union and peace, is to supply that compulsion.

Mr. Lincoln thinks the South will not grant us Peace until they cease fighting for Slavery and Independence. If you think they will, get them to say so.

You say Mr. Lincoln loves Abolition more than Peace. But he really loves Peace more than Slavery. Do you?

A Successful Experiment.

From the Vicksburg Herald, Sept. 25th.

There is at Davis Bend a great experiment in progress of what the freedmen may be expected to do hereafter. There are about 75 colored farmers working land on their own account, and working about 1,200 acres of cotton, besides as much more corn.

This trial of their capacity and readiness to work—planned and encouraged by Colonel Eaton—is a success. They will make, on average, from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

There is scarcely one failure among the seventy-five lessees. Some negroes this year will clear from $10,000 to $20,000, who were slaves three years ago. And yet men still wonder 'what shall be done with the blacks.' There is one good use to which they might be put viz: to instruct those who know no better than to ask such a question now!

Jeff Davis' plantation is all covered with these negro farms, and just where the rebellion was hatched shall rise up the demonstratian that black men need only opportunity to solve the great problem that has so vexed the politicians.

You will always find a majority for McClellan in the guard house—never in the hospital.

What His Southern Friends Think of Him.

The following is extracted from a letter found in a rebel mail-bag recently captured near Shepherdstown, Virginia. It is from the pen of Col. Dunham, late a New York "Democrat," who had the pluck to go South, to his friend Bishop, of Brooklyn. He claims still to be a Unionist, and is fighting to restore the Union, under the rule of Jeff. Davis or some other Southern gentleman. He says:

Let me tell you, my dear boy, you may pray for peace until hell freezes over—that is, peace with the restoration of the Union—and there will be no peace. Mars is relentless, and Concordia is deaf. There can be no peace until Black Republicans and Abolitionists are silenced and reduced to an equality, or, at least, a level, with the niggers they claim as their equals. Let your Chicago Convention nominate Mr. Davis for the Presidency—and I know a majority of the delegates would vote for him if they dared—and on his election you can and will have peace. Of course you will not do this. The next best thing you can do is to nominate and elect McClellan. The South don't regard him as a military genius, as the Northern press would make the people believe they do, but they believe him to be what was once called a Northern man with Southern principles. His election, my dear boy, would do much to pacify and conciliate the South. We are satisfied that, if you elect him, the right of Secession and independence would be acknowledged, and that terms of reconstruction would be offered which we might with honor accept. I don't say, however, they would be accepted.

It is my opinion, as it is the opinion of President Davis and the leading men of the South, that the war must continue until one side or the other is subjugated. The more assistance you Democrats render, indirectly, the sooner we shall be able to vanquish the Abolition hordes, and restore peace and Union. It may seem paradoxical, but I assure you, my boy, we are fighting for Union—fighting to place the old United States under one Government, and we shall do it in such a way that no Abolition baboon will ever agais get at the head of it.

Gov. Randall's Illustration.

Ex-Governor Randall, of Wisconsin, made a speech at the great Union mass meeting in Indianapolis last Friday, from which we take an extract that brought down the house.

The platform, he said was one thing; the platform with McClellan off it was another thing; and the candidate with his own platform was still another thing, while Pendleton was nothing—a blank. Which of the three things represented the party it was impossible to tell. It reminded the speaker of a mother in Wisconsin who presented her husband with three children at a birth—one was a boy, one a girl, and the other neither the one nor the other. A little four year old stood looking with wonder at her little pets, when she sagely inquired "Ma, which one are you going to keep?" It was a serious question with the Democracy which they would keep, their Peace plaform, their War candidate, or the two combined, which was equivalent to neither. I think of the many illustrations of the absurd and imbecile character of the Chicago Democracy that I have heard, this is the most expressive and truthful. It certainly received the hearty and hillarious approbation of the great crowd that heard it. A rousing repeater was called forth by immediately alluding to Vallandigham's arrest, employing his favorite phraseology, "while in his own house and in his own bed," as though, insinuated the speaker, it would have been more Democratic to have been caught in somebody else's house and some one else's bed!

Short but Effective speech of Mr. Pendleton:

On January 9th, 1863, Mr. Dunn rose in the House of Representatives and said:

I ask the unanimous consent of the House for leave to introduce a bill to facilitate the transportation of troops, stores and the mails of the United States between the city of Washington, Point of Rocks and the city of Pittsburg.

Mr. Pendleton rose and said: 'I object.'

Objection being made the bill had to lie over.

IN conformity with the old custom of advertising from the public sign post all intentions of marriage, the following announcement was made. 'Marriage is intended between Mr. Williams of Williamstown and Miss Betsy Williams of Williamsbridge.' A mischievous wag, to make it still more explicit, wrote underneath: 'For particulars see small bill next year.

Douglas' Living Political Representative.

General John A. Logan, of Illinois more nearly represents Stephen A. Douglas' 'right-hand man,' as all who remember the political history of Illinios during the brilliant public career of Douglas well recollect.

As his living representative, Logan's present views may be safely accepted as those of Douglas, were he still living. In view of this fact, we commend to the followers and friends of the departed Statesman of Illinois, the able, patriotic and unanswerable speech of General Logan, delivered last Saturday at Carbondale, which we publish to-day.

Once a strong and active partisan, who made politics his specialty, Gen. Logan now in the midst of the dangers and perils that menace his country's very existence, nobly rises above the mere portisan or politician and not only gives himself to the service of that country in the field, but, seeing plainly and feeling strongly what is the duty of the patriot in this emergency, as fearlessly supports those who officially represent the national cause, as he gallantly fights for the only kind of peace that honorable, true and brave men deem worth having.

We can only regret that so many who were once the followers of Douglas and Logan in Illinois, are now proving themselves unworthy of their leaders by fraternizing with the peace-sneak allies of those who were the enemies of Douglas, and who are now the enemies of Logan and all patriots and loyal men.

An Indian's Strategy.

An army letter relates the folowing:—A very curious piece of strategy which took place the other day shows that the wonders of Cooper's Indian heroes have not ceased. One of the 14th New York artilery—a Senaca Indian, I believe, from the Western part of the state—undertook on a wager to bring in a rebel sharpshooter, who was pearched in a tree in front of our lines, considerably in advance of his own. His manner of accomplishing this was an ingenious as succesful, and rivals the 'deviltry' of any of the leather-stocking redskins. Procuring a quantity of pine boughs, he enveloped himself with them from head to foot, attatching them securely to a branch, which he lashed lengthwise of his body. When completed he was indistinguishable to a casual observer from the surrounding foliage, and resembled a tree as closely as it was possible for his really artistic efforts to render him. Thus prepared, and with musket in hand concealed likewise, he stole by almost inpreceptible movements to beneath the tree where the sharpshooter was lodged. Here he patiently waited until his prey had emptied his piece at one of our men, when he suddenly brought his musket to bear upon the 'reb' giving him no time to reload. The sharpshooter was taken at a disadvantage. To the demand to come down he readily assented, when the Indian triumphantly marched him a prisoner into camp and won his wager.'

Dan. Rice is about to open the campaign in this district, to electioneer for himself, for State Senator, and adqocate the election of McClellan. He will be accompanied by his celebrated mules. One of these mules he has christened 'McClellan' and the other Chicago,' and with them he will illustrate how the Young Napoleon's letter of acceptance agrees with the Chicago platform. Dan. says they are as much alike as his two mules, and he can prove it by the same sort of mule logic which inspires the copperheads in all their political efforts. From the indications, there is no doubt that the nomination of Dan. and his mules will prove the most eminently proper thing ever done by the copperheads of this region.—Crawford Journal, Pa.

HIGH.—A down easter recently came to New York, and took lodgings at what might be termed one of the 'high' houses. Telling the waiters that he wished to be called in the morning in time for the boat, they both proceeded on their winding way upward, until having arrived at the top of the eighth flight of stairs, when Johnathan caught the arm of the guide, and thus accosted him: 'look here stranger! if yew intend to call me at six o'clock in the mornin' you might as well dew it now, as 'twill be that time afore I can git down agin!'

A seven year old boy of Buffalo was recently heard to use profane language, and on being reproved by his parents, and directed to ask God's forgiveness, retired to his room and was heard to say, 'O God! I am sorry I said that naughty word, and wont say it any more; but hurry and make me grow to be a man, and then I can swear and chew and smoke as much as I want, like pa, and nobody will notice it.'

A Novel Plea.

A lawyer relates the following incident that occurred in his practice:

He was trying a petty case, in which one of the parties not able to pay counsel fees, and undertook to plead his own cause. But he found in the course of the trial, that the keen and adroit attorney who managed the case for the other party, was too much for him in legal strategy, evidently making the worse appear the better cause.

The poor man, Mr. A., was in a state of mind bordering on desperation, when the opesing counsel closed his plea, and the case was about to be submitted to the justice for decision.

"May it please your honor" said the man "may I pray?" The judge was taken somewhat by surprise, and could only say he saw no objections. Whereupon Mr. A. went down upon his knees and made a fervent prayer, in which he laid the merits of his case before the Lord in a very clear and methodical statement of all the particulars, pleading that right and justice might prevail. "O Lord thou knowest this lawyer has misrepresented the facts, and thou knowest that this is so and so"—to the end of the chapter.

Arguments which he could not present in logical array to the understanding of men, he had no difficulty in addressing to the Lord, being evidently better versed in praying than in pettifogging.'

When he rose from his knees, Esquire W., the opening counsel, very much exasperated by the turn which the case had taken, said. "Mr. Justice, does not the closing argument belong to me?" To which the judge replied; "You can close with prayer, if you please!" Esq. W. was in the habit of praying at home but not seeing the propriety of connecting his prayer with his practice, wisely forebore, leaving poor Mr. A. to win his case, as he did, by his novel mode of presenting it—Herald of Life.

How a Copperhead was Shaved.

The Philadelphia North American tells the following story:

A well know frequenter of Third street stopped yesterday in a barber shop, close to the North American building, sat down in a shaving chair, drew a newspaper from his pocket, and instructed the knight of the razor to take off his beard. The barber was an African. He simply replied "yes boss," and produced his implements. The customer sat down. He was duly shaved. His face was wiped, and arose, donned his coat and hat.

'How much?" he asked, in a dolorous voice, as he adjusted his shirt collar.

'Fifteen cents, boss.'

'Why, I thought you shaved for ten cents at this shop.'

'Dat ar's de average, sah,' was the reply. 'Ten cents is de price of a shave in dis yer shop. You come in here, sah, and read de news of Sheridan's victory, and your face got six inches longer dan when you come in. If your face was like it was afore you read dat yar news, ten cents was de price. When you commenced to read about de defeat of Early, den yer face stretched down about four inches. Dat's what makes it wurf fifteen cents for der shave."

The customer couldn't restrain a grin, though he was a Copperhead, and the hit at him was made by a nigger.' He laid down the fee, and walked out. He was one of those gentleman who go their length upon McClellan, and who, of course shudder at every victory to the Union arms.

A PALPABLE HIT.—The soldiers in the hospitals here while away the tedious hours of confinement within doors by animated political discussions on the prominent topics of the day. While a large squad of them was thus engaged in the Sisters of Charity Hospital, a few days ago, a lady well known to them, and loved for her many and constant deeds of charity, entered the room. After listening for a few moments to the debate, she interrupted it with the remark: "Boys, all this discussion is useless, for Gen. McClellan died last night!" This startling announcement, conveyed with a convincing solemnity of countenance, hushed all contention, and it was some time before one of the soldiers ventured to break the silence by asking what he died of. "He tried to swallow the Chicago platform," the lady answered, "and was choked to death." The roar of laughter which followed the reply proved that the boys fully appreciated the palpable hit.—Buffalo Express.

Then let an acquaintance drop in and begin to tell you stories and gossips of the town; and let him sit, and SIT, and sit. That is the quickest way we can think of to go raving distracted mad.

The Fall Elections:

The last straw necessary to break the Democratic camels back has recently been added, in the results of the Fall elections in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania. When Vermont and Maine rolled up a few weeks before increased Union majorities the Cops all exclaimed. "Oh, it is just what we expected, but only wait a few weeks until we hear from the States of Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania." Well, these States have been heard from, and what is the result on the State tickets, Ohio 75,000, Indiana 25,000 and Pennsylvania 200,000 Union majority, while in the matter of Congressmen we have gained 12 in Ohio, in Indiana 4 and probably 2 or 3 in Pennsylvania. The Congressional gain would have been still larger in Pennsylvania had the entire soldier's votes been received but the interruption of communication with Sheridrn's army prevented the wish of the Commissioners to receive their votes. As usual, now that these elections have gone Anti copperhead, such papers as the St. Paul Pioneer and others have not yet heard the news, and still parade in their papers Democratic majorities in Pennsylvania. Copperheads stand from under. The people understand all this bosh about peace at any price, and are for a vigorous prosecution of the war, until the rebels unable any longer to resist the conquering boys in blue will cry "hold, enough!" Then when the rebels begin to show a return to reason, and more respect for the old flag, will it be time to talk of peace: We all want peace, a sweet lasting peace, one which will exist as long as God permits us to have a Nationality, but the people do not want a patched up peace, or one founded upon some base and dishonorable concession of any of the principles to sustain which this war has been waged. In a word the people don't want the sort of peace which a pack of peace sneaks can patch up, and which is liable to be broken up every presidential election unless we continually yield to the whims and dictation of a haughty and arristocratic Southern minority.

A False Prophet.

That great blow hard Bill Cullen one of the Democratic candidates for Electors of this State, was here about the first of August last, and asserted that Dave Turpin would beat Schuyler Colfax for Congress two to one, and was willing to bet money on the result. By the last returns it seems the voters of the 2nd Congressional District in Indiana have knocked his prophecy into pi, having elected Colfax to Congress by 1,600 majority.

This same Cullen also bet $500 agains $1,000 at Shakopee that Little Mac. the "Dig tator" would be our next President. He only advanced $50 to cover his bet, and no inducement can be now held out to him to pony over the remaining $450.

When Bill, the Democatic elector,—the would be Congressman,—the Democratic prophet, is discouraged at the prospects of the Democratic party in this election, it is high time that the little mackerals in town should take warning and like rats, abandon the sinking ship.

The Democratic "Pow-Wow."

A Democratic Pow-wow of the spurious kind was held in City Hall on Tuesday evening of this week. The meeting was well attended, by both Union men and Democrats. Judge Branson introduced the speakers as about to address the audience on the political issues of the day. A most unappropriate introduction, as any discussion of the political issues now dividing the Union and Democratic parties was carfully avoided by both of the speakers.

H. W. Lamberton, the Democratic candidate for Congress, in this District, formerly an old Breckenridge Democratic, known in years gone by as "old three per cent. a month," a sort of land office money sharper, was the first speaker. He commenced by extending his sympathy to the ladies present, whose brothers, husbands and friends were now absent from home, and were fighting at the South, but forgot to add that if such able-boded men as himself and others of the peace persuasion had only gone patriotically by the side of those brothers and husbands, sweet peace would long ago have blessed our country, and many a fireside would have been happy by the return of the brave absent ones. He then wailed a little about the horrors of war, and mentioned sundry instances where poor men had to go to this cruel war, leaving their families in a suffering condition, but he never intimated that richly blessed as he was with this world's good, that he was ever willing or ever offered to go as a substitute for any one of those poor men. Though, perhaps, for a considerable consideration he would not have scrupled about taking a mortgage on their homesteads.

He next showed out his Breckenridge proclivities by declaring that the South cannot be conquered, and cited as an example, Poland; that we sympathized with Poland in her misfortunes and in her continued aspirations for nationality, the natural conclusion being that the Democratic party sympathized with the South in their present aspirations for nationality. He then harped upon McClellan, the martyr, and eulogized him as a Christian hero, because on the tented field of strife he every night said "now I lay me down to sleep," &c., but it did not seem to occur to the speaker that the thought of the thousands and tens of thousands of the bravest of the brave who were sacrificed to no purpose, and perished in the swamps of the Chickahominy and in the trenches before Yorktown, solely through the blunders and incompetency and trifling of McClellan, then commander, as enough to make any man feel the pangs of remorse, and ought to cause Little Mac to continue instant in prayer, serving the Lord for the rest of his natural life.

He next paraded Little Mac as the most abused man in the nation. A most unjust insinuation, as he will have the biggest kind of a funeral in November next. Next he misrepresented our worthy Congressman, Mr. Windom, on the Homestead Law, forgetting his love for the poor settlers when in the days of old his brother-in-law Plummer was Register of the St. Peter Land Office, and he (Lamberton) used to sort of hang round and bleed the poor settlers.

He then abused the administration for not paying the soldiers in gold—we suppose he would have liked to have sold his gold to Government at two hundred and fifty per cent. to pay the poor soldier,—and consumed the rest of his time in a tirade of the administration. On the whole it was a sort of school boy performance. He had evidently committed his speech to memory and spoke his piece word for word, as it was written, forgetting that like Little Mac, he ought to be able with ease and safety to mount the Democratic platform or dismount from it according to the community in which he speaks and intelligence of his nearers.

Col. George was the next speaker and on the whole made a very favorable impression upon his audience. He seemed to be trying to speak with more fairness, and being a war Democrat seemed to be laboring under considerable embarrassment in following a peace Democrat, whose dirty slurs at the administration and whining and yelping about peace at any price he could not approve, and yet did not wish to openly attack his position. The brave Colonel however, demolished partially the views of his predecessor, by admitting that the administration had a right to to the services of the people in prosecuting the war if they were needed. He had a very few words to say about the Democratic platform and considered McClellan's letter as its true interpretation. His time was principally occupied in skirmishing and taking up points which have nothing to do with the vital issues pending now before our country.

On listening to his speech we tho't the Colonel seemed to half regret that instead of standing in his present equivocal position when his present influence may be productive of harm to our nation's cause. He was not then standing side by side in sentiment with his brave boys of the "old Second" ready to fight traitors North or South. The Colonel knows, and every reading, honest man knows that the army are opposed to the Democratic platform and will not bolster up its two-faced champion, Little Mac and, when the army sends patriotic greetings to the loyal men of the North—and by their recent votes sent home to Pennsylvania and Ohio, show that the army is a unit on the subject of a vigorous prosecution of the war, we think that such men as Lamberton and other peace men who are abundantly able to buy substitutes if they should happen to be drafted need not feel such a tender sympathy about the unfortunate men in blue, as to desire peace at any price.

One Advantage of the Opposition.

We notice that one of the submissionist orators boasts of a great advantage the Chicago candidate has over Mr. Lincoln. The administration, he says, is 'involved in an inextricable entanglement,' it is committed to a certain course. Mr: Lincoln must be expected, if re-elected, to steer the ship of state in a certain direction, that is to say; while, this speaker tells us, the Chicago candidate is committed to nothing.

That is true enough; and if it is an advantage to the country to have a chief magistrate whose mere caprice shall be its law; if we have come to that lamentable point where the best thing we can do is to entrust the national interests and welfare to a person who is bound neither by a predetermined policy, nor by his own previous acts, to any course, why McClellan's election upon the Chicago platform may suit us. For it is certain that Mr. Lincoln is pledged to a certain course—if that is a disadvantage, we are forced to acknowledge that he labors under it; he is pledged to maintain the Union, to put down the rebellion, to re-establish the laws, to vindicate the insulted honor of the nation, to redeem the southern people from the tyranny of Davis and his fellows, to see that the American flag waves once more every inch of our territory. If it is a disadvantage to the country to have a President pledged to these points—if the ship of state is endangered by having a pilot at the helm bound irrevocably to take her safely into port, why the sooner he is tumbled overboard and a wrecker put in his place, the better.

For our part, we prefer the honest pilot; but that is because we desire to see the ship reach her haven. Those who have different wishes will of course favor a different helmsman; the persons who hang out false lights and who expect to gain by the ship's wreck, will prefer to see at the helm one of their own kind; and it is not unnatural that they should think it a disadvantage that the man who steers should be one who will keep the ship on her course. The Chicago candidate is not involved in any "inextricable entanglement;" he is tolerably free—the resolutions passed by those who nominated him do indeed bind him to wreck the ship, but they leave him a certain latitude—he may choose the rock against which he will dash her.

The Words of a True Democrat.

The following is an extract from at private letter written by John T. Waite, of Norwich, Conn, the first elector at large on the Union ticket in that state. Mr. Waite has always been a prominent democrat, earnest in his convictions and faithful to his party; but in times like these he thinks that the first duty of every citizen is to his country:

"From March, 1861, till this present time I have openly publicly cursed the scoundrels who originated and have preached and practised it.

I have considered that all old parties were sundered, that all old party issues were dead, and that it was the duty of every man to do all in his power to sustain the administration of Mr. Lincoln. You know I voted against him and for the patriotic Douglas in 1860. I don't consider him a perfect man by any means. But I have had, from the day he was inaugurated till this, an abiding faith in his integrity, capability and patriotism; and when the question came whether I would sustain him standing on the platform adopted at Baltimore or sustain McClellan standing on the Chicago platform, I could not hesitate one moment.

"Yours truly, J.T. WAITE."

McClellan's Answer.

The Country to McClellan—"Are you for war or for peace?"

McClellan to the Country—"I do not remember."

General McClellan's Military Interference with Elections.

Some of the Opposition talk loudly about "a free election or a free fight," and assert that the Administration intends to interfere with the freedom of the elections in November. There is no warrant for such assertions, of course. The so-called "military interference with elections," about which some of the opposition express themselves, amounted to just this: that a sufficient force has been, in some cases, sent to certain localities to prevent disunionists from intimidating loyal voters, or taking possession of the polls.

It has never been even charged that more than this was done; and in doing that much the administration only followed a precedent first set by General McClellan, as the following order will show, issued by him when he commanded the Army of the Potomac:

"HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Washington, October 29, 1864.

"GENERAL: There is an apprehension among Union citizens in many parts of Maryland of an attempt at interference with their rights of suffrage by disunion citizens, on the occasion of the election to take place on the 6th of November next.

"In order to prevent this, the Major-General Commanding directs tha you send detachments of a sufficient number of men to the different points in your vicinity where the elections are to be held, to protect the Union voters, and to see that no disunionists are allowed to intimidate them, or in any way to interfere with their rights.

He also desires you to arrest and hold in confinement, till after the election, all disunionists who are known to have returned from Virginia recently, and who shows themselves at the polls, and to guard effectually against any invasion of the peace and order of the election, For the purpose of carrying out these instructions, you are authorized to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. General Stone has received similar instructions to these. You will please confer with him as to the particular points that each shall take the control of.

"I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. B. MARCY, Chief of Staff.

Major-General N. P. Banks, Commanding Division, Muddy Branch, Md."

In this order General McClellan directs his military subordinates to station troops at the polls; but he goes much further than this, for he orders the peremptory and indiscriminate arrest, without a warrant or other legal proceeding, of a large number of persons, and that without inquiring whether they intended wrong or not; and in order to prevent any interference for the protection of the rights of those persons, he authorized his subordinates to "suspend the writ of habeas corpus" at their discretion!

Some of General McClellan's organs threaten revolution if the administration should offer to furnish troops to protect loyal voters, and keep safe the polls, in parts of Maryland or Kentucky. We can assure these fire-eaters that the administration will do nothing which is not necessary for the safety of Union-loving citizens, of whateaer political party, and in any case, they will not go beyond the order of General McClellan, printed above, with which, of course, the McClellanites, can have no fault to find.

Something for Douglas Democrats to Remember.

Before the rebellion broke out Senator Douglas referring to the Southern States, said:

"If they remain in the Union, I will go as far as the Constitution will warrant me in securing their rights; but if they secede, I am in favor of allowing them just as many slaves and just as much slave territory as they can hold at the point of the bayonet."

Why Don't He Resign?

When Gen. Fremont was nominated for the Presidency by a small roomful of the long-haired impractible at Cleveland, he promptly resigned his commission as Major General. In this he acted like a gentleman and man of honor.

Major General George B. McClellan has, as yet, show no evidence of of a similar sense of decency.

"Can any one of our readers tell us what bonds of connection there are between the Copperhead party and the aristocratic Belmont? Are they the Confederate bonds, which McClellan has agreed to have the United States redeem, in the event of his election to the Presidency.

The sum and substance of the Chicago Democratic platform are just this: Uncle Sam is dead, and Jeff. Davis is appointed to administer on the estate. The children object, and demand a re hearing of the case. They don't believe in the reported decease.

UNION MAJORITY FROM 15,000 TO 20,000

THE ELECTIONS.

The elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indianna have not gone contrary to our expectations, and we have carried all of them for the Union by large majorities. In Pennsylvania there was no elections for Governor, and local issues in different districts, on the Legislative ticket, have contributed to reduce the majority on the home vote; but the soldiers' votes will bring it up to 23,000. The State is sure for Lincoln for 30,000.

In Ohio, with the Soldiers' vote we have a majority of 85,000. The Unionists have carried seventeen out of nineteen Congressional districts Vallandigham, Pugh, Cox, Long and Pendleton are repudiated and spit upon by the lovars of Liberty.

Ohio will give the Union ticket 100,000, in November.

Indiana gives us a clear majority of 20,000 where we did not expect 5,000. The has redemed herself, and will give a good account in November next.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.

The Democrats claim a majority of five thousand on the home vote of the State.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.

The general opinion here is that the State has gone Democratic on the home vote by from 3,000 to 5,000 majority.

It is expected that the soldiers' vote will give from 10,000 to 15,000 Union majority.

Election Commissioners to the Shenandoah Valley have returned, and report that they were unable to reach Sheridan's army.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.

Partial returns from Pennsylvania and Ohio soldiers in Washington and Alexandria, show the following: Pennsylvania soldiers' vote, total Republican, 843; Democratic, 139. Ohio soldiers' vote, total Republican, 580; Democratic, 22.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12—3 P. M.

At the Republican headquarters, they claim the State by from 3,000 to 5,000 majority.

Harrisburg, Oct. 12.

It is believed the Republicans have carried the State by most 20,000 majority on the home vote. We have certainly 16 Union Congressmen. A gain of four. The Legislature is largely Union.

BUTLER'S HEADQ'R'S, Oct. 11—P. M.

Voting in this army to-day, in the Pennsylvania regiments, passed off very quietly, and as far as can be learned the Union ticket has been everywhere successful.

Philadelphia, Oct. 12—2 P. M.

The Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee claims from the returns received by him from thirty counties, a Democratic gain of 12,715.

The best political authorities are in doubt about the result, but they estimate a majority of about 5,000 on either side, on the home vote.

Dawson, Democrat, for Congress, has over 1,500 majority in Westmoreland. Schuylkill gives Strouse Republican, for Congress, 1,725 ma. Republican gain 316.

New York, Oct. 13.

The Tribune says of the Pennsylvania election that there is a prospec of a small Union majority on the home vote, but it may be the other way.

The World does not make any claim to the State whatever. It has a dispatch from Philadelphia, Oct. 12, which says the Democrats have certainly carried the State by from 6,000 to 10,000 majority one the home vote.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.

We have reported majorities for 43 counties, showing a Union majority of 8,672. The remaining counties' vote of last year gave a Union majority of 1,842 making a total Union majority of 10,515. If we allow a total falling off in the Union vote of 8,000 in the counties to be heard from there will still be a Union majority on the home vote of 2,512.

The Age claims a gain of 2,000 on the Curtin vote, and that the Democrats will have a majority on the home vote of 5,000. A footing of the table of reported Democratic gains shows the total so far to be 1,442 in 47 counties.

In the 12th Congressional district Luzerne county gives 1,600 Democratic majority. It was before reported at 2,000. The Republicans claim the election of Ketchum to Congress by the soldiers' vote.

INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 11.

[Special to the Post and Tribune.]—The Union State ticket is elected by 15,000 to 20,000 majority. Six Union members of Congress are elected certain.

PENNSYLVANIA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.

The World, basing the assertion on the figures it has thus far received from Pensylvania, says the Democrats have probably obtained a majority of 5,000 on the home vote.

The Tribune, on the other hand, figures out over 3,000 Union majority on the home vote.

Harrisburg, Oct. 14.

From information received here this morning it is absolutely impossible to determine how the State has gone until the reception of official returns. Both parties claim it by a small majority; but unexpected results in heavy northern Union counties, renders it scarcely possible to overcome the large Democratic gain. In other cases it is admitted that the majority is small and can only be determined by official votes. The recording of the soldiers' vote is necessarily very slow. They have been distributed among the various counties in the manner in which they appear in the daily papers.

It is impossible to make an aggregate until the record is more complete.

Washington, Oct. 13.

The following additional votes of the Pennsylvania soldiers' was taken in the Department of Washington:—Battery 6th Pennsylvania, Union 101, Democratic 8. At Camp Distribution, Union 381, Democratic 65. Total—Union 482, Democratic 73.

Harrisburg, Oct. 14.

The official Union majority in this county is 684 Coffrith, Democratic, has 50 majority in Franklin county; 600 maj. in the district on the home vote.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.

The official Union majority in this city is 7,341. In five Congressional Districts Thayer has 955 majority, with Bucks county to hear from.

OHIO.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.

The Union majority in Ohio on the home vote is about 35,000 The soldiers' vote will probably increase it to 85,000 Seventeen Union Congressmen out of nineteen, are elected.

Judas betrayed his Saviour for "thirty pieces of silver.' How much is McClellan to get from the Rothchilds and other holders of Confederate bonds, if he succeds in betraying his country, and handing it over to their tender mercies?

'Intelligent and honest peace men do not concur in the opinion that McClellan will continue the war if elected.'—Fernando Wood.

At the "Officers' Hospital, Fairmount, Cincinnati," twenty-four officers being present—mostly wounded and just from the front—they stood for President as follows:

For Abraham Lincoln	22
For G. B. McClellan	2

A vote was taken in the 18th Illinois infantry, stationed at Little Rock a few days since, which resulted as follows: For Lincoln, 167; McClellan, 21.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The Secr tary of the Traesury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable no less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50,$100,$500,$1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5 20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

FORT RIDGELY ITEMS.

Sixty men of Company L, 2nd Minnesota Cavalry, under command of Lieut. McGrade and with Doctor Vervey as Surgeon left Fort Ridgley at 10 o'clock of Tuesday of this week en route to join the Indian supply trian at Lake Shetek.

Col. Pratt, of St. Peter, who was the successful bidder for the oat contract to furnish 30,000, bushels ef oats at Fort Ridgley, has commenced upon tue fulfillment of his contract and has already delivered several thousand bushels.

Companies A and G of the 2nd Minnesota Cavaly who have recently returned from Sully's expedition are located for the present at the Fort

A brick hospital, 40 feet square is now in process of erection at the Fort. Some six feet of the walls are already up, and when completed it will be a substantial two story building.

White & Marks are selling their stock of goods at very low rates. It is the cheapest place in town to get good goods.

Christensen & Bros., are paying the highest market price for Oats and Corn, delivered. Store rooms in Leech's stone building.

Maryland at her recent election adopted the amendment of the Constitution abolishing slavery by a majority from 800 to 1,300. The Rebs had better stop singnig "My Maryland," after this.

The question before the country is. Will we have a dishonorable peace, in order to enrich Belmont, the Rothchilds, and the whole tribe of Jews, who have been buying up Confederate bonds, or an honorable peace won by Grant and Shermin at the cannon's mouth?

EIGHT REGIMENT FURLOUGHS.—It is reported that Gen. Pope directs that the men of the Eighth regiment who recently absented themselves from camp, be allowed one week in which to return, after which time the absentees will be considered and treated as deserters.

LEO LAMM requests us to say to our readers, and other people generally, that he just received his fall and winter stock of boots and shoes for ladie' and men's wear. Also, a large lot of boot and shoe packs, moccasins &c. Mr. L advertises in the UNION, and, as a matter of course, will receive a liberal share of the public patronage. Examine his stock.

We are informed by Messrs, Reynolds & Butts, agents for the Farmers' Insurance Company, of Rochester, Minn., that during the two weeks time spent in this county, they have issued forty-four policies to property holders. This speaks well, and as a reliable company should be encouraged by our farmers.

HOUSHOLD GOODS AT AUCTION.—Jesse Mack will sell at Public Auction on the 21st inst., the household goods of the late C. C. Mack, at his late residence near Vernon Centre.

Geo. W. Hurd, of Tivoli, will sell on the 22d inst., a number of sheep, cows, and a lot of corn, twenty tons hay, and ten tons of straw. Here's a chance for good bargains.

ATTENTION SIOUX CLAIMANTS.—Judge Waite who has been spending the last few weeks in Washington looking after the interests of his Sioux claimants, returned home Tuesday evening having been very successful in procuring the money awarded to claimants. He requests us to state that he is now ready to pay the amount awarded by the Sioux Commissioners to his respective claimants.

HUNTING A HOLE.—H. W. Lamberton, the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, was in town last Tuesday night, and spoke in the City Hall. He was in search of a of a hole to crawl into after the 8th of November. There is no need of his instituting a search for it, the hole will be so large that himself and party will drop through it and never be heard of after.

A good point was made by White & Marks when they brought to this market their large stock of clothing. They recently sold twenty five overcoats in one day. Give them a call.

THE election of Lincoln is conceded now by Democrats as well as Republicans. There is no hope for McClellan, but there is hope for every sensible man who buys a suit of clothes, or a pair of boots, or a new dress for his wife, at White & Marks' Clothing Emporium.

From the Rochester Republican.

Farmers' Insurance Company.

This is the name of a new Insurance Company just organized in this city. The Company seems to be established on a good foundation. Some of our soundest business men are associated with gentlemen from the East who have both experience and capital. The Farmers' Insurance Company may be considered a sound institution from the commencement. We hope the people of Minnesota will show their appreciation of home interest by doing their business with this Co. instead of patronizing Eastern institutions and sending money abroad for what may just as well be attained at home. The officers of the company are—

LOUIS WALKER, President
J. V. DANIELS, Vice President.
C. H. FOOTE, Secretary.
O. P. WHITCOMBE, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS:

Hon. Alex Ramsey,	C. H Foote,
" Daniel Blaxley,	J A Kennedy,
" Chas. Scheffer,	R. T Evans,
" J. V. Daniels,	Louis Walker,
" W. D. Hurlburt,	O. P. Whitcombe.
J. R. Cooke

General Agents—J. A. Kennedy, E. T. Evans.

Messrs. Reynolds & Butts are now doing business for the company in Blue Earth and adjoining counties and will call call on the property holders for the purpose of insuring them. This company as its name indicate is a Farmers Insurance Company.

GOOD ACCOUNTANTS.—Auditor Chapman and the County Treasurer made a six months' settlement last week. Their accounts amounted to something over $17,000 for the six months, and there was a difference of only one cent between them. In business so complicated as that of the Auditor and Treasurer, this certainly speaks well for them. The Auditor's accounts were kept by Mr. Chapman, who is the candidate on the Union ticket for re election, and those of the Treasurer by Prof. Porter, the efficient deputy.

Madelia—Helger Palmer, Joseph Flandders, V. G. Moot, Hiram Rhodes, Ole Mastnsor, Henry Sloman, John Traverse, Frank Adams, Frederick Winterstrand, and J. T. Furher.

Milford, Brown Co.—Silas Blackman, Sidney Waite.

Leavenworth Brown Co.—A. B. Hough, Herman Locke.

LaFayette Nicollet Co.—Henry Evans, Henry Lillie.

THE Remarkable Properties of Brown's Bronchial Troches have been thoroughly tested since first introduced. The demand for them has steadly increaced, and purely upon their own merits, they have found favor with those who fe in Pulmonary, Bronchial, or Asthmatic complaints require them. For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Influenza, they are entirely efficacious, removing all obstuctions, and increasing at once the power and flexibility of the voice.

After the annihilation of the administration and "every other man" who stood not upon the deceitful Chicago platform, a crowd assembled at one of our hotels, where an animated discussion took place, during which noses were counted, and the defenders of the admininistration were twelve, while those of Little Mac and his Southern "erring brother," that traitor or thief, Floyd, were ONE! How are the mighty fallen! A few more insults to "truth," and on the 8th of November next, the defenders of this republican government will consign Littlemack, Lamberton, and their supporter to that political abyss from which there is no resurrection—and put the platform over them.

THE

Singer Sewing Machines.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the cheapest and best and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Guaging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stich known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work.—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do: will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood: and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

RALLY ROUND THE FLAG, BOYS.

[Harper's Weekly contains a spirited engraving, representing Abraham Lincoln, bearing aloft the Stars and Stripes, while around him the gallant boys of the army and navy are rallying with the song:]

Rally round the Flag, boys!
Rally once again;
There are traitors in the camp, boys,
And pirates on the main:
There are rebels in the front, boys.
And foes across the sea,
Who hate the proud republican
And scoff at you and me.

Rally round the Flag, boys!
Rally in your might;
Let the nations see how freemen
Can battle for the right;
Make the throbbing mountains echo
With the thunder of your tread;
With music sweet of martial feet
Salute our gallant dead.

Rally round the Flag, boys!
Rally with a cheer;
For all you love and cherish most;
For all that you hold dear,
Defend the brave old banner,
Unsullied from the earth—
Within its folds enshrined it holds
All that life is worth.

Then rally round the Flag, boys!
Rally, rally still!
Rally from the valley,
And rally from the hill;
Rally from the ship, boys,
And rally from the plow;
Now or never is the word—
Never! failing now.

MAJOR GENERAL HOOKER.

His Reception on 'Change---Pitching into Traitors North and South---Visit to Camp Douglas.

The announcement in yesterday's Tribune that Major General Joseph Hooker would have a public reception at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday noon, created a furore the like of which has seldom been witnessed in those rooms. Speculation in No. 1 spring was completely at a stand still, and for nearly half an hour the crowd stood on the tip toe of expectation A little after 12 o'clock Gen. Hooker made his appearance, in company with Colonels Hughs and Tucker, and who received with the wildest bursts of enthusiasm. Cheer after cheer rent the air, and as they re echoed through the building it seemed as if the roof would be torn asunder.

Colonel Hancock, President of the assemblage to order, and introduced the gallant General, who was again greeted with three cheers for "fighting Joe."

After the applause had subsided, the General mounted the stand and said substantially as follows:

Gentlemen of the Board of Trade:

I cannot tell you how much your kindness embarrasses me on this occasion. I am not accustomed to such demonstrations, and I know that I do not deserve them. On coming to your young but prosperous city, I desired to make the acquaintance of the members of this Board of Trade, and other leading associations in your city, for the time being my du-the whole country. We have lost many valuable lives, but have gained a a name and a character which will be respected as long as time shall last. [Cheers.] I feel proud that I have been permitted to take a part in putting down the rebellion. I prayed to God that He would give me valor and strength to act my part, [cries "you have done it."] I have done what I could do. I have never failed to attack the conspirators irrespective of orders or advantages. [Cries of "That's so."] I will continue to do wherever found, or with whatever odds, and if I can't meet them in the field I will do it at home. [Loud cheers.] I expect to see the Union restored, and will take any responsibility to do it. I am earnest in the work, This people will take care of what was left by their fathers. They have not degenerated. The war is no failure! [Loud applause.] I do not think you need assistance here: but if you wish backers, you know where to find them. [Applause.] It makes but little difference where they assign me to duty. The election last week struck terror to the enemy. [Cheers.] The election in November will be a Waterloo to Copperheads and rebels. [Loud and continued applause.] They relied on the peace party in the North. I felt astonished to see so many sympathizing with the rebels, while traveling through the West. The tories of the Revolution were respectable compared to the Copperheads of the North. [Loud cheers.] The latters occupy much the worst position. I was a Democrat, and if they will interpret the Constitution as framed by its fathers, I am a Democrat still. But until they do this I am for the Union—through all time. [Cheers.] My pursuits have not fitted me to fill the place you have assigned to me. I am no speaker. [Cries, "You are a fighter."] Yes, I can take a hand at that. [Enthusiastic applause.] I am glad to see the spirit displayed here. I knew it would be all right in Indiana, and it will be all right here in November next, [Applause.] When the long roll is sounded, the camps spring to arms to repel the foe, and you have heard the roll in Indiana. We are fighting a common enemy. The newspapers say that the army will vote for the nominee of the Chicago Convention. I can't see it (loud and prolonged cheers.) The soldiers down there are as brave, as loyal and as devoted men as breathe in any land, and will see the stars and stripes waving over every inch of territory before they will listen to the cries for a "cessation of hostilities." Gentlemen, I thank you ten thousand times for your kind reception. I have endeavored to do my duty, and will continue to do so. In whatever place they put me I will be a team horse. If you have any riots here let me know; you will not want for a backer. (Enthusiastic cheers.)

How a Soldier Looks at It.

CITY POINT, VA., Oct. 2 1864.

* * * In my humble judgement, peace, as preached at Chicago, means anarchy, riot and bloodshed at home In regard to Gen. McClellan, there is no denying that at one time he possessed the confidence and was the favorite of the Army of the Potomac. He still has a few admirers, but they are growing beautifully less as the day approaches which is to consign him to oblivion He made a little capital by his flank movement, or change of base, from the Chicago to the McClellan platform, as his letter is called; but it is too transparent, too flimsy He cannot get rid of Pendleton if he would. nor of the Chicago platform; neither would he if he could. And here let me ask, who among us would be so lost to shame as to vote for Pendleton? Not one. Yet, here they are—McClellan and Pendleton; you cannot have one without the other; you have to take both or neither. And who does not remember the fate of Harrison? His death made Tyler President. Still later, Taylor was not subservient enough, he, too, died suddenly. The pliant Filmore took his place. McClellan and Pendleton! What lease has McClellan on life, and who with such a risk, leaving out all other considerations, would vote to put Pendleton, Vallandigham, Wood & Co., in charge of the reins of government for four years? Make this a point; impress it on the minds of the people; leave no stone unturned, for it is necessary for the salvation of the country, that the adherents of this pernicious doctrine be not only defeated, but utterly routed, in the coming election.

Mr. Pendleton is Willing.

We showed some days ago that those who framed the Chicago platform mean, if they can get possession of the government, to submit to the demands of the rebels by acknowledgeing and asserting the rebel state Sovereignty doctrine, and thus transforming the Union into a confederation, such as existed, and nearly ruined the country, before the constitution was adopted. The Cincinnatti Enquirer, the organ of Valandigham and 'his own familliar friend' Pendleton, said on this point on the 8th instant:

'There is nothing that would afford him so much gratification, and there is no one that would labor harder for a restoration of the old confederacy than Mr. Pendleton; and, let us add, there are few who could do more, if elected, in that direction.'

A Canadian View of the Election.

The Toronto Globe of the 12th says:

"If the results of yesterday's elections are at all indicated by the returns which we have—and we see no reason to doubt that—they settle the Presidential question and give the friends of Mr. Lincoln good reason for expecting to carry every free State, unless, possibly, New Jersy. Gen. McClellan never had any reasonable prospect of being elected, but present appearances indicate that he has as good a chance of getting to be Emperor of Japan as he has of becoming President of the United States.

From the Chicago Tribune

McClellan's Amnesty.

We published, a few days since, some notable extracts from a speech delivered in Congress by that eminent Coperhead, Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana. The burden of his oration, when divested of his superabundance of adjectives and adverbs of the lurid sort was that Mr, Lincoln and his friends are always for war and never for peace—that they are constantly spurning proposals for negotiation by the rebels, and never tendering any of their own—that they hunger and thirst after carnage for its own sake. It would not be worth the while of any loyal man to answer anything that Voorhees can say. His speeches carry their own refutation. His poison is charged with with its own antidote. But since the nomination of McClellan, a general cry has been raised the rebels would be more likely to retreat with him than with Mr. Lincoln

If the rebels would accept any terms at all from Gen. McClellan, it would be cause their means of resistance are exhausted. "If they listened to his advances," says the North American Review, "their cause must be so hopeless that it would be a betrayal of his trust to make them." But they will listen to nothing save the voice of artillery. They are deaf to everything except the tramp of armed legions. So lately as the 8th day of December last, the President of the United States proclaimed an amnesty of full pardon to all rebeldom except those who constitute their immediate Government, upon condition of their laying down their arms and taking an oath (to support the Constitution, and the existing laws and proclamation, as far as they shall not be held illegal by the Supreme Court. In other words, he proposed to forget the past, and extend to them the blessings of peace and the Union, upon the sole condition that they should submit to the law. That proclamation is in full force to day. It is a standing invitation to traitors to return to the Union unpunished, upon the condition that they shall cease their treason. Will Gen. McClellan propose a better amnesty? If so, loyal men want none of him. Beyond the liberality of Mr. Lincoln there exists nothing save the unconditional surrender of the North. If the followers of Jefferson Davis will not accept the conditions which have been before them for the past ten months, and if we cannot subjugate them, they must subjugate us.

The statement that the rebels are so enamored of Gen. McClellan that they would do certain things for his asking, that they would not do for Mr. Lincoln's, is not a good argument to be addressed to loyal men. It implies that there is an affinity between McClellan and Davis—that they have some common standing ground, which is denied to Mr. Lincoln—that they can shake hands, in the full view of the thousands and tens of thousands whom treason has slaughtered, without blenching. God forbid that we shall ever have a President of whom this can be said. The venerable Dr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, uttered the whole philosophy of our struggle when he said that, if Mr. Lincoln were the worst man in the world, the war should continue till the South acknowledges him as President, for he was chosen by a constitutional majority of the people. The principle upon which the rebellion is grounded is, that the minority shall govern. We can affirm that principle for all future time by electing Gen. McClellan, for the very argument used in his favor implies that the minority were right in resisting with arms the decision made by the majority at the ballot box. To admit such a principle is not to secure peace, but to invite perpetual war. It is saying to the defeated party at the end of every election: "You were beaten at the polls, but you have your remedy in the sword. Fight it out. Raise armies, deluge the country with blood, and if you maintain your ground firmly, you will soon raise up a peace party among your adversaries, will be glad to have you for their masters."

New York.

The Democracy of New York have abandoned their chosen catchword. They have stricken "Democratic from the head of their electorial ticket, and in the hope of catching the unwary, have styled it "The Union Electoral Ticket, while the State ticket, also disclaiming any connection with "the great Democratic party, has for its heading "The Union State Ticket. How are the mighty fallen, Who would have supposed that the Democratic managers would have been so put to it for votes in 1864, as to seek to obtain them by a sneaking adoption of the symbol of their adversaries?

* * *

Some of the Copperheads pretend to be quite exaltant over the accession to Gen. McClellan of Ex-President Fillmore. They seem to forget that as early as 1856 he declared the election of Gen. Fremont would be justifiable cause of secession.

THE CRAVEN.

[From an unpublished poem by Alfred Andhison]

On that mighty day of battle, 'mid the booming and the rattle,
Shouts of victory and of anguish, wherewith Malvern's hill did roar,
Did a General now quite fameless, who in these lines shall be nameless,
Show himself as rather gameless, gameless on the James' shore;
Safely smoking on a gunboat, while the tempest raged on shore.
Only this and nothing more.

The Congressional Committe sat within the nation's city,
And each Congressman so witty did the General implore:
"Tell us if thou at that battle, 'mid the booming and the rattle, Wert on gunboat or in saddle, while the tempest raged ashore?"
Answer'd he: "I don't remember, might have been" What more?
Only this, and nothing more

"By the truth which is eternal, by the lies that are diurnal,
By our Abraham paternal, General, we thee implore,
Tell the truth and shame the devil, parent of old Jeff and evil,
Give us no more of such drivel." Tell us, wert thou or the shore."
"Don't remember, might have been," thus spoke he o'er and o'er,
Only this and nothing more.

"On that day, sir, had you seen a gunboat of the name Galena
In an anchorage to screen a man from danger on the shore?
Was a man about your inches, smoking with those two French Princes,
With a caution which evinces care for such a garde de-corps?
Were you that man on the gunboat?" Don't remember, might have been." The bore.
Only this, and nothing more.

A Damning Record.

On the 19th of January, 1861, Hon. George H. Pendleton made a speech in Congress from which we make the following extracts. It will be seen that he advocates disunion pure and simple. In the nomination of Pendleton the Chicago Convention finds a fit exponent:

"My voice to day is for conciliation, my voice is for conciliation, my voice is for compromise, and it is but the echo of the voice of my constituents. I beg you, gentlemen, who with me represent the Northwest; you who with me, represent the people of Ohio; you who with me, represent the city of Cincinnatti. I beg you, gentlemen, to hear that voice. If you will not; if you find conciliation impossible, if your differences are so great that you will not reconcile them, then, GENTLEMEN, LET THE SECEDING STATES DEPART IN PEACE: LET THEM ESTABLISH THEIR GOVERNMENT AND EMPIRE AND WORK OUT THEIR DESTINY ACCORDIMG TO THE WISDOM WHICH GOD HAS GIVEN THEM."

Farther along in the same speech. he says:

"If these Southern States cannot be reconciled, and if you gentlemen, cannot find it in your hearts to grant their demands; if they must leave the family mansion, I would signalize their departure by tokens of love; I would bid them farewell so tenderly, that they would forever be touched by the recollection of it; and if, in the vicissitudes of their seperate existence, they should desire to come together again in our common Government, there should be no pride to be humiliated, there should be no wound inflicted from any hand, to be healed. They should come and welcome to the place that they now occupy."

Four Years of Failure,

The New York Evening Post thus sums up the splended trophies of war which the Copperheads declare to be "failures," as the reply of our soldiers to that atrocious calumny:

Besides defending with usual vigilance and completeness two thousand miles of frontier, they can say in three years we have taken from the enemies of the Union, by valor and generalship, thirty complete and thoroughly furnished fortresses; we have captured over two thousand cannon; we have re-conquered and now hold nearly four thousand miles of navigable river courses; we have taken ten of the enemy's principal cities, three of their capitals of States, in thirty days last summer, we captured sixty thousand prisoners we have penetrated more than three hundred miles into the territory claimed by the enemy; we have cut that territory into strips, leaving his armies without effectual communication with each other; the main operations and interests of the war which were concentrated about Baltimore, Paducah and St. Louis, have been transferred by our constant, and steady advance to the narrow limits of the seaboard slave States; we hold every harbor but one of a coast six thousand miles long. And whatever we have taken we hold; we have never turned back or given up that which we once fairly possessed. And yet you call us beaten! and yet in the face of all these brilliant successes and stupendous victories, you allege that we have accomplished nothing.

A Base Falsehood Exposed.

Within a few weeks nearly every Democratic paper in the country has given prominent publication to the following paragraphs:

"Jeff. Davis' salary is nominally $25,000 a year; but by the depreciation of the Confederate money, is equal to but $1,500; and on this practically he has to live.

Abraham Lincoln's salary is legally $25,000 a year; but his legal tender money having depreciated to less than half its nominal value, he refuses to take it, and demands and receives his pay in gold or gold certificates, while the soldiers of his armies have to take their pay in greenbacks. Isn't this patriotic and honest in Old Abe? and oughn't he to be re-elected to another four years hard money for himself, and of largely depreciated money for the people."

Well knowing that the President would not stoop to notice such a palpably false assertion, they hoped to run the calumny until election day. But the other day it came to the notice of the Hon. L. E. Chittenden, Register of the Treasurer, up to the 15th of August last—the man who has direct charge of all such salaries. And this is the manner in which he bayonets the wicked story:

[To the Editors of the Free Press.]

GENTLEMEN: My attention has been called to an editorial article in the Burlington Sentinel of the 30th ult., containing a statement that President Lincoln "demands and receives his pay (salary) in gold or gold certificates, while the soldiers of his armies have to take their pay in greenbacks," &c. The editor of the Sentinel has been made the victim of a very idle imposition and it seems singular to me that he should have hazzarded such an assertion, when, with a very little trouble, he could have ascertained whether it was true or false.

It is false in every particular. The salary of President, like those of all other officers on the civil list, is paid by warrants, regularly entered in the Register's office, where all these accounts are kept. Neither himself nor any other officer of the Government (except those actually employed on foreign service, for which special provision is made by law,) has been paid in coin since the passage of the act authorizing the issue of legal tender notes. The President's salary has been regularly paid by draft on the Treasury in legal tender notes with the regular deduction of the tax on salaries. Such was certainly the case up to the 15th of August last, the date of my resignation as Register of the Treasury. It may not be irrelevant to state in this connection a fact well known to many officers of the Treasury, that upon the passage of the act imposing a tax upon salaries, a question was made wheather it applied to the President and Cabinet, and that Mr. Lincoln peremptorily refused to have any exception made to his case—a determination in which the Cabinet agreed with him, and the deduction from all these salaries has ever since been made.

Very truly yours,
L. E. CHITTENDEN.

McClellan's History in three Sentences.

McClellan's failure as a commander, and his bankruptcy in every quality of a soldier, are history, the most humiliating in military biograghy. Attorney General Hanna, of Indiana, recalled it recently at Indianapolis, in a speech, whose brevity and truthfulness make it a compendium.

He said that "Old Abe" exhausted every appliance known to human ingenuity to make him a gallant and successful warrior While the people cried out to the President in bitbitterness of their woe, "For God's sake, give us a general who will do something, who is equal to the demand upon him, who will not dig the grave of the nation within the sound of the enemy's cannon"—while the patience of Congress and the Cabinet was wearing and finally wore out with the inordinate cost of vain display and of the failure of movements, Old Abe clung to him, through evil and through good report, hoping and praying he might do better. By day and by night he carried and pampered him, kicked and coaxed him. scolded and praised him, tickled and lashed him, bathed and blanketed him physicked and nursed him, patted and rubbed him begged and cursed him, until finally, in the agony of despair, the worn-out President exclaimed: "He is h—l on parade, but utterly inefficient in action."

What the Army Thinks.

Says Lieut. Gen. Grant:

'The end is not far distant, if we will only be true to ourselves. All we want now to insure an early restoration of the Union is a determined unity of sentiment North.'

Says Maj. Gen. Hooker:

'The Union must be preserved, and there is no way of preserving it but by the power of our arms—by fighting the conspiracy to death. This rebellion is tottering while I speak; it is going down, and will soon tumble into ruin.'

Says Maj. Gen. Meade:

'Dismissing, as now useless to discuss, all questions as to the origin of this war, we have daily and hourly evidenbes that it exists, and that it can only be terminated by hard fighting, and by determined effort to overcome the armed enemies of the government.'

Says Maj. Gen, Burnside;

'Would it not be cowardly for us to say that this rebellion cannot be crushid, and the authority of the Government sustained? There is in my mind no question of it. There can be no such thing as laying down of arms, or cessation of hostilities, until the entire authority of the government is acknowledged by very citizen of our country.'

Says Maj. Gen. Logan:

'The greatest victory of the rebels, greater than fifty Manassas, and their only one that can give them a particle of hope, will be to defeat the war party at the incoming campaign.'

Says Maj. Gen. Dix:

'My desire is to do all in my power to sustain the Government in its efforts to put down the rebellion—an object to be effected, in my own judgement, by a steady and unswerving prosecution of the war.'

Says the old veteran, Maj. Gen. Wool:

'Nothing for aught that I can discover, will save the Union and its Government, but the successes of Grant, Sherman, Farragut and Sheridan.'

Such are the opinions of seven of our most distinguished Major Generals, five of whom, at least, are Democrats; and such are the opinions of not less than ninety-nine out of every hundred men; both officers and soldiers, now in our armies.

* * *

The Boston Herald uses the following plain words with regard to the democrat platform and cancidates:

"So far as the platform, the speeches, and the candidates are concerned, the convention held in Chicago might as well have been held in Richmond, It was a miserable, fawning, sycophantic and degrading surrender to the men who are in arms against the government and who have done their utmost to destroy American liberty. The talk about free speech, a free press, and the Constitution, are very pretty and capital catchwords to deceive honest voters. But how is it in the dominions of Jefferson Davis? How about a free press and free speech there? If a man in Virginia should dare to utter one word against Davis or his plans he would be hung to the nearest tree or most convenient lamp post for his temerity. Yet these leaders are the men that the Chicago convention propose to restore to power in the nation to wreak their vengeance upon those at the North who have opposed them. What kind of liberty of speech and of the press would there be then.? The success of the Chicago ticket would be but the beginning of a series of disaster which would come upon us, too horrible to contemplate. For ourselves we support no such doctrine and no such ticket as that made and put forth at Chicago, and which we beleive will be repudiated by the people at the polls."

A Day of Thanksgiving Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.

President Lincoln has issued a proclamation, setting apart the last Thursday in November for a day of Thanksgiving and Praise to Al-Mighty God, throughout the United States, for the many signal victories over the enemy and recommending his fellow-citizens to humble themselves in the dust, and from thence offer penitent and fervent prayers and supplications to the Great Disposer of Events for the inestimable blessings of peace, Union and harmony throughout the land.

Only four more are required to secure a two-thirds vote. These, and more will be forthcoming from Illinois in November.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

Every loyal man who thinks at all between the cradle and the grave ought now to have some serious thoughts as to what is his whole duty to his country.

For the first time in the history of our Republic since we have been a nation, a political party, namely, the Democratic party, of Chicago, notoriety have in the presence of an armed foe played the part of poltroons and cowards and have confessed in their platform what is an outrageous lie, that the South has crowded us during the past four years, to the wall, and in consequence, we must have a cessation of hostilities so that we can agree upon a peace, no matter what are its terms or dishonorable conditions.

And no one can tell from reading this platform, whether it emanated from the Democratic party South or North. Not the first sentence in it to which Jeff. Davis and his whole rebel crew cannot utter a hearty amen. Not the first word censuring the leaders of the rebellion for bringing such an uncalled for and perfectly inexcusable civil strife among us? No.

The whole agony and burden of their song is that the Administration might be censured for doing its whole duty in prosecuting this war, and that we must cease waging this unnatural strife against our "Southern Brethren.

Neither is the course of the Democratic party in conducting this Presidential canvass, any more manly than their platform is respectable. Look at their speakers in this State. Their system of tactics seems to consist in holding up the present administration as solely responsible for all the lives that have been lost in this war, implying of course, that if the Democratic party had been in power they would either have allowed our Southern brethren with their stealing and plunder, to have departed in peace, or they would have conducted the war on such a wooden gun alias McClellan style that nobody should have been hurt.

Then they parade from week to week, in their Democratic journals, statistics showing the enormous expenses of this war, and the crushing burdens of taxation which will be entailed upon the people, as if the war would not have cost anything if the northern branch of the Democratic Floyds could have held the national purse strings for the last four years, and worse still John M. Gilman the Democratic candidate for Congress and others of his stripe are boldly insinuating in their speeches that unless we make peace with the South on their own terms and yield up the government into the hands of the McClellanites we will have civil war in the North. We thought when the Democratic party South seceded and hurled open war against us that we had arrived at the end of that chapter in the game of Democratic bluffing and threatenings which had previously disgraced every Presidential election. But no. The South having giving up the game, now the Democratic party North must take up the old roll and reiterate civil war at the North unless we are willing to supplant a patriotic administration by one unpatriotic.

And the leaders of the Democratic party not only talk so, but the laymen of the same faith, we mean such Democrats as have acted with the Democratic party for the last year seem as zealous in rallying to the Chicago standard as if they were engaged in the holiest of causes, swallowing at one dose without wincing, McClellan, Pendleton, and the Chicago Platform. Now if the Democratic party can support, in times like these, a platform—the most damnable that ever disgraced a political party in this country—it ought to show every Union man in Blue Earth county what is his duty in the present political canvass. Let the Union men arise and be active for the cause of the Union between now and election. Throw aside all personal prejudices, and vote for men all of whom are the representatives of loyal principles; men who believe in sustain our Government in the hour of its greatest need; men who are opposed to making peace with armed traitors; men who can be relied upon at all hazzards and in whatever position you may put them, to sustain the "Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances and under every Administration."

Alexander H. Stephens sees a 'ray of light' in the Chicago Platform. That is where the people have made daylight shine through the planks.

Daddy Price Whipped Near Kansas City.

And in Full Retreat, Closely Pursued by our Forces!

SHERMAN INTENDS TO STARVE HOOD TO DEATH.

Richmond Papers Acknowledge Early's Defeat

Firing on the Rebel Fleet—Their Boats badly Injured and Driven off.

Daddy Price was badly whipped by our forces under command of Gen. Pleasanton and Colonels Jamison and Moonlight, after a two days' fight on the 22d and 23d. Our forces did splendid fighting. At last accounts was in full retreat some twenty five miles south of Kansas City closely pursued by Gen. Pleasanton with 20,000 men.

New York, Oct. 25.

The Herald's Chattanooga correspondent on the 18th says:

Sherman is not pursuing Hood, but rather managing, if possible, if to coop him up in the valley and starve him to death. Hood has most fully failed in finding or capturing supplies. He is trying is trying his best to avoid a fight. He attempted to break through Snake Creek Gap, but finding that strongly blocked up, he abandoned the attempt. This morning he is reported a mile and a half below Fayette. Sherman is perhaps six miles from him.

The Richmond press of the 22nd contain the following:

Early's defeat by Sheridan, is acknowledged by the rebel press, as well as by Early himself, who admits that he lost 30 pieces of artillery, but claims that the Union pursuits of him did not amount to much, as only cavaly were engaged in it; our infantry, who he says suffered most severely, being too badly demoralized to follow.

An order was issued by the Richmond War Office to conscript on the 5th of November the employees in the Ordnance and Nitre Bureau, thus adding 4,000 to the military force The order is called a breach of faith, and is received with great dissatisfaction, but shows the straits the rebels are reduced to

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

The Tribune's correspondent with the army of the James, says at dawn this morning, one of our land batteries in charge of Captain Ashby, company E. 3rd New York artillery, opened on the rebel fleet in the James River, about a mile above Cox's Landing, with 20 and 30 pound shell, and quickly sent their wooden gunboats to the protection wing of Fort Darling, and their other shore batteries. The 3 iron-clad rams, however stood fire, and returned the compliment for an hour or more, until one of their smoke stacks was nearly shot away, and our shells exploded in the after part of Richmond, killing one gunner, and wounding three seamen, when having had an enormous pounding from our shells, they one by one steamed off out of range to a place of security, leaving an earthwork which the rebels have lately constructed on the west side of the James. The rebels continued the duel with Captain Ashby's battery and another of our forts lower down the river. This rebel work sent 100 pounders in return for Captain Ashby's 20 and 30 pound shells but received those of the same calibre from our lower batteries, and finally discontinued the duel.

Until this evening there has been no fighting at Dutch Gap, since yesterday noon.

The Law Regarding Aliens who have been in Military Service.

In answer to numerous letters, we publish the following Act relative to aliens, who have been discharged from military service:

And be it further enacted, That any alien of the age of twenty one years and upwards, who has enlisted or shall enlist in the armies of the United States, either the regular or volunteer services, and has been or shall be hereafter honorably discharged, may be admitted to become, a citizen of the United States, upon his petition, without any previous declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States and that he shall not be required to prove more than one year's residence within the United States previous to his application to become such citizen; and that the court admitting such alien shall, in addition to such proof of residence and good moral character as is now provided by law, be satisfied by competent proof of such person having been honorably discharged from the service of the United States as aforesaid.—Sec. 21, Chap. 200, Laws of the 37th Congress, 2d Session, page 597, approved July 17 1862.

Pendleton, while a member of Congress, voted against the resolution of thanks to Gen. McClellan for his promise of Victory in Virginia!—And now that they are linked in incongruous union, each of them is doubtless ashamed of his company. They are both right in that.

The Rebel Debt.

An "immediate cessation of hostilities," and a "convention of all the States," constitute the remedy which the Chicago platform proposes for existing difficulties between Jeff. Davis and the Government of the United States. Gen. McClellan, in his letter of acceptance, says "the Union is the one condition of peace, we ask no more." This is asking a good deal more than the Chicago Convention asked, but we let that pass. If we suppose the South could ever consent to such a Convention—if we can imagine the delegates once assembled the Northern ones harping the chorus of McClellan's Letter and offering the rebels anything they can name it they will only give us back the Union—what would probably be the first requirement of our misguided Southern brethren? We can not, of course say with certainty whether they would first stipulate for those new guaranties to slavery which Gen. McClellan intimates his willingness to grant, or whether they would begin by adjusting the matter of dollars and cents between the two sections, or whether they would open the meeting with a resolution affirming the right of secession. But it is certain that all these topics would come up for a settlement.

We propose to examine briefly the subject of the two national debts. If the loyal States should ever go into such a convention the act itself would be an admission either that the rebels had a certain degree of right on their side, or that we are unable to execute the laws and Constitution of the United States in the territory occupied by their armies. If we concede that there is a certain degree of right on their side we must of course treat their war debt as we treat our own. We must, as a nation, assume the cost to which they have been put in maintaining that right. This must be the preliminary step to any negotiation. If we enter into a convention because we are unable to put down the rebellion by force of arms, it makes no difference what our views may be regarding their pecuniary obligations, Beggars can not be choosers. They will make their mark and we must come to it. In point of fact, we apprehend that no honorable man would propose a settlement on the basis laid down in the Chicago platform without conceding in advance the justice of assuming the rebel debt, and certainly the rebels would spurn any proposition of a different character. If they are the high spirited people whom we hear extolled every day by such organs of Democracy as the Chicago Times, they would tweak the nose of every delegate who should presume to negotiate with them except upon terms of equality.

If the rebel debt is to be paid it must be paid at par. It must be paid in the same funds and on the same terms as our own. There is probably no one, either inside or outside the Southern Confedracy, who can write down its aggregate indebtedness in dollars and cents. The last Richmond Enquirer that has come across the lines says that Confederate scrip has absolutely lost its purchasing power, and that all transactions have come down to the principal of barter. The merchant sells goods for pork, and the laborer works for so many pounds of corn meal per day, and still the paper mills of the Government are running at lightning speed. If the war were to cease to day, it would not be safe to estimate the rebel debt, including their various descriptions of bonds, currency and certificates, at less than four thousand millions of dollars. One year ago the appropriations for their Quartermaster's Department were greater than those for the whole Government of the United States or the same space of time.

Let this sum be added to the debt incurred in putting down the rebellion, and national bankruptcy will be the inevitable consequence. But the bill of costs does not end with the rebel debt. If we pay the damages sustained by loyal citizens in the casualities of war, we must pay the damages sustained by rebels as well, and this item alone would swamp all the treasuries of Europe. We commend this financial jubilee to the supporters of Gen. McClellan. Whatever differences may exist on paper between the Copperhead candidate and his platform, there is none on this point. They are perfectly agreed in saying: "Give us the Union and name your own terms. Give us that which you had no right to take away and we will pay all it has cost you to take it. We implore you to refrain from running the poker through us and we will cheerfully pay you the expense of heating it." Let this scheme be carried forward to its logical conclusion, and, after groaning a few years under taxes too grevious to be borne, we shall have added the immortal disgrace of repudiation to the disgrace of compromising with trators.

The Way Soldiers Vote.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

The Time's Washington speical says the 112th New York regiment have voted as follows:

Lincoln 285; McClellan 9. The 29th voted Union 481; Democratic 77. Ballots have been forwarded by mail to the several districts designated by voters.

—Mrs Thompson, wife of the Rebel General Jeff. Thompson, is now a confirmed lunatic, and it is said she will shortly be sent to the asylum at Fulton.

Extracts for the Times.

"If Atlanta were to fall, or Petersburg, or if Sheridan should drive Early back to Lynchburg, or if any of these events should befall, then all the peace principles and all the peace presidents of Chicago would be at the election next November where last year's snow is, and last night's moonshine. War, for another presidential term, would sweep away every vestige of opposition."—Richmond Examiner.

"There are only two sides to the question. Every man must be for the United States or against it. There can be no neutrals in this war, only patriots and traitors."—Stephen A. Douglas.

"I thank God that I have never given a dollar in support of the war, or in payment of abolition soldiers. —George H. Pendleton.

"The country will ask everything for security; nothing for revenge."—Abraham Lincoln.

"The noble band of patriots led by ex President Pierce, Seymour, of Connecticut, Wood of New York, and Vallandigham, of Ohio, are doing us an indirect service. They are worthy of our respect and sympathy. We can gain nothing by denouncing them. We may lose much by presenting a bold front to their peace movement. Live with them we never will! But in the mean time, if they will use the ballot box, each side will be a helper to each other, and both cooperate in accomplishing the noblest work this continent has witnessed.—Atlanta Sentinel.

"Either independence or extermination we will have."—Jeff. Davis.

"An armistice, in any intelligible sense whatever, could mean nothing less than a cessation of every act of war the time agreed upon, both naval and military; nothing less than the withdrawal of the invading troops from every part of the Confederate States, and a suspension of the blockade of the coast."—Richmond Ex.

Queries for Chicago Democrats.

If the arbitary arrests of rebels by order of Mr. Lincoln is a violation of the Constitution, what offense was Gen. McClellan guilty of when he seized and shipped to Fort Lafayette the entire Democratic portion of the Maryland legislature.

If Gen. Burnside acted the tyrant in arresting and banishing the Ohio traitor, did Gen McClellan commit any offense when he seized and banished the Legislature of a "sovereign State," who had a better apology for their treason than the Ohio traitor?

If the resolutions of 1798 were good Democratic doctrine one week ago, why did the Chicago Convention repudiate them?

If the draft is unconstitutional or tyrannical, why did the Chicago Convention pass it over in silence?

When Harris, of Maryland knocked a fellow delegate out of his seat in the Chicago Convention, did he 'muzzle free speech" by spoiling the Democratic muzzle of the offending brother?—Indianopolis Journal.

The following is an extract from a private letter written in St. Louis:

The 6th, 7th, 9th and 10th Minnesota are with Smith and Rosecrans going rapidly towards Kansas in pursuit of Price. The above mentioned regiments had a fearful march through Arkansas in a fruitless pursuit of Price, from half rations. The 9th regiment has almost vanished from existence. The 10th regiment has started up the Missouri in boats.

It seems likely that regiments will lose their vote. The Commissioners waited a long time at Helena expecting they would return, but finding they did not, they went a few days since to St. Louis. There they were told the regiments were at Jefferson City, and they started on but out probably left on this march before the Commissioners reached there.

The Chief Justiceship.

New York, Oct. 24.

[Herald's Special]—It is now alleged that Stanton will be offered the Chief Justiceship and Messrs. Cam-Cameron, Banks and Butler are mentioned for the War Department.

The Tories of the Revolution and the Federalists of 1812 used to howl over the debt and taxation incident to war. And so do the Copperheads of '64. "There is nothing new under the sun."

A "Democratic" newspaper in Illinois says: "Gen. McClellan excepts the platform." Of course the editor meant to say accepts, but he came a great deal nearer the truth than if he had said so.

The old adage says: "The early bird catches the worm." But in the Shenandoah Valley, instead of "the worm" the "Early bird" caught a thrashing.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

Official Paper of the County

SEE notice "Substitute Wanted." in another column.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. John Peck of Traverse Des Sioux is expected to preach at the school house next Sabbath at 10½ o'clock, also in the evening.

FOUND.—Seven rolls of Wall Paper were picked up between this town and Garden City, and left at this office, which the owner can have by paying for this notice.

REMOVED.—United States Collector Hall and Assistant Assessor Wm. Reid, have removed their office to the second story of Prael & Du-Buisson's fine new brick building on Front street.

We hear that a letter has been received in town announcing the gratifying fact that the members of the 9th Minnesota regiment who were nine months ago taken prisoners had been exchanged.

WE learn that the military escort from Fort Ridgley met the Indian supply train bound for the land of the Dacotas last Sunday morning at Lake Shetek. By this time the train must be over half way on their journey.

The Ladies' Soldiers Aid Society of Garden City, gave a ball last evening at that place. We hope they had the very best of a good time and a full house. A notice was handed in last week, but unfortunately too late for publication.

Judge Waite has paid out several thousand dollars to his Sioux claimants the past week, and if there are any more of his claimants who have not received their money, he invites them to call upon him as soon as convenient.

POISONED.—A child of Mrs. Olds, in this place was severely poisoned on Monday last by eating some rat poison which had been thrown out of the house of one of the neighbors. Dr. Doinberg was promptly summoned and now pronounces the child out of danger.

WE understand the Union people of Garden City and vicinity are to hold a Mass Meeting at that place, on Tuesday the 1st of November. Mr P. Hathaway of Shelbyville, Ind. Jones of St. Peter, and H. G. Orton of this place, will address the people in the afternoon and evening.

MR. RANDALL, of the Clothing Emporium has just received his Fall and Winter stock of over coats, dress coats, pants, vests, under clothing, hats, caps, socks, gloves, etc., and if the people would protect themselves against the chilly winds of our northern clime let them make a selection of a suit from Mr. R's stock, as he will sell at greatly reduced prices.

CALL at the UNION OFFICE and get one of those beautiful Steel Engravings, for framing, of "Honest Abe," and the gallant Grant. A few of the "grave digger of the Chickahominy," which are below par in this locality, will be consigned to the public bonfire which will be kindled in our streets in honor of his defeat, after the 8th of November.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—About a week ago the son of a man who lives on the old Andrews' claim, was badly injured by being dragged under a log, fracturing his thigh, crushing his chest, breaking his collar bone and badly cutting and injuring his head. Surgeon W. W. Clark of this place was called, and has succeeded, we understand, in dressing his wounds, so that hope is now entertained of his recovery.

PRAIRIE FIRE.—Quite an extensive prairie fire prevailed in Lime Township on Monday of this week. It started near a corner of Robert Wardlow's farm and spread with great rapidity, burning fences, stacks of grain and hay of quite a number of the farmers in that vicinity.—Cooley Roberts, we understand was one of the principal sufferers, losing some 200 rods of fence and 45 tons of hay. It is supposed to have originated from an act of carelessness in one of the men cutting poles near Wardlow's place, in lighting his pipe. Last week, from a similar cause a fire originated in the same settlement near a grain stack and was promptly extinguished. Our farm[illegible] cannot be too careful [illegible] this unusually dry season, in guarding against prairie fires.

FEATHER RENOVATOR.—Messrs. Leonard & Shepard have had in operation for the past week, in Leache's Stone Building, their Steam Feather Renovator, giving general satisfaction. They will remain here but a short time. They will call where ordered, and take your bed in the morning and return it in the evening, thoroughly cleansed and increased in bulk from one to two hundred per cent Give them your beds, and for the small compensation exacted, enjoy, like ourselves, the felicity of a nap on an entirely new feather bed.

HON. P. HATHAWAY, of Shelbyvil made one of the ablest and most telling speeches we have listened to this campaign, at the City Hall on Thursday evening of last week. The Hall was crowded with both ladies and gentlemen, who were highly interested in the forcible and vigorous manner he handled the political topics of the day. Even some of the Democrats present had to acknowledge afterwards that they were much pleased with his speech.

ACCIDENT,—Henry Bœgen of this place met with quite a severe accident on Monday last. While in the act of filing a circular saw, the engine was by some misunderstanding started, causing the saw to inflict a very severe wound on the inside of his leg. Drs. Lewis & Frisbie were called in and the wounded man is now doing well. Had the saw cut an half inch further the Doctors say he would have bled to death in a very few minutes.

THE meeting of the Union Club held Wednesday evening of this week was well attended considering the very unpleasant weather. Those who were present, and among them were quite a a number of ladies, were well paid in listening to the speech of Hon. Gallatin Brown, of Michigan, who, though quite hoarse, from his previous efforts, made a very logical and effective speech. His extracts from the Peace Democratic war horses were well made and showed up the Peace party completely. The Glee Club was also in attendance and favored the audience with some choice patriotic songs.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—This Universal Remedy for Coughs, Colds, and Bronchial Affections now stand the first in public favor and confidence; this result has been acquired by a test of thirteen years. Its merit and extensive use have caused the Troches to be counterfeited, and we would caution purchasers to be on their guard against worthless imitations.

S. D. & H. W. Smith's Ware rooms are the center of attraction since they introduced their AMERICAN ORGAN. The Instruments from their factory enjoy a first class reputation in the musical world, for purity, sweetness, and power of tone. They are finished in Rosewood, Black Walnut and Oak. Price from $80 to $450. W. W. Kimball, 142 Lake street, Chicago, Wholesale Depot for the Northwest.

A private letter from Major Grant, dated at Helena, Oct. 15, says the commissioners have just left after taking the vote of the Sixth regiment. 366 votes were cast and of these 350 were for Lincoln. The Sixth, like all the other regiments is reliable.

The three districts in Ohio now represented by Pendleton, Long and Cox, elect Union men to succeed them. Thus do the people dig political graves for Copperheads.

Additional Articles to the General Convention of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation between the United States and Denmark, of April 26, 1826. Concluded at Washington, July 11, 1861. Ratifications exchanged, September 18, 1861. Proclaimed by the President of the United States, September 20, 1861.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A Proclamation.

WHEREAS, additional articles to the General Convention of Friendship, Commerce, and Navigation between the United States and Denmark, on the 26th of April, 1826, were concluded and signed by the respective Plenipotentiaries of the parties at the city of Washington, on the eleventh day of July last, which additional articles, being in the English and French languages, are word for word as follows:

ADDITIONAL ARTICLES.

To the General Convention of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation, concluded at Washington on the twenty-sixth day of April, 1826, between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark.

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark, wishing to favor their mutual commerce by affording in their ports, every necessary assistance to their respective vessels, the undersigned Plenipotentiaries, being duly empowered for that purpose, have agreed upon the following additional articles to the General Convention of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation, concluded at Washington on the twenty sixth day of April, 1826, between the contracting parties.

ARTICLE I.

The respective Consuls General, Consuls, Vice Consuls and Commercial Agents, shall have the right as such to sit as judges and arbitrators in such differences as may arise, either at sea or in port, between the captain, officers and crew of the vessels belonging to the nation whose interests are committed to their charge, particularly in reference to the adjustment of wages and the execution of contracts, without the interference of the local authorities, unless the conduct of the crew and the officers, or of the captains, should disturb the order or tranquility of the country.

It is however, understood that this species of judgment or arbitration shall not deprive the contending parties of the right they have to resort on their return to the judicial authority of their country.

ARTICLE II.

The Consuls-General, Consuls, Vice Consuls and Commercial Agents are authorized to require the assistance of the local authorities for the search, arrest and imprisonment of the deserters from the ships of war and merchant-vessels of the ships of war and merchant vessels of their country. For this this purpose they shall apply to the competent tribunals, judges and officers, and shall in writing demand said deserters, proving by the exhibition of the registers of the vessels, the rolls of the crews, or by other official documents, or, if the vessel shall have departed, by copy of said documents duly certified by them, that such individuals form part of the crew; and on this reclaimation being thus substantiated, the shall not be refused, unless there be suffient proof of the said persons being citizens or subjects of the country where their surrender is demanded. Such deserters, when arrested, shall be placed at the disposal of said Consuls-General, Consuls, Vice-Consuls or Commercial Agents, and may be confined in the public prisons at the request and cost of those who shall claim them, in order to be detained until the time when they shall be restored to the vessels to which they belonged, or sent back to their own country by a vessel of the same nation, or by any other vessel whatsoever. But if not sent back within three months from the day of their arrest, they shall be set at liberty, and shall not be again arrested for the same cause.

However, if the deserter should be found to have committed any crime or offense, his surrender may be delayed until the tribunal before which his case shall be depending shall have pronounced its sentence, and such sentence shall have been carried into effect.

The present additional articles shall have the same force and value as if they were inserted, word for word, in the convention signed at Washington on the twenty-sixth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six, and being approved and ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and by His Majesty the King of Denmark, the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington within six months from the date thereof, or sooner, if possible.

In faith, whereof, we, the undersigned, in virtue of our respective full powers, have signed the present additional articles, and have thereto affixed our seals.

Done in triplicate at the city of Washington, on the eleventh day of July, in the of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.
W. R. RAASLOFF.

And whereas the said additional articles have been duly ratified on both parts and the respection of the same were exchanged in the city of Washington, on the eighteenth instant, by William H. Seward, Secretary of the State of the United States, and W. R. Rasloff, Charge d'Affaires of His Majesty of Denmark in the United States, on the part of their respective governments.

Now, therefore, be it known that I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States of the United States of America, have caused the said additional articles to be made public, to the end that the same and every clause and article thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington this twentieth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-sixth.

Singer Sewing Machines.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the cheapest and best and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Guaging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work.—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver. It also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this [illegible] most conclusive, and from both sexes [illegible] of bilious colic, is immediately [illegible] single dose of the stimulant, and by [illegible] ally restoring to it, the return of [illegible] may be prevented. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. "AM I FOR PEACE? YES!"

[Hon. D. S. Dickinson, that grand old Democrat of New York, being written to by a lady and the inquiry made of him if he was for peace, returned this ringing reply.—Iron Platform]

For the peace which rings, out from the cannon's throat,
And suasion of shot and shell,
Till rebellion's spirit is trampled down
To the depths of its kindred hell.

For peace which shall follow the squadron's tramp
Where the brazen trumpets bray,
And drunk with the fury of storm and strife
The blood-red chargers neigh.

For the peace that shall wash out the leprous stain
Of our slavery—foul and grim—
And shall sunder the fetters which creak and clank
On the down-trodden black man's limb.

I will curse him as traitor and foul of heart
Who would shrink from the conflict now,
And will stamp it with blistering, burning brand
On his hideous, Cain-like brow.

Out! out of the way! with your spurious peace,
Which would make us rebellion's slaves;
We will rescue our land from traitorous grasp
Or cover it over with graves.

Out! out of the way! with your knavish schemes,
You trembling and trading pack!
Crouch away in the dark like a sneaking hound
That its master had beaten back.

You would barter the fruit of our fathers' blood
And sell out the stripes and stars,
To purchase a place with rebellion's votes
Or escape from rebellions' scars,

By the widow's wail, by the mothers' tears
By the orphans cry for bread,
By our sons who fell, we will never yield
Till rebellion's soul is dead.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Letter from A. H. Stephens.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.

The Richmond Whig of yesterday contains a highly important letter from Alex. H. Stephens, to sundry citizens of Georgia who had written to him about peace movements. He begins by magnifying his desire for peace, and then says:

VICE PRESIDENT STEPHENS' LETTER.

But I really do not see that it is in my power or yours, or that of any number of persons in our position, to inaugurate any movement that will even tend to aid in bringing about a result that we and so many more desire.

He then praises the action of the Georgia Legislature last year, and says the organization of the peace party at the north may be traced to it, and proceeds thus to give the only basis of peace. The easy and perfect solution of all present troubles and of those far more grievous ones which loom in prospect, and portentously threaten in the coming future, is nothing more than the simple recognition of the fundamental principle upon which all American constitutional liberty is founded, and upon the maintenance of which alone it can be preserved. That is the sovereignty, the ultimate, absolute sovereignty of the States. This is the only keynote of peace, permanent, lasting peace, consistent with the security of public liberty.

Vice President Stephens then proceeds to argue the State rights doctrine thus enunciated, in its historical and constitutional bearings, and thus continues:

"The action of the Chicago Convention, so far as its platform of principles goes, presents, as I have said on another occasion, a ray of light which under Providence may prove the dawn of day to this long and cheerless night. The prominent and leading idea of that Convention seems to have been a desire to reach a peaceful adjustment of our present difficulties. Through a convention of the States they propose to suspend hostilities, to see what can be done, if anything, in the way of negotiation. This is a step in the right direction."

After arguing in favor of this plank of the Chicago Platform, the Vice President continues: "But I should favor such a proposition only as a peaceful conference such as the Convention of 1787 was. I should be opposed to leaving the questions at issue, to the absolute decision of such a body.

"The plan of adjustment should be submitted for subsequent ratification by the sovereign States, whom it affected, before it should be binding, and then it should be binding on such as should ratify."

The Vice President then exhorts them to be watchful and care for their liberties, and proceeds to compare the present rebel situation with that of our revolutionary forefathers, thus:

"In point of reverses our condition is not to be compared with theirs. Should Mobile, Savannah, Charleston, and even Petersburg and Richmond fall, our condition would not then be worse or less hopeful than theirs was in the darkest hour that rested on their fortunes. With wisdom on the part of those who control the destiny in the cabinet and field in husbanding and properly wielding our resources at their command, and in securing heart and affections of the people, we could suffer these losses and calamities and still triumph in the end."

After continuing further in this strain, the Vice-President concludes thus:

"The chief aid and encouragement we can give the Peace party at the North, is to keep before them these great fundamental principles, which alone will lead them and us to a permanent and lasting peace, with the enjoyment of constitutional liberty. With these principles once recognized, the future would take care of itself. There would be no more war so long as they should be adhered to. All questions of boundaries, Confederacies and Union or Unions would naturally and easily adjust themselves, according to the interests of the parties and the exigencies of the times. Herein lies the true law of the balance of power and the harmony of the States."

Yours respectfully,
ALEX. H. STEPHENS.

Why was McClellan Nominated.

1. Because his associates have always been traitors. At West Point, Fitz John Porter and G. W. Smith. In the Mexican war, Beauregard, Davis and Lee. In the fillibustering expeditions against Cuba, Beauregard, G. W. Smith and Mansfield Lovell. In securing him the only promotion he ever won until the present war—Jeff. Davis. His candidate for President in 1860, was the traitor Breckinridge. When the rebellion broke out he offered his services first to Jeff Davis and afterwards to the Union—so say the Richmond papers, and rebel officers, the only sources from which we could possibly learn the truth about it.

2. Because his first act, as a General was to offer to aid the rebels in keeping their slaves in subjection to them, though he ought to have known that such subjection was inconsistent with the allegiance which the slave owed to the United States.

3. Because having the meanness to claim the credit of victories in West Virginia, which he never planned nor fought, his pusillanimous instincts naturally ally him with the Peace sneaks, Vallandigham, Cox, Seymour, who wrote the Chicago platform.

4. Because being made General in Chief by laurels stolen from the brows of Rosecrans and Lander, and by a disaster to McDowell and Scott, caused by his own friend, Fitz John Porter, in order to induce his elevation, he consulted on military affairs with nobody but Fitz John Porter, a convicted traitor, and only with Sunset Cox, and Barlow, a New York secessionist on political matters, and made his whole military policy subordinate to the scheme of these secesh politicians for making him President. He as truly feared to meet his loyal Generals, Sumner, Keys Heintzleman, Hooker, Kearney and others in council, as to meet the rebels in battle, and from the same consciousness of his relative personal inferiority. Well did the Chicago Convention leaders know that the tool of such a traitorous clique in the army would be their own mere catspaw in the Presidency.

5. Because he never organized his army except so fast as he was pushed into it, never led them against the enemy, except as he was kicked into it; never fought a battle with the expectation of winning it; came no nearer the battle-field than his bottle holders forced him to come; and never near enough to direct the fighting; whipped our army where it was possible to do so, and ordered it to retreat whether it was whipped or not, and would have surrendered it in toto at Harrison's Landing, if he had not been "interfered with by the authorities at Washington."

6. Because it was supposed the soldiers would vote for him against their principles. The returns from the soldiers' vote of Pennsylvania and Ohio show about eighty-seven per cent against him. It is a great mistake to suppose that McClellan's record is any better than that of Pendleton.

An Affecting Incident.

Honor to the patriot of whom a Pennsylvania correspondent thus writes:

A thrilling incident occurred during the voting of the 48th Ward today. An old man over seventy years of age, advanced to the window, leaning tremblingly on his staff, when an officious Copperhead vote distributor approached him, and thrusting a ticket in his face, said, "Here is an old Jackson Democrat who always votes a straight ticket." The old man opened the ballot and and held it with trembling fingers until he had read one or two of the names, flung it from him and in a voice husky with emotion, exclaimed: 'I despise you more than I hate the rebel who sent his bullet through my dead son's heart! Do you expect me to dishonor my poor boy's memory, and vote for men who charge American soldiers, fighting for their country, with being hirelings and murderers!' The Union ticket was given him, and room was reverently made for the true hearted old patriot by the hushed and admiring knot around the window.

That neither the soldiers nor the soldiers' friends can be cheated into McClellanism, let this true tale attest.

From the Stillwater Messenger.

How the Soldiers Vote in the First Minnesota Battallion.

We find a communication in the Press of Sunday, from our friend and former resident of Stillwater, Thomas Pressnell, a member of the First Minnesota Battallion. The letter is dated at Fort Rice, near Petersburg, Oct. 13th. He writes for the purpose of refuting a copperhead lie which appeared sometime since in the Pioneer, to the effect that a vote for President had been taken in the 2d (Hancocks) corps, which showed an overwhelming majority for McClellan. Tom says no such election has ever been held in corps, and judges that Mac would receive a larger vote in the corps than in any other portion of the army on account of the great number of troops from New York City which compose it.

He says the commissioner from Minnesota has been there and received their ballots, that in the Battallion the gunboat hero received one vote; in the 2nd Sharpshooters, Captain Black, littelmak got two votes and in the 1st Sharpshooters, Captain Wright, the vote was all right, that is, solid for Abraham Lincoln and Andy Johnson!

Of three votes cast for the grave digger of the Chickahominy, Mankato, Minneapolis and Stillwater share alike in the disgrace. It is claimed by the little mackerels in town that Capt. Black cast the vote for Mack, inasmuch as he is a life-long Democrat, but we'll bet two to one he didn't.

The Pioneer in closing its account of the vote which it claimed had been taken in the 2d corps, says:

"It proves what has all along been said, that the soldiers are almost to a man for McClellan."

By supplying one word in the Pioneer's statement it will read correctly. Just place the word "rebel" before soldiers, and the sentence is complete and truthful.

GEN, SCOTT'S MOTHER.—In the opening paragraph of his autobiography which is now in press, Gen. Scott pays the following beautiful tribute to his mother, He says:

'According to the family Bible, I was born June 13, 1786, on the farm which I inherited, some fourteen miles from Petersburg Va. My parents William Scott and Ann Mason both natives of the same neighborhood, intermarried in 1780. * * * In my sixth year I lost my father, a gallant lieutenant, captain in the Revolutionary army, and a successful farmer, Happily, my dear mother was spared to me eleven years longer, and if, in my protracted career, I have achieved anything worthy of being written, anything that my countrymen are likely to honor in the next century, it is from the lessons of that admirable parent that I derived the inspiration.'

The Canton (Illinois) Register has the following:

Mr. Charles Phelps while acting as Assistant Provost Marshal and notifying drafted men in Isabel township, on Saturday last, was shot by some "Democratic" peace sneak assassins, when quietly leading his horse along the path through the woods. He first supposed somebody was shooting squirrels. Soon several others were fired, one hitting him and another hitting his horse, which reared up and fell in the road, where he lay the next morning. The ball that hit Mr. Phelps entered near the lower part of the left shoulder and lodged near the back bone. He kept on walking till he came to a house, where he still remains. The assassins kept on firing on him as long as he was in range, but no other ball injured him—one just grazed his leg. Thirteen ball holes were found in his overcoat. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

SMILE.—Which will you do, smile and make others happy, or be crabbed and make everybody around you miserable? You can live among beautiful flowers and singing birds, or in the mire surrounded by fogs and frogs. The amount of happiness you can produce is incalculable, if you will show a smiling face, a kind heart, and speak pleasant words. Or on the other hand by sour looks, cross words or a sorrowful disposition you can make hundreds unhappy beyond endurance. Which will you do? Wear a pleasant countenance, let joy beam in your eye, and glow in your forehead There is no joy so great as that which springs from a kind act or pleasant deed, and you may feel it at night when you rest or at morning when you rise, and through the day when about your daily business.

A Father's Lesson.

'Papa,' said one of Mr. B's children as they surrounded their good father one evening, 'how can the soul live after we die and are buried under the ground? Teacher was talking about it to-day, but I could not understand him.'

The father took his watch from his pocket, and asked what it was.

'A watch, papa!' they all replied.

'Very well. Do you hear it tick? Listen for a moment.'

The children listened and heard the ticking of the watch.

Then Mr. B. took off the case, and held the watch in one hand and the case in the other.

'Now children, you see there are two things which look like watches; which one is the watch?'

'The one in your right hand that ticks.'

'Very well. Put the case into the other room; now you see the watch still ticks and keeps time, though its case is put away. So it is with us, my children. Our bodies are only the cases in which our souls are kept, and when each body is taken away and buried in the ground, the soul still lives, just as the watch you perceive, still goes, even when the case is put out of sight.'

Satisfied With the Terms.

A certain good-natured old Vermont farmer preserved his constant good nature, let what would turn up, One day whilst the black tongue prevailed in that State one of his men came in bringing the news that one of his red oxen was dead, 'Is he?' said the old man, 'well he always was a breechy cuss. Take his hide off and carry it down to Fletcher's; it will bring cash.' An hour or so afteward the man came back with the news that 'line back' and his mate were both dead. 'Are they' said the old man, 'well I took them of B—— to save a bad debt that I never expected to get. Take their hides to Fletcher's they will bring cash.' After the lapse of another hour the man came back to tell him that the nigh brindle was dead. 'Is he?' said the old man; 'well, he was a good old ox. Take off his hide and send it down to Fletchers, it will bring more than two of the others.' Hereupon his wife, who was a pious soul, taking upon herself the office of Eliphaz, reminded her husband very severely of his sins, and asked him if he was not aware that his loss was the judgement of Heaven for his wickedness. 'Is it?' said the old fellow; 'well, if they take the judgement in cattle it is the easiest way I can pay it.'

THE "SONS OF LIBERTY,"—The evidence which is coming out at the trial of H. H. Dodd, of Indianapolis, (a 'Son of Liberty' recently arrested) is conclusive to the existence of a treasonable plot to overthrow the Government. The grand uprising was to have taken place in August, but was postponed for certain reasons. The members of the Order were abundantly supplied with hand-grenades, revolvers greek-fire, &c. They were to murder the Government officers, burn the loyal newspaper offices, and inaugurate scenes of bloodshed generally,

One feature of these developments is noteworthy. It is conclusively shown that Vallandigham, who was chief spokesman at Chicago, and who moved the unanimous nomination of McClellan, is Commander-in Chief of the conspirators! The Chicago threat of a civil war, then, was based upon the knowledge which that Convention had of the plans, resources and purposes of this secret organization of Northern traitors. What loyal man will not shrink from association with a party whose leaders are secretly plotting a civil war to aid the rebels in their war upon the Union? A more infamous purpose, never marred the history of the world!

GOOD LUCK.—Some young men talk about luck. Good luck is to get up at six o'clock in the morning good luck, if you have only a shilling a week, is to live upon eleven pence and save a penny; good luck is to trouble your head with your own business, and let your neighbor's alone; good luck is to fulfill the commandments, and to do unto other people as we wish them to do unto us. They must not only work, but wait, They must plod, and persevere. Pence must be taken care of because they are the seeds of guineas. To get on in the world, they must take care of home, sweep their own doorways clean, try and help other people, avoid temptations, and have faith in truth, and God.—DeFraine's Lectures.

WELL ANSWERED.—The laboring man who wants a new dress for his wife, is now compelled to pay seventy-five cents a yard for it. When we had a Democratic President he could buy it for twelve cents.—Prov. Post.

Yes, and if your Democratic President had had the spunk of a tom cat, or the patriotism of a bounty jumper, the price would not have been enhanced by war.—Providence Jour.

WHAT A LITTLE GIRL DID FOR THE COUNTRY.—Little Annie's heart was full and the tears filled her sweet little blue eyes as she listened to the poor soldier's sufferings, when sick and wounded, so far from all the dear friends that would watch over and comfort them.

'How I wish I could do something for them,' said little Annie.

'Well, daughter,' said her mother, the part of a professional friend. 'the orchard is overladen this year and it is a busy time all around. If you choose to go about the task of helping to gather apples, you shall have every tenth basket you fill for the soldiers. Father will barrel them up and send them on to the Society for you as soon as they are ready.'

It was not long before little Annie's feet were tripping over the orchard grass, and her little fingers were as busy as bees among the rosy and golden-cheeked apples. Her zeal did not die out after the first half-hour's work, but kept up bright until the harvest was gathered. "How many poor suffering fellows, away in the camp hospitals, blessed the dear little girl who sent them such a timely, refreshing luxury.

WHAT A SOLDIER SAYS.—The following extract from a letter written by a veteran soldier (now serveing his second term) to his brother in this villiage, is significant as showing the sentiment which prevails in the Army with reference to the present Presidential campaign:

'The peace men will be greatly disappointed when they find how the army has turned against them and their peace candidate, McClellan, When I left the army on furlough. the men were all in favor of him; but since they have seen the platform he goes on, they say they would sooner ——— him than vote for him. He need not depend on the Army, for he will not get 1,000 votes in it.'

MR. M——of a certain town in Vermont, is not distinguished for liberality, either of purse or opinion.

His ruling passion is a fear of being cheated. He once bought a cake of tallow at a country store for ten cents a pound. On breaking it in pieces at home a large cavity was found in the center. This he considered a terrible, disclosure of cupidity on

He drove furiously back to the store, entering in great excitement, bearing the tallow exclaiming;

'Here, you rascal, you have cheated me! Do you call that an honest cake of tallow? It is hollow, and there ain't near so much as it appears to be. I want you to make it right,'

'Certainly,' replied the merchant, 'I'll make it all right; I didn't know the cake was hollow. Let me see—you paid me ten cents per pound.

Now, Mr. M———, how much do you suppose the hole weighs?'

AT Phœnixville, the other night, sitting in A———'s tavern, was a jovial corps of jokers, B—— among the rest and each was trying to outdo the other in heavy lies. One of the crowd had the greatest father out. 'He was so spry that he could balance a twenty foot ladder on one end and run up one side of it, over the top and down the other, before it fell.' 'I have seen my father,' said C——, 'many a time, take a forty foot ladder run up to the end, catch it by the top round, whirl it up another length and go up in the same way, before it would fall.'

"Resolved, That in the future, as in the past, we will adhere to the Union.'—Democratic Platform.

Eleven of the fifteen States which gave Democratic majorities against Mr. Lincoln, have been in arms against the Union from that day, and eleven of the fifteen Democratic Governors, in 1864, are now or have been leading traitors.—Chicago Journal.

How the Veterans vote.

The First Wisconsin regiment, having served out its full time returned to Milwaukee last week, and is soon to be mustered out of service. They received a magnificent welcome from the citizens, and during their stay in the city a vote of the regiment was taken on the Presidential question, with the following result:

Abraham Lincoln	179
Geo. B, McClellan	8

"I have already given three cousins to the war," says Artemas Ward, "and stand ready to send my wife's brother next, if necessary. Yes, and —if the wust come to the wust—I stand ready to sacrifice all my wife's relations."

Geo. Francis Train, in one of his wildest letters to Gen, McClellan commences: "Cæsar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell. and George, if you keep on as you have begun, in November you won't have any body.'

Rise Up for the Battle.

On Tuesday next will be decided at the ballot-box of the nation, as far as the ballot-box alone can do it, whether we shall conquer peace, or coerce a peace. The Union platform is unequivocally for a vigorous prosecution of the war, until the last armed rebel shall submit, and be willing to come again under the shadow of the old flag no longer to wander from beneath its folds. The Democratic platform is unequivocally for a cessation of hostilities with an armed, defiant foe, for the purpose of trying an experiment as to whether an adjustment of our difficulties cannot be made by a convention of politicians, but leaves all in mystery and darkness how or on what terms the adjustment can take place.

Can the friends of the Union afford to try experiments—to leave a certainty for an uncertainty at the present time? Our brave soldiers will now conquer a peace. The Chicago Democratic party even could they elect their Presidential candidate, have no guaranty that they can ever coax a peace or obtain one on any terms save acknowledging the independence of the South.

The duty of every loyal man then, is plain. It is to be loyal in acts as well as in sentiment. In the language of Senator Douglas, their duty is to "sustain the Flag, the Constitution and the Union under every administration and under all circumstances."

Let the friends, then, of the Union "rise up for the battle," and do what they can by their influence, by their active, hard work between now and Tuesday next, to strengthen the cause of the Union. And let every Union man by his vote on election day, send back to our brave soldiers the cheering intelligence that their loyal friends at home are religiously cherishing the liberties which they are now so bravely protecting.

BE ACTIVE.

The election soon to take place is the most important of any since the days of Washington and there is no true patriot who loves his country and desires to see a Republican government succeed, who will attempt to gainsay it. No earnest man can afford to be idle. But four more days remain in which you can work for the Union and the cause of humanity, and it is your duty to give your time and your work to help secure the election of Lincoln and Johnson. Work among your neighbors, stir up their enthusiasm, and urge on the faithful, encourage them to give a strong pull for freedom and the victory will be ours.

Make your business arrangements so that you can remain at the polls on election day and use your individual influence to help elect the ticket. Find out how your neighbor will vote and see that he votes the right ticket More good can be effected by using individual influence, if the whole party will go to work, than in any other way.

UNION MEN!—We conjure you to vote right. Every vote for Lincoln is a sure shot at rebellion and treason, and every vote for McClellan is a shot against human freedom, and in favor of Jeff Davis and his minions.

A WORD TO VOTERS!

Be sure that the names of the Union electors are on your tickets.

Vote the State and Congressional ticket, and don't scratch it. The candidates are all men of acknowledged legal ability, and their election will be an honor to the State.

Vote for Horace Austin, the Union candidate for Judge of this Judicial District. He has a superior legal mind, has had large experience, and will make a good Judge.

Vote our Legislative ticket. The candidates, without exception, are good and true men, and will work for our local interests. This District has many things to ask for in our Legislature, and we want to send men there who have ability, experience, influence, and who will be heard.

Vote for Charles A Chapman. He is our present County Auditor, and a candidate for re election this fall. He is known by every voter in the county as a most excellent officer. You have tried him, and he has never been found wanting, and as you vote to re-elect Abraham Lincoln, so vote to keep Mr. Chapman in office for another term. He is acknowledged to be the best County Auditor in the State. He took hold of our county affairs when they were in chaos and confusion, and the business is now systematic and in perfect order. He knows every tract of land in the county, its location, shape, and who owns it.

Vote for E. P. Freeman, Esq., the candidate for County Attorney. He is the only candidate in the field for that position, his and election is certain. He is held in high esteem by both parties, and is a young man of experience and irreproachable character. His election will be a credit to our county.

Voters in the 4th and 5th Commissioners District! Vote for S. R. Grannis and Horace Kinney. You want men to control your county interests who have intelligence, experience, and who are fully competent. These men are such, and will protect your interests.

Patriots arouse! The battle that will be fought on Tuesday between the Union and confederate forces north of the Potomac, will most certainly end in the destruction and annihilation of the boasted confederacy. Abraham Lincoln commands the Union forces; Geo. B. McClellan commands the confederate forces, and says Jeff Davis is a gentleman.

Union men, the country looks to you in this crisis. Remember the important work before you. Aid our gallant heroes in the field in winding up the Rebellion. Remember that H. W. Lamberton and the whole Democratic ticket, have arrayed themselves on the side of compromise, northern submission—have raised the white flag in front of the enemies of your country, and ask your votes.

THREE SIGNIFICANT OMENS.—1st. When McClellan's nomination was made known to the Rebel Army of the Potomac, cheer after cheer went up from them along the whole line.

2d. When the secesh at Niagara Falls heard of Mac's letter, they laughed at it. "We've got Pendleton," said they, "and if Mac don't walk on the platform, we'll put him out of the way in less than thirty days."

3d. When Mac's nomination was received in England, the rebel loan rose 3 per cent.

Lovers of the Union, look at these facts, and see if Rebels and Peace men are not in the same boat.

A pilot at Hell Gate reports that of 31 captains of vessels passing that point in one day, 30 were for McClellan and one undecided. The Hartford Post says if the pilot had gone inside the Gate he might have found the vote unanimous.

In the procession of the McClellan meeting in Philadelphia, a few nights since was a caricature of Gen. Grant, in which he was made to say, "I pull for the side that pays the best." This is the way the Copperheads insult our brave soldiers, and then ask them for their votes.

The declension of the Chicago nomination by the people in their Electoral Colleges this November, will be as follows:

Chicago Nominations—Positive, Boil.
October Elections.—Comparative, Boiler.
November Elections.—Superlative, Burst

And that "burst" will be preterplu perfect. It will take antiquarians to find the flinders.

"It is a long lane that knows no turning." Sheridan found recently a Longstreet that did not come under the rule.

A Reconnoissance in Force.

Pennsylvania has given over twelve thousand majority for the Union ticket, Ohio over 60,000, and Indiana over 20,000. These were but a reconnoissance in force in October. On Tuesday next, the grand Union army will move, and sweep traitors and copperheads out of existence. Fall into the ranks, and gird on your armor.

BE up and doing, voters, and give next Tuesday to your country, Roll up your sleeves, and pitch in, and work for the Union ticket. Be vigilant, be in earnest, work faithful, go to the polls early, and get every vote you can for Lincoln, and when the day closes you will find that you have dug a grave for Copperheads so deep that the sound of Gabriel's trumpet the third resurrection, will not reach the bottom in a thousand years.

REGISTER YOUR NAMES.—The Judges of election will meet at seven on the morning of election, and register names of voters till 9. See that your name is on the poll list, and look for your friend's name. If it is not there, have it put on, and see that he comes out to vote. Don't fail to do this. A neglect to do it may cost us the election.

UNION MEN! Don't be deceived by any electioneering lies that may be told you. The Copperheads are endeavoring to run gold up to 300, and have sworn that they would do it before election. It is a desperate attempt, and they will try to make you believe that things are going to the devil generally.

They cry about another draft! Look out for it, There is no thought of a draft, and the Government has not intimated a word about it. Lies are in circulation that if you vote for Lincoln you will be drafted.

We want a decisive victory in November. We must not be content with merely whipping the enemy, but we must rout him, horse, foot and dragoon. We must make the majority so decisive that there can be no cavil at it. And the way to accomplish this is, let everybody take hold and help.

Is there a loyal Democrat in the country who would be willing to trust the Ship of State over the breakers of rebellion to the guidance of Geo. H. Pendleton? But suppose the ticket is elected and McClellan should die.

It is said that recent events in the Shenandoah have disgusted the rebel press with a standard newspaper phrase. They don't hanker after Early news any more.

AN APPROPRIATE NAME.—The Democratic ticket is called the "Pendulum and Pendeleton ticket," in the East, because McClellan is vibrating between a peace and war platform.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE—"Another Democratic meeting broken up!"

"Where at?"

"A large crowd of Democrats scattered by Union soldiers!"

"Where, where?"

"Union officers participated in the disturbance!"

"Good! Good!! Where did it all happen?"

"In the Shenandoah Valley!"

"Git out!"

Congressman B. H. Hill of Georgia in a recent speech at Macon, urged upon his hearers the necessity of defeating Sherman, saying:

"If Sherman is defeated and McClellan elected in the coming election, we may have peace. But there is no peace party in the North if we are willing to be subjugated. All will subjugate us if they can. Peace can only come by the defeat of the enemy. McClellan will never be elected unless Sherman is defeated. The preservation of our honor, the preservation of our State, the election of McClellan, and the securing of an honrable peace all depend upon the defeat of Sherman."

Ex-Gov. Wright, of Indiana, has been making effective speeches for the Union in West Virginia. On Monday last he spoke at Wheeling, and the Intelligencer of that city says:

Ex Gov. Wright made a speech last night that will not soon die out in the minds of his hearers. It is impossible for any man who possesses a moral sense, to listen to such a speech, and not feel deeply impressed by it. We have no space this morning to dwell upon its many and telling points. It was a speech of a kind long needed in this lattitude from just such a man. Unlike most addresses that our people have listened to, it did not seek to play Hamlet with Hamlet left out. It went to the bottom, and it dealt with the foundation merits of this war. We would that every voter in West Virginia could have heard it.

McClellan and Sheridan.

The Copperheads have compared McClellan with Pericles and Napoleon. Will not some of them favor us with the antithesis between McClellan and Sheridan? Sheridan, after a necessary absence to consult at Washington with his General-in-Chief, returns to find his army in the crisis of a defeat, which by his presence and energy, he transforms into a victory. McClellan, during the "seven days," always absent during the battles, returns after they are over, to find that his Generals have won a victory which by his presence and order to retreat he converts into a defeat. McClellan rides away from a battle field to the sound of the enemy's cannon, puts out to a gunboat out of range of the enemy's fire, smokes his cigar, without receiving any information, or giving an order till the victory is won, and then goes on shore and orders a retreat. Sheridan dashes on with beating heart and furious speed to the battle-field, rides cap in hand along the perilous front, shouting words of thrilling cheer to his wearied soldiers and in an hour infuses into their shattered line and discouraged hearts the energy to make an irresistible and victorious charge, sweeping their lately triumphant force like chaff before the wind recovering thrice their loss in guns and prisoner at nightfall to resume the chase next morning. McClellan is not among the number from which Grant would select a General for any command whatever. Sheridan on the contrary he styles "one of the greatest Generals." The Copperheads would do their candidates more honor by claiming that he could fight like Sheridan that by proving that he could talk like Pericles.

MR. EDITOR:—I noticed a statemen in your last paper, that the ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society of Garden City gave a ball at this place last Thursday evening. Now, as one that loves the soldier, and believes in doing all that we can for his comfort in the army at home or abroad and believing also that the ladies of Garden City are laboring for the good of the soldier, I am loth to believe that they would stoop so low as to give a ball under the false pretence of aiding the soldier thereby. One reason for my disbelieving it, is that majority of said society are members of the church, I think, or at least a great many of them, and I believe that all such are opposed to balls, believing them to have a corrupting influence upon society, and again why I disbelieve it is, that those who are influence on society, and again why not members, I should suppose, have too great a respect for religious persons, than to drag them in to have the name of giving a ball when at heart they are utterly opposed to it. But supposing this is the case that a ball is given under these circumstances. I appeal to the hearts of those patriotic soldiers and ask in the name of common sense and humanity if they are not doing evil that good may come. Have they tried in every honest way to aid the soldier, and failed, that they should resort to this ungodly way of raising money. It is true they have asked some to assist in their laudable enterprise, who have showed by the way they repulsed them that they were tinctured with the yellow hue of that metal commonly called copper, and thereby some of them have been disheartened, yet they have accomplished much good and have sent comfort to the heart of many a soldier, but is this last resort called for? Our brave boys are away on the bloody battle field, many of them wounded unto death, many of them suffering the most excruciating pains from wounds or disease, and needing much—not only the comforts that money brings—but the warm sympathy of loving hearts at home, and what a comfort it is to them in distress to feel that they have friends at home, whose hearts are uplifted to "Our Father in Heaven," for their comfort and consolation, and whose daily prayer is God help the poor soldier. But oh, how chilling to the hearts of the dying boys to feel that as their life blood is fast ebbing away and they are being called in to a long eternity, that instead of the prayers of friends, they are gathering at the hall of mirth and revelry. That where they used to meet to worship God, where their loved Sunday schools now meet, there meet the gay crowd, among them their mothers, sisters, fathers, and brothers, and I am ashamed to say wives. There also meet the cowardly ones that would not enlist, and the drunken debaucher, and the night-long dance to the sound of the viol utterly thoughtless of the absent ones, or of anything except self-gratification.

Is this picture overdrawn? If so pardon me, for my heart is made to feel, while looking at the utter recklessness in regard to the principles of love and humanity that exists thro'out the land. Truly if we are not liberal enough to help the soldier without going to a frolic and paying our money, we may well give up in despair and say God pity the poor soldier.

Preacher Nashby's Song of Rejoicing.

[He shows the Rebellion a goner, and that the end of the Cops is nigh.]

TUNE—Yankee Doodle.

Uncle Abe is making rails,
  And Uncle Andy's sewing,
While Grant is working day and night
  To get his tan-yard going.

There's Sherman, too, he is so true,
  But little need be said sir;
He does not trust to words and grass,
  But gives them lots of lead, sir.

There's Butler, too, we know he'll do,
  For we have tried him on, sir;
And Jeffy said he should hang,
  He was but in a horn, sir.

Poor Jeff is shaking in his boots—
  It darkens all around, sir;
And he's afraid there's nothing to pull
  When he can't reach the ground, sir.

But Grant is watching all his moves,
  And all his plans is scanning,
And if he gets to pick him up,
  He's sure to get a tanning.

Soon Uncle Abe will have the rails,
  And Grant will tan the leather,
And Andy he'll sew up the seam
  And press it close together.

Poor Cops, your day of grace is past,
  Its strange you don't remember.
Then die you will, and die you must,
  The eighth of this November

You have been warned from time to time
  To flee the wrath that's coming;—
But would not quit your evil ways,
  Nor heed the friendly warning.

We heard you talk against the draft,
  Although you knew 'twas risky,
But took good care to stay at home
  And drink your poison whiskey.

And now, dear Cops, I say farewell,
  To meet I know we'll never;
So you may get your bottles filled—
  You've got to take Salt River.

The Great Ship of Peace Wrecked, and all the Crew Lost.

A craft was built some time ago
Down in the town of Chicago;
Vallandigham he drew the draught,
The model of this wondrous craft.
Peace was to be her centre tie,
Her wheel to be an armistecy;
And very strong he said she'd prove
While bearing such emblems of Love.
He said this was the only plan
To save the people on the land.
So come along, you need not fear,
We got the men who know how to steer,
And then the shout of Peace did ring
While they launched the vessel in.
She careened and dip'd but rode the wave,
All said she would the Nation save.
Then all the crew upon the shore
Said Mac and Pen must take her o'er;
And these brave sailors did not fail
To weigh her anchor and spread her sail.
They scarce had left the friendly shore
When lo they spied a sail before.
"More sail, dear Pen," said Little Mac—
For we are hard upon her track!
"Look out," says Pen I'm pretty sure
That ship was built in Baltimore;
And she's for war right straight along,
'Till rebels lay their shooters down."
"I hope," says Mac, "she will go down,
And Abe and Andy both be drowned:
For then the White House we would gain
And have four years in which to reign—
Mercy! how rough the sea has got,
Roaring and boiling like a pot;
You must take down part of the sail
If we expect to ride the gale;
The other ship is away before,
And soon will reach the other shore
Where loyal people eager stand
To welcome her safe back to land.
Row hard," says Mac, "just hear the storm
Or soon we'll try the bottom on"
"Pray," says Pen, "if pray you can,
Or we will never reach the land;
The storm grows dark and thickens fast,
I fear my day of grace is past:
O mercy! mercy! what shall we do?
If we are lost then Jeff. is too;
A leak has sprung the vessel's filling,
And every vane in me is chilling;
The water's pouring in the hold
And we knee deep, and O! how cold,
Oh, Mac!—the trouble plain at last,
I see what makes her leak so fast:—
The Peace board you moved a little space
And did not put one in its place."
"Oh, yes," says Mac, I know 'tis true,
But I did not know what else to do;
I thought our chances would increase
To leave out war and promise Peace."
"Pray on," says Pen, "effectual prayer
May save, although so near despair;
For Watson says we may return,
While the lamp holds out to burn."
"O, Pen, the ship is sinking now,
See how she careens upon her bow,
The waves are rushing o'er the deck,
The water's raised up to our neck.
There was mercy once, but it's now too late,
We're gone, we are so sure as fate."
Down, they went with awful scream,
Into the cold waters of the turbid stream.

LATEST NEWS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF POTOMAC
Oct. 29 1862

The late movements of this army have resulted in extending our lines as far as Hatcher's Run, on the Duncan road, an advance of about three miles beyond our former position on the left, and the discovery of the exact position of the enemy's lines and the works erected for their defensive operations, as well as a more complete knowledge of the country between us and the Southside railroad.

It was not believed that the enemy had any very strong works in this direction, and that by taking them by surprise they could be easily driven to the inner lines of Petersburg, but, to the surprise of all, not only were the enemy found intrenched on both sides of the Boydton road, but they had strong works on both sides of the Run extending several miles.

The 2nd corps in the charge on the plank road drove the rebels from their works on the south side of the Run and across the bridge of which they held possession until ordered to withdraw.

On the advance of the 5th corps they moved on the south side of the Run and the road being very crooked in this vicinity by keeping close to it there was a gap between its left and the right of the 2nd corps. The enemy took advantage of this and massing in the wood made a most determined assault on the right of the 2nd division of the 2nd corps, evidently with the intention of capturing the entire force on the right. Their charge for a short time was a success but our men rallied and charged in turn, driving the rebels back and cutting off the greatest part of Anderson's brigade of Hill's corps. The number of prisoners thus taken here was about 400 including many officers.

Meantime the 5th corps had reached the enemy's works on the front, and became wholy engaged. The loss here was not so heavy as in the 2nd corps. Darkness approaching, and it being deemed unsafe to occupy so extended a line, with strong works in front exposed to flank attacks from cavalry, orders were issued to withdraw about two miles, which was done without loss.

During the engagement the enemy drove our men from two guns, but before they could be removed, our men charged and retook them.

The loss of the enemy cannot be stated, but it is thought to be about as heavy as our own in killed and wounded, while their loss in prisoners is much larger than ours. We took about 500 altogether during the day.

Gen. Grant and staff were present during the entire day, and in company with Gen Meade, watched the various movements.

During Thursday night the rebels made an assault on our works south of where the mine was sprung but were driven back with considerable loss. Near the same place a party from the first division of the 2nd corps made a dash on a rebel fort, and captured it, taking a colonel, a major, captain and lieutenant and twenty men prisoners and bringing off two guns.

Our picket line was advanced here for some distance and our men still held their new ground.

NEW YORK, Oct 31.

The Herald had a dispatch dated Hagerstown, ten o'clock last night, stating that firing was heard in the direction of Sheridan's front on Saturday afternoon, but whether a fight was in progress is not known.

The disposition being made by Sheridan of the different commands and detachments of his army, his preparations are such as to enable him to meet assaults in every direction.

Gen. Neil, we are informed, has been ordered to West Virginia on important service, which is most likely to check marauding rebels through East Tennessee.

Over 2,000 rebel prisoners have come into Sheridan's line since the 19th of Sept. many of them bringing with them as much of their property as they can carry,

It is again said Early has been superseded in command by the rebels in the Shenandoah Valley by Longstreet, and that reinforcements have reached them from Breckinridge in Western Virginia and East Tennessee.

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County

HON. M. S. WILKINSON, will speak in City Hall on Saturday evening next on the great questions of the day. Mr. Wilkinson has just closed a very successful campaign in the State, and his many friends will be glad to hear one of his powerful speeches. Let the hall be crowded. The ladies are invited to attond.

HORACE AUSTIN will speak at South Bend to-morrow, Saturday evening, at seven o'clock.

NEW GOODS.—Mrs. Potts has received by express, some new millinery goods.

Dr. Wellcome and H. G. Orton spoke to the Union men of Sterling Wednesday evening and had a crowded house.

Wm. Reid has removed his office into White & Mark's building instead of Prael & DuBoisson's as published last week.

Dr. McMahan was the surgeon who attended Mr. Bœgen who was injured at his mill, and not Dr. Lewis & Frisbie as stated in our last issue.

LIVERY.—Ben. Pay has been strolling around loose for some time, but has now settled down to business, and is prepared to accommodate the public with good buggies, fast horses, and "style till you cant rest."

FUNERAL SERVICE.—The funeral services of Cyrus S. Little, of Co. K 7th Regiment, who died in hospital at Memphis Tenn., recently, will be held in City Hall, on Sabbath next, at 10½ A. M. Rev. B. Y. Coffin will officiate. Mr. Little was a brother of J. S. Little of Lime township.

UNION RALLY!—Jud. Jones, Esq., will speak in City Hall, this (Friday) evening, before the Union Club. Turn out, boys, and give him a full house, and you will hear a speech that will pay you for going.

Christensen & Bro., have received a large lot of Nubias, Hoods, Sontags, ladies black cloaks, prints &c., and expects another lot of choice goods the first of next week.

THE BURNS TRIAL.—The trial of James Burns, for robbing the U. S. Mail on the Winona route, last summer, was concluded last Saturday, in St. Paul, and resulted in his acquittal. We are obliged to lay aside an article partially prepared on the subject, but will endeavor to give it next week. The Court, we understood, decided not to give up the stolen letters at present, as further investigations may be had.

UNION MEETING AT GARDEN CITY.—The Union men had a grand "old time at Garden City on Tuesday evening last. Jud. Jones, Esq., of St. Peter, made a most telling speech in Boynton's Hall, to a crowded house. He was followed by P. Hathaway, of Shelbyville and H. G. Orton, of Mankato. The speakers entertained the audience until near 12 o'clock, and presented facts in defense of the Administration, and the Union cause that were unanswerable. Such meetings do good, and will count upon election day.

AT HOME AGAIN.—After an absence of two weeks we are again at home, and at our editorial post. We have lost much in the last two waeks, and only one remains in which we can do battle for the Union, before election. The prospect of a most triumphant victory for the Union ticket is encouraging in every part of the State. We predict that Lincoln will get at least 5,000 majority in the State. There has been some delay in receiving Soldiers' votes, and it is very probable we shall not get more than half of them. This will reduce our majority, but notwithstanding, we expect that Minnesota will speak in thunder tones, for Abraham Lincoln.

WE have received from T. B. Peterson & Brothers of Philadelphia a copy of a work recently published by them on "The Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln." It is published in pamphlet form and will be mailed to any one on the receipt by the publishers of 50 cents. From a hasty perusal of it we are satisfied that it is a very valuable and reliable work. Interesting particulars of his early life are given, and what we regard as especially valuable. His career ever since he has been in public life, and his official acts while President are all very [illegible] minu[illegible] described.

UNION MEETING.—Senator Wilkinson will speak at Shelbyville, on Monday afternoon next at 2 o'clock, in the M. E. Church. All friends from abroad are invited to be present.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES at City Hall will commence next Sabbath at 10½ o'clock, as usual. The bell has been removed to the Presbyterian edifice, and as they are plastering it cannot be rung without injury to the ceilings. Church goers will be governed by their time pieces, as much as possible.

SALE OF SCHOOL LANDS.—State Auditor McIlrath made a sale of the school lands in this County at City Hall on Saturday last. The number of acres sold was 225,461, amounting to $14 680 20 The amount paid in was $4,202 62. The amount of interest paid was $433,-16. The land sold was mostly prairie.

WINTER CLOTHING.—We examined the large stock of clothing recently brought to town, by Samuel Randall and do not hesitate to say it is the best ever in this market. He was in the East during the present panic, and watched his chances to buy goods low, and he is confident he cannot be undersold. He has all kinds of coats, pants, vests, hats and fur caps; gloves, under shirts and drawers, and everything a man wants to make him comfortable for winter.

AMPUTATION.—Dr. W. R. McMahan, assisted by Drs. Lewis & Clark, amputated the right thigh of W. P. Woolson, of Waseca County yesterday. He was a soldier belonging to the 4th Regiment, and received his injury by the falling of the hurricane deck while on board of a steamboat in 1862.

WHITE & MARK'S CLOTHING EMPORIUM.—These gentlemen are always up with the times with their goods and their prices. They have a large stock well selected, in the Eastern market, and not only can afford, but are bound to sell them as low as can be bought anywhere in town. Their overcoats are well made, all wool lining, and the material is not of the shoddy kind. Give them a call, and you will not fail to get a good suit of clothes throughout.

FORTUNATE COMBINATION.—We are opposed to proprietary medicines, and it is with some compunction we see advertisements of them in our columns. Still we must confess that Brown's Troches are convinient and useful, in certain conditions of the throat and larynx before speaking.—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

The Ninth Regiment all Right.

David Wilcox has received a letter from F. M. Cramer, of Co. E, from which we make a few extracts:—

MEMPHIS, TENN. Oct. 27, '64.

FRIEND WILCOX:—How are you? Right side up I hope and in for Abe and Andy. They are the motto down here; we soldiers are all Lincoln men and I pity the Cop. that shows his head in the ranks of the 9th Minnesota, and if old Blue Earth's man 's be us we'll give the Cops. their last [illegible].

But I must say to you I can't tell much how the thing is going outside. It is a pretty hard matter to get hold of any papers but the soldiers are going for Lincoln might and main. They say no Compromise, no Peace until the last rebel is cleaned out, and not until then are we willing to say Peace. We are not willing to give three years of hard fighting and blood and money for nothing. No, no, fight until the last man in the whole North goes under, before we surrender all we have been fighting for this four years, and undergone all the hardships of the soldier's life. We are not playing now, we fight and mean to fight until this old Union is where she was, without slavery, and that we will have, let it cost what it will

I think Mr. Buck is a man in some respects but I am sorry to see his name on the Copperhead ticket. He is politically beyond redemption. He can never be Judge or anything else. He is on the wrong side of the fence.

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do: will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machaine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood: and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

DEFECTIVE PAG

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notic that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years rom Aug. 15th, 1861, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

Acting assistant Prov. Marshal's, }
Office, St. Paul, Oct. 17, 1864. }

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday. November 1, 1864, Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

Volunteers will be received and credited upon quotas up to the last moment of mustering of drafted men, but none will be received as recruits after being drafted into service. Every sub-district now in arrears will be expected to report through some chosen representative to the Provost Marshals of their districts the number of men that have actually deserted, and also their condition and desires as to raising the balance of their quotas by enlistments.

Headquarters of Provost Marshals will be the general rendezvous of recruits, and all representatives, of sub-districts, will find at such places, recruiting offices and agents to negotiate and assist in raising the required number of volunteers.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine, Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, It is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 23

HOLLOW EVE.

BY THAYER CHRISTIE.

'Twas long ago in the fading year
When the leaves sank under our tread,
And the autumn winds were wild and drear,
We buried our beautiful dead.

In the lonely hours of "All Hollow's Eve."
We gathered round his bed, [came,
'Twas his last good night ere the morning
His pure young spirit had fled.

We buried him where the northern pines
In lonely grandeur wave.
And planted the wildwood columbine,
In the spring time on his grave.

Our cottage home is lonely now,
And the vine wreaths over the door
Are withered now, just as they were,
When he crossed to the "shining shore."

The twilight shadows are falling fast
'Tis Hollow Eve again
And down through the dark old forest pines
Comes the wild October rain.

I know that to many in Scotia's land,
This night will bring fancies wild,
But I only think of a white-robed band
And our beautiful angel child.

October 31. 1864.

Select Miscellany.

From the American Agriculturist.

Notes and Suggestions for the Month of November.

The frosts of October, and the bracing winds, now and then almost winter, warn us to prepare for the cold weather, which approaches with such steady marches from the icecaves of the North. The year has poured out almost all the contents from her "Horn of Plenty," and man has garnered them. Our ganaries are full and our barns crowded with the harvests. Fruits are gathered, and roots are fast filling up the measure of the bountiful store. It now remains to make those final preparations for winter, which are necessary for us in order to take advantage of its hours of comparative freedom from severe labor. See how each bud has its winter jacket, padded or furry, and of many folds. The leaves in the forest and orchard protect the tender plants which seek the shelter of their moist shade. The cattle have their thick winter coats, the birds thicker plumage, and the wild animals have made provision in a much more remarkable degree. We subject plants and animals to very unnatural conditions of life when we domesticate them, and of course should conscientiously guard them from suffering, and the evils of exposure to the cold. While we rejoice in the bounties of Heaven, and give thanks for our full harvests, and that, though in a fearful for national life and integrity, our country still holds its place among nation, let us remember those whose barns are not full, because the strong arms that would have sowed and garnered the crops, have been reaping harvests of laurels on the battle field.

WORK FOR THE FARM, BARN, AND STOCK YARD.

Buildings—Everything should be put in order for cold weather, which often comes as early as the middle of the month. Banking up earth against foundations, boarding up stables inside, tightening the outside boarding, stopping leaks in the roofs, setting glass where panes are broken, are each important at this season. All stables ought to be provided with glazed windows, into which the sun may shine freely.

Butter.—Feed the cows roots, pumpkins and meal, bran and oil cake, or something of the kind to keep up the butter product. This is as good as gold to pay debts in Europe, and will bring high prices while foreign exchange is high.

Cabbages.—Bury as described last month. They afford a very nutritious milk making food for cows, and when no decayed leaves are fed, will not flavor milk, if fed after morning milking.

Cattle.—Push forward the fattening of beeves as fast as possible. The best flesh is laid on before the coldest weather. Give the shelter of good warm sheds to young stock and stable the milch cows. If this be not possible, give the best protection you can. The straw shelters described in the January Agriculturist of this volume are now important to many Western farmers.

Cellars.—See that there is perfect drainage, and that water cannot run in, even in the worst weather. Make them neat, healthy and light, by whitewash. Stop the rat holes with cement mortar filled with broken glass, and "point up" cracks and loose spots in the foundations.

Cisterns.—Protect against winter. It is not too late to make a good one. Durable farm cisterns are made by cementing right against the earth, as repeatedly described in the Agriculturist. Empty foul cisterns and clean them out thoroughly, early in the month, that they may be filled afresh before the snow comes.

Corn.—As early as possible have it all husked and placed in dry, airy cribs, or spread out on warm and dry ... Corn husks well baled, meet a ready sale at high prices in Eastern cities.

Daining.—So long as the ground continues open, if it be all winter, keep hands at work at this important business. It is much better for a farmer to bury his money in the earth, in the shape of well laid tiles, four feet deep, than to put it in the best bank in the world, while the labor thus expended is that which cannot be immediately converted into money. No one who does a little good draining will stop with that.

Fences.—Poor fences are a temptation to people to steal rails for firewood, and the careless farmer is in part answerable for the crime.

Fruit.—Handle carefully; one bruise rots an apple. Apples packed in barrels in dry leaves keep longer than packed in any other way we know, and will bear transportation better. Keep fruit in a cool place, but where it will be frosted. Cider made from selected sound apples, and when special care is taken to have everything clean is superior to most wines.

Grain—Rats, mice and other vermin have free chance at grain so long as it is in the sheaf. Get it all threshed and ready for market as soon as possible. Keep it always clean and bright, in the most marketable order for high prices.

Hedges.—Thorns and other deciduous plants may be set so long as the ground is open.

Hogs.—Keep clean, well bedded and sheltered; supply cooked food if possible. Litters of early pigs may now be provided for, allowing for the sow to go about four months with young.

Horses.—See to it that the stables are well ventillated and light—easily cleaned out and warm. Blanket a horse when he is standing out of the stable or when he first comes in, and at night; too much blanketing is injurious.

Leaves furnish an excellent material for manure. Collect all that you can. They answer for bedding, but are not a good absorbent of liquids.

Manures.—See notes in last number. Get out much muck to be exposed to the weather in winter, for use next year; collect every thing that may increase the supply in the hog pen, stables, barn yard, or compost heaps of manure.

Plowing.—Fall plowing tells, particularly on land which is not well drained and is late in drying in the spring, also on foul land, and on heavy clays that are ameliorated by the frost.

Potatoes.—Be sure that potatoes in pits in the open ground have good ventillation and drainage, but are well covered. Those in cellars should be dry and cool, but not so cold as apples.

Poultry in warm, light, clean quarters will if the hens be well fed, secure plenty of eggs all winter. Feed freely those destined for market. Prices are usually best just before or after the holidays. Scraps from beef and pork are fattening, are much relished, and induce laying.

Pumpkins.—See notes in October Agriculturist.

Roots—Store in cool cellars after sweating; free them from tops and dirt when put in.

Sheep.—Provide comfortable sheds give them a good range; if housed, free ventillation and clean quarters, not crowded. Each sheep should have 10 to 15 square feet surface room (equivalent to a space 2½ by 4 feet, or 3 by 5 feet for each one); not more than 100 to 150 should be confined in the same room. Turn in the buck this month for April lambs, but they do better if dropped in May, in colder localities.

Sugar Sorghum.—It bears some frost, but ripens little after the leaves are frozen. Such cane ferments rapidly and must be worked at once.

Turnips and carrots.—Dig before the ground is liable to freeze, and store them after sweating.

Winter grain.—It is better for it to have too much growth than too little. Never feed off at this late season. Look to the surface drains, that water may not stand in them, and that side hills be not exposed to washing by overflowing.

Wood for fuel.—Much good fuel may be collected from that which has broken and blown down, dead trees, etc., both in orchard and forest, as well as from old fences, bridges, etc., which should be replaced with sound stuff.

The Latin Race in America.

The Orleans stock seems to be rising in the royal market. The Philadelphia Press learns that the only daughter of Lopold of Belgium, grand daughter of Louis Phillippi, of France, has been elevated, "By the grace of God, and the will of Napoleon III.," to the imperial throne of Mexico, and it is announced that the young Count d'Eu, eldest son of the Duc de Nemours, by one of the lucky Coburg family will shortly proceed to Rio Janeiro to marry the princess Isabella, eldest daughter of Pedro II, Emperor of Brazil. The gentleman now a captain in a Spanish regiment of hussars, is in his twenty-third, and the fair demoiselle lately completed her nineteenth year. Her aunt is wife of the Prince de Joinville, third son of Louis Phillippe. "The happy couple," therefore, are cousins, though not in blood, The Emperor of Brazil has two daughters and no son his marriage with the Princes Theresse aunt of the ex-King of Naples, and the intention is in case of his dying without male issue, that the Count d'Eu shall succeed him. If this takes place, two grand-children of Louis Phillippe will reign over the only two empires on the American continent.

Distribution of Heat in Dress.

Whatever the material used, the form and arrangement of it should be such as to retain an equal amount of heat over the whole body. Thus, and thus only, is a balanced circulation insured, and the system effectually braced against their extreme temperature, together with its changes, As the equilibrium of the vital fluid is essential, and it can be secured only by an equal distribution of clothing over the body—together of course with non-compression—it follows that the cut is not of minor importance in the construction of dress. Sufficient clothing may be worn to secure warmth, yet the wearer actually suffers from cold. Instance:—A woman clad in winter in twice the weight of material a man wears, fails to experience anything like the warmth that he enjoys. He has a general equable sense of comfort, while she if warm at all is so only in spots and at intervals. Such disparity is plainly traceable to the difference in the construction of their costumes. This equibalance in dress is essential to heat too. As a balanced circulation is due to the healthy evenness of our sensations, it is in any case a prerequisite to temporal protection and bodily comfort. As to the second part of the protection, its indications are met by the first. If the form is clad with due regard to heat and cold it is at the same time, in the best manner secured against improper exposures. I heard a reverend gentleman remark not long since that "women were not dressed; their clothes were hung on them." We may safely leave it—in view of the oft-recurring "cenes" in the street and in the house, and the constantly reiterated charge little girls receive "to be more careful, and not show themselves"—with an impartial judgment to decide how much ground in truth there is for this assertion.—Dr. Dio Lewis.

A Whisper to Daughters.

Girls, before you decide to accept a man as your companion for life, look well to his resentments. See if he hates anybody soundly. If so, you run a great risk in marrying him. A man who can hate well, has not the qualities to make a good friend. A truly noble soul will not hate bitterly, even though deeply injured. He stands on too high ground. He may be deeply hurt and much displeased; he may avoid one he knows to be an enemy, but he does not harbor hatred in his soul.

A noble mind is not always on the lookout for little offences, but takes good humoredly slight annoyances that are plenty enough in every one's way. Do not countenance a person who thinks to add to his importance by blustering at hotel servants, railroad employees, or whenever he feels safe to do it. Instead of proving him a cosmopolitan as he vainly thinks, his barking and snarling only show his affinity to the puppy. Do not marry a rowdy if he is ever so rich, hoping your influence will reform him. See to it that he is well reformed before you take a step from which you can never recede while life lasts.

It is an excellent sign for a young man if he is kind and attentive to his mother and sisters. Such a one will be quite sure to make a kind husband. There is something kind and genial and worth loving in a young fellow that all the children run to, if they wish to ask a favor—one the little girls are not afraid to ask to carry them across the street,—one the boys look too naturally to help them out of trouble with "that plaguy kite,"—one who has a few moments to spare from his work to put up a swing that shall furnish weeks of enjoyment to little folks. Children are sharp observers of human nature, and depend upon it, a young man that all the children like, has something about him worth liking, whether he wears home spun or broadcloth.

Above all, remember that the "Christian is the highest style of man." The religion of Christ alone can make the heart humble—the violent, angry nature, mild and gentle—and perfect in the highest degree all the virtues and graces which make the person an agreeable companion and a useful man in the sphere God has placed him.—The Mother's Journal.

He is happy whose circumstances suit his temper; but he is more excellent who can suit his temper to any circumstances.

Connecticut Soldiers' Vote.

The Norwich (Connecticut) Aurora says: 'The votes of the Connecticut soldiers have been taken. The 9th, 7th, 8th, 10th and 21st regiments, and 1st Light Battery, together with the officers of the 29th (colored) regiment, polled only 491 ballots, which were distributed among 128 towns. These votes were secretly enveloped, and no one can possibly know how they stand until election day. Mr. Wattles, the Democratic Commissioner for this county, reports that he was treated with perfect courtesy and fairness by officers and men, and, so far as he saw, there was no attempt to influence any man in his selection of his vote. He found, however, what is notoriously true, that all the camps had been flooded with the most villanous libels against Lincoln which there was no possibility of counteracting. In fact, the soldiers are not permitted to see any other reading but this disgraceful trash, and it is a matter of wonder that Lincoln gets any votes at all, except from those who know the falsity of all the charges against him. Connetient will not get more than from 2,000 to 3,000 votes out of the camps.'

INGENUITY OF THE SHARPSHOOTERS.—The Richmond Examiner pays the following tribute to the skill of our Yankee sharpshooters:

"Conceive a line of battle beyond a breastwork; each man squatted completely out of sight, firing over his shoulders, while, instead of exposing his head and hands to the advancing Confederates, he looks away from the enemy and narrowly examines the stock of his own gun. Two little mirrors, scientifically placed at the proper angle and attached to the stock, enables the soldier to see the sight on the barrel, and all that comes within range, without exposing any part of his precious person."

THE COLOR OF TAILS.—A correspondent of the Country Gentlemen has noticed a very curious law in the Color of Tails, which we bring to the notice of our readers, and shall be glad to know how it agrees with their canine and feline experiences. He says:

'Will you ask your correspondents tell me how and why it is that every spotted dog has the end of his tail white, and every spotted cat the end of the tail black? Of the fact, I think there can be no doubt. I have examined dogs and cats without number in France, in England, in Germany and in America, and always noticed the same result The dog affair is not so original with me, but the cat is. Our former minister to Japan, Mr. Harris, first mentioned the fact concerning the dogs in a letter to the New York Times, published some years since. I have looked at many paintings of dogs in the galleries of Paris and elsewhere in regard to this, and found even there the dogs spotted, always 'in order,' providing to me that the artists had invaribly copied after nature.'

A SURPRISE.—A gentleman rushed into the office yesterday, and gave us the following highly dramatic recital with bated breath. We publish, ommitting names. Our informant lives on West Madison street:

Friend of mine, lives next door [puff]—beautiful young wife. Husband away for a few days; not expected back till Saturday. Last night male friend called—asked lady after health—asked after husband—asked after baby—asked after self. Put his arm on her shoulder—she pouted—said no. Threw his arms around her—snatched kiss—pop. Door opens—husband walks in—amazement—incredulity—protest tions. 'I didn't'—'You did'—'Get out'—kicks intruder. Husband frantic—pistols for one—coffee for two. Gallant won't fight. Starts for lawyer—wife holds back—coat tail tears. Pacification—thrilling denouement.—Chicago Tribune.

The hat was passed around in a certain congregation for the purpose of taking a collection. After it had made the circuit of the church it was handed to the minister who, by the way, had exchanged pulpits with the regular preacher, and he found not a penny in it. He inverted the hat over the pulpit cushion and shook it, that its emptiness might be known, then raising his eyes towards the ceiling he exclaimed with great fervor, 'I thank God, that I got back my hat from this congregation.'

HOW TO MAKE STARCH FOR SHIRT BOSOMS.—Take two ounces of fine white gum-arabic powder, put into a pitcher, and pour on a pint of boiling water, and then, having covered it, let it stand all night; in the morning pour it carefully from the dregs into a clean bottle, cork it and keep it ready for use. A table spoonful stirred into a pint of starch, made in the usual manner, will give to lawn or muslin a look of newness when nothing else can restore them after being washed.

United States Official Paper.

Victory! Victory!!

"We Have Met the Enemy, and they are Ours!"

Glorious old Blue Earth! She has spoken in thunder tones for the Union, and in support of the Government. The county has gone for Lincoln and Johnson by over 400 majority. We have routed the enemy, foot, horse and dragoon. They have shaken the dust from off their feet, and in disgust have gone to the shades of Pluto. There is not so much as a grease spot left to mark the place where they thought they stood. The gallant sons of liberty have risen in their majesty and might and gutted the Democratic party, and shown their detestation of treason and rebellion, and its abettors at home.

Faribault County sends greeting to the tune of 500 majority for Lincoln.

Martin and Brown joins in the chorus, one with 200 and the other with 300 majority.

The democratic majority in Le-Sueur county is greatly reduced, and we have made large gains.

This is glory enough for one day! Let the people rejoice!

Over 1,500 votes were polled in this county, much larger than the vote of any previous year. The Republicans have carried this Legislative district for the first time since 1860, and have done it so effectually, that it wont be forgotten soon.

WE have elected our entire Legislative and county ticket. The vote on Auditor is so close that it will take the official canvas to decide. We think that Mr. Maxfield has a majority of one or two.

P S—Returns received at midnight from Danville give Chapman 24 and Maxfield 46, and from Mapleton Chapman 52, and Maxfield 22. This gives Chapman a majority of 7, and we have no doubt he is elected. Our figures are correct.

The vote on Auditor this year, and on Treasurer last, should be a warning to Republicans to stand by their ticket, and not allow the best offices in the county to pass into the hands of democrats. The party has a handsome majority, and ought not to have sacrificed the best officer the county has ever had.

We are much obliged to our friends in Mapleton and Garden City for their promptness in sending us the election returns!

Glorious News!!

Returns from Le Sueur county up to 4 o'clock this A. M. Friday, ensure us a complete victory on our Legislative ticket. In another column we give the vote of LeSueur and Blue Earth counties. HARRINGTON, PATTEN, AND ROGERS, ARE ELECTED!

Buck has 359 majority in LeSueur. Nicollet give Lincoln 85 majority, and Austin about 50.

Sibley has gone Democratic 300.

Green, of St. Peter says the election news has knocked him into the middle of next week. It has knocked the Democratic party into the middle of eternity.

The Statesman says:

P S We have just learned that the Democratic majority in LeSueur county will foot up about 346, which will make the Legislative ticket safe.

We have just learned that the Democratic majority in LeSueur county is only 346 and will not make your Legislative ticket safe.

This State will give a Union majority of 7000

All the States have gone for Lincoln except Kentucky

We haven't time for comment, but rejoice over the victories

STATE ELECTION.

Notwithstanding Tuesday was a cold and wintry day, requiring the use of overcoats and gloves, to keep one warm, the people turned out en masse, and exercised the right of suffrage at the polls. A much larger vote was cast than at any previous election, for years, in all the towns in the county, notwithstanding the large soldiers vote which we failed to get. It is estimated that there were over one hundred and twenty-five soldiers' votes that did not reach their destination. The loss of these votes has reduced the Republican majority which is still large enough to work upon. The majority in the county will be 400.

BLUE EARTH COUNTY.

In another column we give the full vote of the county as far as heard from, and below we present a few facts worthy of notice in the vote of the different towns.

Mankato.—We have made fearful inroads on the Democratic majority in this town. McClellan carries the town by only 49, when it was predicted he would have 200. There were 453 votes cast, 202 of which were thrown for Lincoln.

Mr. Harrington's popularity is seen by the number of votes he received, though he ought to have carried this town by 40 majority.

The Republicans have done nobly in supporting the Union cause, and have thrown a shot at armed treason that will be remembered.

We believe Mankato is the banner town in the valley, having polled a larger number of vote than any other town.

There were 560 names registered and of that number 107 did not vote. Only 62 Soldier's votes were received most of which were cast for Buck and Maxfield. There were forty soldier's names on the poll list whose votes were not received.

Mr. Buck runs ahead of his ticket a long ways, not because locality was made a question of voting but because of his personal popularity and the fact that the soldiers' vote was solid for him.

Mr. Chapman runs behind his ticket. We regret his defeat, as he was unexceptionable as an officer, and his place cannot easily be so well and ably filled.

Lime—gives a majority of 29 for McClellan.

LeRay—failed to receive six of her soldiers' votes and consequently gives Lincoln only 5 maj.

McClellan—is redeemed! We don't mean the gunboat hero, for he is run out of sight, and is past all redemption. But the township of McClellan, where we have a Ferguson, who is a host within himself. There has been a large increase in the vote of this town. Last year it went democratic, and this year it evened that up, and gives nine majority for Lincoln. We suggest that the voters petition to have the name of the town changed. The voting shows that they don't believe in McClellan.

South Bend—Cast 114 votes, 94 of them for Lincoln. Mr. Windom runs one behind his ticket, which Lamberton gains. Austin runs 18 behind. The Legislative ticket received the full party vote. All honor to the Republicans of South Bend for nobly standing up to the work, and voting the straight ticket.

Butternut Valley—cast 57 votes, and gives Lincoln 43 maj. There was no scratching tickets in this town except for Judge and Auditor. Last year the vote of this town was 36, an increase this year of 21.

Judson—gives 70 votes this year to 55 last, and gives Lincoln a majority of 56. A few soldiers' votes were not received, Austin and Chapman run a little behind the ticket.

These three Welch towns—South Bend, Judson and Butternut Valley have given a majority of 173, for Lincoln. Too much praise cannot be awarded these gallant Welchmen for the noble manner in which they have stood by the Government in this trying hour. They have signally rebuked treason, and shown their love for the country of their adoption. All honor to them.

NICOLLET COUNTY.

The reported majority in this county is 165 for Lincoln.

In Nicollet township Lincoln has 50, McClellan 54; Wilson, McMillan and Berry, have 51 each, and the Democratic candidates 54.

For Congress Windom has 48 and Lamberton 57.

For District Judge, Austin has 39 and Buck 66.

On the Legislative ticket Pohler and Beaty have 54, and Stower and Russell 50.

For County Auditor Gardner, dem. has 55 against 48 for Hayden, Union.

For County Attorney, Griffin, Dem. 56, Bryant, Union, 48.

St. Peter—McClellan 164 Lincoln 163. Lamberton 170. Windom 158, Buck 163, Austin, 158.

Traverse—McClellan 40. Lincoln 50.

Lake Prairie—McClellan 30, Lincoln 70; Lamberton 32, Windom 68. Buck 32, Austin 68.

Belgrade—McClellan 19, Lincoln 15, Buck 33, Austin 1.

Courtland—gives 10 maj for McClellan, and 16 for Lamberton,

New Sweden—gives 44 for Lincoln, and none for Little Mack. Bully for the Swedes.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

Stillwater gives Lincoln 45 majority; Donnelly 43, Wilson, 46. The Legislative ticket has a maj. of 35.

Denmark,—McClellan 5 majority.

DAKOTA COUNTY.

West St. Paul—Lincoln 24 maj; Hastings 76; Ninneger 49.

WABASHAW COUNTY.

Lake City gives a majority for Lincoln of 144; Wabashaw, 85; Greenfield 16; Minneiska, 44.

The county has gone for Lincoln by 700.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

This Republican stronghold has has given 400 Union majority.

Minneapolis gives 218 maj. for Lincoln.

GOODHUE COUNTY.

The majority in Goodhue for Lincoln will be nearly 800.

WINONA COUNTY.

Winona county gives 500 majority for Lincoln.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

The Copperhead majority in Ramsey is 152 on the electoral ticket. The Republicans have elected one member of the Legislature, and the Judge of Probate. We regret the loss of Smith and Keifer.

SIBLEY COUNTY

We have no returns from this county, but it has undoubtedly gone Democratic by 300 maj.

FAIBAULT COUNTY.

Only partial returns have been received. Winnebago City gives 90 Republican and 15 Democratic. Buck runs 10 ahead of his ticket.

Sixty-seven votes were polled in Verona, and 12 of them were democratic.

We estimate Austin's majority at 450 in the county.

This county is good for 500 maj. for Lincoln.

Blue Earth City give Lincoln 134 McClelan 21. Austin 107, Buck 44. Shillock 130, Keister 130, Windom 135.

The county ticket is elected by large majorities.

Verona, Elmore, Prescot, Marples, Guthrie, and Pilot Grove give Lincoln 266, and McClellan 61.

Buck will run about 50 ahead of his ticket.

MARTIN COUNTY.

The majority for Austin is estimated at 200. One precinct gives 80 for Lincoln and 6 for McClellan.

Nashville gives 43 for Lincoln, 4 for Little Mac, 47 for Austin and 1 for Buck.

BROWN COUNTY.

Linden gives 30 Rep. maj. Austin's majority is estimated at 260. Three towns give 260 majority for Lincoln.

LESUEUR COUNTY.

We have only partial returns. The county will go Democratic by 175 majority. Mr. Buck will run ahead of his ticket.

We give the vote of the Legislative ticket and for Judge so far as heard from:

	Har'gt'n.	Patten.	Rogers.	Porter.	Dane.	Wait.	Austin.	Buck.
Kilkenny	14	13	59	84	49	87	14	86
Waterville	37	38	38	69	75	83	39	75
Elysian	51	51	58	37	56	42	49	42
Cordovia	26	18	37	25	12	30	25	26

The following are the majorities for District Judge in counties, so far as we have been able to get them. The returns are not complete, and our figures are only estimated:

	Austin.	Buck.
Faribault	400
Martin	200
Brown	200
Blue Earth	50
Renville	50
Nicollet	50
Sibley		300
LeSueur		359
McLeod		25

The total vote on the Legislative ticket is as follows;

	Har'gt'n	Patten.	Rogers.	Porter.	Dane.	Wait.
Blue Earth	979	932	931	582	557	567
LeSueur	477	510	537	804	726	833

In Elysia there is a Union gain of 9 over the vote of last year.

In Kilkenny, a democratic stronghold, where 86 democratic votes were cast, Rogers, Rep. gets a majority over Dane of one.

LeSueur county is open to conviction, and she will soon be redeemed.

Renville County will give 50 maj. for Austin.

The Lady's Friend.—We learn from the November number of this Magazine of Fashion and Literature, that it has already attained a large circulation. The aim of its publishers is to rival the three dollar magazines in the quality of their engravings and contents. Thus it has given during the present year, in every number, a finely engraved and colored Double Fashion Plate, while its other steel engravings are of the best quality. The long and brilliant array of the literary contributors to The Lady's Friend, nearly all of whom are ladies, is highly creditable to the Magazine, and also to the country, as showing how large and cultivated a class of lady writers it possesses. Many may wonder how any magazine can be got up in so handsome and lavish a manner as this is, at the low price of $2 50, saying nothing of the reduced rates to clubs. The publishers say that it is only done by having a very large circulation, as money would certainly be lost on a small edition.

We have scarcely left ourselves room to speak of the November number, but we may briefly state that there is a beautiful and touching steele engraving, called "The Empty Cradle"—a very handsome Double Colored Fashion Plate—a quantity of other engravings, some of them very pretty, and all very useful to the ladies—a piece of music, and the usual assortment of interesting stories, poetry, &c.

Price $2 50 ; 9 copies $16,00 ; 21 copies $35,00. Single numbers sent, postage paid, for 25 cents. A Sewing Machine Premium is also given on certain terms. Address Deacon & Peterson 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

Now is the time to begin making up Clubs for 1865.

SEWING MACHINES.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do: will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever ! ! !

They are simple in construction, and easily understood : and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50,$100,$500,$1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

THE

Singer Sewing Machines.

Our LETTER A FAMILY SEWING MACHINE is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the cheapest and best and most beautiful of all Family Sewing Machines yet offered to the public. No other Family Sewing Machine has so many useful appliances for Hemming, Binding, Felling, Tucking, Gathering, Guaging, Braiding, Embroidering, Cording and so forth. No other Family Sewing Machine has so much capacity for a great variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our Family Sewing Machine most reliable, and most durable, and most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stich known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see at a glance, how to use the letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our Family Sewing Machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The Folding Case of the Family Machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work.—While some of the Cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the most costly and superb manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the Family Machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty.

It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our Manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes,

The Branch Offices are well supplied with silk twist, thread, needles, oil, &c., of the very best quality.

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday. November 1, 1864. Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery exciteant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes. Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine, Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from [illegible] more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. [illegible] so universally, and it may be truly [illegible] deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's [illegible] Sold by all Druggists [illegible]

HELMBOLD'S.

Genuine Preparations.

COMPOUND [illegible] Extract Buchu, a Positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, and Dropsical Swellings.

This Medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions, and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced as well as Pain and Inflammation.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse, attended with the following symptoms:—

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,

Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions on the Face, Pallid Countenance. These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits, in one of which the Patient may expire.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "Direful Diseases" "Insanity and consumption." Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess the records of the insane asylums. And melancholly deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion. The Constitution once affected with organic Weakness, requires the aid of Medicine to Strengthen and Invigorate the system

Which Helmbold's Extract Buchu invariably does,

A trial will convince the most skeptical.

Females—Females—Females—In many affections peculiar to Females the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Paintulness, or suppression of customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhous state of the Uterus, Leuchorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex. whether arising from indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the decline or change of Life. Helmbold's Extract Buchu and improved Rose wash cures secret diseases in all their stages, at little expense. Little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing obstructions, preventing and curing strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and inflammation, so frequent in the class of diseases, and expelling all poisonous diseases and wornout matter. Thousands upon thousands who have been the victims of Quacks, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the poison has, by the use of powerful astringents, been dried up in the system, to break out in an aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage. Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu for all affections and diseases of the urinary organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating and no matter of how long standing. Diseases of these organs requires the aid of diuretic Helmbold's extract Buchu is the great diuretic, and is certain to have the desired effect in all Diseases for which it is recommended. Poetry.

From the New York Tribune

OH, NO, WE NEVER MENTION HIM.

Oh, no, we never mention him
His name is never heard;
For Loyal lips decline to speak
The once familiar word.
We talk of Lincoln, Sheridan,
Of Sherman and of Grant;
But O, there is another name
Of which the public can't.
He was a very nice young man,
And promising, you know;
But then he made a great mistake
And found it would not go.

Oh, no, we never mention him,
His name is never heard,
Compared to whom Napoleon
Was reckoned quite absurd.
He once was great on Strategy,
And kept an Anaconda;
But when it died, he dug a hole
And buried it out yonder,
Away by Chickahominy
He was a mighty digger,
The King of Spades, Democrat,
And down upon the nigger.

Oh, no, we never mention him,
His name is never heard,
There seems a kind of reticence
About that little word.
From bar to bar we travel round
To banish our regret,
And smile, and smile, and smile again
In order to forget.
We often mention Farragut,
Dupont and Porter too;
But never speak of Little——,
Of Little—you know who.

Oh, no, we never mention him,
His name is never heard,
He's hopped the twig of politics;
Sic transit little bird.
He got seduced by crafty men,
Who slapped him on the back,
And said we'll make a President
Of———no, I've lost the knack
Of uttering that little word,
I cannot get it out;
And yet we used to see his name
Once blazoned all about.

Oh, no, we never mention him,
His name is never heard,
He's dead and buried, so he is;
Hic jacet little bird
In wide oblivion's dimmest nook,
A shingle marks the place,
Bearing this misspelt epitaph:
O, "Requiat in Peace."
Yes, Rest in Peace, let no rude hand
Disturb the humble bed
Of this here foolish, nice young man,
This "copperd" Copperhead.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

A Soldier Beaten to Death by a Gang of Irish Rowdies—His Body Shockingly Mutilated, and his Pockets Rifled.

[From the St Paul Press 19th.]

We gave in yesterday's Press some account of an affray at Willoughby's hotel which is ten miles below here on the stage route to LaCrosse, and this morning are enabled to give full particulars of the terrible affair.

Tuesday morning [illegible] soldiers, belonging to Company [illegible] cavalry, named [illegible] Arnold, Joel G. Brown and L. Dezlar, left Ft. Snelling on a brief furlough to visit their homes. Arnold's home was in Dodge county, about six miles from Wasioja, and the others resided at Milton and Concord in the same county.

They walked as far as Willoughby's when it being about noon they concluded to stop for dinner. When they went in there were three or four Irishmen in the bar room and soon after ten or twelve more came in. After dinner one of the Irishmen proposed to Brown to drink the health of McClellan, which he declined to do. The Irishman asked him if he was a Lincoln man, and receiving an affirmative response, proposed that they all drink each one to whom he pleased. This proposition was accepted. Another Irishman then shouted "hurrah for McClellan" and the Frenchman, Dezlar, responded with "hurrah for Lincoln." That was enough for the Irish and one of them struck Dezlar from behind with a chair. He proceeded to defend himself to the best of his ability and the others then joined in the attack, and as they were sixteen to one they felt pretty brave. The bar-keeper, Wm. Rino, endeavored to interfere in the soldier's behalf, begging them not to kill him, but the villains shouted "let him go to hell" and threatened to kill Rino if he molested them. Chairs and other missiles were thrown at the Frenchman and he was hammered and kicked until his body was one mass of bruised flesh and his head and face badly cut and mangled. During the melee he drew a small pocket knife and cut Daniel Bergen, one of the Irishmen, in the leg near the groin, but unfortunately the wound was not severe, as at first reported, and he will recover. He also cut another one of his assailants but we fear it will not prove fatal.

This so infuriated them, them, that they would have killed the Frenchman on the spot but for Mrs. Rino, who nobly placed herself between them and the unfortunate man, and thereby saved his life. After this they shouted for a rope to hang him, and endeavored to fire the house by drawing the coals from the stove up on the floor, but were unsuccessful.

Arnold and Brown, seeing that they were in the hands of worse than fiends, sought to escape them by flight. Arnold accordingly passed out through the hall and ran for his life. The stage drove up at this time and a passenger came to the door and opened it, but seeing the difficulty, retreated to the coach. While the door was open, Brown managed to slip out and ran behind the barn and concealed himself in a straw stack. The Irishmen came in search of him, but failing to discover his retreat, turned their attention to Arnold.

A horse and wagon stood at the door belonging to one of the gang named Pat Mehens and into this wagon three of the devils sprang and started at full speed for the defenseless soldier. Brown, from his place of concealment, heard one of them say, "come on, we can can catch him and kill him yet." They pursued him for over a mile, when they overtook him in a plowed field and deliberately beat him to death.

Two boys about sixteen years old saw the murder committed. Two of the men pounded him while the third stood by. After they supposed he was dead they started to leave, but as he gave some signs of life by a slight movement of the body, Tom Egan, one of the murderers, went to the fence and tearing off a board returned with it and pounded the head until it was a shapeless pummace, beating dirt, brains and flesh together.

On the back of the head, the skull was broken to small pieces, and small portions of it, together with his brains, scattered upon the ground. From the middle of the lower lip, he was cut with a knife, or some sharp instrument, the gash extending laterly through the left side of the chin. On the side of the face by the cheek bone, a hole was punched through his head, apparently with a sharpened stick. The flesh upon his face was a jelly, and the most intimate friend would not recognize him, so fiendishly was he mutillated. In fact it was necessary to handle the body with care to prevent the head from falling to pieces.

After this damnable act they returned to Willoughby's and Mehen remarked in the bar-room, "there's one God damned soldier less." They then took one of the men who was wounded, home, and placed a guard over the Frenchman who had been beaten helpless, while some of their number went to Rosemount to secure a warrant for his arrest. The Justice very properly refused to issue a warrant and they returned, saying that they would guard him for twenty four hours and in the meantime secure his arrest. This was probably not a sufficiently bloody occupation and they soon wearied of it and abandoned the guard business.

The boys who saw the deed reported it immediately, but Arnold's body was not removed from the field until about [illegible] in the evening, when Mr. [illegible], who had returned from the city, had it carried to his warehouse and an inquest was held upon it yesterday. When found the pockets of Arnold's clothes were turned wrong side out and rifled of their contents. He was known to have had fifteen or sixteen dollars in money on his person.

The testimony before the Coroner's inquest yesterday proved that Tom Eagan, Hugh McHugh, and Pat Mehen were the men in the wagon who followed and murdered Arnold. Eagan was formerly Deputy Sheriff of Dakota County.

The murder was as unprovoked as any that was ever committed, and the only motive that can be assigned is the hatred for patriotic soldiers. This conclusion is strengthened by the fact that one of the two boys, before mentioned, had on a soldier's coat, and seeing that, they started in pursuit with the intention of killing him, as they declared. He ran, and to aid his flight threw off his coat and they saw that he was in citizens' clothes, and made no further offers of violence.

The fiendishness of the Sepoys and the devilishness of the Sioux pales before the the diabolism of this act. Has it come to this that a soldier of the Republic, fighting for the flag that every loyal man holds dear, is to be hunted and murdered like a wild beast by these foreign ingrates? That our noble boys, clothed in Federal blue, which should be a protection to them throughout the land, are to have their footsteps dogged and their brains dashed out upon their very hearth-stones, by men who have sought the protection of the Government only to destroy it?

A soldier in straightened circumstances, with a wife and three children, who he holds dear, dependent on him, obtains a short furlough to visit a sick daughter and prepare his family for the rigors of winter. His heart is light and his step elastic as he walks along after an absence of months upon a tedious campaign, for now his face is turned homeward. In that household is the expectant wife and invalid daughter, waiting and watching for the husband and father, and thinking 'perhaps to-morrow or this week at most he will be at home.' Oh, the plans that were laid and the fond expectations, how sadly they are dashed to earth. Many to-morrows and many weeks will come and go, and the wife and children will wait and watch in vain. Devils incarnate have crossed his pathway and drank their fill of his blood. The crime he has committed is being an American Soldier, and for this the light goes out of his household forever, and he falls at the hands of an infamous foe.

A portion of the miscreants have been arrested, and heaven and earth cry aloud for vengeance—a vengeance which, we fear, will never be meted to them in Dakota County. Warrants were issued by the Justice of the Peace at Mendota for their arrest, and at his request a posse of soldiers was sent with the officer to execute them. Four of the Irishmen were arrested yesterday morning and during the day taken to Hastings, where they will be examined, and probably sent to this city for safe keeping.

Three of those arrested, are Tom Eagan and Hugh McHugh, two of the ringleaders, and Patric Connelly. Mehen is still at large. We would caution the officers to keep a close watch upon them, and see that no more of of the rights of the people are trampled on by their escape. The people demand the trial and execution of the fiends who have committed this unparalelled atrocity, and with nothing else will they be content. They demand the stearnest justice, that there be no leniency shown, no bail allowed in any amount. Hell yawns for their unshriven spirits, and their journey thither should not be long delayed.

Life Without Difficulties.

If the world ever had a golden age, the people of that easy going era must have been particularly miserable, unless they were constituted very differently from the men and women of the present day. What should we have done in a world where the earth yielded its fruits spontaneously, and to wish was to have? Of course, we could have done nothing, and in doing it must have deplored our too happy fate every hour of the day. Difficulty is the sauce piquante of existence. Without it life is flavorless. In the golden age, said the poet, man had no wants. That's a fib. He wanted occupation. Alexander when he had completed his conquests, got the blues because there were no more nations to subdue.

Philosophers and theologians have talked and written much about the vanity of human wishes. Well, human wishes [illegible] we are apt to think them so when the objects to which they pointed have not been attained. But they are not vain—provided they be of an honest kind—as incentives to exertion; for exertion, after all, is the only luxury that doesn't pall. It is born of hope, and heaven pity him whom fortune should so overload with temporal benefits as to leave him nothing on earth to desire. Would an individual so circumstanced be contented? Not a bit of it. However, such a condition is impossible. Fortunately for our happiness, we all think that something more than we have is necessary to its completeness.

All men who are worth calling men like to wrestle with difficulty. If it does not lie in their way, they go out of their way to find it. One starts for the source of the Nile, another for the house of gorilla, a third for the "bleak Antarctic," a fourth for the North Pole. Each has his hobby, and it is indispensable to the pleasure of hobby riding that the nag be hard to catch and somewhat unmanageable.

"There is no such word as impossible," said Napoleon; and he was never in such high spirits as when he was bearding Europe in the attempt to prove the truth of his axiom. No human being cares to trot his hobby over a macadamized road. There is no excitement in ease and safety, and without excitement of some kind we would all rust, body and soul

A Mother's Love.

Children look in those eyes, listen to that dear voice, notice the feeling of even a single touch that is bestowed upon you by that genial hand! Make much of it while you have that most precious of all good gifts—a loving mother. Read the unfathomable love of those eyes; the kind anxietp of that tone and look, however slight your pain. In after life you may have friends, fond, dear, kind friends, but never will you have again the inexpressible love and gentleness lavished upon you which none but a mother bestows. Often do I sigh in my struggles with the hard uncaring world, for the sweet deep security I felt, when of an evening, nestled to her bosom, I listened to some quiet tale suitable to my age, read in her tender untiring voice. Never can I forget her sweet glances upon men when I appeared to sleep; never her kiss of peace at night! Years have passed away since we laid her beside my father in the old churchyard; yet still her voice whispers from the grave, and her eye watches over me as I visit spots long since hallowed to the memory of my mother.—Macaulay.

* * *

A cynical Frenchman once said there are two parties to a love affair—the party who loves, and the party who consents to be so treated.

Royal Beneficence.

In the "Children of Lutetia," the last works which Blanchard Jerrold has written he gives a new and charming story of a Diamond Necklace which is a good offset to the well known and scandalous episode in French history.

"It relates to the Empress Eugenie, on whose marriage the municipal council of Paris voted a sum of twenty-four thousand pounds sterling to make a wedding offering to the Empress of a diamond necklace. The Empress however declined the gift, but accepted its worth in money. How she spent it, Mr. Jerrod tells us, may now be seen in a quiet suburb of Paris where, in a well ordered house with trim gardens and lawns, and beds of flowers, two hundred orphan children find a happy home. Another anecdote is added: In March, 1856, when the imperial prince was born six hunered thousand subscribers determined to present a token of gratitude and affection to the mother. On being asked what form the people's offering should take, Empress replied: 'By founding the Prince Imperial's Orphanage.' It was ordered that the institution should not be a great edifice, where poor children might be cheaply brigaded but that its income should be wholly spent in finding homes for helpless orphans among the honest working population of Paris and its environs. By its agency, adds Mr. Jerrold, between three and four hundred poor orphans have already been rescued from misery and placed in comfortable homes under responsible guardianship.

Monotony on the Sea.

There is nothing so desperately monotonous as the sea, and I no longer wonder at the cruelties of pirates. Fancy an existence in which the coming up of a clumsy fin-back whale, who says pooh! to you solemnly as you lean over the taffrail, is an event as exciting as election on shore! The dampness seems to strike into the wits as into the lucifer matches, so that one may scratch half a dozen times and get nothing at last but a faint sputter, the forlorn hope of fire, which only goes far enough to have a sense of suffocation behind it. Even smoking becomes an employment instead of a solace. Who less likely to come to their wit's end than W. M. T. and A. H. C.? Yet I have seen them driven to five meals a day for mental occupation. I sometimes sit and pity Noah; but even he had this advantage over all succeeding navigators, that wherever he landed, he was sure to get no ill news from home. He should be cannonized as the patron saint of newspaper correspondents, being the only man who ever had the very last authentic intelligence from everywhere.—Lowel's Fireside Travels

A Scotch Pound.

A story is told of a person presenting himself to the guid-wife in a remote district, and asking for a pound of butter. "The ounce weights were rummaged over and over, but the 'pundstane' was nowhere to be found—the smallest weight at hand being the quarter-stone quarter, which obviously would not do. The honest woman took a long thought, till, whilst pondering deeply, her brow brightened up. "I ken how we'll manage it noo!" she exclaimed, "the gude man brought hame a pair o' tangs yestreen, which weighed in the smithy just two pun. Sae, stand by, and I'll soon weigh you with them your butter." Producing the tongs in triumph, she put one leg on the scale, and let the other hang out. The beam got its swing, and the stranger carried off his butter, highly satisfied with his experience of a Galloway pound.

BOMBARDMENT OF CHARLESTON.—For a long time the Cahrleston papers professed to be excessively amused by the bombardment of their city. Nothing had been known so conducive to the health of a fire-eating community, as the daily flight of Yankee shells. Rifle bolts, weighing one, two and three hundred pounds, were, after a flight of four miles, nice things to have about the house. Nobody was ever hurt, except some old negro women and very small children. Business was brisk. It was a lovely sight to see the chivalry basking in their native element as it were, under fire. But day after day, month after month, the bombardment has been carried on. Thirty, forty, fifty, one hundred shells per day are fired into the town, and the range of our guns are increasing. No part of the town now passes without the popular distribution of our favors. And surprising as it may appear, the Charleston papers are occasionally making the admission that the Yankee bombardment has become an annoyance. It is not as funny as it used to be. There is reason to fear that it is becoming unconstitutional.

A soldier in one of the late battles, setting very coolly behind one of his guns, where the shot was falling fast, being asked by the chaplain whether he was supported by Divine Providence, replied, "No, sir; I am supported by the Ninth New Jersey."

How Farming may be made more Attractive.

1. By less hard work. Farmers often undertake more than they can do well, and consequently work too early and too late.

2 By more system. The farmers should have a time to begin and stop labor. They should put more mind and machinery into their work. They should theorize as well as practice, and let both go together. Farming is healthy, moral, and respectable; and in the long run, may be profitable. The farmer should keep good stock and out of debt. The farm is the best place to begin and end life, and hence so many in the cities and professional life covet a rural home.

3. By taking care of health. Farmers have a healthy variety of exercise, but too often neglect cleanliness, omit bathing, eat irregularly and hurriedly, sleep in ill ventillated apartments, and expose themselves to cold. Nine tenths of the human diseases arise from cold or intemperance. Frequent bathing is profitable, so is fresh air, deliberation at the dinner table, and rest after a meal.

4. By adorning the home. Nothing is lost by a pleasant home.—Books, papers, pictures, music, and reading should all be brought to bear upon the indoor family entertainments; and neatness and comfort, order, shrubbery, flowers and fruits should harmonize all without. Home should be a sanctuary so happy and holy that children will love it, women delight in it, manhood crave it, and old age enjoy it. There would be less desertions of old homesteads if pains were taken to make them more agreeable. Ease, order, health and beauty are compatible with farm life, and were ordained to go with it.

Ventilating Stables.

A writer in the London Times says that the investigations of the Barrack Improvement Commission, on the management of cavalry horses, have proved "beyond question that the best form of building is a one storied stable and only two rows of horses, the ventilation to be by the roof, and formed by a louvre 16 inches wide, carried from end to end, and giving four square feet of ventilating outlet for each horse. The stables recommended to be built in future would give each horse 100 feet of superficial, and 1605 cubic feet. A course of air-brick would be carried round at the eaves, giving one square foot of inlet to each horse; an air-brick is introduced, about six inches from the ground, in every two stalls; there is a swing window for every stall, and spaces are left below the doors. In this way, and attention to surface drainage and roof lightning, it is anticipated that stables will become perfectly healthy. In old stables, ventilating shafts are to be carried up, and air bricks introduced. More window space is to be given.

When potatoes are placed in outdoor heaps for wintering, it is important to place a straw-whisp ventilator at the top, where the accumulation of foul air will otherwise cause decay. But the best way is to place the potatoes in large heaps, and cover them at least a foot thick with straw—a few inches of earth applied towards winter, and beaten smooth with a spade, will be sufficient covering. Potatoes kept in this way are not subjected to the evils of confined air and moisture, so common with a few inches of straw and foot of earth—and after many years experience, the loss has not been more than one per cent. from our ordinary decay.—Gen. Farmer.

"Old Bumblebee" was the cognomen of Mr. T———, of Newburyport. He gained the title from the fact of his catching a bumblebee one day as he was shingling his barn, and, in attempting to destroy the insect with his hatchet, cut off the ends of his thumb and forefinger, letting the insect go unharmed. Other mishaps happened to the old codger, on the same barn. In one of his abstractions, he shingled over his spare hatchet; and, cutting a small aperture in the building to let a little daylight in, this man actually set in a wooden pane, as being economical and not likely to be broken! Uncle T———, in one of his oblivious freaks, nailed his left arm so firmly betwixt two boards of a fence he was putting up, that he had to call for help to get extricated from his self-imprisonment. He once put a button on the gate instead of the post. But the rarest freak of all was when he ran through the streets with his hands about three feet asunder, held before him, begging the passers-by not to disturb him, as he had got the measure of a doorway with him.

A loyal woman has written an able paper on the crisis, in which she protests against killing off all the men. She says: "I do not believe in fighting for the country and flag to the last man; and it seems to me anybody is an idiot who talks such nonsense. What would the country be to me or any other woman if the 'last man' was gone?"

The Weekly Union.

United States Official Paper.

Mankato, Friday, November 18, 1864.

The Election in Blue Earth County.

The result of the late election in this county, must be gratifying to every true Republican and Union man. 400 majority for Lincoln and the glorious cause of our union and nationality. The issues of the campaign seemed to have been well understood by the loyal men of our county, and they have answered the cowardly Chicago Platform cry for peace and submission by rolling up heavy majorities for the party which says fight until the last armed rebel submits or dies in his tracks. We counted much on the unflinching loyalty of our county for 250 to 300 majority, and are agreeably surprised that we under-estimated rather than overestimated the extent of the loyal feeling in our midst.

There is not a town in our county which has not done well.

To the few hard working Republicans in Mankato who did what they could to storm one of the Gibralters of the Democratic strongholds, we extend our thanks. They did well, and whittled down the Democratic majority thirty to forty. Some of the Democratic sachems were very confident of 200 McClellan majority, but hard work reduced it to 49.

To the earnest working Republicans of our other towns double thanks are due. For the majorities you have given our ticket show that not only your Union men did their duty on election day, but to have secured such unprecedented majorities hard work must have been done in enlightening and converting some who, at every election, are hesitating and doubtful as to what is their duty.

Shelbyville and South Bend, twin brothers in evincing your loyalty. Your 75 majority each, is gratifying and we are proud of you.

Then Garden City with your 72 majority, Sterling with your 69 majority, Judson with your 56 majority, Vernon with your 43 majority, Medo with your 37 majority, Mapleton with your 30 majority, McClellan with your 9 majority, LeRay with your 5 majority, you all have done nobly.

The loyal men of Ceresco, Lime, Jamestown, and Danville, deserve a kind remembrance, for, in all these towns, the Democratic majorities have been much reduced. The result truly shows what the union men of this county can do when they are united and pull as one man wholly for the good of the cause.

The Victory.

Once more we are safe. The people have again taken into their hands the destinies of this republic, and with a patriotism that spurns all bribes, and that yields to no sufferings or hardships, have spoken. They have said that parties and men who libel their country and its cause, shall have no quarter. They have said that, come what will, the unity of the nation must and will be preserved. This is the right kind of talk for union men. It has the true ring, because it has shown itself by deeds as well as words.

McClellan carries but three States, New Jersey, Deleware, and Kentucky, and these by but small majorities, while Mr. Lincoln carries all the rest of the loyal states, by overwhelming majorities, except New York. His majority in that state would have been at least forty thousand but for the tens of thousands of forged soldiers' votes scattered through the State by the emissaries of Gov. Seymour. A faithful people sends greeting to our army, and our citizen soldiery, faithful too, sends greeting to the people, and both unite in saying all hail to our newly re-elected President.

"I Am all Right."

"Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina are at my mercy, and I shall strike. Do not be anxious about me, I am all right,"

The above comprehensive sentences sum up the situation of our army in the South. Sherman has commenced a bold and brilliant movement, and is marching on Savanah, Gen. Thomas, with two corps of the army, is left on the Tennessee to take care of Hood, while Sherman with the remainder is on the march for Charleston on Savannah. The principal public buildings at Atlanta have been burned, and everything that could be of value to the enemy destroyed. The rebel papers have been preparing their readers for startling news. Sherman has an army of 60,000 men, and is traveling through the heart of the enemy's country, and will have an opportunity to bring into his army 50,000 fresh union men. He has 200 miles the start of Beauregard, and we may expect startling news from that quarter soon.

Notice to Setlers on the Winnebago Reservation.—In another column will be seen a notice to all actual settlers claiming the right of preemption on the Reservation. They are required to furnish the land office at St. Peter with proof of settlement and cultivation in accordance with the requirement of the pre-emption law. All the lands not claimed as specified will be sold at public sale after the 5th day of December.

A Work Every Man Needs.—We have received from the Milwaukee Publishers, Strickland & Co., a valuable little work entitled "Tax Payer's Guide, Post Office Directory, War Record and Almanac for 1865," all embraced in one pamphlet, for 10 cents each, or 83 cents per dozen. The postage on each dozen, when sent by mail, is twenty-five cents.

The "Tax Payer's Guide will be found one of the most useful publications of the day, and especially adapted to the wants of the whole community. Every man engaged in any kind of business is interested in it, and will find a copy as necessary to him as a dictionary of the English language. Though condensed into small space, it comprehends everything that is necessary to be understood by the banker the broker, the merchant, the manufacturer, the mechanic, the dealer, the speculator, and the farmer—in a word, everybody. It treats of "The Excise Tax" "The Stamp Tax;" all arranged in Alphabetical order; so that any one can find just what he wants in a moment. Send S. & Co. ten cents in a letter, and get a copy by mail.

Five Bounty Jumper Deserters to be Shot to Death at Fort Snelling.

A report reached us from the Fort last night to the effect that five deserters are under sentence of death at that post. The Court Martial which was recently in session in this city had a number of cases of desertion for trial. As the findings of the Court could not be disclosed until they were approved, the result of these trials has but just transpired.

As we are informed, five bounty jumpers, enlisted under the last call of the President, and after securing their bounty deserted. Three of them, at least, belong to Hatch's Battalion.

They were arrested tried, convicted, and sentenced to be shot to death. The President's approval of this sentence was received on Saturday, and yesterday the sentence was communicated to the unfortunate men at the Fort by Col. Brydolf. Three of them are to be shot on the 28th of this month, and the other two on the 5th of December.

The evil arising from desertions, and especially from this class, is so great to render it important that the extreme penalty of the law be meted out to the offenders. Bounty jumpers make it their business to go from place to place, enlisting at the highest possible figure, and then deserting, to repeat the operation elsewhere. The fearful fate of these men should be a warning to all deserters to return before it is too late, and every soldier in the field should profit by its lesson.

New York goes about 7,000 to 8,000 for Lincoln, and 9,000 for Fenton, Governor.

St. Louis, Nov. 14.

A St. Joseph dispatch says Lincoln received about 20,000 votes in Kansas and McClellan 15,000. It is also stated that Crawford is elected Governor, and Clark for Congress.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.

In this city over 21,000 votes were cast and Lincoln's majority is over 5,000. Returns from the balance of the State, so far as heard from, are equally favorable. Lincoln's majority can hardly be less than 25,000

San Francisco, Nov. 9.

Returns from 24 counties show a majority for Lincoln of 13,266. Full returns will increase this to at least 20,000.

Oregon has gone for Lincoln by from 1,200 to 2,000. Nevada has gone Republican from 2,000 to 3,000 majority.

Arthurs Home Magazine.—The Home Magazine closes its volume for 1864 with the widest circulation it has yet attained. For 1865 it will be enlarged, and made still more worthy of the patronage it is receiving. No periodical in the country has met with a heartier welcome from the press. Its praises come heralded from every direction. To maintain the high place it has reached in public favor, the publishers and editors will spare neither expense or labor. Give it, say we, a circulation for the coming year beyond that of any other periodical of its class in the country. It is, par excellence, the people's magazine, and should find a place in every home. Terms $2.50 a year; three copies, $6; five copies, and one to getter-up of club, $10, nine copies, and one to getter-up of club, $15.

"How do you do, young man?" "I am feeling well, but I question whether I am all right, after all. You see this shocking bad suit of mine is not just the thing for young men exposed to matrimony. Now show us some of those new styles, which the boys over in our town have been sporting around in, for the last few days, and as they say, cannot be found at any other place but Randall's.

Express matter from the East to points in the Blue Earth Valley is now brought through by way of Winona and Rochester. The American Express Company have placed messengers on that route, and make three trips per week. This will be a great convenience to the public, and the Company is deserving of credit for their efforts to accommodate.

Almost an Accident.—A dense smoke was seen issuing out of a certain room in a certain building in this town not a thousand days ago. A strict search was immediately instituted as to its origin, which nearly proved fruitless, until it was traced to the pocket of a certain individual and on minute investigation it was ascertained that the smoke proceeded from a pipe which had been placed into the said pocket lighted. The said smoke was immediately extinguished and the damage ascertained to consist in the loss of the entire pocket.

Petersons Magazine.—We are in receipt of this popular Lady's Magazine, for December. It is a splendid number; with a superb title-page for 1864. Notwithstanding the enormously increased price of paper, and the rise of all printing materials, "Petereon" will still be furnished at two dollars a year. No Magazine of similar merit approaches it in cheapness. Its stories and novelettes are by the best writers. In 1865, Four Original Copyright Novelettes will be given. Its fashions are always the latest and prettiest. Every neighborhood ought to make up a club. It is the Magazine for the times! Its terms to clubs are unprecedentedly viz:—8 copies for $12 00, or 14 copies for $20.00. To every person getting up a club, (at these rates,) the Publisher will send, as a premium, that superb engraving for framing, size 27 inches by 20 inches, "Washington parting from his Generals," or an extra copy of the Magazine for 1865.—Adress, post paid,

Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

FASHIONABLE HAIR DRESSER.—Having opened a Barber Shop with a view to establishing a permanent business in Mankato, I am prepared to wait upon gentlemen, and will guarantee satisfaction in every department of my business.
June 26, 1863.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.—By direction of the Hon Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City, D. C., and indorsed "Bid for Winnebago Tract Land."

As heretofore many persons have bids upon these lands and after the awards have been made to have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful bidder.

WILLIAM P. DOLE,
nov 4 Commissioner.

UPON filing the Petition of Thomas W. Nash, guardian of Marietta and Emma Amelia Hitchen, infant heirs at law of Edward Hitchens, late of Blue Earth County, deceased, praying for a license to sell real estate of said wards: It is ordered by the Court that Saturday, the 22nd day of October 1864, at one o'clock P. M, at the office of the Probate Judge, in Mankato, be set at the time and place of hearing said petition The next of kin of the wards and all other persons interested in said estate, are requested to be and appear before this Court at said time and place, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published in the Mankato Weekly Union for four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

DAVID WILCOX, Judge.
Mankato, Sept 23, 1864–4w.

—o—

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notic that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years rom Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interet both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday, November 1, 1864. Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels. Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notic that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years rom Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interet both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday, November 1, 1861. Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

Volunteers will be received and credited upon quotas up to the last moment of mustering of drafted men, but none will be received as recruits after being drafted into service. Every sub-district now in arrears will be expected to report through some chosen representative to the Provost Marshals of their districts the number of men that have actually deserted, and also their condition and desires as to raising the balance of their quotas by enlistments.

Headquarters of Provost Marshals will be the general rendezvous of recruits, and all representatives, of sub districts, will find at such places, recruiting offices and agents to negotiate and assist in raising the required number of volunteers.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Agne, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of billious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Store-keepers everywhere. 23

THE PATRIOTIC WIDOW.

"Yes, go my son," the widow said,
"I hear our Country's call,
Go and defend the sacred Flag
Though neath its stars you fall.

Our fathers purchased Freedom's gift,
That gift we must defend;
And millions yet unborn must see
The blood-bought gift for men."

She pressed him to her bleeding heart,
And bid him trust in God;
She felt how hard it was to part,
But bowed and kiss'd the rod.

On Lookout mountain's summit high,
'Mid roar of shot and shell,
Where brave men did not fear to die,
The hero soldier fell,

Angels of mercy on the wing,
Around the mountain high,
Beheld through smoke and battle din,
The orphan hero die.

They on their rapid pinions bore
His soul above the strife,
On towards the shining shore,
The fields of endless life.

But who can tell that mother's grief,
In her declining years,
Or who will bring her sweet relief,
And wipe her falling tear.

The rich their thousands freely give,
To see Rebellion fall, [weighed,
But the Widow's Gift in the balance
By far out-weighs them all.

ONLY TWO OF US.

BY MRS. ROBINSON.

'I've made an engagement for you to spend a day out this week," observed Squire Crosby, as his wife was placing dinner upon the table.

'Have you? I'm sorry, for I fear I shall be too busy to fulfill it,' she rejoined, in a slight tone of regret.

'Busy about what?" testily exclaimed the speaker. 'I would respectfully inquire, for somewhat less than the hundredth time, what you can possibly find to do? It seems to me that you must really suffer from want of exercise.'

'I do, undoubtedly,' said Mrs. Crosby, dryly.

'It can't be otherwise,' continued the Squire, decidedly. 'It is a comparatively idle life for a woman to attend to a few household cares.'

'A few household cares!'

'Yes, my dear Mrs. Crosby, and the washing put into the bargain. What a [illegible] business!' Squire Crosby looked very wise, and spoke with a slight degree of irony.

'You talk like one who is unacquainted with his subject; but at the same time I am willing to allow that you know as much about it as the generality of men; and that can't be construed into a compliment to the sex by any means"

'But isn't the fact a self evident one, Mrs. Crosby? Haven't I eyes, and can't I see—observe—look about me—comprehend?' demanded the Squire.

'You might, without doubt; but whether you do, is another thing,' rejoined his wife.

'Be that as it may, however, I am satisfied that I can find enough to do to keep me out of idleness.'

'When there's only two of us?'

'Only two of us,' added Mrs. Crosby, quietly; 'for it is just as necessary that two should eat as four.'

'Well, it certainly must be a great undertaking to cook a little food, wash a few dishes and lay the table three times a day! Why I could accomplish the whole in less time than two hours!'

'Those duties you have named do not comprise the whole of housekeeping, Mr. Crosby.'

'Perhaps not; I shouldn't mind throwing in a little dusting and sweeping, once in a while. But it certainly appears laughable to hear a woman complain of the work when there is only two in the family. I verily believe it's a thing but habit,' quoth the squire, with becoming gravity.

'Suppose you try it for one day,' proposed Mrs. Crosby, with like seriousness. 'I'll go to the office and do your work, and you can remain at home and do mine.'

'It's rather a novel proposition, and I don't at this time recall to my mind any celebrated men who have done housework. I haven't the least objection to trying it, notwithstanding, and presume it will be the easiest day's work I shall have this year,' rejoined the husband.

Both being agreed, the next day was selected for the exchange of employments. A quiet smile lurked about Mrs. Crosby's mouth, and the squire evidently thought it a fine joke, one which would afford him a large fund of merriment, and be the means of proving to his wife that housework was nothing more than a pleasant amusement.

The deluded woman thought her time was fully occupied in keeping a good-sized house tidy, and in devising new means of graifying the palate of the squire; who, strange to say, liked good food, and abundance of it. He seemed to think that this jumped upon the table ready cooked, and Mrs. Crosby (or some other person) had but to utter a few magical words, and everything was done. But to hear these trifling duties termed enormous, but there was "only two of them" to look after, seemed a great absurdity to Squire Crosby, and he inwardly resolved to write an article on the subject, and let the sterner sex know how much they were imposed upon.

While reflecting upon this laudable determination, Mrs. Crosby had occupied herself in jotting down a list of duties which demanded attention the next morning. This she folded, and quietly handed to her husband requesting him to make out a similar paper so that no mismanagement might ensue.

'The list is no longer than usual.' said the lady, smiling at the earnestness with which he surveyed it. "I go through with the same performances every day. It is necessary, for they cannot be omitted. But don't be frightened; you can take your own time,' she added, in a bantering tone.

Feigning the utmost indifference to the results, he remarked that he should probably 'make quick work of it,' and placing the paper in his pocket, returned to the office.

The liege lord of Mrs. Crosby practised law in a suburban town, and had acquired considerable property by the same. His wife had independence enough to do her own housework, but could not help thinking that she deserved some credit for so doing. She had no particular desire to be praised; "justice where justice is due," was her motto: and our readers will perhaps coincide with her in the belief that it was rather hard to work busily a whole morning, and then be told that 'she had done nothing comparatively." It was not encouraging, to say the least, and she waited the experiment of the next day with much interest.

Morning came, and the squire aroused his wife, and informed her in a significant tone 'that it was quite time to dress and make a fire.' Mrs. Crosby did not wait for a second bidding, but remarked, as she left the chamber, 'that he might put himself in readiness to see about breakfast.'

Our heroine had taken the precaution the night previous to prepare the kindlings, and in a short time had a brisk fire. She allowed herself to do just what her husband had been in the habit of doing, and no more. He usually left the coal dust and cinders for her to sift and clear away, as well as the remnants of wood and shavings to pick up, and she didn't feel inclined to limit his privileges at this time. The dining table stood in the middle of the room, also covered with books, papers, writing materials and other articles used the evening before. These she did not molest, and without pulling up the shades, putting back the chairs, she took a newspaper and began to read.

The squire had evidently completed his toilet quicker than common, but it was nevertheless nearly an hour before he made his appearance. It was something novel to see his wife reading before breakfast, and he could not help smiling to witness her perfect sang froid.

'I've been up a long time, and renewed the fire twice, Mr. Crosby,' she remarked, without looking up.

This was the squire's favorite salutation when his wife happened to take an extra nap of five minutes.

The gentleman made noreply, for he understood what the remark meant without the aid of an interpreter. He proceeded to business with great alacrity, piling the books and papers up on chairs, and nearly spilling some oil, by carrying a lamp the wrong way, and by allowing the kettle to boil over some five minutes before he got ready to take it off, he succeeded in getting the cloth laid, though in rather an awkward manner.

'I think I should relish a piece of beef steak, Mr. Crosby,' remarked the lady in the rocking chair.

'Ah then you shall have it,' replied the housekeeper of the day patronizingly, as he busied himself with napkins, cups, saucers, plates knives, forks, etc. He tried to recollect how Mrs. Crosby arranged them, but in spite of all his attempts he could make no application to that lady for advice; as she apparently was absorbed in her reading.

Adjourning to the kitchen, the squire attended to the making of a 'delicious cup of coffee,' and had a long struggle with the beefsteak, which refused to broil to his satisfaction. When returning to the dining-room, after a long absence, looking heated and impatient. Mrs. Crosby remarked, consulting her watch, 'that he had been absent long enough to make a beefsteak.'

This observation the squire remembered to have heard before, but did not make it apparent. At length the coffee and meat were brought in, and all things were pronounced ready by the officiating master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Crosby seated herself and began to carve; the squire took his place at the head of the table, and proceeded to pour out the coffee.

'The bread, Mr. Crosby,' suggested the lady.

'Bless me, I forgot it!' he exclaimed, dropping the coffee pot, and jumping up so hastily that he came very near overturning the table.

The bread was soon procured, cut in slices varying in thickness from a wafer to a junk of four inches.

'The butter, Mr. Crosby," suggested his companion, when he was again fairly seated.

'I declare!—what a poor memory I have got!' And setting down the cup which he had taken up for the second time, he started for the missing article. Placing it in triumph beside his wife's plate, he renewed his attempts at coffee-pouring, and this time was successful; but it must be confessed that he eyed the dark-looking beverage with some uncertainty as he passed it across the table.

'Muddy coffee again, Mr. Crosby!' abruptly said the lady.

The squire hadn't a word of reply.

'Very smoky beefsteak, my dear! what have you done to it?' she continued, pushing a large piece of the obnoxious article on one side of the plate. 'You must be extremely careless, or such things couldn't happen so often as they do!'

"What a woman this is to remember, to be sure! Anybody would suppose that she had kept a diary of my unlucky observations for a year. Why, she has them all at her tongue's end!' thought the individual addressed, though he didn't see fit to make any immediate rejoinder.

The squire had but little appetite; his wife remarked the fact and hoped 'that the simple exercise of getting breakfast had not taken it away as one person who should be nameless, was in the habit of asserting.

The gentleman winced, and prepared himself a generous slice of bread and butter, which he proceeded to dispose of as though he had lacked food for weeks.

When the morning meal was concluded, Mrs. Crosby donned her bonnet and shawl, and remarking that she would send home the dinner; left the house. Our hero was now alone, and could carry on operations without an eye-witness; which he observed "was much more pleasant."

"Now we'll consult the list," he added, aloud, 'and have things go on in regular order. Here goes: 'Get breakfast, clear table, wash dishes, put closets in order, wipe down shelves, clean knives, cleanse sink, rub silver, black stove, keep fire attend to door-bell, sweep hall, brush stairs, sweep parlor, dining-room and kitchen, dust furniture trim lamps, do chamber work, wash meat for oven, clean vegetables, stew cranberries, make pudding, and entertain visitors, if they happen to call.'

'Bless me, is that all?' cried our housekeeper. 'I call that making a great fuss about a little matter. It sounds larger than it really is. I think I'll clear the table, as that is put down next.'

So at it he went knocking things hither and thither, at a great hazard of their demolishment. As the idea didn't occur to him that he should carry a waiter full of articles at one time, he made a great many journeys between the dining-room and kitchen, which necessarily consumed considerable time. The dish-washing proved rather an awkward affair, and didn't progress so rapidly as he could have wished. He couldn't wipe the cups handily, the saucers seemed bungling, and the plates would slip back into the water; but after breaking a cut-glass tumbler, (which he felt certain of matching the next day,) knocking a large piece out of a platter, (which he resolved to paste together while dinner was cooking,) and cracking a pet dish of his wife's, while setting up a pile of plates, the matter was brought to a close. The knife cleaning was another thing altogether; there wouldn't be any danger of breakages, and he could 'put them through' quick. But the black spots were deeper set than he imagined, and required the exhibition of more 'elbow grease' than he had any idea of. He contended longest with the carving knife, which, in consequence of being awkwardly handled, inflicted a deep cut, as a slight token of remembrance. This was a mistake that caused many other mistakes during the day, owing, undoubtedly to the clumsy bandage which the squire wrapped about his hand.

It may be well to remark that the aforesaid list was laid carefully in a conspicuous position, and frequently referred to. He attended to the silver and then glanced at the clock.

The hands pointed to an hour which admonished him that 'time waited for no man,' and had no sympathy for unexperienced housekeepers.

'What's next on the docket, I wonder?' he thought, consulting his memorandum. 'Ah, stove to black! Well, I must admit that the coffee which boiled over hasn't improved its appearance much. I'll look up the brush.'

So saying, he prepared the polish and set about the operation at once The stove was quite hot, and he couldn't work to any advantage. The more liquid he put on the more it would sputter and fly off with a crackling noise. He thickened the liquid, but it would not adhere to the stove, and began to think it was bewitched.

At this stage of affairs he happened to recollect that somebody had said that milk was the best thing to wet the powder with; so he hastened to the pantry, and pouring out a quantity, applied it to the refractory stove. That didn't mend the matter much, and the smell of burned milk began to be quite disagreeable. The room was filled with smoke, the floor around the stove was dotted with little spots of blacking, and the squire's hands were certainly not the cleanest that ever was, when a violent ring of the bell resounded through the house, making our hero start as though he had been surprised in some dishonourable act.

He looked towards the door, then at his hands, and finally at a large stain on his shirt bosom, which bore a strong resemblance to blacking.

'I won't go! they may ring all day if they like!' he exclaimed impatiently, going to the wash basin and trying to bring hands to their accustomed color; but a second ring warned him that some person without was not inclined to 'give it up so.'

'Confound that titinabula! I suppose it's some old man for boots, clothes, grease or rags. If he does it again I'll bring a suit of assault and battery!' cried our incipient housekeeper, making a few desperate dashes at the dish-cloth, which he mistook for the towel, and hurrying towards the door, which he opened with a trembling hand.

'Ah, good morning, squire!' said a well dressed, good looking young lady, who evidently expected to see somebody else appear. 'Is Mrs. Crosby in?'

'Yes—I—no, she isn't in" he stammered; for truth to tell, the squire was thinking more of his personal appearance than his wife's absence; besides, he imagined that the young lady looked at him with some curiosity, and this embarrassed him the more.

Now it must be observed that our hero was remarkable for the neatness of his dress, and the stain upon his linen assumed enormous dimensions under the searching glance of his visitor. He dropped his eyes, and forgot the stain in contemplating his sooty hands.

'Excuse disorder of my dress this morning, Miss Haynes,' he added. 'I was so unfortunate as to upset the inkstand just as you rang, and you see the effects of the accident.'

This, it must be confessed, was rather a departure from the truth. But the squire couldn't think of any other way to excuse himself from the dilemma; and he was not disposed to confess the exact state of the case to his fair-eyed friend, who after making a few common-place remarks, took her leave.

'What an ingenious excuse that was! Nobody but a lawyer would have thought of it!' soliloquized our hero, glancing complacently in a mirror pertaining to the hat-tree. Imagine his mortification at discerning black streak across his face, which give it a most ludicrous aspect. No wonder the young lady looked at him with curiosity, for nothing probably but good manners restrained her from a hearty laugh.

Squire Crosby went back to the kitchen with a slow step. To his utter astonishment it was twelve o'clock, and he had quite forgotten dinner. The fire was entirely out, and the room was in a sad plight the list of duties not half completed, and the meat, vegetables, etc., remained untouched.

His zeal had cooled amazingly since morning, and he half repented acceeding to his wife's proposition. He had expected to see her enter every moment, express herself satisfied with the experiment, and desire himself in a very humble manner to go back to the office and resume his legitimate sphere of action.

But Mrs. Crosby did not appear, and he was at length obliged to collect his energies for the purpose of making the fire.

After wearing out his patience, he succeeded in his undertaking, and consigned the meat to a cold oven. It was too late to think of a pudding. Mrs. Crosby must excuse that item, although he had always expected it of her, under all circumstances. He began to think that it did require some ingenuity and calculation to dispose of so many duties in the morning, and to have some faint suspicion that housekeeping wasn't such a fine joke after all. He wondered how Mrs. Crosby prospered, and whether she didn't wish herself safe at home; busied himself in anticipating how frightened she would be at finding how much work had been laid out, and how completely non plussed she must inevitably appear, if a client should call for advice. This last was such an amusing idea, that our lawyer rubbed his hands together and laughed to himself at the ridiculous figure which he fancied

An Italian Love Tragedy.

The Italian papers give an account of a terrible tragedy at Turin. Two lovers, finding an obstacle to their union, resolved to sacrifice themselves. The young man wrote a letter to his mother, and a letter to his sweetheart Rosita, and then blew out his brains. Rosita determined to share her lover's fate. Her family entreated her to be calm; she seemed to yield to their prayer, but a day afterwards she contrived to be alone, and then putting a pistol to her heart, she instantly ended her life. Her mother hastened to her daughter the moment she heard the pistol's report. At the sight of her bleeding child, the poor woman's senses were reft from her by emotion, and she is now in a mad house. Rosita's young sister was so struck by this tragic scene, she attempted to leap head foremost from the window, and was with the utmost difficulty retained.

Sixty-three thousand three hundred and twenty three hogsheads of leaf tobacco were sold in Louisville in the twelve months ending Nov. 1, 1864.

The Weekly Union.

United States Official Paper.

Mankato, Friday, November 25, 1864.

War Democrats.

We have always admired the position taken by war democrats during the present war, in breaking away from party ties, and giving a free hearty support to the Administration in suppressing the rebellion. They have rallied around the stars and stripes, fought and died beneath its folds, and evinced their strong love for the Union, and their independent patriotism on all occasions. Party ties to them were second in importance compared to the ties of country. The cordial support they have given to the goverment when the country was in danger, entitles them to respect, because in severing the bands that bound them to the democratic organization they brought upon themselves the censure and scorn of the peace sneaks of their party.

Our country in danger has claims upon every man which no party claims should be permitted to set aside, and every loyal man with a true patriotic feeling in his heart will stand by his country when it is threatened with ruin by domestic or foreign foes.

Military Executions.

Next Monday, the 28th inst., Patrick Kelly, John Lennon and Thos. J. Maroney, three men who enlisted in the First Regimental Battallion about the 12th of September last, merely for the purpose of receiving the bounty money, and then deserting at the first opportunity, will be executed at Fort Snelling. And on the 5th of December, two others, Hoffman and Eastwood, will be executed for the same offense. It will be the first military execution of the kind ever taken place in the West.

The next House of Representatatives will stand 142 Union to 45 Democrats. In the last Congress the Democrats had 84 members and the Union party 102. There is therefore a gain of 40 members in the last election. The whole number of voters in the House is 187 and the Unionists have 142 of these, or 16 more than two-thirds majority. The present Senate is composed of 36 Union, 5 conditional Union, and 9 Democratic members, By the Republican majorities secured in the State Legislature, Richardson, of Illinois, McDougal, of California; and Nesmith of Oregon, will be replaced by Union members. This will make the Union vote 39, and in case two Union members should be elected from the new State of Nevada, as will probably be the case, it would be 41 or eight more than a two-thirds majority. It is probable, however, that this will be reduced by the election of a Democrat from New Jersey in place of Ten Eyeck, the present Union member.

Mr Maxfield received the votes of nearly two hundred Republicans for which we know he is truly grateful. To another but smaller class of the same party, loud-mouthed in their professions of affection for soldiers, who bitterly and unscrupulously opposed him because they could not conscientiously vote for a Democrat, he feels himself under no obligations.—Record.

A large number of Republicans were led into voting for Mr. Maxfield out of pure sympathy because he had served his country in the field, and received honorable wounds. They did so thinking that the Republican majority in the county was so great that it could not be overcome, and consequently there was no danger of Mr. Chapman's defeat. We know of several instances where, could Republicans have cast their votes over, the Democratic candidate would not have received them. Many so expressed themselves, and considered that they had done wrong in contributing to the defeat of the best officer the county ever had.

We are as willing, and as ready as any, to reward our soldiers for meritorious conduct, even though their political faith is different from ours; but in so doing, we cannot afford to sacrifice an officer who has been "weighed in the balance, and not found wanting," and whose qualifications are such that he cannot be excelled, or, in our opinion, even equalled.

It was claimed, in order to secure the votes of some of these two hundred Republicans, that Mr. Maxfield's political faith was not grounded in any of the principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the Chicago Convention. But as his name was on the same ticket with Geo, B. McClellan, he was, of necessity sailing in the same boat; and on the adage that "a man is known by the company he keeps," these conscientious Republicans, which the Record sneers at, believed that he must endorse and swallow the platform. We honor them for thus evincing their party "scruples." They did right, and we don't suppose they care whether he is obliged to them or not.

District Judge.—Sufficient returns have been received from the several counties in the District to show that Horace Austin is elected Judge by at least 121 majority. His majority in the several counties is much less than the rest of the ticket, and is easily accounted for with no discredit to him. He is an able man, and will preside on the bench with becoming dignity.

The Anoka Star has again changed hands. C. W. & E. H. Folsom, late of the Reporter, at Taylor's Falls have become the editors and proprietors. Its local interest has improved.

The Lady's Friend.—The December number of this magazine is a truly splendid one, being the handsomest yet issued. The opening plate, "The Snow Birds' Chrismas Visit," is a perfect gem; and the Frontispiece of the volume, suggested by a story of Hans Christian Anderson's, is one of those engravings upon which the eye will linger for a long time, and turn to again and again. Two more beautiful engravings than these are seldom seen in a magazine. The double Fashion Plate for this month is finely engraved and richly colored—no magazine contains superior steel fashion plates to Lady's Friend; while the other engravings are as usual numerous, and doubtless highly interesting to the ladies. The literary contents are 'The Christmas Gift,' by Mrs. Hosmer; 'Two Falls among the Mountains,' by Mrs. Pyle; 'The Soldier's Bride,' by Mrs. Barnes; 'From the same Stock,' an amusing sketch relative to visiting your distant relations, by Frances Lee; 'Cousin Caleb's Will,' by Julia Gill; 'My Aunt Goldbeater,' by Mrs. Denison; 'Who Did the Wrong,' by Miss Virginia F. Townsend, &c., &c.

Price $2 50; 2 copies $4.00; 9 copies $16.00: 21 copies $35 00. Specimen numbers will be sent to those desirous of making up clubs, for 15 cents. Wheeler & Wilson's celebrated Sewing Machines are furnished as Premiums on certain terms.

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

Kingston, Ga., Nov. 7, 1864.

Mr Editor:—After a hard tramp of one month we have again come to a halt for the purpose of resting and paying off the army. Many of the troops have not been paid for eight months, and to them a paymaster is a most welcome visitor. We arrived here on the 2d inst. How long we will remain is more than I can say at present. As to our destination when we leave here, we can say nothing, we can learn nothing, therefore we have to guess, and I assure you there a great many rumors as to where we will go, but time will tell. and we are patiently waiting for orders.

The boys of the company and regiment are in excellent health, also in excellent spirits over the elections of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania. We were somewhat disappointed on account of not getting to vote at the coming election, but as we cannot vote you can rest assured that our sympathy is with you, and we earnestly hope that there will be enough votes cast without ours, to elect "Old Abe." To morrow is the day that the people will decide what shall be the policy of the country for the ensuing four years. Shall it be one of honor or one of humiliation? There is no middle ground, either a Union or disunion policy will control the next administration. There is no denying the fact, and we suppose the voters have made up their minds as to which they prefer, before casting their votes. It matters not what we may think of McClellan as an individual, his policy will be that of his party, and that party is the ally of the rebellion. There is not a man who justifies the rebellion but is a member of it. The "Sons of Liberty," of Indiana, which has been exposed and published are its leaders, and we know what their policy was, the assassination of Union men, the seizure of State Governments, and the inauguration of civil war in the North. Could McClellan separate himself from these men? By no means. He would carry into his cabinet such men as Vallandigham, and would follow their dictation, in all he proposed. Lincoln may have committed errors, who with such a task on his hands as he has had, would have committed none? But he has risen on every occasion: has shown himself worthy the confidence of the people and he will receive it.

We have been informed that ex Col. George, has made a speech in your city in favor of McClellan. We have also been informed that he misrepresented the officers and men of the Second Minnesota. If so we wish to make a few corrections: Before he left the regiment he called the officers to his quarters and made a short speech to them. He said that his only reason for resigning was on account of ill health, that his whole heart and sympathy was with them, and that whenever we heard from him we would hear of his battling for the Union and the Administration. How did he vote last fall? He did not vote the copperhead ticket I assure you. He was then looking for a "star." And we believe that the reason of his resigning was on account of "non-promotion." He may have been capable of handling a brigade, but we know that he was not capable of handling a regiment on battallion drill. We do not say that he has shown cowardice, but we have seen him dismount and go afoot while our Colonel, H. P. Vancleve, and Major, Wilkins, rode their horses during the whole of the engagement. We have been informed that he stated that the officers and men of company H, were for McClellan. If he made the assertion, we contradict it; it is false Every officer of company H is a Republican and will support the Administration. As to the company we have taken a vote, in which thirty-seven votes were cast,—thirty of which were for Lincoln, and seven for McClellan. Every veteran that was present voted for Lincoln. Two of the other companies have voted, companies E and B. In company E 36 votes were cast—35 for Lincoln and 1 for McClellan. In company B 43 votes were cast—42 for Lincoln and 1 for McClellan. The other companies have not voted, but these three companies are about a fair sample of the regiment. Where now is Col. George's McClellan regiment? I assure your readers that it is not the Second Minnesota.

As to Gen. Thomas' advising Col. George to go home and do all he could for McClellan, we do not believe it. for at that time McClellan was not nominated. His platform was not before the people, therefore we think that it is not so. General Thomas is one of our best generals. He is ever found at his post, battling for his country and it is not likely that he would vote for a man that is upheld by such arch-traitors as Vallandigham as his party, which are doing all that they can against us, we cannot believe it.

There was a time when Col. George would have received the support of this regiment—now we denounce him. We would not support him now under any consideration whatever. I assure you that he will be remembered by the 2d if he ever comes before the people as a political candidate. But I must close as time forbids more.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Edwin Howe and Elvira Howe his wife, of Blue Earth County, State of Minnesota, to John G. Therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, the above described premises will be sold at public vendue, at the office of Register of Deeds in said Blue Earth County by the sheriff of said County, on the 7th day of January in the year 1865 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the amount then due and unpaid on said mortgage at that date, and the sum of Forty eight dollars assessed as taxes on said mortgaged land and paid by said mortgagee, together with the costs and expenses allowed by law.

Valuable Lands for Sale.—By direction of the Hon Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands Minnesota,

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City, D. C., and indorsed "Bid for Winnebago Tract Land."

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. James Thompson is expected to preach in the Presbyterian church next sabbath at eleven o'clock A. M.

THE Mite Society of the Methodist Church will meet in City Hall Tuesday evening next.

STOVES.—J. F. Meagher has just received a large number of cooking stoves to which he invites the attention of his patrons

THE Sewing and Mite Society connected with the Presbyterian church will meet this Friday afternoon and evening at the residence of Col. B. F. Smith.

QUICK SALES.—For the last two months White & Marks have been making quick sales and small profits, and still their trade does not diminish. They are selling goods cheap.

BILLIARD TABLE.—T. C. Titus and Brother have set up a billiard table in the rear of Lieberg's Shaving Saloon, where the lovers of that interesting game can amuse themselves.

WE re publish the official vote of this county as there were some errors in it last week,

DISTRICT SCHOOLS.—We understand that the district schools will be opened in a few days, one in the new church building with two teachers, and the other in the log school house with one. We have not learned who the teachers are to be.

THANKSGIVING SERMON.—Rev. Thos. Day preached an interesting sermon at the City Hall yesterday morning, from the 103rd psalm. The attendance was quite large.

THE reason that prevented us from publishing our full amount of reading matter last week, still exists, and we must therefore ask the indulgence of our readers for a while longer, when we hope to have help sufficient to "go it easy."

BALTIMORE OYSTERS.—J. G. Simpson, the gentlemanly Express Agent at this place, will keep for sale during the winter Maltby's celebrated Baltimore Oysters, at Saint Paul prices.

DANCING SCHOOL.—Mr. C. H. Demaray, late of New York, will open a school for instruction in dancing at City Hall on the 6th proximo. We hear him highly spoken of as a skillful teacher

[Advertisement.]

MR. EDITOR.—I am happy to state to your readers that after an absence of several months I returned to town last Wednesday evening, and shall be lying "around loose" during the winter, prepared to see to things "close to the wall." X. O. P.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—Mr. W. P. Woolson has located permanently in our town, and will give instruction in all kinds of instrumental music. He was recently connected with the band of the 4th Minnesota Regiment, and while there received injuries which rendered necessary the amputation of his right leg. He is worthy of patronage.

CHRISTMAS TREE.—The officers and teachers of the Methodist Sabbath School are making arrangements to have a Christmas tree at City Hall on Christmas eve. A pleasant time is expected, and it is expected, also, that the tree will be hung full of presents for the "little folks," and a slight sprinkling for the "big folks."

Through the kindness of the young ladies belonging to Rev. Mr. Thompson's Seminary, we have been permitted to examine the first number of a manuscript paper published semi-monthly by them, and entitled "The Woodland Lighthouse." It is a very creditable paper, and we shall take occasion in our next issue to copy from it several articles of interest.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.—Dr. W. W. Clark, it will be seen by a reference to his card elsewhere, has resumed practice at his old stand. We have before us a very flattering testimonial of the Doctor's skill and success as a Surgeon, while in the service, which we have not time to place in type. His many friends and former patrons will be pleased to secure his services again.

HIGH SCHOOL FOR BOYS.—H. G. Orton, Esq., will open a select School for Boys in City Hall, commencing Monday, Dec. 5th. Terms, per quarter, $8.00 for common branches, and $9.00 for higher branches, one-half payable in advance, the other half at the middle of the term. Mr. Orton has had experience in teaching, is an educated gentleman, and we have no doubt will be successful.

CORRECTION.—In an article in our last issue, commenting upon the noble manner in which the several county towns sustained the Union ticket, and rolled up heavy majorities we omitted, by an oversight, the town of Butternut Valley. This town gave 43 Republican majority, and certainly deserves great credit and thanks. It is a very large majority for so small a voting population, and doubly so when we consider how very many of her voters are absent in the army, and whose votes were not received.

CHURCH FAIR.—The Ladies' Sewing and Mite Society of the Presbyterian Church intend holding a Fair in the new church edifice on Thursday evening, Dec. 1st, which will continue two days. The admittance fee will be 25 cents, and an extra price will be charged for refreshments at side tables. On Friday evening an entertainment for children will be given, the admittance fee to which will be 15 cents.

Persons desiring to contribute cake or biscuit will please send in on Thursday the 1st.

The proceeds of the fair will be applied, we understand, towards paying for and furnishing the church. The object is a worthy one, and we trust our citizens will do all they can to help on the enterprise.

WINTER READING.—The approach of winter with its long evenings, will lead many to inquire if they have supplied themselves with plenty of reading matter. We have made arrangements by which we can secure any one, or all of the magazines for subscribers at reduced rates, by clubbing with our paper. The Union is only $1.50 year, and by deducting that from the prices below, the price of each magazine can easily be ascertained.

MARRIED:

In Preston, Fillmore Co., Aug 22d 1864, by Rev Mr Burbank, Lieut. W. L. Sakeman, Co. I, 2d Minn. Cavalry, and Miss Abbie Newcomb of Preston.

Acting Assistant Prov. Marshal's Office, St. Paul, Oct. 17 1864.

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday, November 1, 1864. Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

Volunteers will be received and credited upon the quotas up to the last moment of mustering of drafted men, but none will be received as recruits after being drafted into service. Every sub-district now in arrears will be expected to report through some chosen representative to the Provost Marshals of their districts the number of men that have actually deserted, and also their condition and desires as to raising the balance of their quotas by enlistments.

Headquarters of Provost Marshals will be the general rendezvous of recruits, and all representatives, of sub-districts, will find at such places, recruiting offices and agents to negotiate and assist in raising the required number of volunteers.

SEWING MACHINES.

THESE Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread loop-stitch Machines do; will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather without changing the feed, needle or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!!!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood; and if any part is broken by accident, it is readily replaced.

These are PECULIAR FACTS, and will prefer to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

U. S. 7:30 LOAN !

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notic that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years rom Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50,$100,$500,$1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent, per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

The celebrated author in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure, at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

NOTICE is hereby given that the supplementary draft, to fill vacancies occasioned by exemptions and desertion, will commence on Tuesday, November 1, 1864. Delinquent towns are again offered an opportunity of filling their quota either by presenting the non-reporting drafted men to the Boards of Enrollment of their respective Districts, or by voluntary enlistments.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparations contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element: no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Agne, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Agne patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, lowness of spirits and fits of langour, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, [illegible] 22

ROB'T GOODYEAR,

Mankato Sept 1-63

U. S. 7-30 LOAN!

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul.

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

Select Miscellany.

ONLY TWO OF US.

BY MRS. ROBINSON.

[CONCLUDED]

Leaving the squire to work out the rest of the items, we will attend the footsteps of Mrs. Crosby to her husband's office, and note her experience there.

Tom Pettifogger, the lawyer's clerk, stared somewhat perseveringly when he saw Mrs. Squire Crosby enter the office with an assured step, and proceed to hang up her bonnet and shawl with a genuine business air.

"Tom," said Mrs. Crosby, snapping her fingers, carelessly, "is this office in perfect order?"

'Yes ma'am,' replied the infant barrister, more surprised.

"I beg leave to differ with you, sir. Do you see these papers scattered all about here? Pick them up and file them in proper order.'

'Where is the—squire?' asked Pettifogger, with mouth agape.

'I'm squire to-day, Tom, and you are my man of business. Mr. Crosby told me that you had a memoranda of to-day's work. Produce it if there is such a thing.'

Pettifogger fumbled about awhile among the papers and succeeded in finding the document in question. With the faintest possible smile that a woman could produce, Mrs. Squire Crosby read as follows:

Items.—Habeas corpus for Levi Lewis. A writ of replevin for the distress of Simeon Snooks. Fill out a quit-claim deed for John Styles. Advise Captain Saunders about action for damages against Farmer Jones. A writ of attachment in the case of Brown vs Smith. Examine letter respecting Miss Bright's breach of promise case. Send Higgin's bill. Write a threatening letter to Thompson. Terrify Joe Bunker, if possible. Respectfully invite Colonel Drummer to call and settle Major Green's bill. To take depositions in Wiggins' slander case. Get up an issue between Townsend and Ferris. Distress the Widow Sanburn. Make out costs and damages in case of Folger and Folsom. Examine the title of lands lying north of Mistleto river, claimed by Talton and Tompkins. Kick Bill Buzzleton (firm of Buzzleton and Buggs) out of the office. Browbeat Mrs. Chandler for her landlord Higgin. Tweak Johnson's nose. The above to be done besides attending to incidental office business as it may occur.

'Well, here's work!' thought our lady, her ardour considerably cooled by this formidable array of duties. 'Tom, do you know much?' she asked, recovering her self-possession.

Tom didn't seem to know whether he did or not—yawned twice—but expressed no opinion in words.

'I mean any part of a lawyer?' resumed our fair barrister.

'I know all about the squire's business, ma'am.'

'Very good! You must co-operate with me to dispatch all the items here named with the least possible delay. I will test your knowledge a little, if you please. What is habeas corpus?'

'A writ for delivering a person from false imprisonment, or from one court to another!' said Tom, promptly.

'Very good. What about this Lewis case?'

'I made it out last evening, ma'am.'

'You acted very properly. Next comes a writ of replevin.'

'That's all ready—finished it just as you came in.'

'I'm glad that you attended to your business, Tom. I'll speak a good word for you to my husband.'

'Thank you, Mrs. Crosby.'

'Two things are disposed of, then—habeas corpus and the writ of replevin. Do you know our pretty seamstress, Tom?'

Mr. Pettifogger colored to the very climax of his forehead, and said 'y-e-s,' in a very peevish manner.

'Help me, Tom, and I'll help you. Have you had a quarrel with that young lady lately?'

'Day before yesterday—and—and—I'm afraid she won't come round right again.'

'Never fear, I'll warrant you in that quarrel: we'll bring her round in no time, Tom; but—but—I must get through with the list.'

'I'll put you clear through it by—by—'

'Ah, Tom, don't swear!'

'Well, I don't know what all this means; but blast me—that ain't swearing, ma'am—if I don't do my best for you in any way you name.'

'Margaret is a fine girl—next comes the quit-claim deed. You have got blanks ready to fill up, doubtless?'

'Exactly!'

'Dip your pen and dash it off,' added Mrs. Crosby.

While Pettifogger was filling up the deed for Styles, in popped Captain Saunders to take advice concerning an action for damages brought against him by James Jones.

'My husband is not in at this moment, Captain,' said Mrs. Crosby. 'Please sit down and wait a little while.'

Now, our heroine was a very pretty woman, and had exceedingly captivating manners, which were generally pleasing to the other sex. The captain was not at all averse to 'waiting awhile' with much satisfaction.

'Please tell me something about this difficulty of yours, Captain. I should like to know the particulars, for do you know that I have studied law extensively myself?' continued the squire's wife with a pleasant smile.

Saunders was quite ready to relate his troubles to such a listener, and so straightway unbosomed himself. It appeared that his neighbor Jone's swine had trespassed upon grounds, destroying, at certain times sundry quantities of corn and potatoes, and to indemnify himself, he had shot one of said quadrupeds, for which act the owner had brought an action. I can tell you what to do in this case precisely as well as the squire himself," said Mrs. Crosby, smiling still more pleasantly. 'What was the animal worth, do you suppose?' she resumed.

'Just about six dollars, Mrs. Crosby.'

'What do you imagine the whole affair will cost if it goes to trial?'

'Twenty-five or thirty dollars, perhaps.'

'Then the cheapest way will be to leave me ten dollars, and I'll settle the case, Captain,' added the lady with a smile that was really bewitching.

The captain mused a moment, and then exclaimed, 'I'll do it! Bl w me, if I don't believe you can settle it if anybody can!'

The captain left the money and departed. The moment he had gone, a note was dispatched to Farmer Jones, requesting him to step up to the office. While Tom was engaged on the writ of Brown versus Smith, Jones made his appearance, and the swine affair was settled for seven dollars.

The letters of Miss Bright were examined, and nothing like a promise of marriage could be made out of them. Mrs. Crosby immediately wrote to that young lady, advising her to drop the prosecution of the case, as there was no reasonable hope for her succeeding if the letters were the only evidence in the premises. Higgins' bill was sent, and Tom wrote a threatening letter to Thompson; but how was she to 'terrify Joe Bunker'—the next item on the programme?

'Nothing easier,' said Tom. 'Write and tell him his case will come off in a few days; that will bring him right to a settlement.'

Pettifogger was instructed to write a note to that effect, and also respectfully invite Col. Drummer to call and settle Major Green's bill. As the witness had not come to depose in the slander case, Wiggins versus Brigs, the fair lawyer and willing clerk passed on to the next item.

'To get up an issue between Townsend and Ferris. Don't that mean a quarrel, Tom?'

'Well, then, let us prevent it, by all means.'

"We have only to let it stand as it is, then, for they are peaceable fellows that won't quarrel for themselves.'

'Distress the widow Sanburn comes next. Is that right, Tom?'

'The squire had orders to lay an attachment on all things,' said Tom, by way of explanation.

'For what?'

'Because she can't pay some kind of a humbug bill brought against her by that swindler Sampson."

'Can't this unjust action be squashed?'

"It ought to be, at any rate. It can be put off long enough to give the widow warning of what is going on, so that she can put her things out of his reach,' replied Tom.

'Pettifogger you are a treasure! Just run over and give the widow a sly piece of advice, and then I will help you make out damages in the case of Folger and Folsom.'

It was thus that Mrs. Crosby went on, and by noon, with the able assistance of Tom, had reached the last three items, viz; "Kick Bill Buzzleton (of the firm of Buzzleton and Buggs) out of the office; browbeat Mrs. Chandler, and tweak Johnson's nose.'

'Now as none of these persons are present, what am I to do?' inquired Mrs. Crosby, looking archly at Tom.

'Why, just as the squire would—wait till they come in.'

'Exactly, but it is now about the hour of dinner, and if people can't come in at proper business hours, how can they expect to be kicked down stairs, brow-beaten or tweaked? So, my young friend, we will go to dinner. You will not be wanted this afternoon, therefore you need not return to the office but amuse yourself in any way you please—by going to see Margaret, perhaps. Lock the office and give me the key; I won't forget your services.'

On her return, our gentle attorney met her seamstress, and having some work to consult her about, asked her home to dinner. As soon as she entered the house she knocked at the door and said, laconically, 'Ready for dinner.'

What a ludicrous spectacle met her vision. Mr. Crosby with a segment of a squash in one hand and a potatoe in the other.

'I have brought a friend home to dinner, Mr. Crosby,' added the lady.

'The deuce you have!' cried the squire, elevating two notoriously smutty eyebrows, half in vexation, half in wonder, at his wife's gravity.

'How soon will dinner be ready?' she continued, drawing forth her watch with the air of one in a hurry.

'Judging by present appearances, it will be on the table in about an hour and a half from this time,' said the new housekeeper, opening the oven door to look at the meat, which was not yet blistered with the heat.

'As there is only two of us, Mr. Crosby, I cannot listen to any excuse for this unpardonable delay. For my part I can't see what you found to employ yourself about!'

'Come, Mrs. Crosby, don't exult until your work has been inquired into. There is such a thing as crowing before one is out of the woods."

'If you refer to my office business, I am very glad to be able to inform you that it is successfully accomplished, and I have half a day to spare,' replied the lady consulting her watch.

'The habeas corpus,' began Mr. Crosby.

'And the writ of replevin?' interrupted Mrs. Crosby.

'And the Saunders case?' resumed the squire.

'And the threatening letter?' chimed in the lady.

'The land case and the breach of promise affair?'

'All attended to, sir, as well as Buzzleton, of the firm of Buzzleton and Buggs.'

'Ha, ha! no! you can't put that load on to me, Mrs. Crosby! Where's Tom?'

'Locked the office and sent him off—did not want him—he will be back to-morrow."

'The deuce, Mrs. Crosby!'

'I said Tom, sir. And now have you attended to the cases which I left for you. Ahem! let's see. Are the dishes washed, closets in order, shelves in order, shelves wiped down, knives cleaned, stove blacked, fire kept bright, hall swept, stairs brushed, parlor swept and dusted, lamps trimmed, chamber work done—"

'Hold on, Mrs. Crosby, for heaven's sake! No woman alive could do all of that in one forenoon!'

'Beg your pardon; before you is a woman who has done it every forenoon for years.'

'For only two of us?'

'For only two of us, Mr. Crosby.'

'Are you a woman of veracity, Mrs. Crosby?' asked the squire, with a smile.

'No gentleman has yet presumed to call it in question,' responded the lady with a slight inclination of the body.

'Then I give it up, and make a graceful surrender of these premises.'

'And only two of us?'

'Mrs. Crosby, I beg your pardon I think that I am a little wiser than I was this morning. I assure you, upon the honor of a gentleman, that I will never speak disparingly of woman's duties again. Two of us, I find, make considerable work, enough at least for one little wife to perform.'

'You are pardoned on the spot. And let me assure you that I do not regret this day's experience; and perhaps the Widow Sanburn and several other persons will not.'

'And your humble servant among the number,' replied the squire, bowing.

We have only to add that the squire kept his word, that Tom Pettifogger married the pretty seamstress, and only two of us' was never used except as a pleasant jest.

It's What You Spend.

'It's what thee'll spend, my son,' said a sage old Quaker, 'not what the'll make, which will decide whether thee's to be rich or not.' The advice was trite for it was Franklin's in another shape: 'Take care of the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves.' But it cannot be too often repeated. Men are continually indulging in small expenses, saying to themselves, that it's only a trifle, yet forgetting that the aggregate is serious, that even the seashore is made up of petty grains of sand. Ten cents a day is even thirty-six dollars and a half a year, and that is the interest of a capital of six hundred dollars. The man that saves ten cents a day only is that much richer than he who does not, and if the owner of a life estate in a house worth six hundred dollars; and if invested quarterly, does not take half that time. But ten cents a day is a child's play, some will exclaim. Well then John Jacob Astor used to say that when a man who wishes to become rich, has saved ten thousand dollars, he has won half the battle. Not that Astor thought ten thousand much. But he knew that in making such a sum, a man acquired habits of prudent economy which would keep him advancing in wealth. How many, however spend ten thousand in a few years in extra expenses, and then, on looking back cannot tell, as they say, where the money went to. To save is to get rich. To squander even in small sums is the first step toward the poorhouse.

THE YELLOW DOMINO.

In the latter part of the reign of Louis XV., of France, the masquerade was an entertainment in high estimation, and was often given, at an immense cost, of rejoicing. As persons of all ranks might gain admission to these spectacles, provided they could afford the purchase of the ticket very strange rencontres frequently took place at them, and exhibitions almost as curious in the way of disguise or assumption of character. But perhaps the most whimsical among the genuine surprises recorded at any of these spectacles was that which occurred in Paris, the 15th of October, on the day when the dauphin (son of Louis XV.) attained age of one and twenty.

At the fete, which was peculiar glittering character—so much so that the details are given at great length by the historian of the day—the strange demeanor of a man in yellow domino, early in the evening, excited attention. This mask, who showed nothing remarkable as to figure—though rather tall and of robust proportion—seemed to be gifted with an appetite not merely past human conception, but passing even the fancies of romance. He passed from chamber to chamber—from table to table of refreshments—not tasting but devouring—devastating all before him. At one board he dispatches a fowl, two-thirds of a ham, and half a dozen bottles of champagne; and the very next moment he was found seated in another apartment, performing the same feat, with a stomach better than at first. This strange course went on until the company (who at first had been amussed by it) became alarmed and tumultuous.

'Is it the same mask, or are there several dressed alike?' demanded the officer of the guards, as the yellow domino rose from a seat opposite him and quitted the apartment.

'I have seen but one, and by heaven, here he is again!' exclaimed the party to whom the query was addressed. The yellow domino said not a word but proceeded straight to the vacant seat which he had just left, and again commenced supping as though he had fasted for the half of a campaign. At length the confusion which this proceeding created became universal, and the cause reached the ear of the dauphin.

'He is the very devil, your highness!' exclaimed an old nobleman, 'or wants but a tail to be so!'

'Say, rather, he should be some famished poet, by his appetite, replied the prince, laughing, 'but must be some juggling. Perhaps he spills all his wine, and hides the provisions under his robe.'

Even while they were speaking, the yellow domino entered the room in which they were talking and, as usual, proceeded to the table of refreshments.

'See here, my lord!' cried one, 'I have seen him do this thrice!' I, twice!' And I fifteen!'

This was too much. The master of ceremonies was questioned. He knew nothing; and the yellow domino was interrupted as he was carrying a bumper of claret to his lips—

'The prince's desire is that you, sir, in this yellow domino, should unmask.'

The stranger hesitated.

'The command with which his highness honors you, is perfectly absolute.

Against that which is absolute there is no contending. The yellow man threw off his mask and domino, and proved to be a private trooper of the Irish dragoons!

'And in the name of gluttony, my good friend, (not to ask how you gained admission,) how have you contrived,' said the prince, 'to sup to night so many times?'

'Sire, I was but beginning to sup, with reverence be it said, when your royal message interrupted me.'

'Beginning!' exclaimed the dauphin, in amazement; 'then what is it I have heard and seen? Where are the herds of oxen that have disappeared, and the hampers of Bergundy? I insist upon knowing how this is.'

'It is sire,' returned the soldier, 'may it please your grace, that the troop to which I belong is to day on guard. We have purchased one ticket among us, and provided this yellow domino, which fits all. By this means the whole of the front rank, being myself the last man, have supped, if the truth must be told at discretion; and the leader of the rear rank, saving your highness's commands, is now waiting outside the door to take his turn.'

A Frenchman, writing a letter in England to a friend, and looking in the dictionary for the word preserve, finding it means to pickle, wrote as follows: 'May you and your family be pickled to all eternity!'

Think for Yourselves.

We are told that "it is always best to think first for ourselves on any subject, and then have recourse to others for the correction or improvement of our own sentiments." I wonder if this sentence was not written for the very purpose of meeting the eyes of some school girl who was about to consult some author, and thereby aid her to form her thoughts into a composition. If so, its mission is accomplished. Thinking for oneself is far better than depending upon others for thoughts, for in so doing error as well as truth is often received. Original thoughts are checked by learning how and what to think from books. The greatest difficulty in writing compositions, appears to be in collecting the thoughts and confining them to our subject. Older people tell us it is an excellent exercise, that it disciplines the mind, enables us to express our thoughts, and is of invaluable service to us. Why is it, we never seem to realize the important fact? Is it because we cannot think? All persons who have sound minds can think. Are we willing to admit that we are non compos mentus? If we are it is useless to spend our time in trying to improve, we may as abandon all hopes of ever benefiting the world, and content ourselves with the idea that we are idiotic. No! That will never do. We have minds; let us then improve them, train them to think, and think correctly and independently.

Pleasures of Memory.

Come with me my dear schoolmates. Let us take a retrospection of our past life. How memory delights to dwell upon happy days that are past. Let us imagine ourselves quietly seated around our fireside, father, mother, brother and sister, all, all are there. For grim visaged war had not then entered upon our land. Peace reigned throughout this our vast country. We knew no such thing as war. We knew not what it was to have our dearest friends on earth torn from our embrace to go and brave the hardships and dangers of camp life. What good old days those were; would that they might return! Around that fireside are all that are near and dear to us by the ties of nature. Merrily the time goes by. The little ones join us in their happy glee, relating incidents that happened at school, of their joys and sorrows. And there is seated our dear mother, who quietly looks on with an approving smile, her words sound as music to our ears. What could we do without her in this cold, unfeeling world of ours? 'Tis our mother who, in her kind and gentle tone, first taught us to lisp a prayer to that great and good Being who reigns above. 'Tis she who sympathizes with us in our every joy, and trial. And our father, we would not pass him by, for to him we look for counsel and advice. How cheerful he looks as he sits here telling us tales of other days. Are not such scenes deeply engraved on memory's page? Do you not delight to dwell upon them? But, O! more precious than other memories is the memory of that day, where we first felt the joys that a christian experiences. Who of us that have tasted them will ever forget it. Methinks I hear you say the memory of that happy day will never be forgotten.

GERTY.

An Extraordinary Case.

A soldier in Sherman's army, with throat cut from ear to ear, was thought to be mortally wounded by a council of surgeons; but the one under whose immediate care he was, thought he was justified in making an experiment for the good of others, at the same time having great hopes of saving the man. He first commenced his task by cutting through where the two under ribs meet the sternum, and through this orifice for forty days he has been fed five gallons of milk per week, and sometimes his appetite required five per day. He is fat and hearty, and the surgeon now thinks in two weeks he will have him well, and the inside of his throat so nearly healed as to allow him to swallow by the natural passage. He at first introduced a stomach pump, and thus fed his patient, and after a few hours would clear his stomach in the same manner, thus producing artificial digestion, till it was no longer necessary. A silver tube is now used to feed him.

Little Nannie is a close student of the Bible, but not very clear as to some points. 'Ma,' said she one Sunday evening, after heving sat a good child all day in the house, 'have I honored you to-day?' 'I do not know, Nannie; why do you ask?' said her mother. 'Because,' said little Nan, shaking her curls sadly, 'the Bible says, 'Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long,' and this has been, oh, the longest day I ever saw.'

In an old cook book there is a recipe for making acorn coffee. This is goin to the pigs with a vengeance.

United States Official Paper.

Mankato. Friday, December 2, 1864.

The United States Senatorship.

We think there is no man in this locality, who has the interests of this section and of Southern Minnesota at heart, who cannot cheerfully endorse the sentiments of the Record, contained in an article, on this subject, which we publish in another column, and of which we request a careful perusal. We are truly grateful to the editor of that paper, and to other leading Democrats, as well as to the Republicans generally, in our midst, for the deep regard for our local interests which they are evincing at the present time.

Beyond question, the interests of Southern Minnesota will be greatly promoted by the return to the United States Senate of the Hon. M. S. Wilkinson. No one who has lived in this section of the State for the last six years, and who has witnessed what has been done for our benefit by the Hon. Senator during that time, but will cordially assent to what we have said. Southern Minnesota cannot find any one who will so ably represent her interests in Congress.

But aside from the deep interest which all should feel here in having Senator Wilkinson re-elected for another term, there are reasons why the whole Republican party of this State should also feel a keen interest in this matter, and unite in his return. He has been a true exponent of Republican principles. Elected by a Republican Legislature, as a Republican, he has, at all times, during his Senatorial career, been an uncompromising, fearless and eloquent expounder of Republican principles on the floor of Congress. We can remember the noble stand he took at the commencement of this Rebellion, in refusing to yield up any of the true principles of the party, to satisfy the clamors, and to appease the fears of many of our public men who, for a time, believed it was best to compromise with evil, rather than maintain those principles. We can very well remember, too, his praiseworthy efforts in securing the expulsion of the traitor Bright from the Senate. His stirring remonstrance against imprisoning our brave Minnesota soldiers, solely because they would not act as nigger hunters; and his many and eloquent defenses of the Administration against the assaults of those who would destroy the government.

He has not only been a true Republican, but has been a faithful representative of the interests of Minnesota. He has always evinced the most active interest in any and every measure that would be a benefit to the State. Some of our readers can remember his successful efforts in securing to Minnesota a Northern Pacific Railroad route to the Pacific coast. How, for weeks and weeks, by his speeches and private efforts, he labored to bring about this result, which he accomplished, notwithstanding Senator Gwynn, of California, and some other champions of the Pacific Railroad interest, insisted that there should be only two routes—a Southern and a Central. For this Northern route, which may be of some benefit to us, in a few years of returning peace, we have to thank Senator Wilkinson, and some other Minnesotians who labored with him. This is only one instance of the many in which he has shown his devotion to the interests of Minnesota. Not to go back beyond the last session of Congress, the sufferers by the Sioux outbreak, the Railroad and other interests of this State found a ready and influential friend in Mr. Wilkinson.

Situated as Minnesota is in the far Northwest, a young but rising State, whose resources need developing, we cannot afford to lose a valuable public servant at the present time. We have large interests which need to be well attended to, and we need men to represent us in the Senate Chamber of the United States, who are men of political integrity; ability and experience; usefulness and influence. We know of no public man in the State whose record as an unflinching true Republican stands higher than does that of Senator Wilkinson; and we know of no public man in the State of more acknowledged ability and experience, or one whose influence will be as great in the Senatorial body as his. We shall be surprised if any really formidable opponent appears to contest this Senatorial position. Of Mr. Windom, we have our doubts as to whether he is an aspirant for Senatorial honors. He certainly is not if his own word can be depended upon, for we have his assurance that he would neither become a candidate, nor allow his name to be used by his friends in connection with that position. Yet, if he is an aspirant, we do not believe, though he has been a faithful member of the lower House, that the people of Minnesota, consider him to be as well qualified to fill the higher and more important position of Senator as is the present incumbent.

* * *

MR. EDITOR:—"I have faith that the intelligent voters of the seventeenth Senatorial and Representative district will not fail at the next election, to place our district among the loyal supporters of the Union, and that the supporters of tyranny and oppression and slavery will soon be a miserable minority in every part of this glorious republic,

> For right is might,
> And might the day will win;
> To doubt it were disloyal,
> To fear it would be SIN."

The above, sir, you may remember, is a quotation from a letter of mine published in your paper a year ago, reviewing the result of our next election. That the prediction is already to a great extent fulfilled, must be cause for devout thankfulness to every loyal Christian man. Not only that our party as a party has, so signally triumphed, nor solely because our candidate for President has been elected by an overwhelming majority, nor merely because so many men have been sent to Congress pledged to support the principles of the Baltimore platform, but mainly and principally because it is conclusive evidence that the days of that false god,—slavery the American juggernaut,—are fast drawing to a close; and that as a nation, we have in that respect "feared to do evil." We have now therefore only to "learn to do well" and that "righteousness that exalteth a nation" will be ours; and union, peace and prosperity, will be our happy portion as a people.

But the conflict between light and darkness, truth and error is not yet over. The rebels in the South and their allies in the North will still make fight for that which was to have been the chief corner stone of their Confederacy, namely—human slavery. Yet a vast majority of the people of this Republic have emphatically declared their preference for Liberty throughout the land and to all men. They have heartily endorsed the sentiment as expressed in the Baltimore platform:

Resolved: That as slavery was the cause and now constitutes the strength of this rebellion as it must be always and everywhere hostile to the principles of republican government, justice, and the national safety demand its utter and complete extirpation from the soil of this Republic, and that we uphold and maintain the acts and proclamations by which the government, in its own defense has aimed a death blow at this gigantic evil. We are in favor, furthermore, of such an amendment to the Constitution, to be made by the people in conformity with its provisions as shall terminate and forever prohibit the existence of slavery within the limits or jurisdiction of the United States.

That a majority amounting to some four hundred thousand of the citizens of the United States have given their vote in favor of such a platform, will be glorious news for the oppressed and down trodden, not only of our own land, but throughout the civilized world. And it now becomes us as Republicans to live up fully to our principles, even if we have no higher motive than the perpetuity of our party. For it must be evident to every sensible man that just as long as we are anti-slavery and the Democrats are pro-slavery, we shall have the ascendency. But ere long they will discover that the hope of again governing this country by a union with the slaveholding aristocracy is > "Made of such stuff as dreams are,

> And baseless as the fantastic visions of the evening."

Then their leaders and journals will declare that they are and always have been more anti-slavery than the Republicans ever dare be. "And Satan himself will be transformed into an angel of light."

But we have higher and holier motives for laboring to destroy slavery, than mere party ones. The monster has plunged us into a terrible civil war, wasting our property and sacrificing the lives of many thousands, and is still seeking to destroy us as a nation, and that or this republic must perish. By the re-election of Abraham Lincoln the people have said which it shall be. And ere his term of office has expired,

The Slave Confederacy, the Copperhead crew, yea Slavery itself, and all belonging to it, shall be dissolved, and, like the baseless fabric of a vision leave not a Cop. behind.

So let it be. SIDNEY.

United States Senatorship.

Now that the election is over, and the Republicans have chosen more than two-thirds of the next Legislature, that party will elect a United States Senator for the next six years. Though there are some ambitious aspirants in the northern part of the State, we cannot for a moment believe that the representatives of southern Minnesota—comprising a majority of the joint convention—will concede both Senators to that part of the State, but will determinedly insist upon the rights of their own section.

In this view of the case, the choice will probably fall upon Mr. Wilkinson, the present incumbent, or Mr. Windom, the member of Congress elect. Though the latter, before election, persistently denied that he was an aspirant for the Senatorship and said he would under no circumstances permit the use of his name in that connection, now that the election is over, and he has again been returned to the lower house, he is growing bolder, and his friends are permitted to discuss his prospects and openly labor for his success, which they are now doing with much earnestness. Indeed, we are well assured that for the past two years Mr. Windom has had his eyes upon Mr. Wilkinson's comfortable and capacious Senatorial chair, and secretly and earnestly—in violation of scriptual injunctions—longed for its possession. Wherever his friends could secure the nomination of a State senator or legislative representative favorable to his interests, it was done. We would cite in substantiation of this position. Mr. Windom's extreme selfishness in packing the legislative caucus of his own county, and, against the expressed wishes of his fellow-Republicans, displacing two tried and able representatives, by nominating in lieu thereof two men whose chief merits were their partiality for Mr. Windom's Senatorial aspirations. Again during the late presidential campaign, an enthusiastic Windomite and Republican elector at large—we believe from Wabasha county—during a brief visit to this place, unwittingly disclosed a secret plot, as he termed it, 'to slaughter Mr. Wilkinson in 'his own household,' and elevate Mr. Windom to senatorial dignities.

While Mr. Windom has thus been secretly and treacherously at work, Mr. Wilkinson has not been idle, but in more than one instance has been able to successfully flank the movements of his wily adversary. He went before the people openly and squarely, and if we mistake not, as the result of the fight, outnumbers Mr. Windom in supporters at least three to one. Though by no means an admirer of the political principles advocated by Mr. Wilkinson, and having earnestly opposed him as long as there was the slightest possibility of electing a Democrat to succeed him, now that the contest is narrowed down to two persons of the same political stripe, upon local grounds alone, we feel a deep interest in his success and hope for his reelection. The people of southwestern Minnesota irrespective of party, are alike interested in his success. Their interests will be promoted by having a local representative in the halls of Congress, and as Mr. Wilkinson is the only man from this section of the State that stands the slightest show of success, it will be wisdom for them to combine their strength upon him. Besides, Mr. Windom his most formidable opponent, has already been delegated to represent Minnesota in the lower house of Congress, and really we do not believe that he is endowed with sufficient ability to discharge the duties of that position together with those pertaining to a United States Senator.

The Murder and Starvation Policy.

From the very commencement of the war the rebels have starved Union prisoners, and placed them in pens, and on islands, depriving them of fire, clothes, and shelter, as a means of killing them off, and by these means they have murdered thousands, and made it certain they could never be exchanged, or again enter the Union army!

From the beginning until now, they have amputated the arms and legs of all Federal prisoners, who have had any sort of wound that afforded a pretext for this course. The patients have protested—alleged that that they would get well if let alone. But no, the order was to amputate, and they were forced to submit, The object was to either kill the patient by the operation, or render him forever unfit for the service.

Hell is too comfortable a place for such men, but as we have no power to send them to a worse place, we ought to see that they go there upon short notice, and by the most direct route! —Brownlow's Whig.

Letter from St. Louis,

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23, 1864.

MR. EDITOR:—By your special request I give you my whereabouts and note such events as have come to my notice. We arrived here on the 15th 'all right' (that is Keene's party). Brink's party arrived on the 18th, nearly all of which are now in 'old Abe's' service and have gone below, some to Vicksburg and some to Duvall's Bluff, Ark. It is not yet determined whether I remain here or go to Vicksburg. 'Uncle Tom,' and Brink are preparing to go into trade at Vicksburg,—will leave here soon for that purpose.

St. Louis is at the present time quite a military point. The 1st and 3d Division of the 16th Army Corps are here, having returned from their hase after Price. The 5th, 6th, 7th, 9th and 10th Minnesota Regiments are here. The 6th is doing Provost duty in the city. The 30th Wisconsin arrived yesterday from Sully's Expedition. The troops are all being paid off and will leave soon, it is supposed by military men, for Tennessee, to confront Hood. Paymaster McKinney formerly a private in company A, of the 10th, is very busy dealing out the greenbacks to the weary soldiers. Company E, of the 9th have received their pay rolls from Memphis and have got their pay, But 25 are now with the company. They have neither commissioned nor non-commissioned officers, but are under command of a Lance corporal. Col. Baker, of the 10th Minnesota, is now in command of this post, by order of the War Department, which gives him a permanent command. He is considered a very prompt and efficient officer. The ladies of St. Louis are to give a Thanksgiving dinner to-morrow, to all the soldiers here—numbering some twelve thousand. It will of course be a magnificent affair. All honor to the loyal ladies of St. Louis.

The weather has been rather severe for a few days, for this latitude.

More anon, S. C. CLARK.

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

Hardships of the Ninth Regiment.

ST. LOUIS, Nov 29, 1864.

"I did not write that letter I promised you for the reason, that I had no chance to send mail for a long time, and when we did go where we could send it, I had neither paper or stamps, and there was not a dollar in our company. We were paid last night by G. K. Cleveland, the first money we have received in almost seven months. We received six months pay. Now I will give you a short detail of our trip as well as I can from memory. We left Memphis the 2nd of September by boats, and ran down the Mississippi to the mouth of the White river, thence up to Duvalls Bluff, where we took up the march for Browsville Arkansas where we stayed about a week; then we started after Price with ten days rations. You can easliy follow our course on the map by looking at the main points we touched at, which I will give as near as I can. The first place we came to after leaving Browsville was Austin; from here we wound our way around to Pocahontas, Greenville, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, and thence to Cape Girardean, a distance of three hundred and fifty miles, which was accomplished in nineteen days on ten days rations, one quarter at least of which was rotten hard tack, and could not be used. These rations were furnished us by the son of the worthy Governor of Minnesota, who was Captain Commissary. I understand he has got himself into trouble about it. I can not vouch for the truth of this statement, but, there is one thing I do know that if he has not been seen to he ought to be. From Cape Girardeau we took the boat again for St. Louis, from there to Jefferson City, where we took the cars to Gamiel Bridge, where we again took up the march still after Price. This day we marched thirty-seven miles, and kept it up for from twenty-two to thirty-three miles per day till we got back to this place again. We have followed Price almost three months, and the nearest we have been to him was sixteen miles. We have traveled over two thousand miles, been into five States, and never had a chance to fire a gun on the enemy. It is all nonsense following mounted men with Infantry, for they will not fight us any more unless they have ten to one.

General Sibley has just established a new post midway between Forts Abercrombie and Wadsworth, as a protection to travel between those points. It is garrisoned by thirty-five men of Company B. Hatch's Battallion, under Capt. Whitcomb.

Gen. Sully.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says:

'Brig Gen. Sully arrived in the city yesterday, accompanied by Capt. Nathaniel Pope, of his staff, on on official visit to Gen. Pope. Gen. Sully has successfully concluded one of the formidable expeditions against the Indians ever set on foot, has inflicted severe losses of life and property upon them, has protected the immense overland emigration to Idaho and has saved our extended frontier settlements from the desolations and horrors that would certainly have awaited them, had not the whole attention of the hostile bands of the Northern savages been occupied by the column of troops led by Gen. Sully to the Black Hills. The Northwest owes him a debt of gratitude.'

News from Sherman.

NEW YORK, Nov, 28.

Notwithstanding the anxiety unmistakbly evinced by rebel authorities and newspapers to conceal advices of Sherman's movements they cannot avoid disclosing some particulars. We have all they were willing to tell up to last Friday.

An engagement, two Richmond papers say, took place last Wednesday on the west side of the river between the rebels and a large force of Sherman's cavalry, in which of course, the Union troops were repulsed.

The Augusta Chronicle, says the railroad bridge over the river was burned by the enemy last Sunday.

The reported capture of Milledgeville, is said by the Richmond editors to lack confirmation, though it is believed that a portion of Sherman's force has been there; but a dispatch in the Savannah News. of the 23rd instant reiterates that it was captured on Monday, and the State House, Governor's mansion penitentiary there, were burned, and that the town of Gordon was also captured by the Yankees.

The Governors of South Carolina and Georgia have issued a proclamation, calling out all the males of the States between the ages of 18 and 45.

A correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch says the Yankee government can well afford to pay $ 1,000,000 per day for the information which the Richmond papers furnish to it gratis, regarding the movements of Sherman.

News from the army of the Potomac to Sunday evening, states that the usual amount of picket firing is going on. Everything else is going on quietly.

There is considerable cannonading and picket firing in Butler's department.

Judge Butts has engaged Ex-Attorney General Coffee to manage the Government cases before the next term of the Supreme Court.

The rebel Admiral Buchanan is to be sent to New York, and thence to Fort Warren, Boston Harbor.

TREATIES:

Treaty between the United States of America and the Ottoman Empire. Concluded at Constantinople, February 25th, 1862, ratifications exchanged, June 5, 1862, proclaimed by the President of the United States, July 2, 1862.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

WHEREAS, a treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States of America and the Ottoman Empire was concluded and signed by their respective Plenipotentiaries at Constantinople on the twenty-fifth day of February last, which treaty, being in the English and French languages, is word for word as follows:

Treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States of America and the Ottoman Empire.

The United States of America on the one part, and His Imperial Majesty the Sultan of the Ottoman Empire on the other part, being equally annimated by the desire of extending the commercial relations between their respective countries, have agreed, for this purpose, to conclude a treaty of commerce and navigation, and have named as their respective Plenipotentiaries, that is to say: The President of the United States of America, Edward Joy Morris, Minister Resident at the Sublime Porte; and His Imperial Majesty the Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, his Highness Mehemed Emin Aali Bacha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, decorated with the Imperial orders of the Othmanieh in Brilliants, the Majidieh, and Order of Merrit of the first class, and the grand crosses of several foreign orders; who after having communicating to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE 1.

All rights, privileges, and immunities which have been conferred on the citizens or vessels of the United States of America by the treaty already existing between the United States of America and the Ottoman Empire, are confirmed, now and forever, with the exception of those clauses of the said treaty which it is the object of the present treaty to modify; and it is moreover expressly stipulated that all rights, privileges, or immunities which the Sublime Porte now grants or may hereafter grant to, or suffer to be enjoyed by the subjects, ships, commerce or navigation of any other foreign Power, shall be equally granted to and exercised and enjoyed by the citizens, vessels, commerce, and navigation of the United States of America.

ARTICLE II.

The citizens of the United States of America, or their agents, shall be permitted to purchase, at all places in the Ottoman Empire and its possessions, (whether for the purposes of internal trade or exportation,) all articles, without any exception whatsoever, the produce or manufacture of the said Empire and possessions; and the Sublime Porte having, in virtue of the second article of the convention of commerce of the 16th of August, 1838, with Great Britain, formally engaged to abolish all monopolies of agricultural produce, or of every other article whatsoever, as well as all "permits" (tezkerehs) from the local governors, either for the perchase of any article or for its removal from one place to another when purchased, any attempt to compel the citizens of the United States of America to receive such "permits" from the local governors or shall be considered as an infraction of this treaty, and the Sublime Porte shall immediately punish with severity any viziers or other officers who shall have been guilty of such misconduct, and shall render full justice to citizens of the United States of America for all losses or injuries which they may duly prove themselves to have suffered thereby.

ARTICLE III.

If any articles of Ottoman produce or manufacture be purchased by citizens of the United States of America, or their agents for the purpose of selling the same for internal consumption in Turkey, the said citizens or their agents shall pay at the purchase and sale of such articles, and in any manner of trade therein, the same duties that are paid in similar circumstances by the most favored class of Ottoman subjects, or of foreigners in the internal trade of the Ottoman Empire.

ARTICLE IV.

No other or higher duties or charges shall be imposed on the dominions and possessions of either of the contracting parties, on the exportation of any article to the dominions and possessions of the other, than such as are or may be payable on the exportation of the like article to any other foreign country; nor shall any prohibition be imposed on the exportation of any article from the dominions and possessions of either of the two contracting Powers to the dominions and possessions of the other, which shall not equally extent to the exportation of the like articles to any other country.

No charge or duty whatsoever will be demanded on any article of Ottoman produce or manufacture purchased by citizens of the United States of America, or their agents, either at the place where such article is purchased or in its transit from that place to the place whence it is exported, at which it will be subject to an export duty not exceeding eight per cent., calculated on the value at the place of shipment, and payable on exportation; and all articles which shall once have paid this duty shall not again be liable to the same duty, however they may have changed hands within any part of the Ottoman Empire.

It is furthermore agreed that the duty of eight per cent., until it shall be, in this manner, finally reduced to a fixed duty of one per cent. ad valorem destined to cover the general expenses of administration and control

ARTICLE V.

No other or higher duties shall be imposed on the importation into the United States of America of any article the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of his Imperial Majesty the Sultan, from whatever place arriving whether by sea or by land; and the other or higher duties shall be imposed on the importation into the dominions and possessions of his Imperial Majesty, of any article the produce or manufacture of the United States of America, from whatever place arriving, than are or may be payable on the like article the produce or manufacture of any other foreign country; nor shall any prohibition be maintained or imposed on the importation of any article, the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of either of the contracting parties, into the dominions and possessions of the other, which shall not equally extend to the importation of the like articles, being the produce or manufacture of any other country.

His Imperial Majesty further engages that, save as hereinafter excepted, he will not prohibit the importation into his dominions and possessions of any article the produce and manufacture of the United States of America, from whatever place arriving; and that the duties to be imposed on every article the produce and manufacture of the United States of America imported into the empire and posessions of his Imperial majesty the Sultan, shall in no case exceed one fixed rate of eight per cent. ad advalorem, or a specific duty, fixed by common consent, equivocal thereto. Such rate shall be calculated upon the value of such articles at the wharf, and shall be payable at the time of their being landed, if brought by sea; or at the first custom house they may reach, if brought by land.

If these articles after having paid the import duty of eight per cent., are sold either at the place of their arrival or in the interior of the country, neither the buyer or seller shall be charged with any further duty in respect to them: and if such articles should not be sold for consumption in the Ottoman Empire, but should be re exported within the space of six months, the same shall be considered as merchandise in transit by land, and be treated as is stated herinafter in Article XII of this treaty; the administration of the customs being bound to restore, at the time of their re-exportation, to the merchant who shall be required to furnish proof that the goods in question have paid the import duty of eight per cent the difference between that duty and the duty levied on goods in transit by land, as set fourth in the article above cited.

BEAVER CAPS.—Messrs. White & Marks call the attention of the gentlemen to their assortment of beaver caps, which are the very thing for the coming cold winter

VENISON.—Wm. Reid, presented us with the half of a young deer the other day for which he will accept our thanks. It was delicious as any we ever tasted. And we advise those who have not done so, to call at his room and procure for themselves a rare treat.

DANDELION COFFEE.—Finch & Thurston have an excellent article of the abovename, which is a good substitute for coffee. We have tried it, and can agree with others, that when properly made, it can hardly be told from the genuine article.

ALBUMS ! ALBUMS !—Those albums at Christensens make beautiful Christmas or New Years presents, and those who intend to surprise their friends with a "token," cannot do better than to purchase one. They are elegant.

Persons wishing to renew their subscription to the Saturday Evening Post, or others wishing to subscribe for that valuable literary journal can do so at club rates by calling at this office. Terms. $2 per annum.

NEW STORE AT SHELBYVILLE.—J. M. Fellows & Co., have opened a new store at this place and are supplied with a good stock of dry goods, groceries, and provisions, and hope by strict attention to business, to receive a share of the patronage of that section. They will aim to keep the best articles on hand.

TRUE.—The report that Randall, of the Clothing Emporium, was making strenuous efforts to relieve the poor from the burden of high prices, by greatly reducing the price of all kinds of ready made clothing, has had the effect to bring a large number of customers to his store, and greatly increase his sales. Vive la Randall ! He's a brick.

THE HUTCHINSON FAMILY.—The original Hutchinson family of Singers were advertised to sing in this place last evening, but from some unknown cause failed. They may possibly sing here on Saturday evening either in the Hall or Church, of which notice will be given immediately on their arrival.

CHILDREN'S TOYS FOR CHRISTMAS.—The largest and best stock of toys in town is kept by Christensens'. They have taken special pains to make good selections. and have lately received a large lot of "little things" that will please the children. Christmas is coming, remember, and many presents will be wanted.

NEW GOODS AT CHRISTENSENS.—The Christensens Brothers have on hand a well assorted stock of winter goods, which they are selling at reduced rates. They have the best quality of delaines for fifty cents per yard; calicoes for thirty and forty, and other goods in the same proportion. Fancy goods, hoods, nubias, winter cloaks, fur caps, and gloves, and everything necessary to make one comfortable and happy can be found at their store.

They have a fine article of salt for $ 10,00 per barrel, and good kerosene oil, for $ 1,50. Give them a call, and also note their new advertisement.

General Pope has received orders directing him to report at Washington.

THE latest excitement in town is concerning the new Dancing Academy at the City Hall. We understand that quite a number of pupils have already subscribed and the cry is 'still they come.' The Soiree on Friday night, December 9th, is to be a brilliant affair. Five musicians, plenty of light, and a thoroughly renovated Hall, should certainly prove an incentive to pleasure seekers to give the proprietors a full house, Read their advertisement for new items.

PERMANENT CURE OF HYDROCELE.—Dr. W. R. McMahan assisted by Dr. W. W. Clark on Sunday the 20th ult., performed a very difficult and delicate operation, for the permanent cure of hydrocele, on the person of Henry Lane of Waseca County. The case was of two years standing, and the patient is now doing well.

PURE LIQUORS.—Lewis & Frisbee, at the City Drug Store, have just received an addition to their stock of pure liquors, which now embrace all grades of whiskies, brandies, rums, gins, and bitters. If required for medicinal purposes or as a beverage, pure liquors are always preferable, while there is but little difference in the price. The City Drug Store is headquarters for pure liquors. If you doubt it, call and examine their samples.

GOOD COPYING INK.—J. F. Wickersham has as good an article of writing fluid as we ever used. It is made by Wm. M. Smith, of Chicago Ill., and is pronounced, by those who have used it to be superior to Arnolds. It gives a clear, distinct copy in any weather, flows readily from the pen, never becomes thick, or deposits sediment, no matter how long it may be used. Get a bottle of Jason, and try it, or come up and write your name on our subscription list and see how it looks.

A PLEASANT TIME.—The second meeting of the Methodist Mite Society was held at City Hall last Tuesday evening, under the auspices of Mrs Slocum. Over one hundred persons were present, and all went away satisfied that it was a success. Mr. A. T. Lindholm, and Miss Addie Gale were present with their guitars, and favored the company with several very fine songs. Also the music from the Melodeon, accompanied by some excellent singing added much to the enjoyment of all present. A mite collection was taken up which amounted to $12.05. Seventeen persons joined the society, making in all forty-eight members. Holding the society meeting in the hall was a new feature, and many doubtless were present who would not have attended at a private house. We understand that the officers have made arrangements to hold their meetings in the hall regularly hereafter, commencing Monday evening Dec. 12th. There will be a full attendance, no doubt.

DAILY MAIL SERVICE.—The increase of mail matter between Mankato and Blue Earth City is so great that the question of daily mail communication between these points is under consideration. The amount of mail matter collected at this office daily destined for points in the Blue Earth Valley, is equal to that brought over the St. Paul route, and the only thing that makes it important to have a daily mail from St. Paul, is the fact that daily papers are published there, The papers of St. Paul would find it to their advantage to advocate this increase of mail service. They would receive large accessions to their subscription lists, as many would take a daily paper then, who are content now with a tri-weekly. The present proprietor of the stage line on the Blue Earth route is prepared to place a daily stage, on the road, and will do so so song as this increase can be effected.

SALES OF TOWN PROPERTY.—There has been considerable activity in real and personal property the last week. Several valuable tracts have changed hands at good figures. Mr. Geo. Monks, a gentleman of wealth from Indiania, who has been looking at the land in this vicinity, recently purchased of Columbus Ballard, his farm of 240 acres for $ 6,000. The land lays about a mile and a half from town, and is mostly timber. It is a good bargain.

Mr. Monks also bought A. T. Lindholm's house and lot for $ 1,200, and two lots opposite J. N. Halls on Broad Street, of Judge Branson for $ 700.

Willard & Barney sold 160 acres near Madison Lake, to Mr. Shankee. for $ 800.

NEW CUTTERS.—Let the snow come, for Ben Pay is ready for it, having just returned from Saint Paul with a lot of splendid cutters, and new buffalo robes, and has fixed them up in a style for comfort and happiness that will be irresistible to the pleasure seekers of town. Patronize Ben if you want a good "rig out"

A NEW POST OFFICE NEEDED.—The people living in the town of Linden, Brown county, are very desirous that arrangements should be made to give them better postal facilities. The town is six miles wide by nine long and the nearest office at present is South Bend, which is distant fifteen miles. There is an office at Madelia, a distance of eight miles, but there is no communication between the two points. Butternut Valley is also seven miles distant, and there is no road communication between those two places. The country thereabouts is fast settling up with enterprising farmers, who read a great deal, whose mail matter increases every year, and who would take many other papers, could they get them easily.

LACK OF ENTERPRISE.—A gentleman, who has purchased some $8,000 worth of property in this place, tells the following story ;

A friend called upon him a few years ago at his home, and said he thought of purchasing property in the place, and locate there, but desired to be shown some of the public buildings, churches, school-houses, &c., before doing so. He first showed him the church, which was rather a poor affair ; and then the seminary, This, he said looked well, and betokened enterprise "Now," said the friend, "let me see your school houses." I told him we had no school houses of any account, and none that he would be pleased to see. He went away without purchasing, and settled in another town. The reason was because the citizens lacked enterprise. They had no churches, no school-houses, no sidewalks, no public buildings, and everything betokened indolence and shiftlessness,

Of course he didn't mean to hit Mankato, because we have but one church, no public buildings, no sidewalks, but one log school house, barely fit for a pig-sty, no public enterprise on the part of our citizens, but the story will apply to Mankato, and we may take occasion to repeat in another form soon.

The following testimonial was handed us last week too late for publication. It speaks for itself.

NEW ENROLLMENT.—Orders have been received by the Provost Marshall General relating to the revision and correction of the enrollment lists, so as to have them ready for a future draft.

Eternity has no gray hairs. The flowers fade, the heart withers, man grows old and dies ; the world lies down in the sepulchre of ages ; but time writes no wrinkles on eternity. Eternity ! Stupendous thought ! The ever present, unborn, undecaying, and undenying—the endless chain composing the life of God—the golden thread entwining the destinies of the universe. Earth has its beauties, but time shrouds them for the grave ; its honors are but the sunshine of an hour ; its palaces, they are but the gilded sepulchre ; its pleasure, they are but as bursting bubbles. Not so in the untried bourne In the dwelling of the Almighty can come no footsteps to decay.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.—By direction of the Hon Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands Minnesota,

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City, D. C., and indorsed "Bid for Winnebago Trust Land."

As heretofore many persons have bids upon these lands and after the awards have been made to have failed to respond the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent. on the amount of each bid, which in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder ; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful bidder.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvellous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs. Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of bilious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere. 25

Select Miscellany.

The Little Strawberry Girl.

BY MISS E. W. BARNES.

'Straw-ber-ries! Straw ber-ries! Who will buy? Who will buy?'

The musical voice of Nellie trilled the words so sweetly that the memory of the tones lingered with the passer by as he went on his daily task, and haunted him through the long hours like the remembrance of a joy that has passed away. Her rosy face, too, was worthy of a place in memory, with its sunny smiles and dimples, shaded by careless natural curls, and its soft, black eyes large and full and dreamy. It was not beautiful only, but so indicative of good ness and purity, and all that we most love to cherish as a heart picture of childhood.

Many an eye turned to look after Nellie, as she tripped along in the bright June morning, in her neat pink calico and white apron, and large straw hat shading her pretty face, while her little baskets of fruit, covered with dewy, fresh, green leaves, were strung picturesquely over her arms and shoulders; and her hands each held a huge basket filled to overflowing with smaller ones. She was so neat and attractive in her aspect, that many who would have passed others by unheeded stopped to purchase the tempting fruit of Nellie, who was well known as she came with the other beautiful things of summer, and trilled her little song like a bird beneath the open windows.

'Straw ber ries! Straw-ber-ries! Who will buy? Who will buy?'

'Come in, child; what is your price?'

'Ten pence a basket, miss.'

Nellie stepped into the spacious hall of a fashionable house in Montague Street where a young lady stood in her morning robe, with flowers in her hand, just gathered from the conservatory, and surrounded with all the appliances of wealth and luxury.

'Well, they are worth that—so fresh and ripe! Give me half a dozen baskets. Here, Mary.'

And while Mary emptied the baskets, she drew out her portmonaie and dropped the sixty cents in five and tens into Nellie's little purse—not into her hand, as the reader must remember; for this apparently trivial act was the pivot on which turned the moral event of the day and of our story.

The smile with which she received the money and thanked for it, penetrated like a sunbeam in the heart of Minnie Hamilton, for there was coldness there—the chill of discontent and disappointment, which find their way sometimes even into luxurious homes; and the association of poverty and contentment seemed very incongruous to one born in affluence, as she had been.

'You seem very happy,' she said, responding to Nellie's smile. 'Do you earn your living by selling strawberries?'

'Yes, miss. In the summer I sell berrie; in the winter I go to school part of the day, and help mother the other part.'

'And what makes you so happy? Can you tell me the secret?'

'Mother says that we must be bright and happy, because we have so much to be thankful for.'

Minnie looked at her in amazement. 'So much to be thankful for!' thought she; 'and in their position! How does your mother support herself, child?'

'She takes in common sewing, miss. Sometimes she sews half the night.'

'Then what in the world has she to be so very thankful for?' she exclaimed; and a silent self reproach came stealing up from her heart, that she had so often murmured over some evil in her own lot, which certainly seemed a bright one in comparison.

Nellie smiled again sweetly, as she answered:

'Some people, as good as we are, have no home, and have nothing to eat. But mother and I have a little room to live in. She sings at her work all day, because she says, God is so good to us. We have bread and potatoes every day, and on Sundays we have meat. Don't you think, miss, that is something to be thankful for?' she asked, simply.

A deeper tint glowed upon Minnie's cheek.

'Yes, yes, child,' she answered nervously; and then followed a pause, during which she stored away in her heart, like hidden treasure, the lesson which Nellie had taught her, and which was to be repulsed often in after years, when discontent caused her to murmur at some little cloud, real or imaginary, that hung over her destiny. And she thought within herself—'It is your own sunny heart, poor child, that robes the world for you in its own love lighted and rose tinted atmosphere. You are happier far than I; may God forgive me!'

Minnie Hamilton, a beautiful girl of eighteen, was an only daughter, petted and idolized by her parents. Indulgence had injured, though it had not spoiled her. So fully had every wish of her heart been gratified from birth, that she regarded it as a kind of privilege, peculiar to her condition, to murmur if the slightest shadow came between her and the fulfillment of her most extravagant desires. Poor Minnie? poor, though abounding in riches. 'One thing thou lackest!—one thing which wealth cannot purchase—the joy of a sunny and contented heart.

Yet Minnie had noble qualities; generosity and active benevolence with strong moral and religious principles. One shadow—the shadow of discontent—clouded them all.

Nellie had put her little purse into the pocket of her apron; and now she issued into the street again, and recommenced her strawberry song, until she was summoned by another, who purchase largely. As she was about adding the payment she received to her little store, she discovered a small rent in her purse, and sitting down she emptied the money into her apron to examine it. As she discovered among the fives and tens a gold dollar, which had evidently been given by mistake by the first purchaser.

'I will go right back with it,' tho't Nellie.

She waited, however, to arrange her baskets; and while doing so the tempter came with evil thoughts to test her strength of principle.

'Why go back with it?' said the wicked voice, 'perhaps the lady meant to give it.'

But I do not know that,' said the tender conscience of Nellie.

'Well, you can do good with it,' said the voice, appealing artfully to her filial love; 'you can purchase something for your mother. She works hard enough for all she has, and this will buy her a neat dress to wear to church.'

For a moment—only a moment—Nellie listened to the sinful suggestion, and thought "how pleasant it would be to carry nice calico to dear mother, and how pretty she would look in it. Perhaps, too, she could earn enough to buy a new bonnet to match; and how happy that would make her!"

But suddenly the smile died away on Nellie's lip, her step grew less light. There was a weight at her heart. It was the burden of a guilty thought. She had parleyed with evil and its shadows was on her path. It had dimmed the happiness which innocence had hitherto bestowed.

And now, happily for Nellie, conscience, that "voice of God in the soul,' came powerfully to her aid. It recalled vividly the precious Sabbath evening when her mother sat with her at the window, just as the sun was sinking, and after their scanty supper had been disposed of.

"Nellie, my darling," she said as she laid her hand upon her knee, and smoothed back her dark hair, you could not go to Sunday School to day because you had no shoes to wear.' Perhaps we can earn a pair before next Sabbath; but I will teach you the commandments."

Then Nellie repeated them after her. All were vivid now to her memory; but especially, as if written in letters of fire, stood forth the eighth.—"Thou shalt not Steal!"

Nellie's heart sank within her. Had she listened and obeyed that evil voice what might she have become? A breaker of God's holy commandment! The sin would have lain heavy and dark on her soul, dimming its sunlight, and weighing down her happy buoyant spirit. And then her home would have been changed to her. She would have destroyed its peace, and her mother's cheerful song would have been hushed. Nellie waited a moment, but terrified at her own thoughts she rushed back with the speed of light, lest that evil voice should speak again and rested not until she reached the home of Minnie Hamilton

"You made a mistake, miss. You gave me this"—holding up the gold dollar—"for a silver piece."

"Did I? Well it was a mistake. I am very near sighted; but you are an honest little girl, and you shall have it as a reward."

"No, miss, thank you; I would rather have the silver piece"

"You would!"

"Yes, miss."

'You are a singular child. Pray tell me why you had rather.'

'Because—because—it would remind me'—Nellie burst into tears and covered her face with her hands.

'Of what? tell me, child."

'How I was tempted to break God's commandment.'

'And to keep the dollar, do you mean?'

'Yes, miss.'

'But you resisted the temptation. God gave you strength. That was beautiful in you. You tell me your name: I must remember it.'

'Nellie Townsend.'

'There is no sin, Nellie, in being tempted. The sin consists in yielding to temptation. Now that you have resisted, you will find yourself strengthened in might to overcome evil. Henceforth I shall not fear for you. Only resist the first promptings to do wrong—resist them and all will be well. Nellie, you were not aware of it, to day you taught me a lesson of contentment, which I shall not easily forget; and you shall have the happiness of knowing that you, though a little child, have been a minister of good to me. You must keep that identical dollar to remind you of what has occured to-day; and you have no reason to be ashamed of it. Now tell me what was the temptation? What did you most desire to do with it?'

Nellie hesitated, and then said:—'Last Sunday mother had no neat dress to go to church. That would just buy a calico dress. I only thought of it for a moment.'

Minnie Hamilton turned aside without speaking. When she looked again there was a moisture on the eyelids which had not been there before.

'Does your mother require anything else? does she want a bonnet, too?'

Yes, miss; but I shall soon earn that by my berries. Mother's sewing has already paid the rent for this month.'

Nellie, you and I must be friends. Go now and sell the remainder of your strawberries, and call here on your way home.'

That evening Nellie was tripping home with her empty little baskets strung around her as usual, but in the larger one lay a new straw bonnet, trimmed with a neat ribbon, and a package which she was directed not to open until her return. Mrs. Townsend was looking anxiously for Nellie when she arrived but what was her astonishment and gratitude when she heard her story, with a full confession of the temptation, not a word of which she withheld.

When the packet was opened, it was found to contain a fine calico dress for each, with a five dollar bill fastened within. Upon a slip of paper were written these words:

'For Mrs. Townsend, as an acknowledgment of a benefit received from her little girl, whom she has reared to be an example of truth, and honesty, and virtue.'

From this time Nellie and her mother were under the peculiar patronage of the Hamilton family. Sewing was supplied for which they received good pay, and Nellie was transferred to Minnie's Sunday School class, where she was received as a pattern of truth and integrity for her associates.

And shall not her example speak also to her little readers, and remind them of that which the Bible teaches—to 'resist evil,' and 'to follow that which is good;' for that will bring them peace at last.

Military Glory.

The rolling drum, the brattling trumpet, the waving banner, the bristling bayonet, the shining sword, the prancing steed and the heavy ordnance, will roll you the eyes of the veriest poltroon with heroic ecstacy, even in a time of confirmed peace; judge, then, how the real ginooine crack and bullet of a regular engagement must have thrilled the blood in the lusty veins of my old friend Josh—yes, Josh—for that is the name [illegible] Hunks as he was called by the men, for no particular reason that I could ever learn, save that nicknaming superior officers is an abstract part of military discipline omitted in the 'articles of war'—Col. Hunks commanded a detachment of cavalry on an expedition against the Indians in one of our Florida frolics, when the enemy 'hushed,' and under the cover of this advantage picked off some of our best men.

'By the mountains of Maine,' swore the colonel, 'this wont do. 'Company dismount,' he bellowed in a voice of thunder; 'let every seventh man hold seven horses, the rest prepare to follow me,' and in an instant, the thick wood was reverberating with the gallant cheers of a determined troop.

The green leaves concealed what the quick report and clashing steel gave note was going on. Josh couldn't stand it, his dander ris at every crack; at last drawing his pistols from the holsters, he bid the horses go to the devil, and bounded into the fray. The work was presently done, and the U. S. victorious. On the return of the party, the colonel's horse, one of the seven entrusted to Josh, was among the missing.'

'Josh!' sung out the colonel, with such energy that a rock about half a mile off echoed 'Josh!' And Josh appeared with his face begrimed like that of a powder monkey, and bleeding on the temple from a slight blow of a tomahawk.

'Here am I, kurnel—Lord, you needn't holler so, you must ha' thought I was in the mountains of Maine.'

'Rascal, where are the horses?'

'Awfully scorched, if they went where I told 'em to go.'

'You scoundrel——'

'Corporal—kurnel—corporal, don't promotion me too far at once,' interrupted Josh, audaciously pretending to believe that he was about to be rewarded for the heroic exploit in which he had 'broken duty' to participate.

'You and I are townsmen I believe,' said the colonel with cool anger, 'and are you not ashamed to disgrace your native village by mutiny in the ranks.'

'Well, I know it aint exactly according to law to disobey orders not in no case, but look here kurnel,' said Josh, with a look full of meaning, 'when you go back to our town, the girls will all say, Oh, kurnel, tell us where you was in that 'ere skirmage.' And then you will say, Me? O, I was in the bush, killing Ingens, certainly.' And then the gals will say, 'And where was Josh, kurnel?' and then you'd say, Josh? O, Josh, let me see—Josh, ah, he was holding the horses'—no, I'll be hanged if you shall—I,ll catch 'em though,' and he was off like the skip of a flea, while the colonel turned away to conceal a laugh.

Old Soloman Puzzled.

Old Solomen I—— lives alone in a little hut, keeping aloof from the world and its inhabitants as much as possible. He is the father of several wealthy sons who reside in distant cities. The other day one of his sons was married, and sent his father a generous loaf of the wedding cake, delicately frosted, of course.

The old man looked at the gift brought by the express-man, with a curious eye. He had never seen its like before, and he eyed it as Agassiz might have examined a curious bug. At length he mustered courage to carry it to the nearest house, and show it to the lady residing there.

'Here, you, look here! See what they've sent me; what in the world is it? What did they send it to me for? I 'aint a member of the church! What shall I do with it, hey, you? Say!

The lady procured a knife and cut the loaf, convincing him, after much difficulty, that it was simply wedding cake.

Jesus on the Mount of Olives.

It is impossible to conceive a spectacle of greater natural or moral sublimity than the Savior seated on the slope of the Mount of Olives, and thus looking down, almost for the last time on the whole Temple and City of Jerusalem, crowned as it then was with nearly three million of worshipers. It was evening, and the whole irregular outline of the city, rising from the deep glens which encircled it on all sides, might be distinctly traced. The sun, the significant emblem of the great Fountain of moral light, to which the Lord Jesus has been perpetually compared, may be imagined, sinking behind the western hills, while its rays might linger on the broad and massy fortifications on Mount Zion, on the stately palace of Herod, on the square tower, the Anthonia at the corner of the Temple, and on the roof of the Temple, fretted all over with golden spikes, which glittered like fire; while, below, the colannades and lofty gates would cast their broad shadows over the courts, and afford that striking contrast between vast masses of gloom and gleams of richest light, which only an evening scene, like the present, can display. Nor indeed, (even without the sacred and solemn associations connected with the holy city,) would it be easy to conceive any natural situation in the world of more impressive grandeur, or likely to be seen with greater advantage under the influence of such accessories, than Jerusalem, seated, as it was, upon hills of irregular height, intersected by bold ravines, and hemmed in almost on all sides by still loftier mountains, and itself formed, in its most conspicuous parts, of gorgeous ranges of eastern architecture, in all its lightness, luxuriance and variety. The effect may have been heightened by the rising of the slow volumes of smoke from the evening sacrifices, while even at the distance of the slope of Mount Olivet, the silence may have been faintly broken by the hymns of the worshipers.

In Search of A Husband.

The ideas of the negroes and 'poor whites' of the slaveholding States in reference to the marriage relation are exceedingly vague Any man who can read is considered competent to perform the marriage ceremony. Negroes who have been married legally under the old dispensation consider it necessary to have the rite repeated 'under the flag,' and chaplains are often called upon to marry parties who have been peaceably united in lawful wedlock for a score of years. But this is only preliminary.

General John McNeil was once visited in his camp in Southern Missouri by a raw-boned, tallow-faced specimen of womankind, dressed in the inviting style of the Southern females of the lower class. Politely inquiring in what way he could serve her, the following colloquy ensued.

'I want my husband.'

'Well, how can I help you to your husband?'

'Why, he is one of you 'uns.,

'What is his name?'

'Pears like I disremember his name; but I was married to him last Sunday afternoon. He went off Monday, and I haint seen him since.'

'Ah! who married you?'

'Why, your chaplain.'

'O! then you are all right. The chaplain will know who he married. Orderly, take this woman off to the chaplain'

Off went the bereaved one, but soon returned.

'That isn't any chaplain,' said she.

'Orderly, you took her to the chaplain?'

'Yes, sir.'

'No, sir-ee, that wasn't any chaplain; he didn't have any uniform.'

'Why, my good woman; chaplains don't always wear uniform.'

'Anyways, that wasn't the chap that married us; that one had two yellow stripes on his arm.'

The general gave her permission to search the camp; but the delinquent husband and the two-striped chaplain were not identified.

The Butter Man Gone to War.

A wealthy citizen has been supplied with butter twice a week by a young farmer on the edge of Philadelphia County. He came yesterday to the house with butter, received his pay, and asked an interview with the head of the house hold. The gentleman complied with the request, and the young agriculturist entered the parlor.

'I just wished to thank you, sir, for your custom these three years, and to say to-day I cannot longer serve you.'

'I'm sorry for that. Your butter and eggs have always been very fine. What is the matter?'

'I've enlisted, sir.'

'Enlisted!'

'Yes, sir. A mortgage of eleven hundred dollars has been hanging over my place. I purchased it of a lady, Mrs. B——.'

'Yes, I know her very well.'

'Well, sir, she holds the mortgage She offered last Saturday, if I would enlist as a representative substitute for her, and transfer my bounty to her, she would cancel the mortgage, and present my wife with two hundred and fifty dollars in greenbacks.'

'And you accepted the offer?'

'Indeed I did, most gladly. I go for one year. I come back with a farm clear of incumbrance. My wife and boy can take care of it for one year. My pay will keep me, and my family can live without me for at least that time. Besides I am glad to go. I wanted to go all along, but could't leave my folks.'

'And you are glad to go?'

'Indeed I am. I feel just as contented and free from care as my red cow when Sally is milking her. If I can go with Grant when he goes into Richmond, it will be the very happiest day of my life.'

Cast a Line for Yourself.

A young man stood listlessly watching some anglers on a bridge. He was poor and dejected. At length approaching a basket well filled with wholesome looking fish, he sighed,—'If, now, I had these I would be happy. I could sell them at a fair price and buy me food and lodging!'

'I will give you just as many and just as good fish,' said the owner, who chanced to overhear his words, 'if you will do me a trifling favor.'

'And what is that?' asked the other eagerly.'

'Only to tend the line till I come back. I wish to go a short errand.'

The proposal was gladly accepted. The old fisherman was gone so long that the young man began to be impatient. Meanwhile, however, the hungry fish snapped greedily at the baited hook, and the young man lost his depression in the excitement of pulling them in, and when the owner of the line returned he had caught a large number. Counting out from them as many as were in the basket, and presenting them to the young man, the old fisherman said,—'I fulfil my promise from the fish you caught, to teach you that whenever you see others earning what you need, to waste no time in fruitless wishing, but cast a line for yourself.'

The Gift I Gave My Country.

It was a little more than three years ago that I met him for the first time. Alike in thought, feeling and action, we seemed exactly united to each other; at least we thought so; and hope painted the future with roseate hues. Our home might be an humble one, but love and confidence, with a mutual trust in our Heavenly Father, and each other, would well make up for the lack of worldly fortune; and many a bright hour did we spend together dreaming fairy dreams of the future. But thank God, we did not set our hearts upon them for both of us had learned to say, 'Thy will be done!' Together we studied God's holy word, and 'walked to the house of God in company;' together we courted the society of the Muses, and many a glad hour we have passed writing for each other. He was everything to me! Many friends are very dear, but none can fill his place! It is vacant now.

It was a beautiful summer evening, nearly midnight; the moon sailed majestically overhead, and seemed to look laughingly down upon us as arm in arm we wended our way home from spending an evening with a friend; but my heart was very heavy, for the call for 600,000 more soldiers had just been made, and we had been speaking of a draft. My only brother is not a Christian, and it lay heavy on my heart that perhaps he might be taken from us and die without hope. I said some such words, and he (I cannot write the familiar name yet) drew me closer to him, and said earnestly: 'If the draft comes I will go instead of Ben.'

The draft did not come, for bravely and of their own free wills, the sons of New Jersey responded to the call of their President, and hundreds left their pleasant homes to go forth bravely and fight the battles of their country. O, methinks I can see his proud, elastic step; still feel the pressure of his warm hand as we said our last good-bye; still see the dear form as he rose in the stern of the boat to call it once more to the sad little group on the shore; still see the boat dwindling in the mist as it bears me aways from him forever—the gift I gave my country!

O, Fredericksburg! softly sleeping in moonlight, a few months ago, how little dids't thou dream that thy soil would yet drink the blood of thousands! But chance and change are busy ever, and we know not 'what an hour may bring forth.'

They have laid him to rest near Falmouth; but he not there. Sometimes in the shadowy twilight I feel him near me, and he seems to whisper sweet thoughts of another meeting. I cannot see him, but I feel his presence! When I speak his name, it dies in an hollow echo; but I know he hears it, and will some day answer.

My gift to my country—I gave thee freely! Heaven has accepted the sacrifice. We'll meet again!

Death of Prof. Benjamin Silliman, Sr.

Prof. Benjamin Silliman, Sr., widely known in Europe and America as a physicist of eminent learing and genius, died on the 24th inst., at New Haven, at the ripe age of eighty-four. Mr. Silliman was the son of Gen. Gold Selleck Silliman, who rendered his country important service during the revolutionary war. He graduated at Yale in 1798, afterward studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1802. He afterwards accepted the chair of chemistry in Yale College, and visited Europe to prosecute his studies in a science that was then almost wholly unknown in America. He returned after an absence of fourteen months, and published an interesting account of his travels. In 1807 he made a chemical anaaysis of a meteorite of great size and brilliancy which had burst in the town of Western, Connecticut. He afterward assisted Dr. Ware in his experiment with the oxhydrogen blow-pipe, to which he gave the name of 'compound blow-pipe,' by which it is commonly known. In 1818, Prof. Silliman founded the American Journal of Science and Arts, better known both in Europe and America as Sillimans Journal, of which he remained senior editor till 1846. He was one of the earliest Americans to give popular lectures on scientific subjects. In 1830 he visited Europe a second time. He resigned his Professorship in 1853, but continued to give lectures for two years longer. He was a man of simple tastes and active habits, and his old age was remarkably free from mental or bodily infirmity, and he took a deep interest in the progress of science, humanity and freedom all over the world.

A Fight with a Lynx.

That shy, wary, and ferocious animal, the Canadian lynx is but seldom seen eye in the woods it frequents, and though once found in the northern part of Maine, it is seldom to be met with there. A week or two ago, however, a hunter and trapper named Rich came upon one of those animals in the neighborhood of Oxford. At the time he had not his rifle with him, and no weapon at all but a small hatchet. When the lynx, which was a female, sprung from the bushes, he hallooed at her, upon which she immediately turned and showed fight. Rich now threw the hatchet at her, as an Indian throws his tomahawk, and fortunately it struck her in the forehead and stunned her. He then sprang upon her, and before she had wholly recovered from the force of his blow with the hatchet, he succeeded in tying her hind legs with his handkerchief. His clothes was much torn in the struggle, and the lynx came near getting a grip of his throat in the operation. He now prepared a bed of brush which he bound to his back, and then throwing the animal over, it he carried her to his house, a distance of nine miles. The injury and exertion she had made produced a premature birth of three cubs the next day, but the lynx herself did well. She was of a large size, measuring twenty inches high and three feet long. The animal was visited at Rich's house by many gentlemen, among those who saw her was Prof. Agassiz who purchased her to send to Europe. He got her very cheap for such a rare animal, Rich having sold her for $50. It is not one man in a thousand who would have had the resolution to take her alive and carry her nine miles to his house, screeching and clawing all the way.

Value of Women in China.

Nothing so much astonishes a Chinaman who visits European and American merchants at Hong Kong, as the deference which is paid to the ladies, and the position which they occupy in society. The servants even express their disgust to see ladies take their seats at the same table with gentlemen, wondering how men can so far forget their dignity.

A few years ago a young English merchant was accompanied by his youthful bride to Hong Kong, where the couple were visited by a wealthy mandarin. The latter regarded the lady attentively, and seemed to dwell with delight upon her movements, When she at length left the room the mandarin said to the husband, in his imperfect English:

'What you gives for that wifey of years?' 'Oh,' replied the husband, laughing at the singular error of his visitor, 'two thousand dollars.' This our merchant tho't would appear to the Chinaman rather a high figure, but he was mistaken. 'Well,' said the mandarin, taking out his purse with an air of business, 's'pose you gives her to me, I give you five thousand dollars.'

It is difficult to say whether the merchant was more amazed or amused; but the grave air of the Chinaman convinced him that he was in earnest, and he was compelled therefore, to refuse the offer with as much placidity as he could assume. The mandarin, however, continued pressing and went as high as seven thousand dollars. The merchant, who had no previous notions of the value of the commodity which he had taken out with him, was compelled at length to declare that Englishmen never sold their wives after they once came into possession of them—an assertion which the Chinaman was slow to believe. The merchant afterwards had a hearty laugh with his spouse, when he told her that he had just discovered her full value, as the mandarin had offered him seven thousand dollars for her.

Strictly Confidential.

A good anecdote is told about Col. B——, late of the 18th regiment Wisconsin volunteers, but I can tell you a better one:

The Colonel, withal, is a lawyer and a politian, and, like many lawyers, writes a very poor hand, so that it is almost impossible for a person not acquainted with it to read it. Once upon a time he wrote to a political chum at Appleton, in which some important plans for an approaching campaign were divulged; but our Appleton friend was unable to read the letter. Finally, after showing it around to all the leading personages of the place, and getting all the ain he could, he was enabled to make out all the letter but one line at the bottom. A few days after receiving the Colonel's letter, he was visited by the Colonel at Appleton, and after exchanging the usual salutations, and while surrounded by a bevy of acquaintances, the Appleton friend remarked to the Colonel that he had received the letter and with the aid of the good people of Appleton, he could read it all but the last line; and producing the letter, remarked to the Colonel that none of them could make out that. 'Why,' says the Colonel, 'that is 'Strictly confidential.'' The Appleton chum stood treat.

THE LETTER "H."—Five of the sweetest words in the English language begin with this letter, which is only a breath: Heart, Hope, Home, Happiness, Heaven. Heart is a hope-place, and home is a heart-place, and that man sadly mistaketh who would exchange the happiness of home for anything less than hea

The Weekly Union.

United States Official Paper.

Mankato, Friday, December 9, 1864.

ENLARGEMENT.

Our readers will notice that we have improved the appearance of our paper by making it larger. We have made the columns wider and longer, and this change is equal to adding a column to each page. This will enable us to give considerable more reading matter than usual, which we intend to do hereafter. The publication of the "tax list" has interfered somewhat with our plans, but that will soon be through with, and we shall endeavor to make the UNION more attractive than ever. Notwithstanding the extravagantly high prices of all kinds of printing material, we have not deemed it best to make the subscription price any more than one dollar and fifty cents though we may conclude to do so after the first of January.

THE TAX LIST.

The County Auditor has favored us with a very lengthy and interesting story, under the above name, which we feel bound to publish and continue for four weeks. It has required so much of our time to set it up, that we were unable to issue our paper in time for this morning's up country mail; and it occupies so much of our space, that we have but little room for reading matter. Our readers will have the kindness to put up with it this week, and under our new arrangements we shall be able to place it out of the way next week.

The President's Message.

President Lincoln's annual message was delivered in Congress on Tuesday last. It is brief and to the point. As we have not room to publish it in full, we give a brief synopsis.

The President says "the condition of our foreign affairs is reasonably satisfactory." Mexico continues to be the theatre of war, but our government has maintained neutrality between the belligerents.

In view of the insecurity of life in the region adjacent to the Canadian border, by recent assaults and depredations committed by inimical and desperate persons who are harbored there, it has been thought proper to give notice, that after six months, the period conditionally stipulated in the existing arrangements with Great Britain, the United States must hold themselves at liberty to increase their naval armament upon the Lakes, if they shall find that proceeding necessary.

There is a great improvement in the financial affairs of the government, which cannot fail to attract attention. The receipts for the last year have been eight hundred and eighty-four million, seventy-six thousand six hundred and forty-six dollars and seventy-seven cents; the disbursements eight hundred and sixty-five million, two hundred and thirty-four thousand eighty-seven dollars and eighty-six cents, which leaves a balance in the treasury of eighteen million eight hundred and forty-two thousand, five hundred and fifty-eight dollars and seventy-one cents. He is of the opinion that the proportion of the money required to meet the expenses of the war derived from taxation, should be still further increased.

The public debt on the 1st day of July last, as appears by the books of the Treasury, amounted to one billion seven hundred and forty million, six hundred and nine thousand, four hundred and eighty-nine dollars and forty-nine cents. Probably should the war continue for another year, that amount may be increased by not far from five hundred millions. Held as it is for the most part by our own people, it has become a substantial branch of national, though private property. For obvious reasons the more nearly this property can be distributed among the people the better. To favor such general distribution, greater inducements to become owners might, perhaps, with good effect, be presented to persons of limited means. With this view I suggest whether it might not be both expedient and competent for Congress to provide that a limited amount of some future issue of public securities might be held by any bona fide purchaser, exempt from taxation and from seizure for debt, under such restrictions and limitation as might be necessary to guard against abuse of so important a privilege. This would enable prudent persons to set aside a small amount against a possible day of want.

The route of the main line of the Pacific railroad has been definitely located for one hundred miles westward from the initial point at Omoha City, N. T.

There have been added to the Pension Rolls during the year ending the thirtieth day of June last the names of sixteen thousand seven hundred and seventy invalid soldiers and of two hundred and seventy-one disabled seamen, making the present number of army invalid pensioners twenty two thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, and of navy invalid pensioners seven hundred and twelve.

The most remarkable feature in the military operations of the year is Gen. Sherman's attempted march directly through the insurgent region. It tends to show a great increase of our relative strength, that our General-in-Chief should feel able to confront and hold in check every active force of the enemy, and yet to detach a well appointed large army to move on such an expedition. The result not being known, conjecture in regard to it need not be indulged.

The message recommends the reconsideration of the amendment to the constitution abolishing Slavery. If this Congress does not pass it the next will, and it is only a question of time when it will go to the States for their action. He thinks the sooner it is disposed of the better. The future policy of the administration is briefly stated in the following paragraph.

In presenting the abandonment of armed resistance to the national authority on the part of the insurgents as the only acceptable condition to ending the war on the part of the government, I retract nothing heretofore said as to slavery. I repeat the declaration made a year ago, that while I remain in my present position I shall not attempt to retract or modify the emancipation proclamation, nor shall I return to slavery any person who is freed by the terms of that proclamation, or by any of the acts of Congress. If the people should, by any mode or means, make it my duty to reinstate such persons, another, and not I, must be their instrument to perform it. In stating a single condition of peace, I mean simply to say that the war will cease on the part of the Government whenever it shall have ceased on the part of those who began it.

The message is an interesting document and will be read with interest. Its brevity, simplicity, and the plainness with which every subject is treated, show that the President is satisfied with the past, and confident of the future.

SHERMAN.

NEWS FROM REBEL SOURCES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.

Savannah and other Georgia papers of the 27th, and Richmond papers of the first of December, are received, from which the following summary is digested:

It appears that an attack was made on East Macon, on Sunday the 20th, the rebels losing a battery which they subsequently recovered, with a small loss on both sides. The attack was expected to be renewed on the 21st, but it was not, and the rebels came to the conclusion that the movement on Sunday was a feint. It was probably made by a small force of Slocum's corps, as the Augusta Constitutionalist of the 21st says Sherman's entire corps went over to the west side of the Oconee river, previous to the night of the 22d, indicating the intention to pass by Augusta, between that place and Macon, for the sea between Savannah and Brunswick.

It does not seem that our authorities have any suspicion of the effect the movement of Sherman would have; at least we judge so from his getting off so cheaply.

It is plain that he is moving to the coast, and that thus far he has been enabled to live upon the country. We think it probable that Sherman will reach the coast in safety, and his next movement, in our opinion, will be by sea to Richmond.

We do not believe he can succeed in taking Augusta or Savannah; indeed should he succeed in capturing the first named place, it will do him no good since he will not find there what he is seeking for, and at the last named place he will have to fight, which he is very well aware of and does not wish to do, before securing a base upon the sea coast, which, for the present, at least, we think to be entirely out of the question. Should he determine to secure himself on the sea and thence issue during the winter to ravage the country or carry on any regular winter campaign, he will be obliged to abandon an immense tract of country in the interior over which it is impossible that his army situated on the ocean and closely watched, can exercise any influence for good or evil. We do not see that Sherman's last exploits will have any effect upon the issue of the war, but after having been told by the highest authority in the Confederacy that his retreat from Atlanta was to be more disastrous than the recall of Napoleon from Moscow, it is a little strange to find him getting off so cheaply, burning and murdering as he goes.

GRANT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.

Further details of General Gregg's raid south of Petersburgh show it to have been one of the most important of the campaign. The distance marched in going and coming was 40 miles.

Richmond papers discredit the reports that Grant is crossing men from the south side, and says it is not on his right, but on his left that Grant meditates an early an heavy attack.

Some important movement in the vicinity of the Dutch Gap Canal by monitors is also aprehended by Richmond editors.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.

The rebel papers state that Sherman ordered every house in East Tennessee to be burned and the country desolated, and refused to rescind the order on a petition from the citizens of Knoxville.

It is reported that Cumberland Gap is evacuated, the troops going to Knoxville.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.—By direction of the Hon Secretary of Interior, the undersigned will receive sealed bids for the purchase of any or all of the lands hereinafter described, they being among the choicest and best farming lands Minnesota.

These lands comprise what are known as the Winnebago Trust lands in the State of Minnesota, and will be sold to the highest and best bidder in tracts not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres each, under the provisions of a treaty concluded with the Winnebago Indians, April 15th, 1859, and an act of Congress, approved February 21st 1863, entitled "An act for the removal of the Winnebago Indians, and for the sale of their Reservation in Minnesota, for their benefit."

No bid will be entertained at a rate less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

In case a bid is accepted, the party making the same will be notified as soon thereafter as practicable. If within thirty days after such notice the party shall fail to make payment to the undersigned, the land for which such bid was made will be subject to sale to any other person.

Patents will be issued and transmitted to purchasers as soon after the payment as the same can be prepared. Payments may be made either in cash or in the certificates of indebtedness of the Winnebago Indians issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for the debt of said Indians, and secured to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of said lands by the third article of the treaty above mentioned. The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved. All bids must be sealed and addressed to the undersigned, Washington City, D. C., and indorsed "Bid for Winnebago Trust Land."

As heretofore many persons have bids upon these lands and after the awards have been made to have failed to respond, the Secretary of the Interior hereby directs that all bids hereafter submitted must be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to ten per cent on the amount of each bid, which in case the land is awarded and the balance not paid will be forfeited by the bidder; should the bid be rejected the sum deposited will be returned to the unsuccessful bidder.

U. S. 7:30 LOAN!

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50,$100,$500,$1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, consider that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5 20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul,

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels, Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes. Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health, within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of billious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere.

U. S. 7:30 LOAN !

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent, gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect. They will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000 and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Special Advantages of This Loan.

It is a National Savings Bank, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, consider that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it cannot pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in government securities or in notes or bonds payable in government paper.

Convertible into a Six per cent. 5-20 Gold Bond.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate, is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all bonds and Treasury notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as those issued by the government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the

First National Bank of St. Paul.

And by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and

ALL RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country will give further information and

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by John Nevill, of Blue Earth county, State of Minnesota, to John G. Mix, of Hartford, State of Connecticut, bearing date the 13th day of June in the year 1857 and recorded in the office of Register of Deeds of Blue Earth county, on the 18th day of June, in the year 1857, at three o'clock in the afternoon in Book "A," of Mortgages on page 330.

The amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is Eight Hundred Dollars, and no part thereof has been paid, and no suit at law has been instituted for the recovery thereof.

The premises conveyed by said mortgage are therein described as the northwest quarter of Section Fifteen, Township One Hundred and Six, North of Range Twenty-eight West, containing One Hundred and Sixty acres and situate in the county of Blue Earth and State of Minnesota, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, the above described premises will be sold at public vendue, at the office of the Register of Deeds in said Blue Earth county, by the Sheriff of said county, on thirtieth day of December in the year 1864, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the amount then due and unpaid on said mortgage at that date, and the sum of Eighty dollars assessed as taxes on said mortgaged land, and paid by the said mortgagee together with the costs and expenses allowed by law.

Select Miscellany.

A Truthful Story.

At town meeting in Pennsylvania, the question once came up whether any person should be licensed to sell rum. The Clergyman, the Deacon and the physician favored it. One man only spoke against it, because of its much harm.

The question was about to be put, when all at once there arose from one corner of the room, a miserable female. She was thinly clad and her appearance indicated the utmost wretchedness, and her mortal career was almost closed.

After a moment of silence, and all eyes being fixed upon her, she stretched her attenuated body to its utmost height, and threw her long arms to their greatest length, and raising her voice to a shrill pitch, she called all to look upon her; 'yes,' she said, 'look upon me, and then hear me.'

'All that the last speaker has said relative to temperate drinking as being the father of drunkenness is truth. All drinking alcoholic poison as a beverage when people are in good health, is excess.

'Look upon me! You all know me, or did once. You all know I was once mistress of the best farm in the township; you know too, that I had one of the best and devoted of husbands, you all know I had five noble hearted, industrious boys; where are they now? Doctor where are they now? You all know that they lay in a row side by side in yonder churchyard, all in drunkard's graves; they were all taught that temperate drinking was safe. Excess alone ought to be avoided, and they never acknowledged excess. They quoted you and you, and you, pointing with her shred of a finger to the priest and the doctor, 'as Anthony;' they thought themselves perfectly safe under such teachers.

"But I saw the gradual change coming over my family and prospects with dismay and horror. I felt we were all to be overwhelmed in one ruin. I tried to break the spell, the delusive spell, in which the idea of the benefits of temperate drinking had involved my husband and boys. But the minister still taught them that alcohol was the good creature of God. The deacon who sits under the pulpit there, and took our farm to pay his rum bill, sold them the poison. The doctor said that a little was good, and excess ought to be avoided.

"My poor husband and dear boys, fell into the snare, and they could not escape, and one after another were conveyed to the sorrowful grave of a drunkard. Now look at me again for the last time, my sand has almost run. I have dragged my exhausted form from the present home, your poor house, to warn you all, to warn you, deacon, to warn you, false teacher of God's word,' and with arms thrown high and her tall form stretched to its uttermost, and voice raised to an unearthly pitch, she exclaimed:

"I shall soon stand before the judgment seat of God. I shall meet you there, you guides, and a witness against you all."

The miserable female vanished, a dead silence pervaded the assembly, the priest, the deacon, and physician hung down their heads, and when the president put the question, "shall any license be granted for the sale of spirituous liquors," the response was a unanimous, NO.

Finishing.

'What is that?' said Mrs. Haines to her daughter Edith, as they came to some earth thrown up in one corner of the garden, where nothing but grass had previously been seen.

'Oh it is one of Peter's beginnings,' said Edith. 'He was going to have flower beds to make boquets for the market: He worked here a part of one afternoon, and then quit it as usual for something else. I do wish he would stick to something.'

Mrs. Haines said nothing. She was sorry to see another indication of the unfortunate habit of her son, of beginning things, and then abandoning them. There were a great many illustrations of this habit about the place. There were boxes, and wagons, and wooden guns begun and left in that state. It was said that Peter was never known to finish anything.

His beginnings were confined to material objects. He was desirous of mental improvement, and formed a great many plans, and entered upon them, but never finished them. Now he marked out a plan of reading, and entered upon it with great zeal; but in a day or two his zeal would flag, and he would leave the plan for another. Then perhaps, he would form a plan for improvement in composition. He would write a composition every week. Among his papers could be found a composition begun; it was never finished; nor would he proceed any farther in the execution of his plans.

His prospects for success in life were very poor. Men succeed by energy and perseverance. If habits of energy and perseverance are not formed in youth, they will never be formed.

Young persons should not hastily form plans of any kind. Think about a thing before you resolve to do it, unless you discover that it is wrong. Form the habit of finishing whatever you begin. The habit cannot be formed, unless you always finish what you begin. Do not say, I will finish all important things I begin; finish everything. Do not leave a thing because you get tired of it. Finish it for the sake of habit.

By this means you will establish a reputation for reliability. When you undertake a thing, men will have confidence that it will be done. This gives one great weight of character and influence. Think well before you undertake a thing, but having undertaken it, persevere till it is done.

New Dodge of Eating Houses.

The restaurants in Paris, particularly those which the working classes frequent are making a great stir. Lately, one just opened in the Faubourge Montmartre, promised a dinner of two courses and a desert to whoever wrote in a legible hand the answer to a rebus offered every morning for solution by the dame de comptoir. Another in the Faubourg Saint Antoine hit on a still more strange expedient: he chose for his ensign a gigantic golden sausage, which he swung excitingly over the door of his restaurant, the words "A lo saucisse d'or," in huge gold letters blazing beneath. His salon was large, its white walls decorated by festoons of the tempting edible so highly appreciated on the other side of the Rhine, and in every fiftieth sausage was a five franc piece in gold. His principle was that, as his customers called for sausages, they should be cut off in regular rotation from the string so artistically arranged round the dining hall, the result may be better imagined than described. The eager anxiety depicted on the countenance of every ouvrier as he nervously examined and finally ate his sausage, would have supplied a phrenologist with many good subjects for study. The expedient proved most remunerative to the proprietor, but the quarrels that ensued were of so serious a nature that the police have interfered, and the master has received orders either to shut up his shop or to proceed on a less exciting system.

Fires in Bedrooms.

Most people, even many intelligent reformers, have the idea that to sleep in a cold room is good—essential to health. It is an error. It is better to have an open fire in your bedroom. The atmosphere is not only by this means constantly changed, but with the fire you will keep the window open, which will add greatly to the needed ventilation. But more than this, with the fire you will have fewer bedclothes over you, which is a gain, as a large number of blankets not only interferes with the circulation and respiration, but prevents the escape of those gasses which the skin is constantly emitting. Even furnace or stove heat with an open window is better than a close, cold room. Interchange with the external atmosphere depends upon the difference between the temperature of the air within and that without. But let us have the open fire. Let us go without silks, broadcloths, carpets, and finery of all kinds if necessary, that we may have this beautiful purifier and diffuser of joy in all our houses. In my own house I have ten open grates, and find with coal at eleven dollars the expense is frightful, and if it were in any other department of housekeeping I should feel I could not afford it; but in this I do not flinch, so important do I deem the open fire.—Dr. Lewis.

Sound and Fury in our Homes.

There are abodes made daily to resound with quarrelling and scolding; there are families where mother and children all talk in loud, angry tones. Escaping from such, 'the solitary' may well bless God for his own lot, which, when viewed in the warm, loving light of a well ordered home, sometimes seems almost intolerable. Ye sad, lonely maidens; ye sour fretful bachelors, when your desolation becomes to great a burden for you to bear, just go for a two days' visit to the family of the 'brawling woman,' and you will be for the time, cured. Your silent lonely room will be as a harbor of refuge for you during many subsequent days.

If wives and mothers could but realize what they are doing when they begin the loud-voiced scolding system, how quickly they would desist. But there must be authority and punishment in the family; and there is in many cases nothing so good as the rod. Mothers, do the little children swarm about you, and weary you by their wants and their ways? Try for one year, the virtue of low, mild tones, decided measures, and in case of intentional naughtiness, the rod, and if, at the end of the year you are not satisfied that this is not the best course break the rod and depend for discipline on scolding and loud threats never made good. Children imitate as readily as do monkies, and if the mother's voice is loud and harsh, theirs will probably be the same; if her ways are rough with them, theirs will be so with each other, and their home will be a place from which we shall be only to happy to escape.

PICTURES.—A room with pictures in it and a room without pictures, differ about as much as a room with windows and a room without windows. Nothing is more melancholy, particularly to a person who has to pass much time in his room, than bleak walls with nothing on them, for pictures are loop holes of escape to the soul, leading to other scenes and other spheres. It is such an inexpressible relief to a person engaged in writing or even reading, on looking up not to have the line of his vision chopped off by an odious white wall, but to find his soul escaping, as it were, through the frame of an exquisite picture, to other beautiful and perhaps heavenly scenes, where the fancy for a moment may revel refreshed and delighted. Thus pictures are conselors of loneliness; they are books, they are histories and sermons, which we can read without the trouble of turning over the leaves.—Downing.

TASTE IN FURNITURE.—In furnishing your room always select furniture that has at least some charm of outline. In book-shelves why not have a graceful curviture in the wood, a little ornamenting of a leaf or twining tendril, which would greatly add to their beauty without materially increasing the price! And how far more rich will be the folds of a cloth if the table covers are round, rather than those square or octagon shapes, which admit no picturesque arrangement either of dishes or drapery. Of course, we do not wish that delicacy of outline should alone be sought; first ascertain that the workmanship of all you purchase is faultless and then allow your good taste to guide you into the magic realms of decoration and ornamentation. Let the legs of your chairs and tables be slightly curved or twisted, your picture frames gracefully molded, your tumblers chaste in design, your cups and jugs delicate and subdued in coloring, and your dishes and plates attractive to the eye. Study also truthfulness of material. That is to say do not lavish much money upon imitation, loaded with ornament, when a few more pence would purchase the genuine article. If your purse is too narrow to buy reality, do not accept instead a lavishly adorned sham.—Englishwoman's Jour.

SUGAR AND FAT.—Alderman Mechi, in support of Banting's theory of anti-obesity, writes that he waxes and wanes in aldermanic proportions by the use or disuse of sugar. He says he lost fourteen pounds of flesh in six weeks by leaving off an ounce and a half of sugar a day. As the consumption of sugar for the six weeks would have been only sixty-three ounces, or less than four pounds, the alderman's statement may be regarded as extraordinary. He recommends agriculturists to supply their cattle with saccharine matter. The etymologists tell that a certain substance fed upon by swine made them very fat, whereupon certain monks, desirous of combining the pious and the adipose, fed upon this substance, and were killed. Hence the antimony, or a dead shot for monks; a fresh proof that what is swine's meat may be a priest's bane.

At the—Hotel, in Cairo, they are not noted for dispatch in filling orders for meals. If a warm dinner is ordered, some time is taken to cook it. Not long since I stopped there, and sat down at a table with an elderly gentleman, who ordered squirrel. I waited some time for my dinner, and was almost through, but the old gentleman was still waiting for his squirrel. But his patience was at length exhausted, and he beckoned the Steward to him and said,

"Has the man got a good gun?"

"What man?" asked the Steward.

"The man that's gone to shoot the squirrel I ordered," said the old gentleman, with great gravity.

Just then I choked and did not hear the Steward's answer, but I saw him disappear, and in a few seconds the old gentleman was devouring his squirrel with apparent relish.

THE owl is one of the gardeners' and foresters' best friends annually ridding them of legions of their foes, but notwithstanding his valuable services, we too frequently see him heedlessly destroyed. In some parts of Europe, however, this most sensible bird is kept in families, like a cat, whom he equals in patience, and, if possible, surpasses in alertness. It is a well-known fact here that wherever the barn owls have been killed, or only few are left, field-mice increase enormously, and they, in their hunger, peel, and of course destroy, the young hollies and other trees, in new plantations.

MARMADUKE CAPTURED BY A BOY.—It is stated that the rebel General Marmaduke was captured by a little boy belonging to one of the Kansas regiments. He at first refused to surrender to an 'inferior officer,' but was immediately persuaded to do so. The lad brought him to Gen. Curtis' headquarters, where he introduced himself, much to the surprise of all, but especially of the boy hero. General Curtis asked the boy how long he had to serve before his time of enlistment would expire. The reply was "eight months." The General immediately wrote a furlough for that time, and presented him with the horse, revolvers, belt and sabre of the rebel General.

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS'S PROPERTY.—The general impression that the late Stephen A. Douglas died insolvent turns out to be incorect. On Monday last the executor presented receipts to the County Court of Chicago, showing that he had paid over seven thousand five hundred dollars to Mrs. Douglas, and over seven thousand dollars to the two children, after liquidating all demands against the estate.

A CURIOUS THOUGHT.—A little boy, sitting near a window where the sun shone brightly, eating bread and milk, suddenly called out, 'Oh mother, I'm full of glory! I have swallowed a whole spoonful of sunshine."

SELF IMPOSED MARTYRDOM.—The martyrs to vice far exceed the martyrs to virtue; both in endurance and number. So blinded are we by passion that we suffer more to be damned than to be saved.

Some hearts, like primroses, open most beautifully in the shadows of life.

The Weekly Union.

United States Official Paper.

Mankato, Friday, December 16, 1864.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

As the time for the session of the Legislature draw nigh, there is some canvassing going on among the friends of the different aspirants for the speakership. There are quite a number of the members elect who, we understand, could be induced to accept this honorable position in a Minnesota Legislature. But the two most prominent candidates, so far as we can learn, are Hon. Cyrus Aldrich of Minneapolis, and Thos. Armstrong, of Rochester.

The former has had considerable legislative and parliamentary experience, having once been Speaker of the Illinois Legislature, and during his Congressional career of four years, was frequently called upon to take the Chair for a longer or shorter time by both Speakers Pennington and Grow, where he presided with much dignity, and gave general satisfaction. Of Mr. Armstrong's peculiar fitness for the position, we are not so well acquainted. We know, however, that he stands high in his own section as a man of character and ability, and is considered by his friends as possessing, in a great degree, those peculiar qualifications necessary for a good presiding officer. If either of these gentlemen are elected by the House to preside over its sessions, we shall consider a good selection has been made.

THE WINONA REPUBLICAN AND THE SENATORIAL QUESTION.

The last Winona Republican which we received just before going to press, publishes our first article on the United States Senatorship, and also a lengthy reply to the same. The late hour at which the paper was received prevents us from replying to it in this issue. We would simply remark, however, that we are in the habit of writing our own editorials, and that the gentleman to whom the Republican ascribes the authorship of our article, not only did not write it, but never saw it until it appeared in our columns. The Republican's assumptions are only accounted for by its "unexampled audacity."

THE UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP.

This subject is now being liberally discussed by the State papers of both political parties. We have watched with considerable interest the position taken by them, not so much to ascertain upon whom public sentiment seemed to fix as being the most prominent man for the position, as to see if the Senatorship was conceded as belonging to the Southern district. We have brought forward our candidate for that position, and have expressed our preference for the Hon. M. S. Wilkinson, the present incumbent. We do not hesitate to present his claims and urge his re-election, because he is an able man—in point of ability and influence, equal to any in the State; and because we believe he is the choice of nine tenths of the people of this district. Several persons have been named as candidates for this Senatorial position besides Mr. Wilkinson, of whom we mention Messrs. Windom, Norton, Swift, and Miller. There is quite a diversity of opinion among our cotemporaries as to candidates, but all, with few exceptions, agree that the Senator should come from the First District.

The Mankato Record, with a magnanimity worthy of note, has lain aside the bitter political feelings which actuated its course against Senator Wilkinson over a year ago, and comes out boldly and heartily in his favor, urging that it is to the interests of Southern Minnesota to have a local representative, and that Mr. Wilkinson is the only man that stands any show of being elected.

The St. Peter Statesman prefers a radical Republican to one that lacks backbone, and comments unfavorably upon Gov. Miller.

The Tribune also of St. Peter, as we expected, advocates the claims of no one, but opposes Senator Wilkinson.

The Faribault Republican says that Governor Miller cannot be spared from his present position which he is peculiarly adapted to fill, and that he would stand as good a chance of being elected as some men who do not run at all. It evidently prefers Norton, and we do not think it is averse to Senator Wilkinson.

The Winona Republican stands upon the fence, recording the opinions of its cotemporaries, and evidently afraid to express its own, lest it should blow an ill wind.

The Hastings Independent mentions Messrs. Wilkinson, Windom, and Miller, and says any one of them would fill the place with honor and distinction.

The Wabashaw Herald desires 'equal and exact justice' to every section, and thinks that the Southern district in its magnanimity of heart, ought cheerfully to concede the Senatorship to the Second district, which will, within the next six years be as large as the first. That is a new way of dispensing 'justice' to give the minority three out of four representatives.

The St. Cloud Democrat, Governor Miller's organ in his own town, in the Northern district, says that "because a man lives a few miles outside the limits of a certain congressional district, it is no reason why he should be set aside for an inferior person, who resides within the boundaries," and therefore advocates the Governor's claims. The line of distinction, by having one Senator on the east and the other on the west side of the Missisippi river is too faint a line to be marked in these dry times.

The Winnebago Homestead says the press of this State should freely express its preferences, and in its collective capacity, ought to know who should be Senator. The proposition to elect Miller in the place of the present incumbent is an absurd one, as by common consent the two districts have decided to divide these offices evenly. The Homestead says;

> "We would like, however, to inquire what is the need of changing Senator this fall? Has not Wilkinson done his duty well since he has been in the Senate? Has he not always voted right, and that too when it was not always exactly fashionable at Washington to vote in that way?"

The Homestead prefers Mr. Wilkinson to all others, and gives the following sound reasons;

> 'First, He is a radical Republican, and always has been.
>
> "Secondly, His record in Congress is good, and no one of his constituents has ever found fault with it.
>
> 'Thirdly, If a Senator's course is unobjectionable to his constituents during his first term it is customary to relect, giving him at least two terms.
>
> His defeat would be a rebuke to him, and for what? If he has done well, why rebuke him? For three Congressional terms we have re elected Mr. Windom upon this very ground, viz: he has done well and why change a good man for a new one? Many who spread engled on this point as to others, are now trying to defeat Wilkinson, and that too, without cause. Personal spite may be at the bottom of this, but certainly not the public welfare"

STATE NEWS.

The St. Peter Tribune says, the contract for furnishing two thousand cords of wood at Fort Ridgley, was awarded to H. L. Warner, Esq., of this place at $3,94 per cord.

The Chaska Herald says that on Thursday, the 8th inst., the thermometer stood 26 degrees below zero, in the morning, slightly cool. The same day at Owatonna it stood 28 below.

A large warehouse and elevator is being built at Rochester by the Winona and St. Peter R. R. company.

The masonic fraternity of Winona had a grand festival on the 6th inst. Over one hundred couple were present.

The Blue Earth Advocate says that Mr. Burton Chute, of that place, has about two hundred gallons of sorghum cider as an experiment. He has also manufactured about 800 gallons best quality sorghum syrup.

Governor Miller has appointed as a committee on Immigration for the first District, C. D. Gilfillan, chairman, Chas. Pausevant and Chas. Holmstrom.

BELL & HOWELL

The City and County.

Official Paper of the County

Our District Schools.—The Mankato district schools commenced their winter session on Monday of this week, in the Presbyterian church, and in the old log school house. The School Directors have been very fortunate in securing the services of Prof. J. S. Ferguson, and A. D. Seward, Esq., as teachers. They are both fully competent, and will do all in their power to make it a profitable winter to every one under their instruction.

The Board have done all that could be done, with our poor school accommodations, to afford suitable advantages for our town. The buildings are well warmed and ventilled and provided with a goodly number of benches and seats of all styles and shapes, many of which have been handed down from year to year since Mankato squatter sovereignty times.

We had hoped that when, a year ago, we mentioned the then poor condition of our school accommodations, we should be able at this time to chronicle the fact that Mankato was blessed with a commodious school building, and that we were enjoying the benefits of a good graded school. The people of the town also sympathized with us in the wish, as is seen by the full school meetings we have had the past season, and by the vote of the district to issue bonds to a very liberal amount to build a school house sufficiently commodious for our wants, and one which, at the same time would, in its appearance, be a credit to our town.

We do not understand that any blame is to be attached to the Board of School Directors because the school house voted to be built, is not built. From all we can learn they made diligent efforts to negotiate our school bonds, but failed, because eight per cent. interest, the highest rate allowed by the law authorizing the issue of the bonds, was considered too low a rate for capitalists to take them as an investment. We understand that an effort will be made at the coming session of the Legislature, to have a law passed which will allow as high a rate of interest as ten or twelve per cent. to be paid on the bonds, and then it is thought they can be readily negotiated. When this law is passed, and we hope it may be at this winter's session, the bonds will undoubtedly be taken by parties abroad. But in case they do not find ready purchasers abroad the citizens of our town, in order to secure the school accommodations which we need, ought to be willing to bear each a little burden, and perhaps take up the bonds at home.

Let the bonds be issued each of the amount of fifty or one hundred dollars, and there is scarcely one of our citizens who is not able take one, and many would be willing, as a matter of public spirit, take more than one. If these bonds drew ten per cent. interest it would be a good paying investment for all, and if twelve per cent. still better; and if each one would take more or less of them as he was able, the burden would not fall heavily on any one. A good school house may cost nine thousand dollars, and if the amount was divided into bonds of fifty dollars each, it would cause the issue of only one hundred and eighty bonds. Are there not enough friends of good schools in this town who can afford, and are willing, if it should be necessary, to subscribe for and take up these bonds? We believe there are. And if the Directors are not successful in negotiating them abroad, at their par value, we trust they will give our citizens a practical opportunity of showing whether they are willing to do what they can to supply the educational wants and needs of the town.

The Arrest of Patrick McCardle.—Last week Provost Marshal Pugh received an order from Capt. See, directing him to arrest one Patrick McCardle, who had been exempted from military service on fraudulent representations. Mr. Pugh arrested him on Saturday last, and on Monday started for Rochester. We have taken some pains to inquire into the circumstances of this case, and if the statements can be relied upon, Mr. McCardle did nothing wrong in securing his discharge from the draft. In the first draft he was one of those drafted from the town of Danville; but as the draft was suspended, the lucky prize holders did not report.

It seems that last summer when the new enrollment was being made, Mr. McCardle was at work by the month in the town of Medo, and was accordingly enrolled there, though the enrolling officer never called upon him for his name, and when the draft took place last fall he was among the number drafted from that town. As he was a resident of Danville, owned property there and voted there, he proceeded at once to Rochester and reported to Capt. See. The matter was stated to the Captain, and the proper affidavits presented. It was a clear case, and he was discharged. Since then, however, some persons, whether maliciously or not, we do not pretend to say, forwarded information to Rochester, backed up by affidavits, to the effect that his discharge had been fraudulently obtained. Accordingly he was arrested and taken on to Rochester. He went, we are told, prepared to prove that his discharge was honorably obtained, and if the facts, as stated to us, are correct, we have no doubt but that he will come out all right. If he is guilty of the charge of trying to evade the draft, he should be punished; but if the enrollment was illegal, Medo must bear the burden, and trot out another man to take his place.

The Christmas Tree.—One week from to-morrow night the Chritsmas tree, in course of preparation by the teachers of the Methodist Sabbath School, will be placed in City Hall, and hung full of presents for distribution to the children. From all we can learn of the programme we judge that nothing will be left undone to make the entertainmen a pleasant one to all who may attend. Of course the hall will be filled with friends to pass a social hour, and with children, whose rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes will be lit up with pleasure at the prospect of receiving presents from some unknown friend. And there will be presents, too, on the tree for some who are not taught in sabbath school, but what kind of presents this deponent saith not. The fair committee have many a hearty laugh among themselves at the stock of fun they are laying in store for the occasion, when they little think our argus eyed reporter is peering round for "items." But if some body aint sold it wont be the fault of the committee.

Those who have been spoken to about providing presents, are requested to leave them at the residence of Rev. Mr. Day on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning, and be prompt.

We would say further, that the invitation is a general one and extends to those not connected with the church or school. Grown up people who may wish to make presents to their friends can also leave them with Mrs. Day where the proper committee will get them.

There is a general desire on the part of our church going community, that the town bell recently placed in the new church edifice should be rung on the sabbath at the hours when religious services are held. As the Methodists are the only denomination that have religious meetings regularly, it seems to us that some arrangement might be agreed upon by which the sexton of that church could ring the bell for morning and evening worship, and when the Presbyterians hold services their ringing of it would suffice for both congregations. The objection has been urged that people would not know at which place services were being held, and confusion might thus arise; but that is easily removed, as, we believe in every instance when divine worship has been held in the Presbyterian church, notice has been published in the town papers, and if perchance some few should happen to go to a Methodist meeting that would otherwise stay at home, we presume it would not hurt them in the least. Probably no two clocks or watches in town are alike, hence it is very difficult to tell exactly at what hour to go to church and not be late. It is not our province to say whether the bell is a town bell, or whether it has been converted and brought up in the Presbyterian faith, and we do not care; but if there can be no courtesy shown between religious bodies, we cannot classify that course any other than as a selfish policy and one which will not win in the long run.

The Holidays.—Our citizens are getting ready for the holidays by supplying themselves with turkeys, chickens, rabbits, venison, roast beef, and mince and pumpkin pies. Our markets abound with game, and everything necessary to make up a "feast of reason and a flow of soul" can be had at the stores by paying for it. There will be pleasant times around the festive board in eating roast turkey and oyster soup, and in contemplating these joyful scenes, we have been led to wonder where our turkey was coming from. We have looked with anxious eyes to see sir turkey, with "stately step and proudly mein" walking toward our sanctum, and have listened at the dead hour of night, to hear his lordships footstep on the crisp snow, but up to the latest hour of going to press, nary a turkey has hove in sight. We can provide lodgings for several turkeys between this and New Years if they will appear soon.

Musical.—We are pleased to announce the arrival in town of Professor W. E. Hawley who will, by request, meet all those interested in the subject of vocal music at the City Hall on Saturday evening next, for the purpose of a general "sing," and, if desirable, take steps toward the formation of a class or Convention. It gives us additional pleasure to bear our testimony in favor of Prof. H's competence as a teacher and conductor of Musical Conventions. We knew him for several years in Wisconsin, as standing at the head of his profession in that State, and the Press of this State in the past two years has often reassured us that his success had in nowise abated. His plan of operation, and system of discipline, secures a result in a short space of time that cannot be attained in years in the ordinary singing class; indeed it strikes at a point that is seldom if ever attempted by teachers of such classes. We trust our musical people will not fail to avail themselves of this opportunity which they so much need, and for which many have long wished for.

The Prof. has a supply of "The Key Note," Professors Bradbury's last work, which he will furnish for the occasion. We are certain that our singers will need no urging to respond to his announcement.

An Entertainment for the Relief of Soldier's Families.—Having in view a very praiseworthy object, that of affording relief to the families of our brave soldiers, who are far from home fighting our countrys battles, several of our public spirited ladies have formed a plan by which the object can be reached with little expense, if our citizens generally will unite in carrying it out. We heartily approve of the project if the proceeds derived from it are properly applied, and distributed among those families that are really needy. The plan is to have an entertainment at City Hall, and supper at one or both of the hotels, on Monday evening next. The use of the hall has been freely given, and the proprietors of the Clifton and Mankato House have kindly consented to throw open their entire suit of rooms free of charge, for the accommodation of all who may not wish to go to the Hall. Pursuant to posted notices a meeting of the ladies was held at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening last for the purpose of discussing the subject, and making such arrangements as will be necessary to insure its succes.

Later.—There will be no cards of invitation issued, but a special invitation is extended to all to be present. Supper will be served at the Clifton the Sociable at the Mankato House, and the Dancing at City Hall. Tickets $1,50; Oysters extra. The ladies are requested by the committee to contribute to the supper.

Side Mail to Minnesota Lake.—No other portion of Blue Earth county is settling up with good substantial farmers so rapidly as is that part lying between the Agency and Minnesota Lake, Faribault county. Nearly all of these farmer emigrated from States where the mail facilities were good, and where they took a large number of papers, because they could get early news. The only way now by which they get their mail is as it passes over the route from Wilton to Winnebago City once a week. St. Vivian, we believe, is the only office supplied between Wilton and the Lake. A weekly side mail from the Agency to Minnesota Lake would accommodate Medo and Danville two towns that are becoming densely populated. The former is six to eight miles from the Agency, and the latter from eight to ten from Minnesota Lake. It would be a great accommodation to the settlers in that section and a proper effort once made will secure the attention of our Senator in Congress, who will, doubtless, effect it.

Dancing Academy.—We would call the attention of our readers to the fact that a very excellent school as above is now open at the City Hall. Mr. Demaray has had a great deal of experience in the East, and if a perfect knowledge of the vocation he now follows is any recommendation he most assuredly deserves the cordial support of our good citizens.

His character is above suspicion, the hall he teaches in is the best our town affords, and the Friday night Soirees cannot prove otherwise than an agreeable, and we may say profitable exercise to the scholars.

Tuesday and Wednesday evenings will hereafter be devoted to both ladies and gentlemen. Ladies wishing separate instruction will meet at the hall Saturday afternoons at two o'clock. Children meet at the same hour.

Private lessons will be given at the hall to such as are unable to receive them at home.

On Saturday last among others we noticed the following pupils, viz: Misses Lilly Finch, Laura Rockey, and Isabella Walz, and Masters Dudley Finch, Wm. Walz, T. Middlebrook, and J Coulson. Judge Branson and daughter and others, take private lessons. If you would have your children graceful in manners and supple of foot, thoroughly educated in etiquette and conversant with all the formalities of polite society, send them to Demaray's Dancing Academy.

Cold Weather.—Last Saturday and Sunday, were terrible days on the prairie. The wind blew hard, and the air was filled with blinding snow. Scout Solon Stevens, was at that time on his way from the Des Moines, and Saturday evening was out on the prairie the other side of Elm Creek. The storm was so furious, and so completely blinded his way that he thought at one time he would have to give up. He finally reached Chanyuska late in the evening, without serious damage. Fears were also entertained for the safety of Mr. Luther Barrett, of this place, who was out on the Des Moines buying furs for Messrs. Thompson & Young, and who had started on his return. He has arrived, and succeeded in getting through without any damage other than having his ears and toes slightly frozen.

The St. Peter Tribune is quite put out because the Hutchinson family were unable to meet their engagement to sing at that place, on account of bad roads, and attributes the "slight" to the fact that they met, in Michigan a prominent Mankato man who told them St. Peter was an inferior town. The truth is at the time they were singing in this section, the traveling was bad, and they lost their way in coming through from Faribault to St. Peter, and as they had missed one engagement considered it best to keep the others. If that prominent Mankato man represented St. Peter as an inferior town he had great regard for the truth, and did no worse than several prominent St. Peter men, who urged those excellent singers not to keep their engagement at this place.

The Scout System.—Col. Pfaender, has decided to partially discontinue the Scout system on the frontier as their services are no longer needed. Accordingly about thirty were discharged a few days since, and only three were retained including Solon Stevens, of this place. "Solon" is a very reliable scout, and has been in the service for a long time; and the fact that he has been selected, unsolicited, as one of the three out of thirty, to remain, is proof that his ability is properly appreciated at head quarters.

Daily Mail to Blue Earth City.—Our article urging an increase of service on this mail route has had the effect to cause the circulation of numerous petitions in every town up the Valley, praying for such increase. It is really needed, and we have no doubt the effort will be successful. These petitions, when full, should be gathered up and forwarded to Senator Wilkinson, who has been apprized of the object desired, and who will present them to the Postmaster General, and urge the importance of granting the prayer of the petitioners.

Blue Earth Chapter.—The annual election of officers of Blue Earth Chapter No. 7 R. A. M., took place on Tuesday evening last as follows:

B. F. Smith, H. P.; Geo. Maxfield, C.; Ira Hawley, S.; J. A. Willard, C. H.; E. D. B. Porter, Sec., and H. P. Christensen, Treasurer.

In the Blue Lodge, on Saturday evening last the following officers were elected A Hanna, W. M., J. A Willard, S. W.; Wm, Irving, J, W.; E D. B, Porter, Sec., J. J. Shaubut, Treasurer; A. D. Seward, S D.; O. O. Pitcher, J. D.; David Lamb, Tiler.

The officers will be installed at the Masonic Festival on the 27th.

Architecture.—In our list of new advertisements will be found the card of Wm. P Boardman, who comes among us highly recommended as a practical builder and superior architect. Mr. Boardman, during a former residence in Albany, N. Y., planned and superintended the erection of some of the finest public buildings and private residences in that city. Any one thinking of building should secure the services of Mr. B who will draw them a suitable plan for any kind and style they may wish and will contract for its erection.

Big Porkers.—Henry Shaubhut, sold to Messrs Finch & Thurston, on Monday of this week, two last March pigs, which weighed, dressed, one three hundred and fourteen pounds, and the other two hundred and eighty-nine. They were raised on Mr. S. farm four miles north of town. Their sire which is of the "Chester White" breed, was brought to this State in a box from Ohio by Judge Finch of this place. This breed of hogs is considered superior to many others, and is much sought after by farmers.

The Markets.—Business upon our streets has been lively the past week. The roads are very good, and in some places the sleighing is passable. Farmers are bringing into town considerable quantities of wheat, for which they receive fair prices.

We note wheat at seventy cents; oats 65; corn, 70; beans $2,00; lard 20; butter 25; dry hard wood $4 00; soft hard, 3,00; green hard wood 3,00; green soft 2,50.

Godey's Lady's Book.—This favorite of all the monthlies with the ladies, has been received for January and is the first to make its appearance. It is a superb number in both matter and illustrations, giving evidence of its veteran publisher's determination to achieve a still greater degree of perfection in magazine literature. Godey is profuse in his promises for the coming year, and his promises are always religiously lived up to. Send in your names for Godey at once.

The Mystery Solved.—For more than a week past we have missed the genial, good-natured phiz of the energetic proprietor of the Blue Earth mail route, and have wondered what had become of him, when lo and behold the mystery is solved, as a new recruit in the infant-ry service has made its appearance at his quarters, which doubtless, has demanded all his care and attention. We make this announcement with pleasure, and suppose "Dun" is at least a feet taller than when we last saw him.

For the Sanitary Fair.—Maj. Cullen has bought of Henry Shaubhut a large 28 months hog, which weighed 1,000 pounds, paying for it $125. Mr. Ketchum, of St. Peter, also bought of Mr. J. S. Little one of nearly equal weight, for the same price. They design taking them to St. Paul, and dispose of them by lottery in the Sanitary Fair. They will nett a $1,000 no doubt.

New Goods at Ward's.—Mr. O. Ward, who is now in New York, has expressed home a choice lot of ladies dress goods, nubias and nubia hoods, to which attention is invited. We have examined these new styles and pronounce them very beautiful. Messrs. Sargent and Pease the accommodating clerks, know just how to please customers and make good sales. Give them a call.

Christmas Ball on Monday, Dec 26th at the City Hall, Mankato. The hall to be brilliantly illuminated by over one hundred lights. A full band of eight performers will be in attendance.

New Year's Ball at the same place, Jan. 2. Full particulars in next week's issue.

Arthur's Magazine.—Like the sun, his most excellent literary magazine is "always on time," and the first number of the new year comes to us filled with good reading. The story, "Not Any thing for Peace," is worth the subscription price. No magazine has attained a higher standard for moral influence than this.

Peterson for January.—We welcome the return of this old familiar friend. It is the favorite magazine in our family, and we cannot afford to do without it. Every number improves in beauty and reading, and it is becoming a household pet, with every subscriber.

Home Relief Association.—A society of the above name was organized at the church on Wednesday evening last. Its object is to afford relief to the needy poor of our town. The officers chosen were H. G. Orton, President; Miss Frisbie, Vice President; Mrs. Bixby, Secretary; Dr. Lewis, Treasurer. An executive committee was also appointed.

A Wooden Legg.—The following notice in a late New York paper:

Married.—On Sunday morning, by J. M. Foreman, Esq., at his residence, Mr. Willis Wood, a veteran soldier of Bethany, to Miss Julia Legg, of Starford.

No wonder our brave soldiers risk their precious lives so willingly in the service of their country, when they are assured of having any deficiency in the complement of their limbs made up in a manner so agreeable.

Good Ice.—Large qantities of Ice are now being taken from the river and sold in town at $1.00 per load. It is from eight to ten inches in thickness, and very clean. Orders can be left with Finch & Thurston, who will fill them promptly.

Ex Rebs Ball.—The Company of Ex-Rebs stationed at Madelia have made arrangements for a grand ball at that place on the 27th inst. Good music, good supper, fair women and brave men will be present, and a gay time is anticipated.

Enoch Arden.—Judson Jones gave a public reading of this beautiful Poem at the City Hall last night before a good audience. One-half the proceeds were handed over to the Home Relief Association. Mr. Jones is a very pleasing and interesting reader.

A Charitable Deed.—The boys in Co. E, 2d Cavalry recently made up a purse of $75 and presented to Mr. Gaskill, one of their number, who lost his wife last summer, leaving five small children, for him to take care of.

Real Estate Sale.—E. P. Freeman, real estate agent, recently sold a half section of unimproved land in Butternut Valley to David D. and Daniel L. Harris for $1600.00

Flour and Feed Store.—S. S. Higgins has opened a flour and feed store, in Leech's Store building, and is prepared to supply customers with anything in his line at the lowest prices, delivered free of charge.

It is a great accommodation to have goods delivered at your residence, and Finch and Thurston announce that they will hereafter deliver them free of charge.

The Mite Society.—Another of these pleasant re-unions came off at City Hall on Monday evening last, bringing together over seventy five persons. Good music, social chats, and partícipation in innocent games contributed much to the pleasure of the evening. The mite received amounted to $5,55.

The Atlantic and Continental monthlies for December have been received for sometime. They are both excellent literary journals, and deserve to be well patronized. A large list of subscribers ought to be had from this place.

We acknowledge the receipt of the second number of the "Woodland Lighthouse," edited by an association of young ladies belonging to Rev. Mr. Thompson's school. It is an improvement on the first number.

Buckwheat.—A certain "Scout," who deals in this article will please remember that we have had "nary a pancake" yet. Don't stop to pick out the "technicalities," but bring it right along.

Don't fail to go to Randall's Clothing Emporium, and get yourself one of those nice Otter Caps, and a pair of those extra Buck Mitts, before it is too late as they are going fast.

The Presidents message has been received, and so also has been received another large lot of overcoats, dress coats, pants, under shirts, drawers, buck mitts, gloves, hats, fur and cloth caps, and boys clothing, to be sold cheap at Randall's Clothing Emporium.

Silver napkin rings, silver thimbles, gold finger rings for children and grown persons, suitable for holiday presents can be found at Heckman's.

Grand Gift Ball.—A grand gift ball will be given at the City Hall, some time after the holidays by Demaray & Matthews.

Straw.—Some of our farmer friends would do well by bringing a few loads of straw into town for sale. It is a scarce article in these parts.

Personal.—J. R. Cleveland, Chief of Police, of St. Paul, paid us a flying visit a few days since.

Special Term of the District Court.—A special term of the District Court will be held in this place on the 26th inst.

We understand that a Mutual Fire Insurance Company is in process of organization in this place. Responsible parties are engaged in it, and we trust it will be effected.

J. J. Thornton, has been appointed enrolling officer for this district to revise and correct the enrollment lists.

There will be religious services held at the log school-house, by the Rev. Mr. Craven, on Sunday next at 11 o'clock A. M.

Cash for Wheat.—Finch & Thurston pay the highest cash price for wheat.

"O. S."—Our rule is to have the writer's name as a guarantee of good faith, in all notices and communications.

Religious Notice.—Rev. Mr. Thompson will preach at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday next at 11 o'clock A. M.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
BITTERS.

A pure and powerful tonic, corrective and alterative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the Stomach, Liver and bowels. Cures, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex arising from Boodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or produced by special causes. Nothing that is not wholesome genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetters Stomach Bitters. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants. It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetters Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistible as a remedy and thousands who resort to it under apprehensions of an attack, escape the scourge, and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless apperent, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs: Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous attacks, Lowness of spirits and fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of billious colic, is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally restoring to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and debility and decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-inforce and re-establish them. Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements, present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters. Prepared by Hostetter and Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers everywhere.
